DRAFTING, PLEADINGS & APPEARANCES

Drafting, in legal sense, means an act of preparing the Legal Documents like agreements, contracts, deeds, etc. A proper understanding of drafting cannot be realised unless the nexus between the Law, the facts and the language is fully understood and accepted. Drafting of deeds and documents for various purposes in a company usually forms part of multifacet duties of the Company Secretary. For this purpose, the course contents of this study material have been so designed as to provide practical orientation and develop necessary acumanship in drafting legal documents. Only those deeds and documents have been included which are of direct relevance to the work of a Company Secretary. Further, the literature available on the subject has been found to be unwieldy and it has, therefore, been our endeavour to make the study material tailored made. Every effort has been made to provide a self-contained material and an integrated approach has been adopted throughout.

While writing the study material, relevant provisions of the various Acts and Rules made thereunder have been kept in mind. Except where found absolutely necessary, text of the provisions of Bare Act(s), Rule(s), Order(s), etc. have not been produced. This paper presupposes knowledge of substantive law; therefore, students are advised to have thorough knowledge of the same by referring to various Acts mentioned at appropriate places in this study material. This paper also warrants continuous updation in terms of substantive and procedural laws as well as latest judicial pronouncements. Moreover, drafting of petitions, deeds and documents is an art and even acquiring working knowledge in this demands application of skills of higher order. Students are, therefore, advised not only to master the principles and applications of drafting and pleadings, but also keep themselves abreast of latest developments by regularly resorting to reading of at least one of the leading English Newspapers and additional source materials concerning corporate world which are published from time to time.

This study material has been published to aid the students in preparing for the Drafting, Pleadings and Appearances paper of the CS Professional Programme. It is part of the educational kit and takes the students step by step through each phase of preparation emphasizing key concepts, principles, pointers and procedures. Company Secretaryship being a professional course, the examination standards are set very high, with focus on knowledge of concepts, their application, procedures and case laws, for which sole reliance on the contents of this study material may not be enough. This study material may, therefore, be regarded as the basic material and must be read alongwith the Bare Acts, Rules, Regulations, Case Law.

The legislative changes made upto May 31, 2023 have been incorporated in the study material. In addition to Study Material students are advised to refer to the updations at the Regulator's website, supplements relevant for the subject issued by ICSI and ICSI Journal Chartered Secretary and other publications. Specifically, students are advised to read "Student Company Secretary" e-Journal which covers regulatory and other relevant developments relating to the subject, which is available at academic portal <https://www.icsi.edu/student-n/academic-portal/>. In the event of any doubt, students may contact the Directorate of Academics at academics@icsi.edu.

The amendments to law made upto 31st May of the Calendar Year for December Examinations and upto 30th November of the previous Calendar Year for June Examinations shall be applicable.

Although due care has been taken in publishing this study material, the possibility of errors, omissions and/or discrepancies cannot be ruled out. This publication is released with an understanding that the Institute shall not be responsible for any errors, omissions and/or discrepancies or any action taken in that behalf.

REGULATORY FRAMEWORK

- General Clauses Act, 1897
- Companies Act, 2013
- Information Technology Act, 2000
- Indian Contract Act, 1872

INTRODUCTION

As per the general definition given in Collins Dictionary, A document is one or more official pieces of paper with writing on them. The term 'document' is so imperative and broad that many legislations have defined it differently befitting the intent of legislature behind the enactment of that statute.

General Clauses Act, 1897 has given an inclusive definition of document. According to section 3(18), "document" shall include any matter written, expressed or described upon any substance by means of letters, figures or marks, or by more than one of those means which is intended to be used, or which may be used, for the purpose of recording that matter.

According to section 2(36) of the Companies Act, 2013 "document" includes summons, notice, requisition, order, declaration, form and register, whether issued, sent or kept in pursuance of this Act or under any other law for the time being in force or otherwise, maintained on paper or in electronic form.

As per section 2(22AA) of Income-tax Act, 1961, "document" includes an electronic record as defined in section 2(1)(t) of the Information Technology Act, 2000 (IT Act). IT Act provides that "electronic record" means data, record or data generated, image or sound stored, received or sent in an electronic form or micro film or computer generated micro fiche.

With reference to the Businesses documents it inter alia includes Deeds, Contracts, Circulars, Public Notices, Tenders etc.

Mostly, the definition given for the word document are inclusive in nature and volatile. They creates and conveys evidence for an event or transaction for easy functioning a business. It reduces misunderstanding and vagueness during operations of businesses.

DEEDS

In legal sense, a deed is a solemn document. Deed is the term normally used to describe all the instruments by which two or more persons agree to effect any right or liability. To take for example Gift Deed, Sale Deed, Deed of Partition, Partnership Deed, Deed of Family Settlement, Lease Deed, Mortgage Deed and so on. Even a power of Attorney has been held in old English cases to be a deed. A bond is also included in the wide compass of the term deed.

For such an instrument covering so wide field it is difficult to coin a suitable definition. A deed may be defined as a formal writing of a non-testamentary character which purports or operates to create, declare, confirm, assign, limit or extinguish some right, title, or interest. Many authorities have tried to define the deed. Some definitions are very restricted in meaning while some are too extensive definitions. The most suitable and comprehensive definition has been given by Norten on 'Deeds', is as follows:

A deed is a writing –

- (a) on paper, vellum or parchment,
- (b) sealed, and
- (c) delivered, whereby an interest, right or property passes, or an obligation binding on some persons is created or which is in affirmance of some act whereby an interest, right or property has been passed.

In Halsbury's Laws of England, a deed has been defined as "an instrument written on parchment or paper expressing the intention or consent of some person or corporation named therein to make (otherwise than by way of testamentary disposition, confirm or concur in some assurance of some interest in property or of some legal or equitable right, title or claim, or to undertake or enter into some obligation, duty or agreement enforceable at law or in equity or to do, or concur in some other act affecting the legal relations or position of a party to the instrument or of some other person or corporation, sealed with the seal of the party, so expressing such intention or consent and delivered as that party's act and deed to the person or corporation intended to be affected thereby."

A deed is a present grant rather than a mere promise to be performed in the future. Deeds are in writing, signed, sealed and delivered.

Deeds are instruments, but all instruments are not deeds.

AGREEMENTS

An agreement which is enforceable at law is called a contract. Generally, when a contract is reduced to writing, the document itself is called an agreement. Accordingly, there cannot be an agreement unless there are two or more parties that agree to perform certain acts or refrain from doing something. In other words, an agreement between the parties is an instrument whereby the parties freely agree to perform certain acts or refrain from doing something, unilaterally or bilaterally. The purpose of the instrument is to bind the parties to the terms and conditions agreed upon.

A company has to execute numerous commercial agreements and other contracts during the course of its business. But how many company executives possess the simple, easily cultivable, yet rare acumen of concluding their contracts precisely, comprehensively and unambiguously? It is very much desirable and useful to keep in view certain important points in regard to the drafting of contracts, particularly commercial and international trade contracts.

While preparing agreements it is necessary and important that the intention of the parties should be set forth explicitly so as not to leave any room for doubt or future controversy. The language should be simple and the words used should be definite and precise; the use of loose expressions such as "proper", "reasonable", should, as far as possible, be avoided.

CASE LAWS

The provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 about the essential incident and legality of agreements (Sections 2 to 30) should be studied and nothing should be introduced or left out, which would make the agreement void. But, if the material terms of an agreement are clear and specific, omission of certain details, which can be worked out by consent of the parties or in its absence be settled by court will not invalidate the agreement (Ramchandra v. Chinnubhai, AIR 1945 Mad. 10).

Note: The agreement should, therefore, be drafted as deeds between the parties thereto. The old practice of drafting them as Deeds Poll should be discouraged.

Types of Agreements

A business has to enter into various types of agreements with different parties and have to execute various types of documents in favour of its clients, banks, financial institutions, employees and other constituents. Few type of Agreement and their purposes are as under:

1. Sale/Purchase Agreements: Sale and Purchase agreements are entered into by the parties for the purpose of transfer to property. These agreements ensure that the property legally transferred and conveyed to the other party without dispute.

2. Commercial Agency Agreements: Sometimes businesses are conducted by traders not directly with their counterparts but through the agency of independent agents appointed for the purpose. Such agents would locate customers for the principal's goods and in certain conditions, would have an implied authority to deal with the goods of the principal, allow credit terms to customers and receive payment from the customers on behalf of the principal. Commercial Agency Contracts are entered into by organisations for running businesses through this mode of business operation.
3. Collaboration Agreements: When two parties join hands for exchange of technical know-how, technical designs and drawings; training of technical personnel of one of the parties in the manufacturing and/or research and development divisions of the other party; continuous provision of technical, administrative and/or managerial services, they are said to be collaborating in a desired venture. Commercial Agency Contracts are used in such scenarios.
4. Arbitration Agreements: The 'arbitration agreement' means an agreement by the parties to submit to arbitration all or certain disputes which have arisen or which may arise between them in respect of defined relationship whether contractual or not. It may be in the form of an arbitration clause in a contract or in the form of a separate agreement.
5. Hypothecation Agreement: Hypothecation agreement is a document by which legal property in goods passes to the person who lends money on them, but the possession does not pass.
6. Outsourcing Agreements: Outsourcing is the contracting out of a company's non-core, non-revenue producing activities to specialists. It differs from contracting in that outsourcing is a strategic management tool that involves the restructuring of an organization around what it does best - its core competencies.
7. Agreement for Assignment: An assignment is a form of transfer of property and it is commonly used to refer the transfer of an actionable claim or a debt or any beneficial interest in movable property. An important aspect of intellectual property laws deals with assignment agreements. A transfer of an actionable claim is usually called an assignment thereof. For eg. Assignment of Patents, Assignment of Trade Marks, Assignment of Copyrights, Assignment of Business and Goodwill etc.
8. Shareholders' Agreements: Shareholders' agreements (SHA) are quite common in business. In India, shareholder's agreement have gained popularity and currency only lately with bloom in newer forms of businesses. There are numerous situations where such agreements are entered into – family companies, JV companies, venture capital investments, private equity investments, strategic alliances, and so on. Shareholders' agreement is a contractual arrangement between the shareholders of a company describing how the company should be operated and the defining inter-se shareholders' rights and obligations.
9. Employment Agreements: They are entered into between parties for the purpose securing the availability of manpower for an organisation.

CONTRACTS

An agreement gives birth to a contract. As per Section 2(e) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 "every promise and every set of promises, forming the consideration for each other, is an agreement. It is apparent from the definition that an agreement is based on a promise. According to Section 2(b) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, "when the person to whom the proposal is made signifies his assent thereto, the proposal is said to be accepted. A proposal, when accepted, becomes a promise. An agreement, therefore, comes into existence when one party makes a proposal or offer to the other party and that other party signifies his assent thereto.

Therefore, every contract is an agreement but not vice versa. Agreements in which the idea of bargain is absent and there is no intention to create legal relations are not contracts.

Example

The following are agreements but not contracts:

1. Agreements relating to social matters such as to go together to the cinema, or for a walk.
2. Domestic arrangements between husband and wife

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN DEEDS, AGREEMENTS AND CONTRACTS

	Deeds	Agreements	Contracts
Meaning	Deed is the term normally used to describe all the instruments by which two or more persons agree to effect any right or liability	Every promise and every set of promises, forming the consideration for each other, is an agreement	An agreement enforceable by law is a contract
Mode	Preferable in writing	It may be oral or in writing	Preferable in writing
Purpose	Effecting a Right or Liability	Agreement on certain Act or Omission	Enforceability of agreements according to Law
Creation of records	Yes	Not necessary	Yes
Relation	Deed may be agreements and contracts	Agreements are not necessarily Deeds or Contracts	It succeeds Agreement
Example	Sale Deed, Lease Deed etc	Non-Disclosure Agreements, Joint Venture Agreements	Agreements reduced into writing and enforceable under any law

CIRCULARS

According to Cambridge dictionary, a circular is a letter or notice sent to a large number of people. The purpose of circulars is to disseminate the information to large number of individuals. Generally, circulars are in written form so as to create a permanent record of the information and the same may be accessed to by the individuals in present as well as in future. A circular may be issued and circulated in various modes but in present era, the prevalent mode in which circulars are issued are in electronic form such as by placing them at the website, sending them by emails etc. However, conventional method are still in operation such as circulating the written, typed or printed copies of circulars to individuals.

Circulars are issued by varied range of individuals and authorities. For example, A company may issue a circular to its employees for dissemination of a policy approved by the Board of Directors to be complied by the employees. Directors may issue a circular to the shareholders. Central Government may issue a circular for giving clarification on any point of Law or providing any other necessary information to public at large.

Important Points for drafting a circular

Following points are to be considered while drafting a circular:

1. Issuing Authority: It is important to mention the name of the issuing authority on the circular for communicating the position and authority of the addressor. It reduces the chance of confusion in addresses and increase the chances of observance.

STANDARD BIDS AND TENDERS

As per the Cambridge dictionary, tender is a written or formal offer to supply goods or do a job for an agreed price. It refers to an invitation to offer (bid) for a purpose. The process of inviting bids for tenders have been initiated frequently by the organisations for large projects. Tendering processes encourage the availability of goods or services on competitive prices. The tendering process becomes open for all the eligible bidders thereby ensuring the competitive prices. It also stimulates the availability of the resource required in a timely manner. The process of tendering is formal and legally binds the person entering into the contract after awarding of tender. The process of inviting tender empowers the Tender issuing authority to finalise the terms and conditions of the tender independently. However, the conditions of the tender should comply with the statutory, regulatory requirements, should not be unreasonable and arbitrary.

CASE LAWS

In the case of Tata Cellular v. Union of India, it was observed that the terms of the invitation to tender cannot be open to judicial scrutiny because the invitation to tender is in the realm of contract. Normally speaking, the decision to accept the tender or award the contract is reached by process of negotiations through several tiers. More often than not, such decisions are made qualitatively by experts. Further, as laid down in Tata Cellular and New Horizons cases, the tender conditions cannot ordinarily be subjected to judicial scrutiny, but if the tender conditions are so arbitrary and no procedure was prescribed for evaluating the standards or the tender conditions do not satisfy Wednesbury principle of unreasonableness (See Associated Provincial Picture Houses Limited v. Wednesbury Corporation, (1948) 1 KB 223 = (1947) 2 All ER 680, followed and explained in Om Kumar v. Union of India, (2001) 2 SCC 386, besides many other cases), they shall be deemed to be irrational and as a necessary corollary arbitrary to be cursed with invalidation under Article 14 of the Constitution.

Important considerations for preparing a document for Tendering Process

1. Name and address of the organisation: The name and address of the organisation be mentioned on the initial page of the document.
2. Subject of the document: The subject of the tender documents to be mentioned in clear and comprehensive manner in order to attract the attention of the Bidder.
3. Index of the tender document: The index of the documents can make the document convenient for the prospective bidder.
4. Important dates and necessary information: The information such as Tender Publication Date, Last date and time for sending Pre-Bid Queries in writing, Cost of Tender, Earnest Money Deposit, Pre-Bid Meeting date, time & venue, Last Date & address of Submission of Bids, Date, time & Venue of opening of Technical Bids and Financial Bids, contact details etc. should be provided in the tender document.
5. Disclaimer Clause: A disclaimer clause with respect to reservations or observation on the tender documents should be placed in the tender document.
6. Job Description: The job description in details should be mentioned in the tender document in order to acquaint prospective bidders with the requirements attached with the Job and evaluate and prepare their bids accordingly.
7. Division of tender documents in parts: The tender document be preferably prepared asking for Bid submissions in two parts i.e. Technical Bid and Financial Bids.
8. Fees and Deposits: The tender document should mention the fees and deposits commensurating the nature and quantum of work. The cost of the tender document may be required from the prospective bidder. Further, the provisions relating to Earned Money Deposit (EMD) and Security Deposit are also to be placed in the tender document.

9. Conditions for forfeitures of EMD: The clause providing for the circumstances in which EMD may be forfeited to be mentioned in the tender document. The general conditions in which EMD be forfeited are as under:
  - i. If the bidder withdraws its bid;
  - ii. the selected bidder delays or does not accept the Purchase / Work Order;
  - iii. the selected bidder fails to supply goods / services as per the terms of the Tender or fails to execute Purchase / Work Order.
10. Pre Bid Meeting: Pre Bid Meetings be conducted in order to provide any clarification sought on the tender.
11. Scope of Work: The scope of work in details be mentioned in the tender documents.
12. Mention of Technical and administrative requirements: The technical and administrative requirement be mentioned comprehensively in order to prevent the halt in the Job at the later stage. The document should be clear and specific with respect to technical and administrative requirements for performing the Job.
13. Eligibility Criteria: Essential Requirements are to be mentioned in the tender document.
14. Necessary forms and documents: Formats such as of Technical Bids, Financial bids, past experience of the bidder, Tender Acceptance Letter, Standard Terms and Condition of Agreement may be mentioned in the tender document. Further, a list of document required to be attached in the tender document may also be provided in the document.

LETTER OF CREDIT, BANK GUARANTEE, AND PERFORMANCE GUARANTEE

Letter of Credit

Letter of Credit ('LC'), also known as a documentary credit is a payment mechanism used specially in international trade. In an LC, buyer's bank undertakes to make payment to seller on production of documents stipulated in the document of LC. LC play an important role in the trade of a country, especially in its international trade. In most of the cases, the exporters (sellers) are personally not acquainted with the importers (buyers) in foreign countries. In such cases the exporters bear great risk, if they draw bills on importers, after having dispatched the goods as per their orders, because if the latter default in accepting the bills or making the payment, the exporter will suffer heavy losses. To avoid such risks, the exporters ask the importers to arrange a letter of credit from their banker in favour of themselves, on the basis of which goods may be exported to the foreign importers.

Parties to Letter of Credit (LC)

There are following four main parties to LC transaction:

1. Applicant Bank: Applicant or he is also called as Opener of LC. The bank opens LC on behalf of the applicant customer who is buyer / importer of goods.
2. Issuing Bank: Issuing bank is a bank which opens LC and undertakes to make payment to the beneficiary (seller/ exporter) on submission of document as per the terms of LC.
3. Beneficiary: Beneficiary is the seller / exporter of goods in whose favour LC is opened.
4. Advising Bank: Advising Bank is the bank through whom LC is advised to the beneficiary. Normally it is located in seller's location / country.

In addition to above four parties, following parties may also be involved in LC transaction.

- A. Confirming Bank: The bank which in addition to LC issuing bank, undertakes the responsibility of payment under LC. This is required since the LC issuing bank may not be known to the exporter and he therefore needs reputed bank from his country to add confirmation to the LC.
- B. Negotiating Bank: The Bank that negotiates the documents under LC.
- C. Paying Bank: Paying Bank or Nominated Bank is the bank nominated or authorized by the LC issuing bank to make payment under LC. In practice, the paying bank presents the documents received by it either to issuing bank or Reimbursing Bank for payment and transfers the proceeds to the beneficiary's account.
- D. Reimbursing Bank: Bank with whom the LC issuing bank maintains foreign currency account (NOSTRO account). LC issuing bank authorizes the reimbursing bank to honor the LC reimbursement claim of negotiating bank.

Documents under LC

To receive payment, an exporter must present the documents required by LC. Typical types of documents in such contract include –

- Financial documents: Bill of Exchange, co –accepted draft. It is the basic document drawn by the beneficiary (exporter / seller) and has to be drawn as per the terms of the LC.
- Commercial documents: Invoice, packing list. It is addressed to the buyer (importer), signed by the seller (exporter) and contains details of sales like quantity, rate, specification and total amount.
- Shipping documents: Bill of lading, airway bill, lorry/truck receipt, railway receipt etc. It is a document of title to the goods, proof that the exporter has dispatched the goods.
- Official documents: License, certificate of origin, inspection certificate, health certificate. These are the documents as specified in the LC document.
- Insurance documents: Insurance policy or certificate but not a cover note. The dispatched goods must be insured for the amount and the kind of risks as specified in LC document. The policy / certificate should be signed by the insurance company.

Types of Letter of Credits

- 1. Documentary LC and Clean LC: When the LC contains a clause that the payment is conditional on submission of document of title to goods such as bill of lading (evidence of dispatch of good), it is called Documentary LC. If no such clause is in the LC, it is called a clean LC.
- 2. Fixed Credit and Revolving Credit: Fixed credit is where LC specifies the amount up to which one or more bills can be drawn by the beneficiary within the specified time. The LC remains effective till the specified amount is exhausted within specified time.

In Revolving Credit, the LC opening bank does not specify the total amount up to which bills may be drawn, but mentions total amount up to which the bills may remain outstanding at a time. Thus after reaching that amount, as soon as the importer pays the bill, to that extent the limit gets reinstated. It is thus automatic and does not need renewal within the specified period of time.

- 3. Revocable and Irrevocable LC: In case of revocable LC, the opening bank reserves the right to cancel or modify the credit at any moment without prior notice to beneficiary.

Irrevocable credit constitutes a definite undertaking of the issuing bank. Such a LC once established and advised cannot be cancelled or amended except with the consent of interested parties – beneficiary and negotiating bank.

- 4. Confirmed and Unconfirmed LCs: When the opening bank requests the advising bank in the exporter's country to add its confirmation to an irrevocable LC and the advising bank does so, the LC is "irrevocable and confirmed". The advising bank is then called as 'confirming bank' and its liability then becomes similar to the issuing bank. The confirmation cannot be cancelled or amended unless agreed by all the parties. A confirmed irrevocable LC provides absolute security to the beneficiary.

If the advising bank does not add its confirmation, the LC remains as unconfirmed. In such case there will be no such obligation on the advising bank.

- 5. 'With' and 'Without Recourse' Credit: In case of "with Recourse" bills, the banker as a holder of the bill, can recover the amount of the bill from the drawer, in case the drawee of the bill fails to pay it. In order to avoid such liability, the seller / exporter / drawer asks the importer / buyer to arrange credit "Without Recourse" to the drawer. In such a credit the issuing bank will have no recourse to the drawer (exporter) if the drawee (importer) fails to honour the bill. The liability of such a bill ends as soon as the bill is negotiated.
- 6. Transferable LCs: Ordinarily the beneficiary is authorized to draw bills of exchange under LC. But if the beneficiary is an intermediary in the transaction and the goods are actually to be supplied by someone else, the beneficiary may request the opener to arrange a transferable credit.
- 7. Back to Back LC: When a beneficiary receives a non-transferable LC, he may request a bank to open a new LC in favour of some other person (may be local supplier), on the security of LC issued in his favour. Such LC is called Back to Back LC. The terms of such LC are identical except that the amount (price) may be lower and the validity earlier.
- 8. LC with Red Clause / Green Clause: LC with a clause printed in red ink, contains authority from the issuing bank to the advising / negotiating bank to grant advances (packing credit) to the beneficiary up to a specified amount at the responsibility of former. It is a short term advance recovered from the amount, payable by the negotiating bank to the beneficiary when it negotiates the documents under LC submitted by the beneficiary.
- Green Clause is an extension of red clause LC allowing advances for storage of goods in warehouse in addition to packing credit.
- 9. Instalment Credit: LC is issued for full value of goods but part-shipments of specific quantities of goods within nominated period are required. Credit is not available for missed shipment and shipments thereafter unless permitted in LC document.

Advantages of LCs to the Exporter (seller) and the Importer (buyer)

- Facilitates trade transactions between two parties who are not known to each other and located in two different countries.
- Beneficiary is assured of payment as long as it complies with the terms and conditions of LC.
- The credit risk is borne by the issuing bank and not the applicant (buyer).
- LC accelerates payment of receivables and helps beneficiary (seller) in minimizing collection time.
- The beneficiary's foreign exchange risk is eliminated with LC issued in the currency of seller's country.
- On the basis of LC the exporter may obtain advance from the bank for procuring and processing or manufacturing goods to be exported.

- Buyer is enabled to import goods.
- LC assures importer that bills drawn under LC will be honoured only when they are strictly in accordance with the conditions stipulated in LC document and the documents are duly submitted.

BYE LAWS

According to Collins' Dictionary, A bye law is a law which is made by a local authority and which applies only in their area. So, certain organisations frame their Bye Laws for effective functioning. Bye-Laws are legal tools used to regulate a particular subject or area so as to achieve orderly development of that subject. The nature of the Bye-Laws i.e. Mandatory or directory depends upon the subject matter for which they were made and the language used by the draftsmen in drafting the legislature empowering the making of Bye Laws. The authority to frame the bye laws are generally provided by the legislative enactment that is mandatory for that organisation to comply.

The legal recognition of Bye Laws are as under:

According to Article 13(3)(a) of the Constitution of India, "law" includes any Ordinance, order, bye-law, rule, regulation, notification, custom or usage having in the territory of India the force of law;

According to section 3(29) of General Clauses Act, 1897, “Indian law” shall mean any Act, Ordinance, Regulation, rule, order, bye-law or other instrument which before the commencement of the Constitution, had the force of law in any Province of India or part thereof, or thereafter has the force of law in any Part A State or Part C State or Part thereof, but does not include any Act of Parliament of the United Kingdom or any Order in Council, rule or other instrument made under such Act;

So, a Bye Law is also a Law recognized by the Constitution of India and also under various statutes.

When a Bye Law should be made

Section 22 of General Clauses Act, 1897 provides that where, by any Central Act or Regulation which is not to come into force immediately, on the passing thereof, a power is conferred to make rules or bye-laws, or to issue orders with respect to the application of the Act or Regulation, or with respect to the establishment of any Court or office or the appointment of any Judge or officer thereunder, or with respect to the person by whom, or the time when, or the place where, or the manner in which, or the fees for which, anything is to be done under the Act or Regulation, then that power may be exercised at any time after the passing of the Act or Regulation; but rules, bye-laws or orders so made or issued shall not take effect till the commencement of the Act or Regulation.

INTRODUCTION

Importance of drafting and conveyancing for a company's executive could be well imagined as the company has to enter into various types of agreements with different parties and have to execute various types of documents in favour of its clients, banks, financial institutions, employees and other constituents.

The importance of the knowledge about drafting and conveyancing for the corporate executives has been felt particularly for the three reasons viz.:

- (i) for obtaining legal consultations;
- (ii) for carrying out documentation departmentally;
- (iii) for interpretation of the documents.

With the knowledge of drafting and conveyancing, better interaction could be had by the corporate executives while seeking legal advice from the legal experts in regard to the matters to be incorporated in the documents, to decide upon the coverage and laying down rights and obligations of the parties therein. Knowledge in advance on the subject matter facilitates better communication, extraction of more information, arriving on workable solutions, and facilitates settlement of the draft documents, engrossment and execution thereof.

Knowledge of drafting and conveyancing for the corporate executives is also essential for doing documentation departmentally. An executive can make a better document with all facts known and judging the relevance and importance of all aspects to be covered therein.

A number of documents are required to be studied and interpreted by the corporate executives. In India, in the absence of any legislation on conveyancing, it becomes imperative to have knowledge about the important rules of law of interpretation so as to put right language in the documents, give appropriate meaning to the words and phrases used therein, and incorporate the will and intention of the parties to the documents.

DRAFTING

Drafting, in legal sense, means an act of preparing the legal documents like agreements, contracts, deeds etc.

Drafting may be defined as the synthesis of law and fact in a language form [Stanley Robinson: Drafting Its Application to Conveyancing and Commercial Documents (1980); (Butterworths); Chapter 1, p.3]. This is the essence of the process of drafting. In other words, legal drafting is the crystallization and expression in definitive form of a legal right, privilege, function, duty, or status. It is the development and preparation of legal instruments such as constitutions, statutes, regulations, ordinances, contracts, wills, conveyances, indentures, trusts and leases, etc.

The process of drafting operates in two planes: the conceptual and the verbal. Besides seeking the right words, the draftsman seeks the right concepts. Drafting, therefore, is first thinking and second composing.

A proper understanding of drafting cannot be realised unless the nexus between the law, the facts, and the language is fully understood and accepted. Drafting of legal documents requires, as a pre-requisite, the skills of a draftsman, the knowledge of facts and law so as to put facts in a systematised sequence to give a correct presentation of legal status, privileges, rights and duties of the parties, and obligations arising out of mutual understanding or prevalent customs or usages or social norms or business conventions, as the case may be, terms and conditions, breaches and remedies etc. in a self-contained and self-explanatory form without any patent or latent ambiguity or doubtful connotation. To collect, consolidate and co-ordinate the above facts in the form of a document, it requires serious thinking followed by prompt action to reduce the available information into writing with a legal meaning, open for judicial interpretation to derive the same sense and intentions of the parties with which and for which it has been prepared, adopted and signed.

Question: Good Drafting is required only for the purpose of preparing agreements and contracts.

Options: True/False

Answer: False, drafting is required in varied fields such as documentations for business, creating legal documents including agreements.

CONVEYANCING

Technically speaking, conveyancing is the art of drafting of deeds and documents whereby land or interest in land i.e. immovable property, is transferred by one person to another; but the drafting of commercial and other documents is also commonly understood to be included in the expression.

Mitra's legal and commercial dictionary defines "conveyance" as the action of conveyancing, a means or way of conveyancing, an instrument by which title to property is transferred, a means of transport, vehicle. In England, the word "conveyance" has been defined differently in different statutes. Section 205 of the Law of Property Act, 1925 of England provides that the "conveyance includes mortgage, charge, lease, assent, vesting declaration, vesting instrument, disclaimer, release and every other assurance of property or of any interest therein by any instrument except a will. "Conveyance", as defined in clause 10 of Section 2 of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, "includes a conveyance on sale and every instrument by which property, whether movable or immovable, is transferred inter vivos and which is not otherwise specifically provided by Schedule I of this Act." Section 5 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (Indian) makes use of the word "conveyance" in the wider sense as referred to above.

Thus, conveyance is an act of conveyancing or transferring any property whether movable or immovable from one person to another permitted by customs, conventions and law within the legal structure of the country. As such, deed of transfer is a conveyance deed which could be for movable or immovable property and according to the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, transfer may be by sale, by lease, by giving gift, by exchange, by will or bequeathment. But acquisition of property by inheritance does not amount to transfer under the strict sense of legal meaning.

In India the forms of conveyancing are based on the present English Forms. It is to be taken note that no legislation in India has ever been passed on the law of conveyancing.

Question: What is conveyed in conveyancing?

Answer: Generally, Rights and interest is transferred by one person to another in the document prepared for conveyancing.

DRAFTING AND CONVEYANCING: DISTINGUISHED

Both the terms “drafting and conveyancing” provide the same meaning although these terms are not interchangeable. Conveyancing gives more stress on documentation much concerned with the transfer of property from one person to another, whereas “drafting” gives a general meaning synonymous to preparation of drafting of documents. Document may include documents relating to transfer of property as well as other “documents” in a sense as per definition given in Section 3(18) of the General Clauses Act, 1897 which include any matter written, expressed or described upon any substance by means of letters, figures or mark, which is intended to be used for the purpose of recording that matter. For example, for a banker the document would mean loan agreement, deed of mortgage, charge, pledge, guarantee, etc. For a businessman, ‘document of title to goods’ would mean something as defined under Section 2(4) of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 so as to include “Bill of lading, dock-warrant, warehouse-keepers’ certificate, wharfingers’ certificate, railway receipt multi-modal transport document warrant or order for the delivery of goods and any other document used in ordinary course of business as proof of the possession or control of goods or authorising or purporting to authorise, either by endorsement or by delivery, the possessor of the document to transfer or receive goods thereby represented.” As per Section 2(36) of the Companies Act, 2013 the term “document” includes summons, notice, requisition, order, declaration, form and register, whether issued, sent or kept in pursuance of this Act or under any other law for the time being in force or otherwise, maintained on paper or in electronic form. Thus, drafting may cover all types of documents in business usages.

In India, the commercial houses, banks and financial institutions have been using the term “documentation” in substitution of the words “drafting and conveyancing”. Documentation refers to the activity which symbolises preparation of documents including finalisation and execution thereof.

DISTINCTION BETWEEN CONVEYANCE AND CONTRACT

Having understood the meaning of conveyance, it becomes necessary to understand the distinction between conveyance and contract before discussing basic requirements of conveyance or deed of transfer. Apparently, conveyance is not a contract. The distinction between conveyance and contract is quite clear. Contract remains to be performed and its specific performance may be sought but conveyance passes on the title to property to another person. Conveyance does not create any right of any action but at the same time it alters the ownership of existing right. There may be cases where the transaction may pertain both contract as well as conveyance. For example, lease, whereby obligation is created while possession of the property is transferred by lessor to lessee. More so, contracts are governed by provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 whereas the cases of transfer of immovable property are governed by the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 in India. A mere contract to mortgage or sale would not amount to actual transfer of interest in the property but the deed of mortgage or sale would operate as conveyance of such interest. In other words, once the document transferring immovable property has been completed and registered as required by law, the transaction becomes conveyance. Any such transaction would be governed under the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882.

Question: Does drafting and conveyancing both intends to create documents?

Answer: In both drafting and conveyancing documents are purported to be created. However, the purpose of creation of document is different.

GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF DRAFTING ALL SORTS OF DEEDS AND CONVEYANCING

As discussed above, drafting of legal documents is a skilled job. A draftsman, in the first instance, must ascertain the names, description and addresses of the parties to the instrument. He must obtain particulars about all necessary matters which are required to form part of the instrument. He must also note down with provision any particular directions or stipulations which are to be kept in view and to be incorporated in the instrument. The duty of a draftsman is to express the intention of the parties clearly and concisely in technical language. With this end in view, he should first form a clear idea of what these intentions are.

When the draftsman has digested the facts, he should next consider as to whether those intentions can be given effect to without offending against any provision of law. He must, therefore, read the introductory note, or, if time permits, the literature on the subject of the instrument. A corporate executive, therefore, must note down the most important requirements of law which must be fulfilled while drafting complete instrument on the subject. Validity of document in the eye of law cannot be ignored and at the same time the facts which should be disclosed in the document cannot be suppressed. Nothing is to be omitted or admitted at random. Therefore, knowledge of law of the land in general and knowledge of the special enactments applicable in a particular situation is an essential requirement for a draftsman to ensure that the provisions of the applicable law are not violated or avoided. For example, in cases where a deed to be executed by a limited company, it is necessary to go into the question as to whether the company has got power or authority under its memorandum to enter into the transaction. A company can do only that much which it is authorised by its memorandum. Further, a company being a legal entity, must necessarily act through its authorised agents. A deed, therefore, should be executed by a person duly authorised by the directors by their resolution or by their power of attorney.

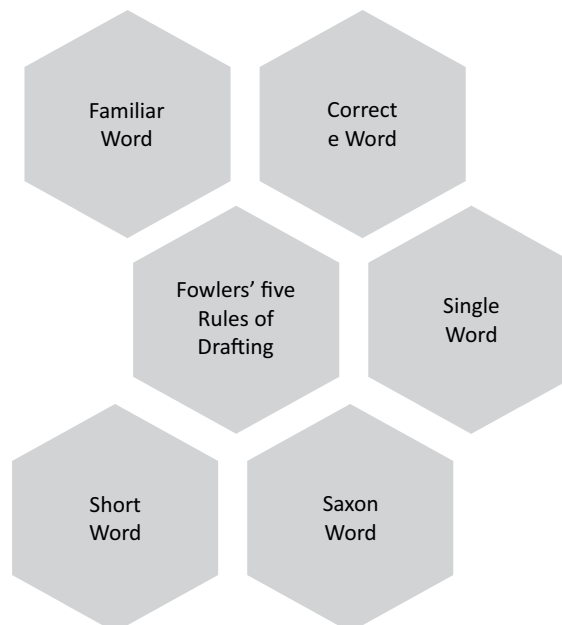

It is also to be ensured that the format of documents adopted adheres to the customs and conventions in vogue in the business community or in the ordinary course of legal transactions. For any change in the form of such document, use of juridical and technical language should invariably be followed. The statements of negatives should generally be avoided. The order of the draft should be strictly logical. Legal language should be, to the utmost possible extent, precise and accurate. The draft must be readily intelligible to laymen. All the time the draftsman must keep his eye on the rules of legal interpretation and the case-law on the meaning of particular words and choose his phraseology to fit them. [Piesse and Giechrist Smith book on The Elements of Drafting, 2nd Ed. pp. 7-12].

Document should be supported by the schedules, enclosures or annexures in case any reference to such material has been made in that.

Rules to be followed while drafting of documents

In addition to above facts, following rules should also be followed while drafting the documents:

(i) Fowlers' five rules of drafting

According to Fowler, “anyone who wishes to become a good writer should endeavour, before he allows himself to be tempted by more showy qualities, to be direct, simple, brief, vigorous and lucid.”

The principle referred to above may be translated into general in the domain of vocabulary as follows:

- (a) Prefer the familiar word to the far fetched (familiar words are readily understood).
- (b) Prefer the concrete word to the abstract (concrete words make meaning more clear and precise).
- (c) Prefer the single word to the circumlocution (single word gives direct meaning avoiding adverb and adjective).
- (d) Prefer the short word to the long (short word is easily grasped).
- (e) Prefer the Saxon word to the Roman (use of Roman words may create complications to convey proper sense to an ordinary person to understand).

(ii) Sketch or scheme of the draft document

It is always advisable to sketch or outline the contents of a document before taking up its drafting. This rule is suggested by Mr. Davidson, a celebrated authority on conveyancing in his book on Conveyancing, 4th Ed., Vol. I, p. 20, where the learned author says as follows:

“The first rule on which a draftsman must act is this-that before his draft is commenced, the whole design of it should be conceived, for if he proceeds without any settled design, his draft will be confused and incoherent, many things will be done which ought to be done and many left undone which ought to be done. He will be puzzled at every step of his progress in determining what ought to be inserted and what is to guide him in his decision because he does not know what his own object is.”

The importance of the above rule cannot be overemphasized and it should be observed by every draftsman.

(iii) Skelton draft and its self-appraisal

After the general scheme of the draft has been conceived, the draftsman should note down briefly the matters or points which he intends to incorporate in his intended draft. In other words, he should frame what is called a “skeleton draft” which should be filled in or elaborated as he proceeds with his work. Once the draft of the document is ready, the draftsman should appraise it with reference to the available facts, the law applicable in the case, logical presentation of the facts, use of simple language intelligible to layman, avoidance of repetition and conceivable mis-interpretation, elimination of ambiguity of facts, and adherence to the use of Fowlers’ Rules of drafting so as to satisfy himself about its contents.

(iv) Special attention to be given to certain documents

Certain documents require extra care before taking up the drafting. For example, it must be ensured that contractual obligations are not contrary to the law in the document, where the facts so warrant to ensure. Further, in all the documents where transfer of immovable property is involved through any of the prescribed legal modes, it is necessary to ensure the perfect title of the transferor to such property proposed to be transferred by causing investigation and searches in relation to such title done through competent lawyers or solicitors in the concerned offices of Registrar of Assurance, local authorities, Registrar of Companies (in the case of the vendor being a corporate unit) etc. In addition, the requisite permissions required under different enactments viz., Income-tax Act, Land Ceiling Laws, Companies Act, 2013, Lessor’s consent in the case of leasehold land, or any compliance desired under other Central or State Laws or personal laws etc. should be planned to be obtained in advance and recited in the documents wherever thought necessary.

If the draft document has been prepared for the first time to be used again and again with suitable modification depending upon the requirements of each case it should be got vetted by the experts to ensure its suitability and legal fitness if the corporate executive feels it so necessary.

To sum up, the draftsman should bear in mind the following principles of drafting:

- (i) As far as possible the documents should be self-explanatory.
- (ii) The draftsman should begin by satisfying himself that he appreciates what he means to say in the document.
- (iii) The well drafted document should be clear to any person who has competent knowledge of the subject matter.
- (iv) The draft must be readily intelligible to a layman.
- (v) The document may not be perfect because it says too much or too little or is ambiguous or contains one or more of the facts because it has to be applied in circumstances which the draftsman never contemplated. This should be avoided in the drafting of the documents.
- (vi) Nothing is to be omitted or admitted at random on the document that is to say negative statements should generally be avoided.
- (vii) Use of juridical language should be made.
- (viii) The text of the documents should be divided into paragraphs containing the relevant facts. Each paragraph should be self-explanatory and should be properly marked by use of Nos. of letters for clause, sub- clause and paragraphs.
- (ix) Schedule should be provided in the documents. Schedule is a useful part of the document and should contain the relevant information which forms part of the document. Whether any portion of the document should be put into the schedule(s) will depend upon the circumstances. The schedule is important in the document as it explains useful matters which forms part of the document and should not be ignored and should not be inserted in the body of the document. The main function of the schedule is to provide supplementary test to the document with clarity and convenience.
- (x) The active voice is preferable to the passive voice, unless the passive voice in a particular connection makes the meaning more clear. [See Sir Rohland Burrow's Book on Interpretation of Documents, pp. 119 to 121].

Some Do's

1. Reduce the group of words to single word;
2. Use simple verb for a group of words;
3. Avoid round-about construction;
4. Avoid unnecessary repetition;
5. Write shorter sentences;
6. Express the ideas in fewer words;
7. Prefer the active to the passive voice sentences;
8. Choose the right word;

9. Know exactly the meaning of the words and sentences you are writing; and
10. Put yourself in the place of reader, read the document and satisfy yourself about the content, interpretation and the sense it carries.

Some Don'ts

The following things should be avoided while drafting the documents:

1. Avoid the use of words of same sound. For example, the words “Employer” and “Employee”;
2. When the clause in the document is numbered it is convenient to refer to any one clause by using single number for it. For example, “in clause 2 above” and so on;
3. Negative in successive phrases would be very carefully employed;
4. Draftsman should avoid the use of words “less than” or “more than”, instead, he must use “not exceeding”;
5. If the draftsman has provided for each of the two positions to happen without each other and also happen without, “either” will not be sufficient; he should write “either or both” or express the meaning of the two in other clauses.

While writing and typing, the following mistakes generally occur which should be avoided:

1. “And” and “or”;
2. “Any” and “my”;
3. “Know” and “now”;
4. “Appointed” and “Applied”;
5. “Present” and “Past” tense.

BASIC COMPONENTS OF DEEDS

Having understood, the meaning of drafting and conveyancing it is necessary to familiarise with various terms such as deeds, documents, indentures, deed poll etc. These terms are frequently used in legal parlance in connection with drafting and conveyancing. Out of these, the meaning of deeds and documents, have a common link, and used in many a time interchangeably, but it is very essential to draw a line in between.

Deed

In legal sense, a deed is a solemn document. Deed is the term normally used to describe all the instruments by which two or more persons agree to effect any right or liability. To take for example Gift Deed, Sale Deed, Deed of Partition, Partnership Deed, Deed of Family Settlement, Lease Deed, Mortgage Deed and so on. Even a power of Attorney has been held in old English cases to be a deed. A bond is also included in the wide compass of the term deed.

For such an instrument covering so wide field it is difficult to coin a suitable definition. A deed may be defined as a formal writing of a non-testamentary character which purports or operates to create, declare, confirm, assign, limit or extinguish some right, title, or interest. Many authorities have tried to define the deed. Some definitions are very restricted in meaning while some are too extensive definitions. The most suitable and comprehensive definition has been given by Norton on 'Deeds' as follows:

A deed is a writing –

- (a) on paper, vellum or parchment,

- (b) sealed, and
- (c) delivered, whereby an interest, right or property passes, or an obligation binding on some persons is created or which is in affirmance of some act whereby an interest, right or property has been passed.

In Halsbury's Laws of England, a deed has been defined as "an instrument written on parchment or paper expressing the intention or consent of some person or corporation named therein to make (otherwise than by way of testamentary disposition, confirm or concur in some assurance of some interest in property or of some legal or equitable right, title or claim, or to undertake or enter into some obligation, duty or agreement enforceable at law or in equity or to do, or concur in some other act affecting the legal relations or position of a party to the instrument or of some other person or corporation, sealed with the seal of the party, so expressing such intention or consent and delivered as that party's act and deed to the person or corporation intended to be affected thereby.

A deed is a present grant rather than a mere promise to be performed in the future. Deeds are in writing, signed, sealed and delivered.

Deeds are instruments, but all instruments are not deeds.

Document

"Document" as defined in Section 3(18) of General Clauses Act, 1897 means any matter expressed or described upon any substance by means of letters, figures or marks, or by the more than one of those means, intended to be used, or which may be used, for the purpose of recording that matter.

Illustration:

- A writing is a document.
- Words printed, lithographed or photographed are documents. A map or plan is a document.
- An inscription on a metal plate or stone is a document. A caricature is a document. Thus, document is a paper or other material thing affording information, proof or evidence of anything.
- All deeds are documents. But it is not always that all documents are deeds. A document under seal may not be a deed if it remains undelivered, e.g. a will, an award, a certificate of admission to a learned society, a certificate of shares or stocks and share warrant to bearer, an agreement signed by directors and sealed with the company's seal, license to use a patented article, or letters of co-ordination.
- Documentary evidence as such is an important piece of evidence of which the Courts and Tribunals take judicial cognizance.

Various Kinds of Deeds

Particular statutory definitions cover different sets of deeds. In the re-statement of American Law in Corpus

Juris Secundum, the following kinds of deeds have been explained:

- A good deed is one which conveys a good title, not one which is good merely in form.
- A good and sufficient deed is marketable deed; one that will pass a good title to the land it purports to convey.
- An inclusive deed is one which contains within the designated boundaries lands which are expected from the operation of the deed.

- A latent deed is a deed kept for twenty years or more in man's escritoire or strong box. A lawful deed is a deed conveying a good or lawful title.
- A pretended deed is a deed apparently or prima facie valid.
- A voluntary deed is one given without any "valuable consideration", as that term is defined by law, one founded merely on a "good", as distinguished from a "valuable", consideration on motives of generosity and affection, rather than a benefit received by the donor, or, detriment, trouble or prejudice to the grantee.
- A warranty deed is a deed containing a covenant of warranty.
- A special warranty deed which is in terms a general warranty deed, but warrants title only against those claiming by, through, or under the grantor, conveys the described land itself, and the limited warranty does not, of itself, carry notice of title defects.

Some other terms connected with deeds are of importance of general legal knowledge. These terms are mentioned herein below:

(i) Deed Pool

A deed between two or more parties where as many copies are made as there are parties, so that each may be in a possession of a copy. This arrangement is known as deed pool.

(ii) Deed Poll

A deed made and executed by a single party e.g. power of attorney, is called a deed poll, because in olden times, it was polled or cut level at the top. It had a polled or clean cut edge. It is generally used for the purpose of granting powers of attorney and for exercising powers of appointment or setting out an arbitrator's award. It is drawn in first person usually.

(iii) (a) Indenture

Indenture are those deeds in which there are two or more parties. It was written in duplicate upon one piece of parchment and two parts were severed so as to leave an indented or vary edge, forging being then, rendered very difficult. Indentures were so called as at one time they are indented or cut with uneven edge at the top. In olden times, the practice was to make as many copies or parts as they were called, of the instruments as they were parties to it, which parts taken together formed the deed and to engross all of them of the same skin of parchment. This practice of indenting of deeds is no more used in England and at present indenture means a deed between two or more persons / parties importing the meaning of executed contract of conveyancing.

(b) Cyrographum

This was another type of indenture in olden times. The word "Cyrographum" was written between two or more copies of the document and the parchment was cut in a jugged line through this word. The idea was that the difficulty of so cutting another piece of parchment that it would fit exactly into this cutting and writing constituted a safeguard against the fraudulent substitution of a different writing for one of the parts of the original. This practice of indenting deeds also has ceased long ago and indentures are really now obsolete but the practice of calling a deed executed by more than one party as an "indenture" still continues in England.

(iv) Deed Escrow

A deed signed by one party will be delivered to another as an "escrow" for it is not a perfect deed. It is only a mere writing (Scriptum) unless signed by all the parties and dated when the last party signs it. The deed operates from the date it is last signed. Escrow means a simple writing not to become the deed of the expressed to be bound thereby, until some condition should have been performed. (Halsbury Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. II, p. 348).

Question: Which of the given sections defines the term “Document”?

Options:

- (A) Section 3(18) of General Clauses Act, 1897
- (B) Section 2(19) of Indian Contract Act, 1872
- (C) Section 3(16) of Companies Act, 2013
- (D) 2(99) of Indian Penal Code, 1860

Answer: (A)

Broad Outlines of Deeds

As explained what is a deed, it is now appropriate to know more about drafting of Deed as a document. Out of various types of deeds, Deeds of Transfer of Property is the most common one. Deeds of Transfer include Deed of Sale, Deed of Mortgage, Deed of Lease, Deed of Gift etc. These deeds effect a transfer of property or interest.

A deed is divided into different paragraphs. Under each part relevant and related information is put in paragraph in simple and intelligible language as explained in the earlier chapter. If a particular part is not applicable in a particular case that part is omitted from the document.

The usual parts or components or clauses of deeds in general are mentioned as follows:

1. Description of the Deed Title

A deed usually begins with the name of the deed and as such the deed should contain the correct title such as “This Deed of Sale”, “This Deed of Mortgage”, “This Deed of Lease”, “This Deed of Conveyance”, “This Deed of Exchange”, “This Deed of Gift” etc. These words should be written in capital letters in the beginning of document. Where it is difficult to locate the complete transaction out of number of transactions covered under the deed, it may not be possible to give single name to the deed like ‘Deed of Gift’ and as such it would be better to describe the deed as “This Deed” written in capital letters like “THIS DEED”.

This part hints the nature of the deed and gives a signal to the reader about the contents of the Deed.

Sometimes a question may arise whether a particular instrument or document is a deed of conveyance of transfer. To ascertain the nature of the document it becomes necessary to read the language of the document and locate the intention of the parties which is the sole determining factor. Besides the intention of the parties, consideration paid for conveyance is another important aspect in assessing the document as a conveyance. Consideration may be paid initially or may be agreed to be paid in future also. However, in those cases where any condition is stipulated as precedent to the title being passed on to the purchaser then the document does not become conveyance unless the condition is performed. The document may be couched in ambiguous terms then the interpretation of the wordings would throw light on the intention of the parties so as to treat a particular document as conveyance or contract or otherwise. Therefore, naming a deed does not control or change the basic nature and purpose of the deed.

2. Place and Date of Execution of a Deed

The date on which the document is executed comes immediately after the description of the deed. For example, “This Deed of Mortgage made on the first day of January, 2023”. It is the date of execution which is material in a document for the purpose of application of law of limitation, maturity of period, registration of the document and passing on the title to the property as described in the document. Thus, the “date” of the document is important.

Date of execution of document is inscribed on the deed. The date is not strictly speaking an essential part of the deed. A deed is perfectly valid if it is undated or the date given is an impossible one, e.g. 30th day of February.

If no date is given oral evidence will always be admissible to prove the date of execution only it leaves necessary to prove it. However, it is of great importance to know the date from which a particular deed operates. In India there is a short period of 4 months (Section 23 of Registration Act) for its registration from the date of execution within which a deed must be presented for registration. The date is important for application of law of limitation also. In view of the extreme importance of date of execution of deed it should be regarded as an essential requirement. The date of deed is the date on which parties sign or executing it. If several parties to a deed sign the deed on different dates, in such cases, the practice is to regard the last of such dates as the date of deed.

In order to avoid mistake and risk of forgery, the date be written in words and in figures.

The place determines the territorial and legal jurisdiction of a document as to its registration and for claiming legal remedies for breaches committed by either parties to the document and also for stamping the document, as the stamp duty payable on document differs from State to State. An Illustration of this part follows:

“This Deed of Lease made at New Delhi on the Twenty Second day of February Two Thousand and Twenty Three (22.02.2023)” etc.

3. Description of Parties

The basic rule is that all the proper parties to the deed including inter-parties should be properly described in the document because inter-parties are pleaded as they take benefit under the same instrument. While describing the parties, the transferor should be mentioned first and then the transferee. Where there is a confirming party, the same may be placed next to the transferor. In the order of parties, transferee comes in the last.

Full description of the parties should be given to prevent difficulty in identification. Description must be given in the following order:

Name comes first, then the surname and thereafter the address followed by other description such as s/o, w/o, d/o, etc. It is customary to mention in India caste and occupation of the parties before their residential address.

However, presently mention of caste is not considered necessary. But to identify the parties if required under the circumstances, it may be necessary to mention the profession or occupation of a person/ party to the deed. For example, Company Secretary Medical Practitioner, Chartered Accountant, or Advocate or likewise.

In the case of juridical persons like companies or registered societies it is necessary that after their names their registered office and the particular Act under which the company or society was incorporated should be mentioned. For example, “XYZ Co. Limited, the company registered under the Companies Act, 2013 and having its registered office at 1, Parliament Street, New Delhi”.

In cases where the parties may be idol then name of the idol and as represented by its “Poojari” or “Sewadar”, or so, should be mentioned. For example, “the idol of Shri Radha Mohan Ji installed in Hanuman Temple in Meerut being 10, Jawahar Chowk, Lale Ka Bazar, Meerut City acting through its Sewadar Pt. Krishan Murari Lal Goswami of Mathura”.

In the case of persons under disability like minor, lunatic, etc. who cannot enter into a contract except through a guardian or a ward, in certain cases through guardian with the permission of the court where necessary, full particulars of the same should be given with the authority from whom a guardian draws power. For example, “Mohan, a minor, acting through Rajender as guardian appointed by Civil Judge Class I, Delhi by order on _____ passed under section _____ of _____ Act or “Mohan, Minor acting through his father and natural guardian Rajender etc.” In this way, particulars for the sake of identification of the party should be given. Similarly, in the case of partners, trustees, co-partners, etc. full details of the parties should be given for the sake of identification.

Reference label of parties are put in Parenthesis against the name and description of each party to avoid repetition of their full names and addresses at subsequent places. The parties are then prepared to by their respective labels e.g. “lessor” and “lessee” in a lease deed.

The form is illustrated as under:

(i) Individual

Shri Vinod s/o _____ resident of _____ _____ (Hereinafter called ‘lessor’ which term shall mean and unless, it be repugnant to the context or meaning thereof mean and include the heirs, legal representative or assigns) of the one part;

and

Shri Rohil s/o _____ resident of _____ _____ (Hereinafter called ‘lessee’ which term shall unless it be repugnant to the context or meaning thereof mean and include the heirs, legal representative or assigns) of the other part.”

(ii) Companies and organisations

between

XYZ Retainers Limited, a Public Limited Company incorporated under Companies Act, 2013 having its registered office at _____ represented through _____, Company Secretary, (Which term or expression unless repugnant to the context or meaning thereof shall be deemed to include its successors and permitted assigns) hereinafter referred to as the “XYZ Co.”, of the “FIRST PART”.

and

MNO LLP, a Limited Liability Partnership formed under Limited Liability Partnership Act, 2008 having its office at _____ represented through _____, Managing Partner, (Which term or expression unless repugnant to the context or meaning thereof shall be deemed to include its successors and permitted assigns) hereinafter referred to as the “MNO LLP.”, of the “SECOND PART”.

4. Recitals

Recitals contain the short story of the property up to its vesting into its transferors. Care should be taken that recitals are short and intelligible. Recitals may be of two types. One, narrative recitals which relates to the past history of the property transferred and sets out the facts and instrument necessary to show the title and relation to the party to the subject matter of the deed as to how the property was originally acquired and held and in what manner it has developed upon the grantor or transferor. The extent of interest and the title of the person should be recited. It should be written in chronological order i.e. in order of occurrence. This forms part of narrative recitals. This is followed by introductory recitals, which explain the motive or intention behind execution of deed.

Introductory recitals are placed after narrative recitals. The basic objective of doing so, is to put the events relating to change of hand in the property.

Recitals should be inserted with great caution because they precede the operative part and as a matter of fact contain the explanation to the operative part of the deed. If the same is ambiguous recitals operate as estoppel. Recital offers good evidence of facts recited therein. Recitals are not generally taken into evidence but are open for interpretation for the courts. If the operative part of the deed is ambiguous anything contained in the recital will help in its interpretation or meaning. In the same sense, it is necessary that where recitals contain chronological events that must be narrated in chronological order.

Recitals carry evidentiary importance in the deed. It is an evidence against the parties to the instrument and those claiming under and it may operate as estoppel [Ram Charan v. Girija Nandini, 3 SCR 841 (1965)].

Recital generally begins with the words “Whereas” and when there are several recitals instead of repeating the words “Whereas” before each and every one of them, it is better to divide the recitals into numbered paragraphs for example, “Whereas” – etc.

- 3.

5. Testatum

This is the “witnessing” clause which refers to the introductory recitals of the agreement, if any, and also states the consideration, if any, and recites acknowledgement of its receipt. The witnessing clause usually begins with the words “NOW THIS DEED WITNESSES”. Where there are more than one observations to be put in the clause the words, “NOW THIS DEED WITNESSES AS UNDER” are put in the beginning and then paragraphs are numbered.

6. Consideration

As stated above, consideration is very important in a document and must be expressed. Mention of consideration is necessary otherwise also, for example, for ascertaining stamp duty payable on the deed under the Indian Stamp Act, 1899. There is a stipulation of penalty for non-payment of stamps, but non-mention of consideration does not invalidate the document.

In the absence of mention of consideration the evidentiary value of document is reduced that the document may not be adequately stamped and would attract penalty under the Stamp Act.

7. Receipt

Closely connected with consideration is the acknowledgement of the consideration amount by the transferor, who is supposed to acknowledge the receipt of the amount. An illustration is as follows:

“Now this Deed witnesses that in pursuance of the aforesaid agreement and in consideration of sum of ₹ 100,000/- (Rupees One Lakh Only) paid by the transferee to the transferor before the execution thereof (receipt of which the transferee does hereby acknowledge)”.

8. Operative Clause

This is followed by the real operative words which vary according to the nature of the property and transaction involved therein. The words used in operative parts will differ from transaction to transaction.

For example, in the case of mortgage the usual words to be used are “Transfer by way of simple mortgage” (usual mortgage) etc. The exact interest transferred is indicative after parcels by expressing the intent or by adding habendum. (The parcel is technical description of property transferred and it follows the operative words).

9. Description of Property

Registration laws in India require that full description of the property be given in the document which is presented for registration under Registration Act. Full description of the property is advantageous to the extent that it becomes easier to locate the property in the Government records and verify if it is free from encumbrances. If the description of the property is short, it shall be included in the body of the document itself and if it is lengthy a schedule could be appended to the deed. It usually contains area, measurements of sides, location, permitted use, survey number etc. of the property.

10. Parcels Clause

This is a technical expression meaning methodical description of the property. It is thereby a brief description of the property which is the subject matter of the deed. It is necessary that in case of non-testamentary document containing a map or plan of the property shall not be accepted unless it is accompanied by the True Copy. Usually the Parcel Clause starts with the words “All Those _____ and further or description covers as per the type of property subjected to transfer under the deed. This clause includes words such as: Messuages, Tenements, Hereditaments, Land, Water etc. But use of these now has been rendered unnecessary in view of Section 8 of Transfer of Property Act, 1882 given herein below.

“Section 8. Operation of transfer — Unless a different intention is expressed or necessarily implied, a transfer of property passes forthwith to the transferee all the interest which the transferor is then capable of passing in the property, and in the legal incidents thereof.”

This Section has cut down the length of the deeds and do away with description of minute details of the incidents of the property intended to be conveyed.

Examples

And, where the property is machinery attached to the earth, the movable parts thereof;

And, where the property is a house, the easements annexed thereto, the rent thereof accruing after the transfer, and the locks, keys, bars, doors, windows, and all other things provided for permanent use therewith;

And, where the property is a debt or other actionable claim, the securities therefor (except where they are also for other debts or claims not transferred to the transferee), but not arrears of interest accrued before the transfer;

And, where the property is money or other property yielding income, the interest or income thereof accruing after the transfer takes effect.”

11. Exceptions and Reservations Clause

It refers to admission of certain rights to be enjoyed by the transferor over the property to be agreed to by the transferee. All exceptions and reservations out of the property transferred should follow the parcels and operative words. It is the contractual right of the parties to the contract or to the document to provide exceptions and reservations which should not be uncertain, repugnant or contrary to the spirit of law applicable to a particular document or circumstances. For example, Section 8 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 provides for transfer of all the interest to the transferee in the property and any condition opposing the provisions of law will be void. Further, Section 10 of the said Act provides that any condition or limitation absolutely restraining the transferee of property in disposing of his interest in the property is void. So, nothing against the spirit of law can be provided in the document.

The clause generally is signified by the use of words “subject to” in deeds, where it is mentioned, it is advisable that both the parties sign, to denote specific understanding and consenting to this aspect.

12. Premises and Habendum

Habendum is a part of deed which states the interest, the purchaser is to take in the property. The habendum clause can define how long the interest granted will extend. Habendum clause starts with the words “TO HAVE AND TO HOLD”. Formerly in England if there was a gratuitous transfer, the transferee was not deemed to be the owner of the beneficial estate in the property, the equitable estate wherein remained with the transferor as a resulting trust for him. It was therefore, necessary to indicate in the deed that it was being transferred for the use of the transferee if it was intended to confer an equitable estate in him. It was for that reason that the habendum commenced with the words: “to have to hold to the use of”. Now it is not necessary to express it so. In the modern deeds, however, the expression “to have and” are omitted. The habendum limits the estate mentioned in the parcels. The transferee is mentioned again in the habendum for whose use the estate is conveyed. Whatever precedes the habendum is called the premises. The parcels or the description of the property usually again included in the premises. If the property conveyed is encumbered, reference thereto should be made in the habendum. If the parties to transfer enter into covenants, they should be entered after the habendum.

In India such phrases as “to have and to hold” or such an expression as “to the use of the purchaser” can very well be avoided as in cases except those of voluntary transfers such an expression is superfluous.

13. Reddendum

It is peculiar to a deed of lease. Here is mentioned the mode and time fixed for payment of rent. It begins with the word “rendering or paying” with reference to the rent. Thus it is a reserving clause in a deed, especially the clause in a lease that specifies the amount of the rent and when it should be paid.

14. Covenants and Undertakings

The term “covenant” has been defined as an agreement under seal, whereby parties stipulates for the truth of certain facts. In Whasten’s Law Lexicon, a covenant has been explained as an agreement or consideration or promise by the parties, by deed in writing, signed, sealed and delivered, by which either of the parties, pledged himself to the other than something is either done or shall be done for stipulating the truth of certain facts. Covenant clause includes undertakings also. Usually, covenant is stated first. In some instances the covenants and undertakings are mixed, i.e. can not be seperated in that case, they are joint together, words put for this as “The Parties aforesaid hereto hereby mutually agree with each other as follows:” Such covenants may be expressed or implied.

15. Testimonium Clause

Testimonium is the clause in the last part of the deed. Testimonium signifies that the parties to the document have signed the deed. This clause marks the close of the deed and is an essential part of the deed.

The usual form of testimonium clause is as under:

“In witness whereof, parties hereto have hereunto set their respective hands and seals the date and year first above written”.

In India, seals are not commonly used and in those cases testimonium clause reads as under:

“IN WITNESS WHEREOF the parties hereto have signed this DEED on the date above written”.

Thus testimonium clause can be worded according to the status and delegation of executants. Moreover, this clause in the deed presupposes that the proper parties are signing the document.

16. Signature and Attestation Clause

After Testimonium clause, signatures of the executants of the documents and their witnesses attesting their signatures follow. If the executant is not competent enough to contract or is juristic person, deed must be signed by the person competent to contract on its behalf. For example, if the deed is executed by the company or co-operative society then the person authorised in this behalf by and under the articles of association or rules and regulations or by resolution as the case may be should sign the document and seal of the company/society (if applicable) should be so affixed, thereto by mentioning the same.

In India, the Deed of Transfer is not required to be signed by the transferee even though the transferee is mentioned as party in the document. All conditions and covenants are binding upon him without his executing the conveyance, if he consents to it by entering into the lease granted under the conveyance. However, in case the deed contains any special covenant by the transferee or any reservation is made by the transferee then it is always proper to have the deed signed by the transferee also.

Attestation is necessary in the case of some transfers, for example, mortgage, gift, sale, and revocation of will. In other cases, though it is not necessary, it is always safe to have the signatures of the executant attested. Attestation should be done by at least two witnesses who should have seen the executant signing the deed or should have received from the executant personal acknowledgement to his signatures. It is not necessary that both the witnesses should have been present at the same time. There is no particular form of attestation but it should appear clearly that witnesses intended to sign is attesting the witnesses. General practice followed in India is that the deed is signed at the end of the document on the right side and attesting witnesses may sign on the left side. If both the parties sign in the same line then the transferor may sign on the right and the transferee on the left and witnesses may sign below the signatures.

It is essential that the attesting witness should have put his signature, amino attestandi, intending for the purpose of attesting that he has seen the executant sign or has received from him, a personal acknowledgement of his signature.

17. Supplemental Deeds

Supplemental deed is a document which is entered into between the parties on the same subject on which there is a prior document existing and operative for adding new facts to the document on which the parties to the document have agreed which otherwise cannot be done by way of endorsement. Thus, supplemental deed is executed to give effect to the new facts in the deed. When a deed or document is required to be supplemented by new facts in pursuance of or in relation to a prior deed this can be affected by either endorsement on the prior deed when short writing would be sufficient, or by executing a separate deed described as supplemental deed. For example, if lessee transfers his right in the lease to another person such transfer may be done by way of endorsement. On the other hand, if the terms of the lease document are to be altered then it becomes necessary to give effect to such alteration through a supplementary deed. In case the alteration to be made in the terms and conditions and is of minor nature and can be expressed by a short writing execution of supplementary deed may not be considered necessary as this can be done by endorsement only. Thus, this is a matter of convenience which of the two alternatives whether endorsement or a supplementary deed is to be used by the parties to a particular document.

For giving effect to the supplemental deed the form of the deed of agreement will be more or less the same as endorsement as explained later in this lesson with the difference that with the other names of the parties the words, "Supplemental (intended to read as annexed) to a deed of _____ dated _____ made between the parties thereto (or between _____ ) hereinafter called the principal deed", shall be added. In case the particulars of a principal deed are somewhat long it is more convenient to refer to the principal deed in the first recital and to say that this deed (the one under preparation) is supplemental to that (the former) deed; for example, "Whereas this deed is supplemental to a deed of sale made, etc. hereinafter called the 'principal deed'.

There may be situations when the supplemental deed is supplemental to several deeds. In such a case, each prior deed should be mentioned clearly by way of recitals to make the deed with reference to the existing deed intelligible and free from ambiguity.

All supplemental deed should be stamped according to the nature of the transaction which they evidence. In case it is an agreement, it must be stamped as an agreement.

18. Annexures or Schedules

A deed remains incomplete unless particulars as required under registration law about the land or property are given in the Schedule to be appended to the deed. It supplements information given in the parcels. A Site Plan or Map Plan showing exact location with revenue no. Mutation No., Municipal No., Survey No., Street No., Ward Sector/Village/Panchayat/Taluka/District /Plot No., etc. so that the demised property could be traced easily.

IMPORTANT TERMS AND CONDITIONS IN THE AGREEMENT

An agreement which is enforceable at law is called a contract. Generally, when a contract is reduced to writing, the document itself is called an agreement. Accordingly, there cannot be an agreement unless there are two or more parties that agree to perform certain acts or refrain from doing something. A company has to execute numerous commercial agreements and other contracts during the course of its business. But how many company executives possess the simple, easily cultivable, yet rare acumen of concluding their contracts precisely, comprehensively and unambiguously? It is very much desirable and useful to keep in view certain important points in regard to the drafting of contracts, particularly commercial and international trade contracts.

There is no particular form prescribed for the drawing up of trade contracts, except that they must fulfil all the essential requirements of a valid contract under the law applicable to the contract. If the law requires any particular category of contracts to be in writing or to be registered, these formalities must be complied with. A contract may be hand written, type written or printed. It may be as brief or as detailed as the circumstances of a particular trade transaction demand.

However, it is extremely desirable and essential that precise and comprehensive terms and conditions relating to the subject matter and performance of the contract should be incorporated by companies in both domestic and international contracts. In sale-purchase contracts well defined provisions relating to the quality and quantity of goods, the shipment period, price (C.I.F./C&F/F.O.B., etc.), delivery, port of shipment and of destination packing and marketing, mode of payment, insurance, brokerage/commission etc. should also be stipulated. In international contracts additional provisions relating to the applicable law, licences and permits, taxes, duties and charges, exchange rate, etc. also become relevant and important. Some of the important matters that deserve to be provided for in the agreements are discussed briefly hereunder:

1. Description of Parties to the Contract: Parties to the contract should properly be defined by mentioning their names, status and address. In case of an individual, father's name; and in case of a company, the place where registered office is situated should also be given. In case of firms and companies, the particulars of persons representing them should be invariably given, including detailed particulars of the firm.
2. Legal Nature of the Contract: In the title or in the introductory part of the contract, the parties should clearly indicate the legal nature of the contract as to whether it is a sale/purchase contract or a commercial agency contract or a contract for technical assistance and advice or building construction and erection contract, etc. so as to avoid any doubt as regards the nature of the contract and the legal position of the parties thereunder.
3. Licences and Permits: It is desirable to provide for, particularly in international trade contracts, as to which party would be responsible for obtaining export/import licences and the effects of delay, refusal or withdrawal of a license by Government authority, etc. Generally, it is the commercial practice to provide that each party to the contract may obtain the requisite licences in its own country.
4. Taxes, Duties and Charges: A provision regarding the responsibility for payment of taxes, duties and other charges, if any, may also be included in the contract. In international contracts, it is generally provided that the seller would be responsible for taxes, duties and charges levied in the country of export and the buyer with such charges levied in the country of import. Provision should also be made for fluctuations in the rate of taxes, duties and fees, after the conclusion of the contract and it may be agreed upon whether any increase in such rates would be borne by the buyer or the seller.
5. Quality, Quantity and Inspection of Goods: Quality of the goods is very important to the buyer in a sale-purchase contract and it is in this area that a number of disputes arise and, therefore, it is necessary to include a suitable provision relating to the description and inspection of the quality and quantity of the goods in the contract. Inspection of the goods may be provided either in the seller's country before shipment or in the buyer's country after delivery of the goods, depending upon the relative convenience of the parties in this regard. Some tolerance of 10 to 15% is generally provided for in regard to the quantity of the goods stipulated in the contract. It has to be provided whether the additional quantity will be calculated at the price quoted in the contract or at a different price.
6. Packing: Proper packing is very important, particularly in the case of goods which have to be set over a long voyage. Sometimes goods are spoiled during the transit because of poor packing and dispute may arise regarding the responsibility for damage to the merchandise during the transit. Therefore, a proper stipulation regarding packaging of goods according to the nature of the merchandise should be included in the contract. Where the goods are of a fragile or inflammable nature, specialised packaging will have to be provided for them. Similarly, goods which require to be protected from humidity or chemical action of sea water, etc., will require to be packed suitably, to meet the requirements. Another very important matter which needs to be provided for regarding packaging in the contract is the legal specifications, if any, regarding the packing material.

For example, in certain countries, particular type of grass, etc. cannot be used for packing and if it is used, the customs authorities of the particular country may confiscate the consignment. In such cases, it should be stipulated in the contract that the buyer will inform the seller of any such legal specifications or requirements with regard to the packaging of the goods and that a damage or loss occurring for lack of such information will not be the responsibility of the seller.

7. Shipment of the Goods: It is desirable to stipulate precise particulars regarding the rights and duties of the parties towards shipment of the goods, i.e., the time, date and port of shipment, name of the ship and other ship particulars. It may also be stipulated as to whether and up to what time the shipment may be delayed by the seller. Sometimes, a penalty is provided for delay in shipment according to the time of delay.
8. Insurance: A provision regarding insurance of the merchandise is also made in the contract, as it is usual to insure the goods during transit particularly when the goods are to be shipped overseas. The insurance provision will state as to which party will be responsible for taking out insurance and what type of insurance cover has to be taken.
9. Documentation: In modern business transactions, it is sometimes necessary for the seller to supply detailed specifications, literature, etc. relating to the goods particularly if the goods are of scientific or technical nature. In such cases, it is usual to provide in the contract as to whether the technical documentation supplied by the seller will become the property of the buyer or it has to be returned to the seller after a stipulated time. It is also desirable to provide that the technical and confidential information contained in the documentation should be kept confidential by the buyer and that it will not be transmitted by him to a third-party without the permission of the seller.
10. Guarantee: Sometimes the goods sold are of such a nature that the buyer insists for guarantee regarding their use and performance for a particular period. Under a guarantee clause, the seller is held responsible for the defects appearing in the goods during the period of the guarantee. The seller is usually given an option to remove the defects in the goods either by replacement or by repair. The replaced or repaired goods will usually be given a new guarantee of the same length of time as the original goods but a different period can also be provided for the replaced goods.
11. Passing of the Property and Passing of the Risks: It is very important to provide for the exact point of time when the title or the property in the goods and the risk will pass from the seller to the buyer. This is important to ascertain as to whether the seller or the buyer will be responsible for the damage or loss to the goods during transit at a particular point of time. Moreover, the control over the goods will be with the person in whom the title or the property in the goods vests. Similarly, it is necessary and useful to provide for the point of time at which the risk in the goods will pass from the seller to the buyer.
12. Amount, Mode and Currency of Payment: It is useful to provide for the amount, mode and currency in which the price for the goods has to be paid. Modes of payment may be on Documents against Acceptance (D/A) or Documents against Payment (D/P) basis or it may be a Letter of Credit or otherwise as per the agreement of the parties. One of the most important matters which needs to be provided in international contracts relates to the exchange rate. It is advisable to provide the exchange rate of the currency of payment in terms of dollar, pound or any other currency agreed to by the parties, so that if a devaluation, revaluation or fluctuation takes place before the payment of price, the liability of the buyer and the seller regarding the amount of payment may be clearly known.
13. Force Majeure: Another very important provision witnessed in modern commercial contracts relates to force majeure or excuses for non-performance. This provision defines as to what particular circumstances or events beyond the control of the seller would entitle him to delay or refuse the performance of the contract, without incurring liability for damage. It is usual to list the exact circumstances or events, like strike, lockout, riot, civil commotion, Government prohibition, etc. which would provide an excuse to the seller to delay or refuse the performance. It may be further provided that events of a similar nature, which are beyond the control of the seller and which could not have been avoided with due diligence would also furnish the above relief.
14. Proper Law of Contract: When both the parties to a contract are resident in the same country, the contract is governed by the laws of the same country. However, in international contracts, the parties are subject to different legal systems and, therefore, they have to choose a legal system which will govern the rights and duties of the parties. Therefore, it is desirable and necessary to stipulate the proper law of contract in international contracts.

15. Settlement of Disputes through Alternate Dispute Resolution (ADR): The last, but not the least, important is the provision regarding settlement of disputes under the contract by ADR. It is usual to provide for an ADR clause in the contract. A suitable ADR clause may be provided by the parties by mutual agreement. It is also desirable to provide for the mode of appointment under ADR and also for the venue for the purpose of resolving disputes through ADR.

Below mentioned matter are necessary for all the agreements but should be given special attention for Agreement to Sell/Purchase

1. Contracting Parties: The vendor and the purchaser must be sufficiently described, irrespective of the fact that the parties know each other. There must be reciprocity of interest between the person who wants to enforce the agreement and the person against whom it is sought to be enforced. A stranger to the agreement has no enforceable claim, and as such, no court shall entertain his claim for specific performance. However, specific performance may be enforced not only against a party to the contract, but also against a person claiming title under it. If one of the parties to the agreement is acting in his representative capacity, such capacity must be clearly and precisely disclosed and his authority to act in that capacity must form part of the agreement.

Legal representatives of parties have a right to require specific performance of a contract or are bound by the promise to perform the contract in the absence of a contrary intention. This rule does not apply where the obligation is personal in nature. As a rule, obligation under a contract cannot be assigned except with the consent of the promisee. On the other hand, rights under a contract are assignable unless the contract is personal in nature or the rights are incapable of assignment either under the law or under the agreement between the parties. If one of the parties to the agreement is acting in his representative capacity, such capacity must be clearly and precisely disclosed and his authority to act in that capacity must form part of the agreement. It is, however, usual to have a clause in a deed specifically stating that the parties shall include their executors, administrations, heirs, legal representatives and assigns.

2. Consideration: Price is the essence of an agreement of sale/purchase and unless the price is clearly and precisely disclosed in the agreement, there is no enforceable contract between the parties because if no price is named in the agreement, the law does not imply, as in the case of sale of goods, that a contract to buy/sell at a reasonable price is implied. Therefore, in all sales, the price is an essential ingredient and where it is neither ascertained nor rendered, the contract is void for incompleteness and is incapable of enforcement. Price may not necessarily be in the form of money, it may be any other consideration. The word "price" is comprehensive enough to include any other lawful consideration. If any earnest money is paid, the same should be stated and the consequences arising in breach of the agreement may be stipulated for, namely, by forfeiture of the deposit, payment of a fixed sum by the vendor, if the breach is committed by the purchaser or the vendor, respectively.
3. Subject Matter: Property of any kind subject to the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, and those of any other applicable law or custom may be sold/purchased. Transferability is the general rule and the right to property includes the right to transfer the property to another person. The property, i.e., the subject-matter of the agreement, must be described in detail giving its precise situation and the extent of interest agreed to be conveyed therein should be clearly stated. If the property is subject to certain charges, easements, encumbrances, restrictions, covenants etc., the same should be clearly stated so that the purchaser knows the real nature of the property he is purchasing. The vendor should not conceal any material particular with regard to the property he is selling, which the purchaser has a right to know.

4. Time for Performance: If the time for performance is the essence of the agreement, the same should be clearly stipulated and the consequences of non-performance within the stipulated time should also be clearly and precisely declared.

GUIDELINES FOR USE OF PARTICULAR WORDS AND PHRASES FOR DRAFTING AND CONVEYANCING

There cannot be any clear cut rule which can be laid down as guideline for using the particular words and phrases in the conveyancing. However, the draftsman must be cautious about the appropriate use of the words and should be clear of its meaning. The following rules may be prescribed for the guidance of the draftsman for using any particular word and phrase in the drafting of the documents:

- (1) For general words refer to ordinary dictionary for ascertaining the meaning of the words. For example, Oxford Dictionary or Webster's Dictionary or any other standard dictionary may be referred to for this purpose.
- (2) For legal terms refer to legal dictionary like Wharton's Law Lexicon or other dictionaries of English Law written by eminent English Lexicographers as Sweet Cowel, Byrne, Stroud, Jowit, Mozley and Whiteley, Osborn etc. In India, Mitra's Legal and Commercial Dictionary is quite sufficient to meet the requirements of draftsman.
- (3) As far as possible current meaning of the words should be used and if necessary, case law, where such words or phrases have been discussed, could be quoted in reference.
- (4) Technical words may be used after ascertaining their full meaning, import of the sense and appropriate use warranted by the circumstances for deriving a technical or special meaning with reference to the context.
- (5) The choice of the words and phrases should be made to convey the intention of the executor to the readers in the same sense he wishes to do.
- (6) The draftsman should also use at times the recognised work of eminent legal expert on the interpretation of statutes. In Maxwell's Interpretation of Statutes use of some of the words is explained for the guidance of the readers.

The above guidelines acquaint the students of a few instances leading to the choice of appropriate word or phrase. As a matter of fact, much will depend upon the executives own skills and talents as to how they express the wishes of the company in limited words befitting to an expression of a certain event or description of facts.

USE OF APPROPRIATE WORDS AND EXPRESSIONS

After discussing the guidelines for use of particular words and phrases in drafting of documents, meaning of some of the terms commonly used in drafting of deeds and documents is discussed hereunder:

Instrument: The word "instrument" has been interpreted in different judgements by different courts with reference to the different enactments. As such, the meaning of instrument has to be understood with reference to the provision of a particular Act. For example, under Section 2(b) of the Notaries Act, 1952, and Section 2(14) of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, the word "instrument" includes every document by which any right or liability is, or purports to be, created, transferred, modified, limited, extended, suspended, extinguished or recorded.

The expression is used to signify a deed inter partes or a charter or a record or other writing of a formal nature. But in the context of the General Clauses Act, it has to be understood as including reference to a formal legal writing like an order made under constitutional or statutory authority. Instrument includes an order made by the President in the exercise of his constitutional powers (Mohan Chowdhary v. Chief Commissioner, AIR 1964 SC 173).

In another context, "Instrument" includes awards made by Industrial Courts (Purshottam v. Potdar, AIR 1996 SC 856).

"Instrument" does not include Acts of Parliament unless there is a statutory definition to that effect in any Act (V.P. Sugar Works v. C.I. of Stamps U.P. AIR 1968 SC 102).

A will is an instrument (Bishun v. Suraj Mukhi, AIR 1966 All. 563).

The word "instrument" in Section 1 of the Interest Act is wide enough to cover a decree (Savitribai v. Radhakishna, AIR 1948 Nag. 49).

Considering various meanings of the term instrument, it becomes necessary that the words with specific meaning should be used unless the context otherwise require.

Usage of "AT", "NEAR", "ON":

"AT", "NEAR", "ON", "in the vicinity" and the like: In construing a description, the word "at" when applied to a place, is less definite in meaning than "in" or "on". Primarily, "at" signifies nearness, and is thus a relative term. When used in describing the location of real estate the word "near" signifies relativity in a greater or less degree. It may be equivalent to "at" or it may import the sense of "at" or "along" as in the expression "along the sea shore".

The word "on" when used in describing the location of the land with reference to some geographical feature may mean, "in the vicinity of". The phrase "in the vicinity" imports nearness to the place designated but not adjoining or abutting on it. The word "immediate" when used to qualify the word "vicinity" may signify adjoining.

Usage of "Adjoining", "Adjacent" or "Contiguous"

In the absence of anything to the contrary indicated by the deed itself words descriptive of the land conveyed are construed according to their proper and most generally known signification, rather than according to their technical sense with the view of giving effect to the probable intention of the parties. Nevertheless, specific terms of description may be regarded as having a technical meaning unless controlled by something else in the deed.

The word "adjoining" does not necessarily import that the boundary of the land conveyed is conterminous with the boundary of the adjoining land, for all that the word implies is contiguity, and hence it is equally applicable where one boundary is shorter than the other. It has been held that a common corner will make two tracts of land "contiguous".

The term "adjacent" is not synonymous and "abutting". It may imply contiguity but the term is more often a relative one depending for its meaning on the circumstances of the case.

Therefore, it is pertinent that the correct word with intended meaning is used while drafting.

Usage of LOT

"LOT": The term "lot" is sometimes used in restrictive sense as a wood lot, a house lot, or a store lot, but where the term is used unqualifiedly, especially if it refers to a lot in a certain range or right, it is almost uniformly used in a technical sense and means a lot in a township as duly laid out by the original proprietors. Lots from lands which have been surveyed and laid out in ranges and townships which are numbered in regular sequence may be sold and described by number and range without a more particular description. In the absence of qualifying words, the designation of the number of a lot will be taken to refer to the original place of the city or town. Generally speaking, in a conveyance of fractional part of a designated lot, the word "lot" refers to that portion of the premises set aside for private use, and hence does not include the right to occupancy of any part of a street on which it abuts.

Usage of "And", "Or"

As used in deeds, the word "and" ordinarily implies the conjunctive, while "or" ordinarily implies the alternative or is used as a disjunctive to indicate substitution. There is a presumption that when the word "or" is used in the habendum of deed, the grantor intended it to express its ordinary meaning as disjunctive, and that he did not intend to use the word "and" which will be read "or" and "or" will be read "and" but such construction is never resorted to for the purpose of supplying an intention not otherwise appearing.

Usage of "Subject to"

The words "subject to" in a deed conveying an interest in real property are words of qualification of the estate granted. Even though the words "Subject to" mentioned in the phrase "subject to a specified encumbrance" bear the obvious meaning that only the equity of redemption belonging to the grantor passes by a deed, such words may, under the circumstances of the particular case, be ambiguous. To ascertain the intention in such an ambiguous case, all the circumstances are taken into consideration, and the primary meaning of the words "subject to" will be departed from, if necessary, in order to effectuate what seems best to accord with intention of the parties. Of course, the rights of an earlier grantee to which a later grant is expressed to be subject are neither abridged nor enlarged by the later grant.

Use of the terms "excepting", "reserving" and the like

While there is a well defined distinction between a "reservation" and an "exception" in deed, the use, in the instrument of conveyance, of one or the other of these terms is by no means conclusive of the nature of the provisions. In fact, it may be said that since these two terms are commonly used interchangeably little weight is given to the fact, that the grantor used one or the other. The use of the technical word "exception" or "reservation" will not be allowed to control the manifest intent of the parties, but that such words will be given a fair and reasonable interpretation looking to the intention of the parties, which is to be sought from a reading of the entire instrument, and when their intention is determined it will be given effect, provided no settled rules of law are thereby violated. In cases of doubt, the question will be determined in the light of the subject matter and circumstances of the case, and the deed will be construed, where possible, so as to give it validity.

Usage of "More or less", "about", "estimated" and the like

The words "more or less" when related to the description of the property in a deed, are generally construed with reference to the particular circumstances involved. In relation to the quantity of land conveyed, the description is not rendered indefinite by the addition of the words "more or less" to the specified area. Such words are used as words of precaution and safety and are intended to cover unimportant inaccuracies. They and other words of like import regarding the quantity of acres intended to be conveyed are regarded as matters of description of the land, and not of essence of the contract, and the buyer as a general rule takes the risk of quantity in the absence of any element of fraud. But in case of a considerable and material discrepancy in quantity, relief may be had after the conveyance. Accordingly, where the deed purports to convey the whole of a designated tract, described whatever may be its acreage, the grant is not defeated by a discrepancy between the recited and the actual area. When used with reference to the quantity of land conveyed, the words "estimated" and "about" are synonymous with the phrase "more or less".

In construing a description as to the length of a line, the words “more or less” may be deemed to have some meaning so as not to fix the distance absolutely even though they may be often construed as having practically no effect.

Words indicating compass points

The words “north”, “south”, etc. indicating points of the compass, may, no doubt, be controlled or qualified in their meaning by other words of description used in connection with them, but unless qualified or controlled by other words, they mean “due north”, “due south” etc. Moreover, the words “Easterly”, “Westerly”, etc. when used alone in the description of land, will be construed to mean “due East”, “due West”, etc. unless other words are used to qualify their meaning. Where, however, the land is described as being the “West half” of a city lot and a North to South line will divide the lot almost diagonally, it has been held that parol evidence can be introduced on the theory that such evidence neither enlarges nor diminishes the grant, but merely identifies the land.

AIDS TO CLARITY AND ACCURACY

The following discussion is devoted to devices that are resorted to provide clarity and accuracy in documents:

Interpretation of Deeds and Documents

In India, in the absence of any legislation on conveyancing, it becomes imperative to have knowledge about the important rules of law of interpretation so as to put right language in the documents, give appropriate meaning to the words and phrases used therein, and incorporate the will and intention of the parties to the documents. There is no law in India on the interpretation of documents also. On the subject of interpretation of statutes Maxwell’s works published by Butterworth commands wide acceptance by the judiciary all over India. Based on the said work a set of principles has been evolved for the interpretation and construction of documents, assessing the language and assigning the exact meaning to the words and phrases to be used in the documents. Some of the relevant principles of interpretation of deeds and documents are discussed below:

- (A) Informal Agreements: In interpretation of informal agreements, the rule to be applied is that of reasonable expectation; that is to say, the agreement is to be interpreted in the sense in which the party who used the words in question should reasonably have apprehended that the other party may apprehend them. If the intention is manifested ambiguously, the party manifesting the same in an ambiguous manner ought to have had reason to know that the manifestation may reasonably bear more than one meaning and the other party believes it to bear one of those meanings, having no reason to know that it bears another meaning that is given to it.
- (B) Formal Agreements: Where the agreement is formal and written, the following rules of the interpretation may be applied:
  - (1) A deed constitutes the primary evidence of the terms of a contract, or of a grant, or of any other disposition of property (Section 91 of the Indian Evidence Act). The law forbids any contradiction of, or any addition, subtraction or variation in a written document by any extrinsic evidence, though such evidence will be admissible to explain any ambiguity (Section 92 of the Indian Evidence Act). The document should, therefore, contain all the terms and conditions, preceded by recital of all relevant and material facts.
  - (2) In cases of uncertainty, the rules embodied in provisos 2 and 6 of Section 92 of the Indian Evidence Act can be invoked for construing a deed. The sixth proviso enables the court to examine the facts and surrounding circumstances to which the language of the document may be related, while the second proviso permits evidence of any separate oral agreement on which the document is silent and which is not inconsistent with its terms.

- (3) The cardinal rule is that clear and unambiguous words prevail over any hypothetical considerations or supposed intention. But if the words used are not clear and unambiguous the intention will have to be ascertained. In other words, if the intention of the parties can be gathered from the words and expressions used in a deed, such an intention does not require to be determined in any other manner except giving the words their normal or natural and primary meanings. It is the dominant intention of the document as disclosed from its whole tenor, that must guide the construction of its contents.
- (4) In case the terms are not unambiguous it is legitimate to take into account the surrounding circumstances for ascertaining the intention of the parties. The social milieu, the actual life situations and the prevailing conditions of the country are also relevant circumstances.
- (5) Sometimes a contract is completed in two parts. At first an executory contract is executed and later on an executed contract. In case of any difference between the preliminary contract and final contract, the terms of the latter must prevail.
- (6) If in a deed an earlier clause is followed by a later clause which destroys altogether the obligation created by the earlier clause, the latter clause is to be rejected as repugnant and the earlier clause prevails.
- (7) The court must interpret the words in their popular, natural and ordinary sense, subject to certain exceptions as;
  - (i) where the contract affords an interpretation different from the ordinary meaning of the words; or
  - (ii) where the conventional meanings are not the same with their legal sense.
- (8) Hardship to either party is not an element to be considered unless it amounts to a degree of inconvenience or absurdity so great as to afford judicial proof that such could not be the meaning of the parties.
- (9) All mercantile documents should receive a liberal construction. The governing principle must be to ascertain the intention of the parties through the words they have used. The Court should not look at technical rules of construction, it should look at the whole document and the subject matter with which the parties are dealing, take the words in their natural and ordinary meaning and look at the substance of the matter.

The meaning of such a contract must be gathered by adopting a commonsense approach and it must not be by a narrow, pendantic and legalistic interpretation.
- (10) No clause should be regarded as superfluous, since merchants are not in the habit of inserting stipulations to which they do not attach some value and importance. The construction adopted, should, as far as possible, give a meaning to every word and every part of the document.
- (11) Construction given to mercantile documents years ago, and accepted in the mercantile world should not be departed from, because documents may have been drafted in the faith thereof.
- (12) If certain words employed in business, or in a particular locality, have been used in particular sense, they must prima facie be construed in technical sense.
- (13) The ordinary grammatical interpretation is not to be followed, if it is repugnant to the general context.
- (14) Antecedent facts or correspondence, or words deleted before the conclusion of the contract cannot be considered relevant to ascertain the meaning.

- (15) Evidence of acts done under a deed can, in case of doubt as to its true meaning, be a guide to the intention of the parties, particularly when acts are done shortly after the date of the instrument.
- (16) Unless the language of two documents is identical, and interpretation placed by courts on one document is no authority for the proposition that a document differently drafted, though using partially similar language, should be similarly interpreted. However, judicial interpretation of similar documents in the past can be relied on, but as the effect of the words used must inevitably depend on the context and would be conditioned by the tenor of each document such decisions are not very useful unless words used are identical.
- (17) If the main clause is clear and the contingency mentioned in the proviso does not arise, the proviso is not attracted at all and its language should not be referred to for construing the main clause in a manner contradictory to its import.
- (18) The fact that a clause in the deed is not binding on the ground that it is unauthorised cannot ipso facto render the whole deed void unless it forms such an integral part of the transaction as to render it impossible to sever the good from the bad.
- (19) As a general rule of construction of documents, the recitals are not looked into, if the terms of the deed are otherwise clear. If in a deed the operative part is clear, or the intention of the parties is clearly made out, whether consistent with the recitals or not, the recitals have to be disregarded. It is only when the terms of a deed are not clear or are ambiguous or the operative part creates a doubt about the intention of the parties that the recitals may be looked into to ascertain their real intention. If there are several recitals in a deed, as is the case with indentures, and there is at the same time some ambiguity in the operative part of the deed, it may be resolved by giving preference to such a recital as may appear to be the most important to convey the intention of the parties. An ambiguity in the recitals, when the terms of the contract or the intentions of the parties are clear from the operative part, has no importance. If the recitals refer to an earlier transaction evidenced by a deed, such reference does not amount to an incorporation of the terms and conditions of the earlier deed unless the parties so intended.
- (20) Sometimes a standard form is used, particularly in contracts with government departments or big corporations. In these standard printed forms, words not applicable are deleted according to the requirements of individual transactions. A question often arises, whether reference may be made to the deleted words for interpreting the terms of the contract. The true rule is that the court must first look at the clause without the deleted words, and only if that clause is ambiguous then for solving the ambiguity assistance may be derived by looking at the deleted words. If something is added in handwriting or by typewriter to a printed form, such addition should prevail over the language in print.
- (21) If an alteration by erasure, interlineations, or otherwise is made in a material part of a deed after its execution by, or with the consent of, any party thereto or person entitled thereunder, but without the consent of the party or parties liable thereunder, the deed is thereby made void, but only with prospective effect. However, an alteration which is not material i.e., which does not vary the legal effect of the deed in its original state but which merely express that which was implied by law in the deed as originally written, or which carries out the intention of the parties already apparent on the face of the deed and does not otherwise prejudice the party liable thereunder will not make the deed void.

Legal Implications and Requirements

Drafting of documents is very important part of legal documentation. Documents are subject to interpretation when no clear meaning could be inferred by a simple reading of the documents. The legal implications of drafting, therefore, may be observed as under:

- (a) Double and doubtful meaning of the intentions given shape in the document.
- (b) Inherent ambiguity and difficulties in interpretation of the documents.
- (c) Difficulties in implementation of the objectives desired in the documents.
- (d) Increased litigation and loss of time, money and human resources.
- (e) Misinterpretation of facts leading to wrongful judgement.
- (f) Causing harm to innocent persons.

ENDORSEMENTS

Endorsement means to write on the back or on the face of a document wherein it is necessary in relation to the contents of that document or instrument. The term “endorsement” is used with reference to negotiable documents like cheques, bill of exchange etc. For example, on the back of the cheque to sign one’s name as Payee to obtain cash is an endorsement on the cheque. Thus, to inscribe one’s signatures on the cheque, bill of exchange or promissory note is endorsement within the meaning of the term with reference to the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881. Endorsement is used to give legal significance to a particular document with reference to new facts to be added in it. Endorsement helps in putting new facts in words on such document with a view to inscribe with a title or memorandum or to make offer to another by inscribing one’s name on the document or to acknowledge receipt of any sum specified by one’s signatures on the document or to express definite approval to a particular document. Thus, endorsement is an act or process of endorsing something that is written in the process of endorsing when a provision is added to a document altering its, scope or application. Under the Registration Act, 1908 the word endorsement’ has significant meaning and it applies to entry by the Registry Officer on a rider or covering slip tendered for registration under the said Act.

In conveyancing practices, endorsements which are of general use and for which no supplementary deed is necessary are those which relate to part payment or acknowledgement of a debt by a debtor. The main stress is that endorsement should represent or exhibit the intention of the parties to the document. Thus, in the context of negotiable instruments, endorsements which are made on the document will definitely differ with reference to the nature and content of the prior document and will be added to the endorsement explained above. Endorsements are common for negotiating a negotiable document or instrument or transfer of bill of exchange or policy or insurance or Government securities and there is no particular form of endorsement prescribed in such cases. Endorsements follow the forms by customs, conventions and trade practices or banking norms.

The following forms of endorsement respectively could be used by business executives while facing a situation of altering the documents:

Form of Endorsement: The endorsement on the document may begin either by saying:

This deed made on this ____ day of _____, 2023 between within named and within named or directly like, “The parties to the within written deed hereby agree as follows:

The operative part of the deed then follows usually without any recital unless any recital is considered necessary to make the deed intelligible. Generally, no recital is added but there may be exception in different situations to this rule. The original deed on which endorsement is made as referred to in the endorsement is within the written deed and the parties, recital covenants in the original deed are referred to as within named “Lessor” or “within named parties” or “within mentioned covenants” or “within described use” or “the garden described in the schedule of the within written deed”.

These are the examples when endorsement is to be made for the first time in the document.

There may be situations where subsequent endorsement becomes necessary on the document which bears already an endorsement. In such eventuality when endorsement is made one after another reference in the latter to the former endorsement shall be made by the use of the word “above” instead of M/s “within”. After the operative part of endorsement the usual testimonium clause shall be added ending with signatures of executants and of witnesses, if necessary.

2. For giving effect to the supplemental deed the form of the deed of agreement will be more or less the same as the prior document with the difference that with the other names of the parties the words, “Supplemental (intended to read as annexed) to a deed of _____ dated _____ made between the parties thereto (or between _____) hereinafter called the principal deed”, shall be added. In case the particulars of a principal deed are somewhat long it is more convenient to refer to the principal deed in the first recital and to say that this deed (the one under preparation) is supplemental to that (the former) deed; for example, “Whereas this deed is supplemental to a deed of sale made, etc. hereinafter called the ‘principal deed’.

There may be situations when the supplemental deed is supplemental to several deeds. In such a case, each prior deed should be mentioned clearly by way of recitals to make the deed with reference to the existing deed intelligible and free from ambiguity.

All endorsements should be stamped according to the nature of the transaction which they evidence. In case the endorsement is made for receipt of money which should be stamped as a receipt. In case it is an agreement, it must be stamped as an agreement. Some documents if endorsed are exempted from stamp duty, for example, endorsement made on the prior deed, receipt of mortgage money, endorsement on mortgage deed. Similarly, transfer of bill of exchange or policy of insurance or security of Government of India can be endorsed without attracting the stamp duty.

STAMPING OF THE DEEDS

The draft of document is required to be approved by the parties. In case of companies it is approved by Board of Directors in their meeting or by a duly constituted committee of the board for this purpose by passing requisite resolution approving and authorising of its execution. The document after approval is engrossed i.e. copied fair on the non-judicial stamp-paper of appropriate value as may be chargeable as per Indian Stamp Act. In case document is drafted on plain paper but approved without any changes, it can be lodged with Collector of Stamps for adjudication of stamp duty, who will endorse certificate recording the payment of stamp duty on the face of document and it will become ready for execution.

E-stamping is a computer based application and a secured electronic way of stamping documents. The prevailing system of physical stamp paper/franking is being replaced by E-stamping system. The Stock Holding Corporation of India Limited (SHCIL) is the Central Record Keeping Agency (CRA). E-Stamping is a computer-based procedure and a secure manner for the state to pay non-judicial stamping duties. The prevailing system of physical stamp paper / franking is being replaced by E-Stamping system.

E-stamping is beneficial for varied reasons such as E-stamps are less time-consuming; They are very easily accessible; They save cost; e-Stamp Certificate generated is tamper proof; e-Stamp Certificate generated has a Unique Identification Number; they are Easily accessible, they are Secure and user friendly.

LESSON ROUND-UP

- Importance of drafting and conveyancing for a company's executive could be well imagined as the company has to enter into various types of agreements with different parties and have to execute various types of documents in favour of its clients, banks, financial institutions, employees and other constituents.
- Technically speaking, conveyancing is the art of drafting of deeds and documents whereby land or interest in land i.e. immovable property, is transferred by one person to another; but the drafting of commercial and other documents is also commonly understood to be included in the expression.
- Having understood the meaning of conveyance, it becomes necessary to understand the distinction between conveyance and contract before discussing basic requirements of conveyance or deed of transfer.
- As discussed above, drafting of legal documents is a skilled job. A draftsman, in the first instance, must ascertain the names, description and addresses of the parties to the instrument. He must obtain particulars about all necessary matters which are required to form part of the instrument.
- According to Fowler, "anyone who wishes to become a good writer should endeavour, before he allows himself to be tempted by more showy qualities, to be direct, simple, brief, vigorous and lucid."
- A deed between two or more parties where as many copies are made as there are parties, so that each may be in a possession of a copy. This arrangement is known as deed pool.
- A deed made and executed by a single party e.g. power of attorney, is called a deed poll, because in olden times, it was polled or cut level at the top. It had a polled or clean cut edge. It is generally used for the purpose of granting powers of attorney and for exercising powers of appointment or setting out an arbitrator's award. It is drawn in first person usually.
- As explained what is a deed, it is now appropriate to know more about drafting of Deed as a document. Out of various types of deeds, Deeds of Transfer of Property is the most common one. Deeds of Transfer include Deed of Sale, Deed of Mortgage, Deed of Lease, Deed of Gift etc. These deeds effect a transfer of property or interest.
- There is no particular form prescribed for the drawing up of trade contracts, except that they must fulfil all the essential requirements of a valid contract under the law applicable to the contract. If the law requires any particular category of contracts to be in writing or to be registered, these formalities must be complied with. A contract may be hand written, type written or printed. It may be as brief or as detailed as the circumstances of a particular trade transaction demand.
- There cannot be any clear cut rule which can be laid down as guideline for using the particular words and phrases in the conveyancing. However, the draftsman must be cautious about the appropriate use of the words and should be clear of its meaning.
- In India, in the absence of any legislation on conveyancing, it becomes imperative to have knowledge about the important rules of law of interpretation so as to put right language in the documents, give appropriate meaning to the words and phrases used therein, and incorporate the will and intention of the parties to the documents.
- Endorsement means to write on the back or on the face of a document wherein it is necessary in relation to the contents of that document or instrument. The term "endorsement" is used with reference to negotiable documents like cheques, bill of exchange etc.

- The draft of document is required to be approved by the parties. In case of companies it is approved by Board of Directors in their meeting or by a duly constituted committee of the board for this purpose by passing requisite resolution approving and authorising of its execution.

REGULATORY FRAMEWORK

- Indian Contract Act, 1872

- Registration Act, 1908
- Indian Stamp Act, 1899
- Powers-Of-Attorney Act, 1882

PART – A: INDIAN CONTRACT ACT, 1872

Indian Contract Act, 1872 governs the Law relating to Contracts. This Act was enacted to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to contracts. The act does not deal with the law of contract exclusively. It does not deal with all the branches of the law of contract exclusively.

The Act is divisible into two parts. The first part (Section 1-75) deals with the general principles of the law of contract, and therefore applies to all contracts irrespective of their nature. The second part (Sections 124-238) deals with certain special kinds of contracts, namely contracts of Indemnity and Guarantee, Bailment, Pledge, and Agency.

The preamble to the Act says that it is an Act “to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to contract”. The Act is by no means exhaustive on the law of contract. It does not deal with all the branches of the law of contract. Thus, contracts relating to partnership, sale of goods, negotiable instruments, insurance etc. are dealt with by separate Acts.

In order to understand, the critical aspects of Drafting and Conveyancing it is necessary to study the basic concepts relating to formation of contracts viz. Offers, Communication, acceptance and revocation of proposals, Essentials of Contracts and Contingent Contracts.

COMMUNICATION, ACCEPTANCE AND REVOCATION OF PROPOSALS

Proposals

Proposal has been defined in section 2(a) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, as under:

When one person signifies to another his willingness to do or to abstain from doing anything, with a view to obtaining the assent of that other to such act or abstinence, he is said to make a proposal.

A proposal is also known as an offer. An offer is a proposal by one person, whereby he expresses his willingness to enter into a contractual obligation in return for a promise, act or forbearance. The person making the proposal or offer is called the proposer or offeror and the person to whom the proposal is made is called the offeree.

Essentials of a proposal

1. There should be at least 2 persons.
2. One person should express his willingness to do or abstain from doing an Act or abstinence.
3. The purpose should be to obtain the assent of the other on the same thing.

If all the above three conditions are present, there is a valid proposal. However, the proposal should not be for any illegal act or abstinence.

Example: A send an email expressing his willingness to sell a Farm Land to B at a certain price.

A is the proposer, B is Offeree and the email send can be called a proposal or offer.

Kinds of Offers

There are generally 7 types of offers:

Identify the Proposals

1. Akshar offers to sell his old motorcycle to Bineet at a price of Rs. 50,000/-. Bineet made an offer to purchase the same motorcycle at a price of Rs. 40,000/-. Identify the type of offer.
2. XYZ Limited issued a tender to obtain services of Annual Maintenance of its Computer Systems for the year 2024. The services were required to be provided as and when the need arises. The tender was awarded to a partnership firm. There is no concluded contract. Contract will be concluded on placing of the order. Identify the type of offer.
3. Rajan advertises in Newspaper that the 1st person who communicates that he is ready provide him 5000 units of mobile phones within 7 days of the advertisement, he will purchase all 5000 mobiles from him. Identify the type of offer.

Rules governing Offers

A valid offer must comply with the following rules:

- (a) An offer must be clear, definite, complete and final. It must not be vague. For example, a promise to pay an increased price for a horse if it proves lucky to promisor, is too vague and is not binding.
- (b) An offer must be communicated to the offeree. An offer becomes effective only when it has been communicated to the offeree so as to give him an opportunity to accept or reject the same.
- (c) The communication of an offer may be made by express words-oral or written-or it may be implied by conduct.
- (d) The communication of the offer may be general or specific. Where an offer is made to a specific person it is called specific offer and it can be accepted only by that person. But when an offer is addressed to an uncertain body of individuals i.e. the world at large, it is a general offer.

How an offer gets revoked?

How a Proposal or Offer be revoked?

by the communication of notice of revocation by the proposer to the other party by the lapse of the time prescribed in such proposal for its acceptance, or, if no time is so prescribed, by the lapse of a reasonable time, without communication of the acceptance by the failure of the acceptor to fulfil a condition precedent to acceptance by the death or insanity of the proposer, if the fact of his death or insanity comes to the knowledge of the acceptor before acceptance

Offer and invitation to offer

Invitation to offer is a communication to invite certain person(s) or public for making offer. The same may be understood from below mentioned examples:

- (a) An invitation to treat or an invitation to make an offer: e.g., an auctioneers request for bids (which are offered by the bidders), the display of goods in a shop window with prices marked upon them, or the display of priced goods in a self- service store or a shopkeepers catalogue of prices are invitations to an offer.
- (b) A mere statement of intention: e.g., an announcement of a coming auction sale.
- (c) A mere communication of information in the course of negotiation: e.g., a statement of the price at which one is prepared to consider negotiating the sale of piece of land.

An offer that has been communicated properly continues as such until it lapses, or until it is revoked by the offeror, or rejected or accepted by the offeree.

Communication

According to section 3 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, the communication of proposals, the acceptance of proposals, and the revocation of proposals and acceptances, respectively, are deemed to be made by any act or omission of the party proposing, accepting or revoking by which he intends to communicate such proposal, acceptance or revocation, or which has the effect of communicating it.

Essentials of section 3

1. The purpose of section 3 is to provide the provision relating to four incidents:
  - i) Communication of the Proposal,
  - ii) Acceptance of the Proposal,
  - iii) Revocation of the Proposal, and
  - iv) Revocation of the Acceptance.
2. There must be an act or omission of the maker for acceptance and revocation.
3. The Act or Omission should intend to communicate such proposal, acceptance or revocation, or should have the effect of communicating it.

Completion of Communication

1. Proposal: The communication of a proposal is complete when it comes to the knowledge of the person to whom it is made i.e. the offeree.
2. Acceptance: The acceptance completes for the Offeror and Offeree at different times.

The communication of an acceptance is complete, –

- i) As against the proposer, when it is put in a course of transmission to him, so as to be out of the power of the acceptor.
  - ii) As against the acceptor, when it comes to the knowledge of the proposer.
3. Revocation: The revocation also takes place for the Offeror and offeree at different times.

The communication of a revocation is complete,—

- i) As against the person who makes it, when it is put into a course of transmission to the person to whom it is made, so as to be out of the power of the person who makes it;
- ii) As against the person to whom it is made, when it comes to his knowledge.

By When an acceptance or Proposal be revoked?

A proposal may be revoked at any time before the communication of its acceptance is complete as against the proposer.

An acceptance may be revoked at any time before the communication of the acceptance is complete as against the acceptor.

Example: Ankush send an email proposing to sell his factory to Baman. Baman accepted the proposal by a letter sent by post. Ankush may revoke his proposal at any time before or at the moment when Baman posts his letter of acceptance, but not afterwards. Baman may revoke his acceptance at any time before or at the moment when the letter communicating it reaches Ankush, but not afterwards.

Acceptance

A proposal on acceptance becomes a promise. Every promise or set of promises forming consideration for each other become agreement. Therefore, special relevance should be given to acceptance. According to section 7 of Indian Contract Act, 1872, in order to convert a proposal into a promise, the acceptance must—

- (1) be absolute and unqualified;
- (2) be expressed in some usual and reasonable manner, unless the proposal prescribes the manner in which it is to be accepted. If the proposal prescribes a manner in which it is to be accepted, and the acceptance is not made in such manner, the proposer may, within a reasonable time after the acceptance is communicated to him, insist that his proposal shall be accepted in the prescribed manner, and not otherwise; but if he fails to do so, he accepts the acceptance.

According to section 8 of Indian Contract Act, 1872, performance of the conditions of a proposal, or the acceptance of any consideration for a reciprocal promise which may be offered with a proposal, is an acceptance of the proposal.

The below clarify the rules relating to a valid acceptance:

ESSENTIALS OF CONTRACTS

According to section 10 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, all agreements are contracts if they are made by the free consent of parties competent to contract, for a lawful consideration and with a lawful object, and are not hereby expressly declared to be void.

Therefore, the essentials of valid contracts are:

- 1) Valid Agreement as per section 2(e) of Indian Contract Act, 1872
- 2) Free Consent of the parties
- 3) Competence of Parties
- 4) Valid Consideration
- 5) Lawful Object
- 6) Agreement not declared Void.

The process for reaching a valid agreement has already been discussed in this chapter. The other essentials are discussed hereunder:

Free Consent of the parties

Section 13 of the ICA defines the term “consent” as under:

Two or more persons are said to consent when they agree upon the same thing in the same sense.

Section 14 of the ICA defines free consent as under:

Consent is said to be free when it is not caused by—

- (1) coercion, as defined in section 15, or
- (2) undue influence, as defined in section 16, or
- (3) fraud, as defined in section 17, or
- (4) misrepresentation, as defined in section 18, or
- (5) mistake, subject to the provisions of sections 20, 21 and 22.

Consent is said to be so caused when it would not have been given but for the existence of such coercion, undue influence, fraud, misrepresentation or mistake.

Coercion, as defined in section 15

“Coercion” is the committing, or threatening to commit, any act forbidden by the Indian Penal Code or the unlawful detaining, or threatening to detain, any property, to the prejudice of any person whatever, with the intention of causing any person to enter into an agreement.

Example

A threatens B to inflict grievous hurt to B's son if he does not enter into Contract for giving performance at A's restaurant. A has applied coercion for the purpose of entering into contract.

Undue influence, as defined in section 16

Section 16(1) of the ICA provides that a contract is said to be induced by “undue influence” where the relations subsisting between the parties are such that one of the parties is in a position to dominate the will of the other and uses that position to obtain an unfair advantage over the other.

Example

Ajith has given a loan of Rs. 10,00,000/- (Ten Lakh Rupees) to his son Binay, during his minority. When Binay attained majority, Ajith by misuse of parental influence took a bond from Binay for Rs. 1,00,00,000 (One Crore) than the sum due in respect of that Loan. Here, relations subsisting Ajith and Binay are such that one of the parties is in a position to dominate the will of the other. Therefore, Ajith employs undue influence.

Section 16(2) provides the situation in which it is deemed that one has dominated the will of other. It provides that in particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing principle, a person is deemed to be in a position to dominate the will of another:

- (a) where he holds a real or apparent authority over the other, or where he stands in a fiduciary relation to the other; or
- (b) where he makes a contract with a person whose mental capacity is temporarily or permanently affected by reason of age, illness, or mental or bodily distress.

Section 16(3) provides about the provisions relating to Burden of Proof of Undue Influence. It says, where a person who is in a position to dominate the will of another, enters into a contract with him, and the transaction appears, on the face of it or on the evidence adduced, to be unconscionable, the burden of proving that such contract was not induced by undue influence shall lie upon the person in a position to dominate the will of the other.

Example

Amantha, being in debt to Bikrant, the money-lender of his village, contracts a fresh loan on terms which appear to be unconscionable. It lies on Bikrant to prove that the contract was not induced by undue influence.

Nothing in this sub-section shall affect the provisions of section 111 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, which is relating to Proof of good faith in transactions where one party is in relation of active confidence.

Fraud, as defined in section 17

“Fraud” means and includes any of the following acts committed by a party to a contract, or with his connivance, or by his agent, with intent to deceive another party thereto or his agent, or to induce him to enter into the contract:

- (1) the suggestion, as a fact, of that which is not true, by one who does not believe it to be true; i.e. Suggestion of False Fact by the Believer.

- (2) the active concealment of a fact by one having knowledge or belief of the fact; i.e. Active concealment by person having knowledge of belief.
- (3) a promise made without any intention of performing it; i.e. False Promise.
- (4) any other act fitted to deceive; i.e. deceptive Act.
- (5) any such act or omission as the law specially declares to be fraudulent. i.e. Any other act or omission declared as fraud by any Law.

However, as per the explanation, mere silence as to facts likely to affect the willingness of a person to enter into a contract is not fraud, unless the circumstances are such that it is the duty of the person keeping silence to speak, or unless his silence is equivalent to speech.

Misrepresentation, as defined in section 18

Misrepresentation means and includes:

- (1) the positive assertion, in a manner not warranted by the information of the person making it, of that which is not true, though he believes it to be true;
- (2) any breach of duty which, without an intent to deceive, gains an advantage to the person committing it, or any one claiming under him; by misleading another to his prejudice, or to the prejudice of any one claiming under him;
- (3) causing, however innocently, a party to an agreement, to make a mistake as to the substance of the thing which is the subject of the agreement.

Mistake, subject to the provisions of sections 20, 21 and 22

Both the parties Where both the parties to an agreement are under a mistake as to a matter of fact essential to the agreement, the agreement is void. It should be noted that an erroneous opinion as to the value of the thing which forms the subject-matter of the agreement, is not to be deemed a mistake as to a matter of fact.

A contract is not voidable because it was caused by a mistake as to any law in force in India; but a mistake as to a law not in force in India has the same effect as a mistake of fact.

Consequence of agreement being vitiated by Coercion, undue influence, fraud and misrepresentation

When consent is caused by coercion, fraud or misrepresentation, the agreement is a contract voidable at the option of the party whose consent was so caused.

However, a party to a contract whose consent was caused by fraud or misrepresentation, may, if he thinks fit, insist that the contract shall be performed, and that he shall be put in the position in which he would have been if the representations made had been true.

If consent was caused by misrepresentation or by silence, fraudulent within the meaning of section 17, the contract, nevertheless, is not voidable, if the party whose consent was so caused had the means of discovering the truth with ordinary diligence.

A fraud or misrepresentation which did not cause the consent to a contract of the party on whom such fraud was practised, or to whom such misrepresentation was made, does not render a contract voidable.

When consent to an agreement is caused by undue influence, the agreement is a contract voidable at the option of the party whose consent was so caused. Any such contract may be set aside either absolutely or, if the party who was entitled to avoid it has received any benefit thereunder, upon such terms and conditions as to the Court may seem just.

A contract is not voidable merely because it was caused by one of the parties to it being under a mistake as to a matter of fact.

Competence of Parties

Every person is competent to contract who is of the age of majority according to the law to which he is subject, and who is of sound mind, and is not disqualified from contracting by any law to which he is subject.

Accordingly, there may be three categories which are not competent to contract:

1. Persons who have not attained the majority
2. Person of Unsound Mind
3. Persons who are disqualified by any law.

Who has attained majority?

According to the Indian Majority Act, 1875, a minor is a person, male or female, who has not completed the age of 18 years. In case a guardian has been appointed to the minor or where the minor is under the guardianship of the Court of Wards, the person continues to be a minor until he completes his age of 21 years. According to the Indian Contract Act.

Who is person of sound mind?

A person is said to be of sound mind for the purpose of making a contract, if, at the time when he makes it, he is capable of understanding it and of forming a rational judgment as to its effect upon his interests.

It should be noted that a person who is usually of unsound mind, but occasionally of sound mind, may make a contract when he is of sound mind and a person who is usually of sound mind, but occasionally of unsound mind, may not make a contract when he is of unsound mind.

Who are disqualified by the Law?

The persons disqualified by Law includes as under:

1. Alien Enemies: A person who is not an Indian citizen is an alien. An alien may be either an alien friend or a foreigner whose sovereign or State is at peace with India, has usually contractual capacity of an Indian citizen. On the declaration of war between his country and India he becomes an alien enemy. A contract with an alien enemy becomes unenforceable on the outbreak of war.
2. Foreign Sovereigns and Ambassadors: Foreign sovereigns and accredited representatives of foreign states, i.e., Ambassadors, High Commissioners, enjoy a special privilege in that they cannot be sued in Indian Courts, unless they voluntarily submit to the jurisdiction of the Indian Courts. Foreign Sovereign Governments can enter into contracts through agents residing in India. In such cases the agent becomes personally responsible for the performance of the contracts.
3. Oudh Land Revenue Act provides that where a person in Oudh is declared as a 'disqualified proprietor under the Act, he is incompetent to alienate his property.

Valid Consideration

According to Section 2(d) of ICA, consideration is: when, at the desire of the promisor, the promisee or any other person has done or abstained from doing, or does or abstains from doing, or promises to do or to abstain from doing, something, such act or abstinence or promise is called a consideration for the promise.

Essentials of Considerations

1. Consideration should be at the desire of the person making promise. He may be the offeror or the Offeree.
2. The promisee or any other person on his/her behalf has done or abstained from doing, or does or abstains from doing, or promises to do or to abstain from doing an act or abstinence or promise. It is clear that the consideration may be Executory/Future or Executed /Present or Past Act/Forbearance.

It should be noted that in English law, consideration must move from the promisee, so that a stranger to the consideration cannot sue on the contract but according to Indian Laws consideration may move from stranger also.

CASE LAW

In Chinnaya v. Ramaya, (1882) 4 Mad. 137, a lady by a deed of gift made over certain property to her daughter directing her to pay an annuity to the donor's brother as had been done by the donor herself before she gifted the property. On the same day, her daughter executed in writing in favour of the donor's brother agreeing to pay the annuity. Afterwards the donee (the daughter) declined to fulfil her promise to pay her uncle saying that no consideration had moved from him. The Court, however, held that the uncle could sue even though no part of the consideration received by his niece moved from him. The consideration from her mother was sufficient consideration.

Privity of consideration

In India privity of consideration is not strictly applicable. It means that consideration may be paid by parties or any other person. The doctrine of privity of contract provides that a contract cannot confer rights or impose obligations upon any person who is not a party to the contract. It is applicable in India with certain exceptions like trust, covenant running with land, family settlements etc.

Rules Governing Consideration

- (a) Every contract must be supported by valuable consideration otherwise it is formally void subject to some exceptions.
- (b) Consideration may be by an act of abstinence or promise.
- (c) There must be mutuality i.e., each party must do or agree to do something.
- (d) Consideration must be real, and not vague, indefinite, or illusory, e.g., a son's promise to "stop being a nuisance" to his father, being vague, is no consideration.
- (e) Although consideration must have some value, it need not be adequate.
- (f) Consideration must be lawful.

If the consideration is unlawful, the agreement is void.

- (g) Consideration must be something more than the promisee is already bound to do for the promisor. Thus, an agreement to perform an existing obligation made with the person to whom the obligation is already owed, is not made for consideration.

Exceptions to consideration

According to section 25 of ICA, an agreement made without consideration is void, unless—

- (1) it is expressed in writing and registered under the law for the time being in force for the registration of documents, and is made on account of natural love and affection between parties standing in a near relation to each other ; or unless
- (2) it is a promise to compensate, wholly or in part, a person who has already voluntarily done something for the promisor, or something which the promisor was legally compellable to do; or unless
- (3) it is a promise, made in writing and signed by the person to be charged therewith, or by his agent generally or specially authorized in that behalf, to pay wholly or in part a debt of which the creditor might have enforced payment but for the law for the limitation of suits.

An agreement to which the consent of the promisor is freely given is not void merely because the consideration is inadequate; but the inadequacy of the consideration may be taken into account by the Court in determining the question whether the consent of the promisor was freely given.

Lawful Object

According to section 23 of ICA, the consideration or object of an agreement is lawful, unless:

1. it is forbidden by law; or
2. is of such a nature that if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law; or
3. is fraudulent; or
4. involves or implies injury to the person or property of another; or
5. the Court regards it as immoral, or opposed to public policy.

In each of these cases, the consideration or object of an agreement is said to be unlawful and every agreement of which the object or consideration is unlawful is void.

Example

Lawful Consideration

1. Anantha agrees to sell his Factory to Brajesh for 10,00,000/- rupees. Here Brajesh's promise to pay the sum of 10,00,000 rupees is the consideration for Anantha's promise to sell the house, and Anantha's promise to sell the factory is the consideration for Brajesh's promise to pay the 10,00,000 rupees. These are lawful considerations.

Unlawful Consideration

2. A, B and C enter into an agreement for the division among them of gains acquired, by them by fraud. The agreement is void, as its object is unlawful.

Agreement not declared Void

The following types of agreements are void under Indian Contract Act:

- (a) Agreement by or with a minor or a person of unsound mind or a person disqualified to enter into a contract - Section 11.
- (b) Agreement made under a mistake of fact, material to the agreement on the part of the both the parties - Section 20.
- (c) An agreement of which the consideration or object is unlawful - Section 23.
- (d) If any part of a single consideration for one or more objects, or any one or any part of any one of several considerations for a single object, is unlawful, the agreement is void - Section 24.
- (e) An agreement made without consideration subject to three exceptions provided to Section 25.
- (f) An agreement in restraint of marriage - Section 26.
- (g) An agreement in restraint of trade - Section 27.
- (h) An agreement in restraint of legal proceedings - Section 28.
- (i) Agreements, the meaning of which is not certain, or capable of being made certain - Section 29.

- (j) Agreement by way of wager- Section 30.
- (k) An agreement to enter into an agreement in the future.
- (l) An agreement to do an act impossible in itself - Section 56(1).

An agreement not enforceable by law is void ab initio.

CONTINGENT CONTRACTS

According to section 31 of ICA, a contingent contract is a contract to do or not to do something, if some event, collateral to such contract, does or does not happen.

Example

Anantha contracts to pay Brajesh Rs. 2,00,000 if Brajesh's will construct a House within 1 month. This is a contingent contract.

Where there is a contract for the sale of goods, the acquisition of which by the seller depends upon a contingency which may or may not happen—such goods are known as contingent goods. Contingent goods fall in the class of future goods. A agrees to sell a certain TV set provided he is able to get it from its present owner. This is an agreement to sell contingent goods. In such a case, if the contingency does not happen for no fault of the seller, he will not be liable for damages.

Actual sale can take place only of specific goods and property in goods passes from the seller to buyer at the time of the contract, provided the goods are in a deliverable state and the contract is unconditional. There can be an agreement to sell only in respect of future or contingent goods.

PART – B: SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1963

The law relating to specific relief in India is provided in the Specific Relief Act of 1963. The expression 'specific relief' means a relief in specie. In this lesson, relevant part of specific relief act dealing with enforcement of contracts has been covered.

SPECIFIC RELIEFS

Recovery of specific immovable property

According to section 5 of Specific Relief Act, 1963(SRA), a person entitled to the possession of specific immovable property may recover it in the manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. Therefore, a civil suit may be filled by a party for recovering the possession of Immovable Property.

Section 6 provides the provisions related to suit by person dispossessed of immovable property. It says that if any person is dispossessed without his consent of immovable property otherwise than in due course of law, he or any person through whom he has been in possession or any person claiming through him may, by suit, recover possession thereof, notwithstanding any other title that may be set up in such suit.

However, no suit under section 6 should be brought:

- (a) after the expiry of six months from the date of dispossession; or
- (b) against the Government.

Appeal or review is not allowed from any order or decree passed in any suit instituted under section 6.

However, suit to establish his title to such property and to recover possession thereof is not barred.

Recovery of specific movable property

According to section 7 of SRA, a person entitled to the possession of specific movable property may recover it in the manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. The provision is similar to section of SRA which provides for the provision for Recovery of specific immovable property. However, two explanation to the main provision has been provided as under:

Explanation 1. – A trustee may sue under section 7 for the possession of movable property to the beneficial interest in which the person for whom he is trustee is entitled.

Explanation 2. – A special or temporary right to the present possession of movable property is sufficient to support a suit under section 7.

Further, section 8 of SRA provides for the Liability of person in possession, not as owner, to deliver to persons entitled to immediate possession.

It provides that any person having the possession or control of a particular article of movable property, of which he is not the owner, may be compelled specifically to deliver it to the person entitled to its immediate possession, in any of the following cases: –

- (a) when the thing claimed is held by the defendant as the agent or trustee of the plaintiff;
- (b) when compensation in money would not afford the plaintiff adequate relief for the loss of the thing claimed;
- (c) when it would be extremely difficult to ascertain the actual damage caused by its loss;
- (d) when the possession of the thing claimed has been wrongfully transferred from the plaintiff.

Explanation. – Unless and until the contrary is proved, the court shall, in respect of any article of movable property claimed under clause (b) or clause (c) of this section, presume—

- (a) that compensation in money would not afford the plaintiff adequate relief for the loss of the thing claimed, or,
- (b) that it would be extremely difficult to ascertain the actual damage caused by its loss.

Specific Performance of Contracts

Except as otherwise provided in SRA where any relief is claimed under Chapter II of Part II of SRA in respect of a contract, the person against whom the relief is claimed may plead by way of defence any ground which is available to him under any law relating to contracts.

The specific performance of a contract are enforceable by the court subject to the provisions contained in section 11(2), section 14 and section 16.

Except as otherwise provided in SRA, specific performance of a contract is enforceable when the act agreed to be done is in the performance wholly or partly of a trust.

Further section 11(2) provides that a contract made by a trustee in excess of his powers or in breach of trust cannot be specifically enforced.

The court may direct the specific performance of a part of a contract only as per the provisions provided under section 12 of SRA which are as follows:

1. Where a party to a contract is unable to perform the whole of his part of it, but the part which must be left unperformed be a only a small proportion to the whole in value and admits of compensation in money, the court may, at the suit of either party, direct the specific performance of so much of the contract as can be performed, and award compensation in money for the deficiency.

2. Where a party to a contract is unable to perform the whole of his part of it, and the part which must be left unperformed either—
  - (a) forms a considerable part of the whole, though admitting of compensation in money; or
  - (b) does not admit of compensation in money;

he is not entitled to obtain a decree for specific performance; but the court may, at the suit of the other party, direct the party in default to perform specifically so much of his part of the contract as he can perform, if the other party—

- (i) in a case falling under clause
    - (a) pays or has paid the agreed consideration for the whole of the contract reduced by the consideration for the part which must be left unperformed and in a case falling under clause;
    - (b) pays or has paid the consideration for the whole of the contract without any abatement; and
  - (ii) in either case, relinquishes all claims to the performance of the remaining part of the contract and all right to compensation, either for the deficiency or for the loss or damage sustained by him through the default of the defendant.
3. When a part of a contract which, taken by itself, can and ought to be specifically performed, stands on a separate and independent footing from another part of the same contract which cannot or ought not to be specifically performed, the court may direct specific performance of the former part.

Explanation. – For the purposes section 12, a party to a contract shall be deemed to be unable to perform the whole of his part of it if a portion of its subject-matter existing at the date of the contract has ceased to exist at the time of its performance.

Example

X and Y entered into the contract in which X will provide 500 printers to Y. X had to shut down his manufacturing unit due to the local conditions out of his control. X has only 475 printers in his warehouse.

X or Y may file a civil suit and the court may direct to deliver 475 printers and award compensation.

Rights of purchaser or lessee against person with no title or imperfect title

Section 13 of SRA enumerates the Rights of purchaser or lessee as under:

Where a person contracts to sell or let certain immovable property having no title or only an imperfect title, the purchaser or lessee (subject to the other provisions of Chapter II of Part II), has the following rights, namely:

- (a) if the vendor or lessor has subsequently to the contract acquired any interest in the property, the purchaser or lessee may compel him to make good the contract out of such interest;
- (b) where the concurrence of other person is necessary for validating the title, and they are bound to concur at the request of the vendor or lessor, the purchaser or lessee may compel him to procure such concurrence, and when a conveyance by other persons is necessary to validate the title and they are bound to convey at the request of the vendor or lessor, the purchaser or lessee may compel him to procure such conveyance;
- (c) where the vendor professes to sell unencumbered property, but the property is mortgaged for an amount not exceeding the purchase money and the vendor has in fact only a right to redeem it, the purchaser may compel him to redeem the mortgage and to obtain a valid discharge, and, where necessary, also a conveyance from the mortgagee;

- (d) where the vendor or lessor sues for specific performance of the contract and the suit is dismissed on the ground of his want of title or imperfect title, the defendant has a right to a return of his deposit, if any, with interest thereon, to his costs of the suit, and to a lien for such deposit, interest and costs on the interest, if any, of the vendor or lesser in the property which is the subject-matter of the contract.

These provisions are also applicable to contracts for the sale or hire of movable property.

Contracts not specifically enforceable

According to section 14, the following contracts cannot be specifically enforced, namely:

- (a) where a party to the contract has obtained substituted performance of contract in accordance with the provisions of section 20;
- (b) a contract, the performance of which involves the performance of a continuous duty which the court cannot supervise;
- (c) a contract which is so dependent on the personal qualifications of the parties that the court cannot enforce specific performance of its material terms; and
- (d) a contract which is in its nature determinable.

Example

X and Y entered into a contract in which Y will work in the restaurant of X as marketing manager and expand the restaurant business. In this scenario, the court cannot supervise continuously. Therefore, this contract may be covered within the purview of section 14.

Who may obtain specific performance

Section 15 provides the provisions relating to the persons who may obtain specific performance. It provides that except as otherwise provided by Chapter II of Part II, the specific performance of a contract may be obtained by:

- (a) any party thereto;
- (b) the representative in interest or the principal, of any party thereto:

Provided that where the learning, skill, solvency or any personal quality of such party is a material ingredient in the contract, or where the contract provides that his interest shall not be assigned, his representative in interest or his principal shall not be entitled to specific performance of the contract, unless such party has already performed his part of the contract, or the performance thereof by his representative in interest, or his principal, has been accepted by the other party;

- (c) where the contract is a settlement on marriage, or a compromise of doubtful rights between members of the same family, any person beneficially entitled thereunder;
- (d) where the contract has been entered into by a tenant for life in due exercise of a power, the remainderman;
- (e) a reversioner in possession, where the agreement is a covenant entered into with his predecessor in title and the reversioner is entitled to the benefit of such covenant;
- (f) a reversioner in remainder, where the agreement is such a covenant, and the reversioner is entitled to the benefit thereof and will sustain material injury by reason of its breach;
- (fa) when a limited liability partnership has entered into a contract and subsequently becomes amalgamated with another limited liability partnership, the new limited liability partnership which arises out of the amalgamation.

- (g) when a company has entered into a contract and subsequently becomes amalgamated with another company, the new company which arises out of the amalgamation;
- (h) when the promoters of a company have, before its incorporation, entered into a contract for the purposes of the company, and such contract is warranted by the terms of the incorporation, the company: Provided that the company has accepted the contract and has communicated such acceptance to the other party to the contract.

Non availability of Specific performance of a contract in favour of certain persons

Specific performance of a contract cannot be enforced in favour of a person—

- (a) who has obtained substituted performance of contract under section 20; or
- (b) who has become incapable of performing, or violates any essential term of, the contract that on his part remains to be performed, or acts in fraud of the contract, or wilfully acts at variance with, or in subversion of, the relation intended to be established by the contract; or
- (c) who fails to prove that he has performed or has always been ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract which are to be performed by him, other than terms the performance of which has been prevented or waived by the defendant.

Explanation. – For the purposes of clause (c),—

- (i) where a contract involves the payment of money, it is not essential for the plaintiff to actually tender to the defendant or to deposit in court any money except when so directed by the court;
- (ii) the plaintiff must prove performance of, or readiness and willingness to perform, the contract according to its true construction.

Contract to sell or let property by one who has no title, not specifically enforceable (Section 17)

A contract to sell or let any immovable property cannot be specifically enforced in favour of a vendor or lessor:

- i) who, knowing himself not to have any title to the property, has contracted to sell or let the property;
- ii) who, though he entered into the contract believing that he had a good title to the property, cannot at the time fixed by the parties or by the court for the completion of the sale or letting, give the purchaser or lessee a title free from reasonable doubt.

The provisions above are also applicable to contracts for the sale or hire of movable property to the possible extent.

Non-enforcement except with variation (Section 18)

Where a plaintiff seeks specific performance of a contract in writing, to which the defendant sets up a variation, the plaintiff cannot obtain the performance sought, except with the variation so set up, in the following cases, namely:

- (a) where by fraud, mistake of fact or mis-representation, the written contract of which performance is sought is in its terms or effect different from what the parties agreed to, or does not contain all the terms agreed to between the parties on the basis of which the defendant entered into the contract;
- (b) where the object of the parties was to produce a certain legal result which the contract as framed is not calculated to produce;
- (c) where the parties have, subsequently to the execution of the contract, varied its terms.

Relief against parties and persons claiming under them by subsequent title (Section 19)

Except as otherwise provided by Chapter II of Part II, specific performance of a contract may be enforced against –

- (a) either party thereto;

- (b) any other person claiming under him by a title arising subsequently to the contract, except a transferee for value who has paid his money in good faith and without notice of the original contract;
- (c) any person claiming under a title which, though prior to the contract and known to the plaintiff, might have been displaced by the defendant;
- (ca) when a limited liability partnership has entered into a contract and subsequently becomes amalgamated with another limited liability partnership, the new limited liability partnership which arises out of the amalgamation;
- (d) when a company has entered into a contract and subsequently becomes amalgamated with another company, the new company which arises out of the amalgamation;
- (e) when the promoters of a company have, before its incorporation, entered into a contract for the purpose of the company and such contract is warranted by the terms of the incorporation, the company:

Provided that the company has accepted the contract and communicated such acceptance to the other party to the contract.

Substituted performance of contracts, etc.

Without prejudice to the generality of the provisions contained in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, and, except as otherwise agreed upon by the parties, where the contract is broken due to non-performance of promise by any party, the party who suffers by such breach shall have the option of substituted performance through a third party or by his own agency, and, recover the expenses and other costs actually incurred, spent or suffered by him, from the party committing such breach.

No substituted performance of contract under section 20(1) of SRA shall be undertaken unless the party who suffers such breach has given a notice in writing, of not less than thirty days, to the party in breach calling upon him to perform the contract within such time as specified in the notice, and on his refusal or failure to do so, he may get the same performed by a third party or by his own agency.

However, the party who suffers such breach shall not be entitled to recover the expenses and costs under section 20(1) unless he has got the contract performed through a third party or by his own agency.

Where the party suffering breach of contract has got the contract performed through a third party or by his own agency after giving notice under section 20(1), he shall not be entitled to claim relief of specific performance against the party in breach.

Nothing in section 20 shall prevent the party who has suffered breach of contract from claiming compensation from the party in breach.

According to section 20A(1) of SRA, no injunction shall be granted by a court in a suit under SRA involving a contract relating to an infrastructure project specified in the Schedule to the Act, where granting injunction would cause impediment or delay in the progress or completion of such infrastructure project.

Power to award compensation in certain cases (Section 21)

In a suit for specific performance of a contract, the plaintiff may also claim compensation for its breach in addition to such performance.

If, in any such suit, the court decides that specific performance ought not to be granted, but that there is a contract between the parties which has been broken by the defendant, and that the plaintiff is entitled to compensation for that breach, it shall award him such compensation accordingly.

If, in any such suit, the court decides that specific performance ought to be granted, but that it is not sufficient to satisfy the justice of the case, and that some compensation for breach of the contract should also be made to the plaintiff, it shall award him such compensation accordingly.

In determining the amount of any compensation awarded under section 21, the court shall be guided by the principles specified in section 73 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

No compensation shall be awarded under section 21 unless the plaintiff has claimed such compensation in his plaint. Provided that where the plaintiff has not claimed any such compensation in the plaint, the court shall, at any stage of the proceeding, allow him to amend the plaint on such terms as may be just, for including a claim for such compensation.

Power to grant relief for possession, partition, refund of earnest money, etc. (Section 22)

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, any person suing for the specific performance of a contract for the transfer of immovable property may, in an appropriate case, ask for –

- (a) possession, or partition and separate possession, of the property, in addition to such performance; or
- (b) any other relief to which he may be entitled, including the refund of any earnest money or deposit paid or made by him, in case his claim for specific performance is refused.

No relief under clause (a) or clause (b) above be granted by the court unless it has been specifically claimed:

Provident that where the plaintiff has not claimed any such relief in the plaint, the court shall, at any stage of the proceeding, allow him to amend the plaint on such terms as may be just for including a claim for such relief.

The power of the court to grant relief under clause (b) above shall be without prejudice to its powers to award compensation under section 21.

Liquidation of damages not a bar to specific performance (Section 23)

A contract, otherwise proper to be specifically enforced, may be so enforced, though a sum be named in it as the amount to be paid in case of its breach and the party in default is willing to pay the same, if the court, having regard to the terms of the contract and other attending circumstances, is satisfied that the sum was named only for the purpose of securing performance of the contract and not for the purpose of giving to the party in default an option of paying money in lieu of specific performance.

When enforcing specific performance under this section, the court shall not also decree payment of the sum so named in the contract.

Bar of suit for compensation for breach after dismissal of suit for specific performance (Section 24)

The dismissal of a suit for specific performance of a contract or part thereof shall bar the plaintiff's right to sue for compensation for the breach of such contract or part, but shall not bar his right to sue for any other relief to which he may be entitled, by reason of such breach.

DECLARATORY DECREES (SECTION 34 & 35)

Any person entitled to any legal character, or to any right as to any property, may institute a suit against any person denying, or interested to deny, his title to such character or right, and the court may in its discretion make therein a declaration that he is so entitled, and the plaintiff need not in such suit ask for any further relief:

However, no court shall make any such declaration where the plaintiff, being able to seek further relief than a mere declaration of title, omits to do so.

Explanation. – A trustee of property is a “person interested to deny” a title adverse to the title of some one who is not in existence, and for whom, if in existence, he would be a trustee.

A declaration made under Chapter VI of Part II is binding only on the parties to the suit, persons claiming through them respectively, and, where any of the parties are trustees, on the persons for whom, if in existence at the date of the declaration, such parties would be trustees.

PART C: TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, 1882

The Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (TPA) comprises the provisions relating to transfer of property. This law was enacted with the object to amend the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties. The law excludes the transfers by operation of law, i.e. by sale in execution, forfeiture, insolvency or intestate succession. The Act is limited to transfers inter vivos and excludes testamentary succession, i.e. transfers by will. The substantial portions of contracts in any organisation relate to the Transfer of Property. Therefore, the study of relevant part of this law is imperative for upskilling of a professional in contract drafting.

SALE

Section 54 of TPA defines the term Sale. According to this section, it is a transfer of ownership in exchange for a price paid or promised or part-paid and part-promised. In order a document be treated as Sale Document, ownership must be transferred from one person to the other person and the transaction must be supported by a considerations paid or promised or partly paid and partly promised.

How sale is effected?

Transfer of Property Act, 1882 primarily deals with the transfer of immoveable property. A transfer of property may be effected in two ways according to section 54 i.e. when the value of the property is equal to more than 100 rupees and where the value of the property is less than 100 rupees.

Value of the Property equal to and more than 100 rupees: Such transfer, in the case of tangible immoveable property of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, or in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, can be made only by a registered instrument. The first essential is that the property must be tangible immoveable property and value of property should be equal to or exceed 100 rupees. If both the conditions are satisfied than transfer should be by way of registered instrument only.

Value of the property is less than 100 rupees: In the case of tangible immoveable property of a value less than one hundred rupees, such transfer may be made either by a registered instrument or by delivery of the property. If the value is less than 100 rupees than it is dependent on the parties to decide to mode of transfer either by way of registered instrument or mere delivery.

Further, Delivery of tangible immoveable property takes place when the seller places the buyer, or such person as he(buyer) directs, in possession of the property.

Contract for sale: A contract for the sale of immoveable property is a contract that a sale of such property shall take place on terms settled between the parties. It does not, of itself, create any interest in or charge on such property.

MORTGAGE

Chapter IV of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 deals with the provisions relating to Mortgages of Immoveable Property and Charges. Section 58 defines certain terms such as “Mortgage”, “mortgagor”, “mortgagee”, “mortgage-money” and “mortgage-deed”.

A mortgage is defined as the transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property for the purpose of securing the payment of money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement which may give rise to a pecuniary liability.

The transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee; the principal money and interest of which payment is secured for the time being are called the mortgage-money, and the instrument (if any) by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

The rights and liabilities of mortgagor and mortgagee are also mentioned in the Transfer of Property Act, 1882.

Types of the Mortgages

1. Simple mortgage: Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money, and agrees, expressly or impliedly, that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee.
2. Mortgage by conditional sale: Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property on condition that on default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or on condition that on such payment being made the sale shall become void, or on condition that on such payment being made the buyer shall transfer the property to the seller, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale.

However, no such transaction shall be deemed to be a mortgage, unless the condition is embodied in the document which effects or purports to effect the sale.

3. Usufructuary mortgage: Where the mortgagor delivers possession or expressly or by implication binds himself to deliver possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property or any part of such rents and profits and to appropriate the same in lieu of interest, or in payment of the mortgage-money, or partly in lieu of interest or partly in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee.
4. English mortgage: Where the mortgagor binds himself to repay the mortgage-money on a certain date, and transfers the mortgaged property absolutely to the mortgagee, but subject to a proviso that he will re-transfer it to the mortgagor upon payment of the mortgage-money as agreed, the transaction is called an English mortgage.
5. Mortgage by deposit of title-deeds: Where a person in any of the following towns, namely, the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, and in any other town which the State Government concerned may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify in this behalf, delivers to a creditor or his agent documents of title to immoveable property, with intent to create a security thereon, the transaction is called a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds.
6. Anomalous mortgage: A mortgage which is not a simple mortgage, a mortgage by conditional sale, an usufructuary mortgage, an English mortgage or a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds is called an anomalous mortgage.

LEASE & LICENCES

A lease of immoveable property is a transfer of a right to enjoy such property, made for a certain time, express or implied, or in perpetuity, in consideration of a price paid or promised, or of money, a share of crops, service or any other thing of value, to be rendered periodically or on specified occasions to the transferor by the transferee, who accepts the transfer on such terms.

The transferor is called the lessor, the transferee is called the lessee, the price is called the premium, and the money, share, service or other thing to be so rendered is called the rent.

A lease of immoveable property from year to year, or for any term exceeding one year, or reserving a yearly rent, can be made only by a registered instrument. All other leases of immoveable property may be made either by a registered instrument or by oral agreement accompanied by delivery of possession. Where a lease of immoveable property is made by a registered instrument, such instrument or, where there are more instruments than one, each such instrument shall be executed by both the lessor and the lessee.

Difference between Lease and licence

A lease should be distinguished from a licence. A licence is a right to do or continue to do in or upon the immoveable property of the grantor, something which would, in the absence of such a right, be unlawful.

A licence does not transfer any interest in the property and the licensee has no right to possession. A licence can be revoked by the grantor at any time, whereas a lease cannot be revoked. If, I sell the fruits of my garden to you, you are given permission or licence to enter my garden and take away the fruits. A lease involves a transfer of interest followed by possession of the property for a specified period. The real test is the intention of the parties.

If the document creates an interest in the property, it is a lease but if it only permits another to make use of the property of which the legal possession continues with the owner, it is a licence because it does not create any interest in that property [Associated Hotel of India v. R.N. Kapoor, A.I.R. (1956) S.C. 1962].

The question is not of words but of substance and the label which the parties choose to put upon the transaction though relevant is not decisive.

GIFT

“Gift” is the transfer of certain existing moveable or immoveable property made voluntarily and without consideration, by one person, called the donor, to another, called the donee, and accepted by or on behalf of the donee.

Such acceptance must be made during the lifetime of the donor and while he is till capable of giving, If the donee dies before acceptance, the gift is void.

For a gift of immoveable property, the transfer must be effected by a registered instrument signed by or on behalf of the donor, and attested by at least two witnesses. A gift of moveable property, the transfer may be effected either by a registered instrument signed as aforesaid or by delivery.

A gift comprising both existing and future property is void as to the latter.

A gift of a thing to two or more donees, of whom one does not accept it, is void as to the interest which he would have taken had he accepted.

The donor and donee may agree that on the happening of any specified event which does not depend on the will of the donor it shall be suspended or revoked; but a gift which the parties agree shall be revocable wholly or in part at the mere will of the donor is void wholly or in part, as the case may be.

A gift also be revoked in any of the cases (save want or failure of consideration) in which, if it were a contract, it might be rescinded.

Save as aforesaid, a gift cannot be revoked. Nothing contained in section 126 shall be deemed to affect the rights of transferees for consideration without notice.

Onerous Gifts

Where a gift is in the form of a single transfer to the same person of several things of which one is, and the others are not, burdened by an obligation, the donee can take nothing by the gift unless he accepts it fully. Where a gift is in the form of two or more separate and independent transfers to the same person of several things, the donee is at liberty to accept one of them and refuse the others, although the former may be beneficial and the latter onerous.

A donee not competent to contract and accepting property burdened by any obligation is not bound by his acceptance. But if, after becoming competent to contract and being aware of the obligation, he retains the property given, he becomes so bound.

Actionable Claims

The transfer of an actionable claim whether with or without consideration shall be effected only by the execution of an instrument in writing signed by the transferor or his duly authorised agent. It shall be complete and effectual upon the execution of such instrument, and thereupon all the rights and remedies of the transferor, whether by way of damages or otherwise, shall vest in the transferee, whether such notice of the transfer as is hereinafter provided be given or not.

However, every dealing with the debt or other actionable claim by the debtor or other person from or against whom the transferor would, but for such instrument of transfer as aforesaid, have been entitled to recover or enforce such debt or other actionable claim, shall (save where the debtor or other person is a party to the transfer or has received express notice thereof as hereinafter provided) be valid as against such transfer.

The transferee of an actionable claim may, upon the execution of such instrument of transfer as aforesaid, sue or institute proceedings for the same in his own name without obtaining the transferor's consent to such suit or proceedings and without making him a party thereto.

The transferee of an actionable claim shall take it subject to all the liabilities and equities to which the transferor was subject in respect thereof at the date of the transfer.

Where the transferor of a debt warrants the solvency of the debtor, the warranty, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, applies only to his solvency at the time of the transfer, and is limited, where the transfer is made for consideration, to the amount or value of such consideration.

However, nothing in the sections 130 to 136 of Transfer of Property Act, 1882, applies to stocks, shares or debentures, or to instruments which are for the time being, by law or custom, negotiable, or to any mercantile document of title to goods.

PART D: REGISTRATION ACT, 1908

Registration means recording of the contents of a document with a Registering Officer and preservation of its copies. The Registration Act, 1908 was enacted with the purpose of ensuring registration of documents related to deals regarding land or other immovable or moveable property. A document which is registered becomes more authentic and trustable. The registration is of a document and not of a transaction. Therefore, this law is an important enactment for the purpose of drafting and conveyancing.

COMPULSORY AND OPTIONAL REGISTRATION OF DOCUMENTS

Documents of which registration is compulsory (Section 17)

The following documents shall be registered compulsorily:

- (a) instruments of gift of immovable property;

- (iv) any endorsement upon or transfer of any debenture issued by any such Company; or
- (v) any document other than the documents specified in sub-section 17(1A) not itself creating declaring, assigning, limiting or extinguishing any right, title or interest of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards to or in immovable property, but merely creating a right to obtain another document which will, when executed, create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish any such right, title or interest; or

TIME AND PLACE OF REGISTRATION

Subject to the provisions contained in sections 24, 25 and 26 of the Registration Act, 1908, no document other than a will shall be accepted for registration unless presented for that purpose to the proper officer within four months from the date of its execution. However, a copy of a decree or order may be presented within four months from the day on which the decree or order was made, or, where it is appealable, within four months from the day on which it becomes final.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in Registration Act, if a document requiring registration has been accepted for registration by a Registrar or Sub-Registrar from a person not duly empowered to present the same, and has been registered, any person claiming under such document may, within four months from his first becoming aware that the registration of such document is invalid, present such document or cause the same to be presented, in accordance with the provisions of Part VI for re-registration in the office of the Registrar of the district in which the document was originally registered; and upon the Registrar being satisfied that the document was so accepted for registration from a person not duly empowered to present the same, he shall proceed to the re-registration of the document as if it has not been previously registered, and as if such presentation for re-registration was a presentation for registration made within the time allowed therefore under Part IV, and all the provisions of this Act, as to registration of documents, shall apply to such re-registration; and such document, if duly re-registered in accordance with the provisions of section 23A, shall be deemed to have been duly registered for all purposes from the date of its original registration:

However, if, owing to urgent necessity or unavoidable accident, any document executed, or copy of a decree or order made, in India is not presented for registration till after the expiration of the time hereinbefore prescribed in that behalf, the Registrar, in cases where the delay in presentation does not exceed four months, may direct that, on payment of a fine not exceeding ten times the amount of the proper registration-fee, such document shall be accepted for registration. Any application for such direction may be lodged with a Sub-Registrar, who shall forthwith forward it to the Registrar to whom he is subordinate.

When a document purporting to have been executed by all or any of the parties out of India is not presented for registration till after the expiration of the prescribed time, the registering officer, if satisfied:

- (a) that the instrument was so executed, and
- (b) that it has been presented for registration within four months after its arrival in India, may, on payment of the proper registration-fee accept such document for registration.

A WILL may at any time be presented for registration or deposited.

Place of Registration

According to section 28, save as in Part V otherwise provided, every document mentioned in section 17, sub-section (1), clauses (a), (b), (c) (d) and (e), section 17, sub-section (2), insofar as such document affects immovable property, and section 18, clauses (a), (b) (c) and (cc), shall be presented for registration in the office of a Sub-Registrar within whose sub-district the whole or some portion of the property to which such document relates is situate.

Any Registrar may in his discretion receive and register any document which might be registered by any Sub-Registrar subordinate to him.

In ordinary cases the registration or deposit of documents under Registration Act shall be made only at the office of the officer authorised to accept the same for registration or deposit. However, such officer may on special cause being shown attend at the residence of any person desiring to present a document for registration or to deposit a will, and accept for registration or deposit such document or will.

EFFECTS OF REGISTRATION AND NON-REGISTRATION OF DOCUMENTS

No document required by section 17 or by any provision of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, to be registered shall:

- (a) affect any immovable property comprised therein, or

- (b) confer any power to adopt, or
- (c) be received as evidence of any transaction affecting such property or conferring such power, unless it has been registered.

However, an unregistered document affecting immovable property and required by this Act or the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, to be registered may be received as evidence of a contract in a suit for specific performance under Chapter II of the Specific Relief Act, 1877 or as evidence of any collateral transaction not required to be effected by registered instrument.

Every document of the kinds mentioned in clauses (a), (b), (c) and (d) of section 17, sub-section (1), and clauses (a) and (b) of section 18, shall, if duly registered, take effect as regards the property comprised therein, against every unregistered document relating to the same property, and not being a decree or order, whether such unregistered document be of the same nature as the registered document or not.

Adjudication as to proper stamp.(Section 31)

- (1) When any instrument, whether executed or not and whether previously stamped or not, is brought to the Collector, and the person bringing it applies to have the opinion of that officer as to the duty (if any) with which it is chargeable, and pays a fee of such amount (not exceeding five rupees and not less than fifty naye paise) as the Collector may in each case direct, the Collector shall determine the duty (if any) with which, in his judgment, the instrument is chargeable.
- (2) For this purpose the Collector may require to be furnished with an abstract of the instrument, and also with such affidavit or other evidence as he may deem necessary to prove that all the facts and circumstances affecting the chargeability of the instrument with duty, or the amount of the duty with which it is chargeable, are fully and truly set forth therein, and may refuse to proceed upon any such application until such abstract and evidence have been furnished accordingly:

Provided that –

- (a) no evidence furnished in pursuance of section 31 shall be used against any person in any civil proceeding, except in an inquiry as to the duty with which the instrument to which it relates is chargeable; and

- (b) every person by whom any such evidence is furnished, shall, on payment of the full duty with which the instrument to which it relates, is chargeable, be relieved from any penalty which he may have incurred under this Act by reason of the omission to state truly in such instrument any of the facts or circumstances aforesaid.

Certificate by Collector (Section 32)

- (1) When an instrument brought to the Collector under section 31 is, in his opinion, one of a description chargeable with duty, and
- (a) the Collector determines that it is already fully stamped, or
- (b) the duty determined by the Collector under section 31, or such a sum as, with the duty already paid in respect of the instrument, is equal to the duty so determined, has been paid, the Collector shall certify by endorsement on such instrument that the full duty (stating the amount) with which it is chargeable has been paid.
- (2) When such instrument is, in his opinion, not chargeable with duty, the Collector shall certify in manner aforesaid that such instrument is not so chargeable.
- (3) Any instrument upon which an endorsement has been made under this section, shall be deemed to be duly stamped or not chargeable with duty, as the case may be; and, if chargeable with duty, shall be receivable in evidence or otherwise, and may be acted upon and registered as if it had been originally duly stamped.

However, nothing in this section authorizes the Collector to endorse—

- (a) any instrument executed or first executed in India and brought to him after the expiration of one month from the date of its execution or first execution, as the case may be;
- (b) any instrument executed or first executed out of India and brought to him after the expiration of three months after it has been first received in India; or
- (c) any instrument chargeable with a duty not exceeding ten naye-paise, or any bill of exchange or promissory note, when brought to him, after the drawing or execution thereof, on paper not duly stamped.

Instruments not duly stamped inadmissible in evidence, etc. (Section 35)

No instrument chargeable with duty shall be admitted in evidence for any purpose by any person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, or shall be acted upon, registered or authenticated by any such person or by any public officer, unless such instrument is duly stamped.

Provided that –

- (a) any such instrument shall be admitted in evidence on payment of the duty with which the same is chargeable, or, in the case of any instrument insufficiently stamped, of the amount required to make up such duty, together with a penalty of five rupees, or, when ten times the amount of the proper duty or deficient portion thereof exceeds five rupees, of a sum equal to ten times such duty or portion;
- (b) where any person from whom a stamped receipt could have been demanded, has given an unstamped receipt and such receipt, if stamped, would be admissible in evidence against him, then such receipt shall be admitted in evidence against him on payment of a penalty of one rupee by the person tendering it;
- (c) where a contract or agreement of any kind is effected by correspondence consisting of two or more letters and any one of the letters bears the proper stamp, the contract or agreement shall be deemed to be duly stamped;

- (d) nothing herein contained shall prevent the admission of any instrument in evidence in any proceeding in a Criminal Court, other than a proceeding under Chapter XII or Chapter XXXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898;
- (e) nothing herein contained shall prevent the admission of any instrument in any Court when such instrument has been executed by or on behalf of the Government, or where it bears the certificate of the Collector as provided by section 32 or any other provision of this Act.

Admission of instrument where not to be questioned (Section 36)

Where an instrument has been admitted in evidence, such admission shall not, except as provided in section 61, be called in question at any stage of the same suit or proceeding on the ground that the instrument has not been duly stamped.

Admission of improperly stamped instruments (Section 37)

The State Government may make rules providing that, where an instrument bears a stamp of sufficient amount but of improper description, it may, on payment of the duty with which the same is chargeable, be certified to be duly stamped, and any instrument so certified shall then be deemed to have been duly stamped as from the date of its execution.

Revision of certain decisions of Courts regarding the sufficiency of stamps (Section 61)

- (1) When any Court in the exercise of its civil or revenue jurisdiction or any Criminal Court in any proceeding under Chapter XII or Chapter XXXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (V of 1898), makes any order admitting any instrument in evidence as duly stamped or as not requiring a stamp, or upon payment of duty and a penalty under section 35, the Court to which appeals lie from, or references are made by, such first-mentioned Court may, of its own motion or on the application of the Collector, take such order into consideration.
- (2) If such Court, after such consideration, is of opinion that such instrument should not have been admitted in evidence without the payment of duty and penalty under section 35, or without the payment of a higher duty and penalty than those paid, it may record a declaration to that effect, and determine the amount of duty with which such instrument is chargeable, and may require any person in whose possession or power such instrument then is, to produce the same, and may impound the same when produced.
- (3) When any declaration has been recorded under sub-section (2), the Court recording the same shall send a copy thereof to the Collector, and, where the instrument to which it relates has been impounded or is otherwise in the possession of such Court, shall also send him such instrument.
- (4) The Collector may thereupon, notwithstanding anything contained in the order admitting such instrument in evidence, or in any certificate granted under section 42, or in section 43, prosecute any person for any offence against the Stamp-law which the Collector considers him to have committed in respect of such instrument.

Provided that:

- (a) no such prosecution shall be instituted where the amount (including duty and penalty) which, according to the determination of such Court, was payable in respect of the instrument under section 35, is paid to the Collector, unless he thinks that the offence was committed with an intention of evading payment of the proper duty;
- (b) except for the purposes of such prosecution, no declaration made under this section shall affect the validity of any order admitting any instrument in evidence, or of any certificate granted under section 42.

Payment of Stamp Duty

Duties how to be paid

- (1) Except as otherwise expressly provided in Indian Stamp Act, 1899, all duties with which any instruments are chargeable shall be paid, and such payment shall be indicated on such instruments, by means of stamps:
  - (a) according to the provisions herein contained; or
  - (b) when no such provision is applicable thereto – as the State Government may be rule direct.
- (2) The rules made under sub-section (1) may, among other matters, regulate,—
  - (a) in the case of each kind of instrument – the description of stamps which may be used;
  - (b) in the case of instruments stamped with impressed stamps – the number of stamps which may be used;
  - (c) in the case of bills of exchange or promissory notes the size of the paper on which they are written.

The practical aspects with regard to the calculation and payment of stamp duty can be referred to from Paper 1: jurisprudence, interpretation & General Laws of Executive Programme.

Use of adhesive stamps (Section 11)

The following instruments can be stamped with adhesive stamps, namely:

- (a) instruments chargeable with a duty not exceeding ten naye paise, except parts of bills of exchange payable otherwise than on demand and drawn in sets;
- (b) bills of exchange, and promissory notes drawn or made out of India;
- (c) entry as an advocate, vakil or attorney on the roll of a High Court;
- (d) notarial acts; and

Where any property is transferred to any person in consideration, wholly or in part, of any debt due to him, or subject either certainly or contingently to the payment or transfer of any money or stock, whether being or constituting a charge or incumbrance upon the property or not, such debt, money or stock is to be deemed the whole or part, as the case may be, of the consideration in respect whereof the transfer is chargeable with ad valorem duty.

However, nothing in section 24 apply to any such certificate of sale as is mentioned in Article No. 18 of Schedule I.

PART F: THE POWERS-OF-ATTORNEY ACT, 1882

The Powers-of-Attorney Act is a longstanding enactment dated back in 1882. In the originally enacted legislation, there was no express definition of power-of-attorney. This definition has been inserted as section 1A by Act 55 of 1982 and was retrospectively made applicable w.e.f. 22nd October, 1980. As per the definition, it includes any instrument empowering a specified person to act for and in the name of the person executing it. A Company is not a human being, it has to act through human beings. It is considered as a legal person which can enter into contracts, possess properties in its own name, sue and can be sued by others etc. Due to this, companies are required to execute power of attorney for various purposes. Not only companies, other form of entities and individuals are also required to execute power of attorney for various purposes such as in case of agencies, legal representation etc.

EXECUTION UNDER POWER-OF-ATTORNEY

The person assigning the authority is called donor and the in whose favour the power-of-attorney has been made is called the donee. The donee of a power-of-attorney can execute any instrument or do anything in and with his own name and signature, and his own seal, wherever required by the authority of the donor of the power. Every instrument and thing so executed and done is as effectual in law as if it had been executed or done by the donee in the name and with the signature and seal of the donor thereof.

The Act provides for the protection of action taken by donee in good faith. Any person making or doing any payment or act in good faith, in pursuance of a power-of-attorney cannot be liable in respect of the payment or act by reason that, before the payment or act, the donor of the power had died or become of unsound mind, or insolvent, or had revoked the power, if the fact of death, unsoundness of mind, insolvency or revocation was not, at the time of the payment or act, known to the person making or doing the same. However, this does not affect any right against the “payee of any person” i.e. receiver, interested in any money so paid. That person has the like remedy against the payee as he would have had against the payer, if the payment had not been made by him.

Procedure for Deposit of original instruments creating Powers-of-Attorney provided under section 4

The procedure for Deposit of original Powers-of-Attorney is provided under Section 4 of the Powers-of-Attorney Act, 1882. It provides that:

- (a) An instrument creating a power-of-attorney, its execution being verified by affidavit, statutory declaration or other sufficient evidence, may, with the affidavit or declaration, if any, be deposited in the High Court or District Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the instrument may be.
- (b) A separate file of instruments so deposited shall be kept; and any person may search that file, and inspect every instrument so deposited; and a certified copy thereof shall be delivered out to him on request.
- (c) A copy of an instrument so deposited may be presented at the office and may be stamped or marked as a certified copy, and, when so stamped or marked, shall become and be a certified copy.
- (d) A certified copy of an instrument so deposited shall, without further proof, be sufficient evidence of the contents of the instrument and of the deposit thereof in the High Court or District Court.
- (e) The High Court may, from time to time, make rules for the purposes of section 4, and prescribing, with the concurrence of the State Government, the fees to be taken under clauses (a), (b) and (c).

Power-of-attorney of married women

According to section 5, a married woman of full age shall, by virtue of Powers-of-Attorney Act, have power, as if she were unmarried, by a non-testamentary instrument, to appoint an attorney on her behalf, for the purpose of executing any non-testamentary instrument or doing any other act which she might herself execute or do.

Example

Delegation of powers through a power of attorney is resorted to in view of the fact that it will be very easy to prove the execution thereof. In the case of a resolution, it would be necessary to produce the Minutes Books, etc., to prove the passing of the resolution of delegation of the powers. Further, under Section 22 of the Companies Act, 2013, a company may, by writing under its Common Seal if any, empower any person, either generally or in respect of any specified matters, as its attorney, to execute deeds on its behalf in any place either in India or outside India.

LESSON ROUND-UP

- Indian Contract Act, 1872 governs the Law relating to Contracts. This Act was enacted to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to contracts. The act does not deal with the law of contract exclusively. It does not deal with all the branches of the law of contract exclusively.
- Every person is competent to contract who is of the age of majority according to the law to which he is subject, and who is of sound mind, and is not disqualified from contracting by any law to which he is subject.
- The law relating to specific relief in India is provided in the Specific Relief Act of 1963. The expression 'specific relief' means a relief in specie.
- Where a plaintiff seeks specific performance of a contract in writing, to which the defendant sets up a variation, the plaintiff cannot obtain the performance sought, except with the variation so set up.
- Without prejudice to the generality of the provisions contained in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, and, except as otherwise agreed upon by the parties, where the contract is broken due to non-performance of promise by any party, the party who suffers by such breach shall have the option of substituted performance through a third party or by his own agency, and, recover the expenses and other costs actually incurred, spent or suffered by him, from the party committing such breach.
- The Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (TPA) comprises the provisions relating to transfer of property. This law was enacted with the object to amend the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties. The law excludes the transfers by operation of law, i.e. by sale in execution, forfeiture, insolvency or intestate succession.
- The transfer of an actionable claim whether with or without consideration shall be effected only by the execution of an instrument in writing signed by the transferor or his duly authorised agent.
- Registration means recording of the contents of a document with a Registering Officer and preservation of its copies. The Registration Act, 1908 was enacted with the purpose of ensuring registration of documents related to deals regarding land or other immovable or moveable property.
- Where there are several persons executing a document at different times, such document may be presented for registration and re-registration within four months from the date of each execution.
- The Powers-of-Attorney Act is a longstanding enactment dated back in 1882. In the originally enacted legislation, there was no express definition of power-of-attorney. This definition has been inserted as section 1A by Act 55 of 1982 and was retrospectively made applicable w.e.f. 22nd October, 1980.

INTRODUCTION

The skill of drafting is one's ability to express one's thought process in writing. Probably no other profession demands this ability more than the legal profession. A document is a voice of a sender. Every written word in a legal profession is precious, as it has the power to advocate, inform, instruct and persuade. Practically speaking, the language and tone of every commercial agreement must be clear and unambiguous. An agreement is not drafted for the academic pleasure of its author. An agreement is a living thing (almost) – it has to live and face the scrutiny of several interested parties (the client, other party, other party's lawyers, adjudicating authorities, etc.). Therefore, it has to be carefully crafted so as to protect your client's interest to the utmost, be legally compliant and understandable to all who come across the document.

Writing skills play a major role in the drafting of commercial agreements – negotiating skills are no less important but if you articulate and draft well, it leaves less scope for the other party to come up with any objections or counter your position. You can't take anything lightly as the contents of an agreement are legally binding between the parties.

Though, contracts, deeds etc. can be written, oral, or implied also. However, it is always preferable to enter into written contracts as it is always difficult to prove the terms of an oral or implied contract than those of a written one. Some of the benefits of having a written contract are:

- The process of writing down the contract's terms and signing the contract forces both parties to think about and be precise about the obligations they are undertaking. With an oral contract, it is too easy for both parties to say "yes" and then have second thoughts.
- With an oral contract, the parties may have different recollections of what they agreed on (just as two witnesses to a car accident will disagree over what happened).
- A written agreement eliminates disputes over who promised what.
- Some types of contracts must be in writing to be enforced. The Copyright Act, 1957 requires a copyright assignment or exclusive license to be in writing.
- If you have to go to court to enforce a contract or get damages, a written contract will mean less dispute about the contract's terms as the burden of proof lies with you.

In this lesson, an attempt has been made to explain and make students understand the drafting of various types of Agreements, Deeds and Documents.

Points to be kept in mind while drafting agreements

- Prepare an outline.

- Establish a single principle of division and use that principle to divide the subject matter into major topics.
- Arrange the items in a logic sequence.
- Give appropriate headings.
- Remember the audience in mind when drafting a document.
- The text should be in clear writing.
- Use concrete words and be concise.
- Avoid gender-specific words as far as possible.
- Write in short sentences.
- Use proper punctuations.
- Avoid drafting in the passive voice and use active voice as it is more direct and vigorous than the passive voice.
- As far as possible put statements in a positive form and make definite assertions.
- Avoid unnecessary, hesitating and non-committal language.
- Express co-ordinate ideas in similar form.
- Keep related words together as the position of words in a sentence is the principal means of showing their relationship.
- In summaries, keep to one tense, especially the present tense.
- The emphatic words of a sentence should be placed at the end.

DOCUMENT - MEANING

Ordinarily the word “document” denotes a textual record. Increasingly sophisticated attempts to provide access to the rapidly growing quantity of available documents raised questions about which should be considered a “document”.

Three Acts refer to the word “Document” in very similar terms:

1. Section 3 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 states that a “Document” means any matter expressed or described upon any substance by means of letters, figures or marks or by more than one of those means, intended to be used or which may be used, for the purpose of recording that matter.
  - A writing is a document;
  - Words printed, lithographed or photographed are document;
  - A map or plan is a document;
  - An inscription on a metal plate or stone is a document;
  - A caricature is a document.
2. Section 3(18) of the General Clauses Act, 1897, states that a “Document” shall include any matter written, expressed or described upon any substance by means of letters, figures, or marks or by more than one of those means, which is intended to be used or which may be used for the purpose of recording that matter.
3. Section 29 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860, “The word ‘Document’ denotes any matter expressed or described upon any substance by means of letters, figures, or marks or by more than one of those means, intended to be used or which may be used as evidence of that matter”.

Thus the word “Document” has been used in a wide sense and it includes instruments, deeds, agreements etc. Documents will also include Electronic records.

HOW TO DRAFT A DOCUMENT?

A legal document is basically an enumeration of the transaction and all terms and conditions agreed to between the parties involved.

The following ten easy and important steps can be followed for drafting a document:

1. Ascertain a proper title of the document, which aptly describes the nature of transaction in brief.
2. Ascertain the parties to the transaction/agreement or the persons executing the document representing the parties. The particulars of identity like father’s/husband’s name, residential/official address, age, date of incorporation in case of company etc. should also be mentioned.
3. Note down the transaction/agreement and the consideration involved.
4. State the mode and manner of payment of consideration.
5. Note down the various terms and conditions of the agreement. These terms actually state the rights and liabilities of each party under the agreement. These terms should be drafted in very clear and precise language. The words used should be unambiguous so that only one meaning/interpretation is possible. It should be ensured that no condition is left out.
6. At the end, the document should bear signatures and stamp/seal where necessary of the executing parties. The date and place of execution should also be mentioned.
7. Some documents also require to be witnessed by some independent person who is not party to the document.
8. Where a document is required to be executed on stamp paper, then the stamp paper should be of prescribed value as applicable in the concerned state.
9. If a document is required to be registered, it should be presented for registration before the appropriate authority, within a reasonable time after execution.
10. Necessary number of copies of the document should also be prepared on stamp paper of appropriate value, if so required.

DEEDS OF POWER OF ATTORNEY i.e. GENERAL POWER OF ATTORNEY AND SPECIAL POWER OF ATTORNEY

Power of Attorney

A Power of Attorney ("PoA") is an instrument whereby a specified person or persons are empowered to act for and in the name of the person executing the instrument ("donor"). Power of Attorneys are specifically or incidentally referred to in several statutes. It is a type of agency, and law relating to the powers of attorney forms part of the general law of agency. The law of agency in India is contained in Chapter X, sections 182 to 238 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. The statutory provisions concerning Power of Attorneys are found in the Powers of Attorney Act, 1882.

General Power of Attorney

Where the instrument is executed generally for certain acts, it is called "General Power of Attorney", i.e. if the Power of Attorney authorizes the agent to act generally on in more than one transaction in the name of the principal, it is known as general power-of-attorney. However, the word "general" means that the power must be general in respect to the subject-matter.

LEASE DEED & LICENSE DEED

LEASE – Meaning

According to Section 105 of the Transfer of Property act, 1882, a lease of immovable property is a transfer of a right to enjoy such property, made for a certain time, express or implied, or in perpetuity, in consideration of a price paid or promised, or of money, a share of crops, service or any other thing of value, to be rendered periodically or on specified occasions to the transferor by the transferee, who accepts the transfer on such terms.

Leases how made

A lease of immovable property from year to year, or for any term exceeding one-year or reserving a yearly rent, can be made only by a registered instrument.

All other leases of immovable property may be made either by a registered instrument or by oral agreement accompanied by delivery of possession.

Where a lease of immovable property is made by a registered instrument, such instrument binds both lessor and the lessee.

Essential Elements of lease

- 1) Parties: The parties to a lease are the lessor and the lessee. The lessor is also called the landlord and the lessee the tenant.
- 2) Subject matter of lease: The subject matter of lease must be immovable property. The word “immovable property” may not be only house, land but also benefits to arise out of land, right to collect fruit of a garden, right to extract coal or minerals, rights of ferries, fisheries or market dues. The contract for right for grazing is not lease. A mining lease is lease and not a sale of minerals.
- 3) Duration of lease: The right to enjoy the property must be transferred for a certain time, express or implied or in perpetuity. The lease should commence either in the present or on some date in future or on the happening of some contingency, which is bound to happen. Though the lease can commence from a past day, but that is for the purpose of computation of lease period, as the interest of the lessee begins from the date of execution. No interest passes to the lessee before execution. In India, the lease may be in perpetuity.
- 4) Consideration: The consideration for lease is either premium or rent, which is the price paid or promised in consideration of the demise. The premium is the consideration paid of being let in possession, such as Salami, even if it is to be paid in instalments.
- 5) Sub-lease: A lessee can transfer the whole or any part of his interest in the property by sub-lease. However, this right is subject to the contract and he can be restrained by the contract from transferring his lease by sub-letting. The lessee can create sub-leases for different parts of the demised premises. The sub-lessee gets the rights, subject to the covenants, terms and conditions in the lease deed.

LEAVE AND LICENCE

There are two ways in which one can rent out property: either execute a lease deed or make out a leave-and-licence agreement.

From the legal point of view, while a lease agreement is the safest for tenants, landlords prefer a leave-and-licence agreement. This is because a licence does not create any interest in the property for the licensee. The licensee merely gets the right to enter, occupy and use the premises. Technically, the right to occupy premises under a lease agreement is governed by the provisions of section 105 of the Transfer of Property Act, whereas the right to occupy licensed premises is governed by section 52 of the Indian Easement Act.

The Transfer of Property Act creates an interest in the property for the lessee for the duration of the lease. This enhances a lessee's chances of holding on to the property even after the expiry of the lease term. On the other hand, the Indian Easement Act creates no titles or interest for the licensee. The licensee merely gets the right to enter and use the premises for a limited period without acquiring any interest in it for even the duration of the licence agreement. The licence can be terminated at will at the discretion of the licensor.

A Licence is defined under Section of 52 of the Indian Easements Act, 1882, which reads as under:

"Where one person grants to another, or to a definite number of other persons, right to do, or continue to do, in or upon the immovable property of the grantor, something which would, in the absence of such right be unlawful and such right does not amount to an easement or an interest in property, the right is called Licence".

The essential distinction between a Lease and a Licence is that in a Lease, there is transfer of interest in the property while in the case of licence, there is no such transfer although the licensee acquires only a personal right to occupy the property. This principle has been confirmed by number of various High Courts and Supreme Court judgments.

Licence is a grant of a right to do something upon an immovable without creating interest in the property. It is therefore, distinguishable from an allied grant such as a lease or an easement. Both lease and easement create an interest in the property. Licence is only a permission to do something on an immovable property like occupation, or enjoying fruit thereof, or using it for some other purpose.

A licence is notionally created where a person is granted the right to use the premises without becoming entitled to the exclusive possession of them or the circumstances and conduct of the parties show that all that was intended was that the grantee should be granted a personal privilege with no legal interest.

If the agreement is merely for the use of the property in a certain way and on certain terms while the property remains in the owner's possession and control. A licence is a personal right given to the licensee and, therefore, Section 56 of the Easements Act, 1882 provides that licence cannot be transferred by the licensee or exercised by his servants and agents.

CASE LAWS

In the matter of Chandulal vs. Delhi Municipal Corporation, the Full Bench of the Delhi High Court in a Judgement reported in AIR 1978 Delhi Page 174 has inter alia held that:

“A lease is not a mere contract but envisages and transfers an interest in the demised property creating a right in favour of the lessee in rem. A licence only makes an action lawful which without it would be unlawful but does not transfer any interest in favour of the licensee in respect of the property.

In the case of a licence there is something less than a right to enjoy the property in the licensee. It cannot be exercised by servants and agents and is terminable while on the other hand, in the case of a lease, there is a transfer of a right to enjoy the property or in other words the lessee is entitled to enjoy the property. A bare licensee having no interest in the property but is only a personal privilege to the licensee. After the termination of the licence, the licensor is entitled to deal with the property as he likes. The right he gets as an owner in possession of his property. He need not secure a decree of the Court to obtain this right. He is entitled to resist in defence of his property the attempts of a trespasser to come upon his property by exerting the necessary and reasonable force to expel a trespasser.

If however, the licensor uses excessive force, he may make himself liable to be punished under a prosecution, but he will infringe no right of the licensee. No doubt a person in exclusive possession of the property is prima facie to be considered to be a tenant; nevertheless he would not be held to be so if the circumstances negative any intention to create a tenancy.”

MORTGAGE DEEDS

Mortgage- Meaning

Mortgage is a transfer of an interest in a specific immovable property for the purpose of securing the payment of money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, an existing or future debt or the performance of an agreement, which may give rise to a pecuniary liability. The person borrowing and transferring his interest in an immovable property to the lender is the mortgagor. The lender is the mortgagee. The funds lent against which the property is used as security is the mortgage money. The instrument by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

Types of mortgages

1) Simple Mortgage

Without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money, and agrees, expressly or impliedly, that in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the Mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold for satisfaction of the mortgaged debt.

2) Conditional Mortgage

The mortgagor presumably sells the mortgaged property on condition that on default of payment of mortgage money on a certain date, the sale shall become absolute or on condition that on such payment being made the sale shall become void or on condition that on such payment being made the buyer shall transfer the property to the seller.

3) Usufructuary Mortgage

The mortgagor delivers possession or expressly or by implication binds himself to deliver possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee and authorizes him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money. The mortgagee is allowed to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property or any part of such rents and profits and to appropriate the same in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage money, or partly in lieu of interest or partly in payment of the mortgage money.

4) English Mortgage

The mortgagor binds himself to repay the mortgage-money on a certain date, and transfers the mortgaged property absolutely to the mortgagee, but subject to a provision that he will retransfer it to the mortgagor upon payment of the mortgage-money as agreed.

5) Mortgage by deposit of Title deeds or Equitable Mortgage

A person delivers to a creditor or his agent documents of title to immovable property with intent to create a security thereon. It can be conducted in a town where the state government concerned may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify in this behalf.

6) Anomalous Mortgage

A mortgage, which is not any of the above, is called an anomalous mortgage.

GIFT DEED

Gift- Meaning

According to Section 122 of The Transfer of Property Act, 1882, "Gift is the transfer of certain existing moveable or immoveable property made voluntarily and without consideration, by one person, called the donor, to another, called the donee, and accepted by or on behalf of the donee."

A gift is a common mode of transfer of property. It is the transfer of certain existing moveable or immoveable property by one person to another. The transfer should be made voluntarily and without consideration. The person transferring the property is called the donor. The person to whom the property is transferred is referred to as the donee. The donee must accept the property during the lifetime of the donor and while he is still capable of giving. In case the donee dies before acceptance, the gift is void.

The essential elements of a gift are –

- 1) Voluntary: The transfer of movable or immovable property should be voluntary. The gift of property by undue influence makes the gift voidable and a suit to set it aside can be brought within three years prescribed by the Limitation Act, 1963.

- 2) Without consideration: A gift is a transfer without any element of consideration. Complete absence of monetary consideration is an important prerequisite. Where there is any equivalent of benefit measured in terms of money in respect of a gift, the transaction ceases to be a gift. In Shakuntala v. State of Haryana the Supreme Court stated that it is one of the essential requirements of a gift that it should be made by the donor 'without consideration'.
- 3) Donor: The person transferring the property is called the donor and everyone who is Sui juris (legally competent) can dispose by way of gift, any property or any estate or interest into which he is absolutely entitled.
- 4) Donee: The person accepting the gift is the Donee. All persons whether sui juris or not are competent to receive gifts. A minor can accept the gift, other than where gift is onerous.
- 5) Competence to gift: Any person who is competent to contract can make a gift of his property. A minor, being incompetent to contract is incompetent to transfer. A gift by a minor is void. Competence to contract is an important qualification required for making a gift.
- 6) Subject matter of gift: All property, real and personal, corporeal and incorporeal may be the subject of gift. A future property or mere expectancy, such as an expectation of succession to property, as the possible heir or one of the possible next of kin of a living person cannot be transferred by gift.
- 7) Transfer: The donor should transfer the property voluntarily and without consideration.
- 8) Acceptance: The acceptance of gift should be made by the Donee. The acceptance may be express or may be inferred by the donee's possession of the property or even the donee's possession of the deed of gift within the meaning of section 123, Transfer of Property Act, and therefore the gift became effectual, subject to registration and it is immaterial that the deed was not stamped. The guardian of a minor can accept the gift for him, although he cannot incur an obligation. The acceptance of gift must be during the lifetime of the donor and if the donor dies before acceptance, there cannot be a gift. However, if the donor dies after acceptance of the gift, but before the deed is registered, the transfer may be completed by registration after the death of the donor. In N.M Thakker v. P.M Thakker it was held that the execution of a registered gift deed, acceptance of the gift and delivery of the property together make the gift complete.

How gift of transfer is effected?

For the purpose of making a gift of immoveable property, the transfer should be effected by a registered instrument signed by or on behalf of the donor, and attested by at least two witnesses. For the purpose of making a gift of moveable property, the transfer may be effected either by a registered instrument signed as aforesaid or by delivery. Such delivery may be made in the same way as goods sold may be delivered. Hence gift of immovable property is compulsorily registerable under the Registration Act, 1908. In Gomtibai v. Mattula it was held that mere intention to give away the property is not enough to effect the transfer of gift. There has to be a registered gift deed in order for the gift to be complete in the eyes of law.

Gift of movable property

Gift of movable property can be made by alternative modes of transfer namely, registered deed and delivery of possession.

In case of delivery, the donor should have done all that he can, to put the subject matter of the gift within the power of the donee to obtain possession. A valid gift must ordinarily be followed by possession.

Gift deeds transferring actionable claims like shares, insurance policies have been held to be valid.

Mere entries in accounts books in favour of the wife or where money is deposited in bank but the certificate is retained by the donor is not gift as there is no delivery of the subject matter of gift, but a transfer from the account of the donor to that of the donees will make it a valid gift.

SALE DEED AND AGREEMENT TO SELL

A sale deed acts as the main legal document for evidencing sale and transfer of ownership of property in favour of the buyer, from the seller. Further, it also acts as the main document for further sale by the buyer as it establishes his proof of ownership of the property.

The sale deed is executed subsequent to the execution of the sale agreement, and after compliance of various terms and conditions detailed in the sale agreement as agreed upon between the buyer and the seller.

The sale deed is the main document by which a seller transfers his right on the property to the purchaser, who then acquires absolute ownership of the property. It is also referred to as the conveyance deed.

The buyer should ensure the title of the seller before the execution of the sale deed. It should be checked whether there is any charge or encumbrance on the property and whether the purchaser is purchasing the property subject to such encumbrance. If not, then the seller needs to repay the loan and get the property papers cleared of the encumbrances. The purchaser should verify the encumbrance status from the registrar's office.

Further, subject to the agreement between the parties, all statutory payments like cess, property tax, water charges, electricity charges, society charges, maintenance charges etc should be paid by the seller before the execution of the sale deed. The seller should obtain the requisite clearances, approvals and permissions to transfer or sell the property prior to execution of the sale deed.

On completion of all formalities, a sale deed is prepared. This is the main document for transfer of ownership of property. The deed is executed by all the parties concerned. All pages of the deed are to be signed. The deed should be witnessed by at least two witnesses giving their full names, signatures and addresses. The sale deed of immovable property needs compulsory registration at the jurisdictional sub registrar office.

ALTERNATE DISPUTE RESOLUTION (ADR) AGREEMENTS

The process by which disputes between the parties are settled or brought to an amicable result without the intervention of Judicial Institutions and without any trail is known as Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR).

ADR offers to resolve all type of matters including civil, commercial, industrial and family etc., where people are not being able to start any type of negotiation and reach the settlement.

Generally, ADR uses neutral third party who helps the parties to communicate, discuss the differences and resolve the dispute.

It is a method which enables individuals and group to maintain co-operation, social order and provides opportunity to reduce hostility.

Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Mechanisms

ADR is a mechanism of dispute resolution that is non adversarial, i.e. working together co-operatively to reach the best resolution for everyone.

ADR can be instrumental in reducing the burden of litigation on courts, while delivering a well-rounded and satisfying experience for the parties involved.

It provides the opportunity to “expand the pie” through creative, collaborative bargaining, and fulfill the interests driving their demands.

Types of ADR

Arbitration

The dispute is submitted to an arbitral tribunal which makes a decision (an “award”) on the dispute that is mostly binding on the parties. It is less formal than a trial, and the rules of evidence are often relaxed. Generally, there is no right to appeal an arbitrator’s decision. Except for some interim measures, there is very little scope for judicial intervention in the arbitration process.

Conciliation

A non-binding procedure in which an impartial third party, the conciliator, assists the parties to a dispute in reaching a mutually satisfactory agreed settlement of the dispute. Conciliation is a less formal form of arbitration. The parties are free to accept or reject the recommendations of the conciliator. However, if both parties accept the settlement document drawn by the conciliator, it shall be final and binding on both.

Mediation

In mediation, an impartial person called a “Mediator” helps the parties try to reach a mutually acceptable resolution of the dispute. The mediator does not decide the dispute but helps the parties communicate so they can try to settle the dispute themselves. Mediation leaves control of the outcome with the parties.

The parties agree to share equally in the costs of the mediation. The mediation shall be administered by the offices of _____. Mediation involves both sides of a dispute meeting with each other and an impartial mediator to attempt to reach a voluntary and mutually satisfactory agreement that resolves the dispute. In mediation, the mediator(s) will facilitate discussions, negotiations and procedures but will not offer independent analyses, opinions or judgments. Mediation involves no formal court procedures or rules of evidence, and the mediator does not have the power to render a binding decision or force an agreement on the parties.

MEDIATION AGREEMENT

This is an Agreement between _____ and _____, (hereinafter refer to as parties) and hereinafter referred to as "Mediator", entered into on _____ (date)

WHEREAS the purpose of this agreement is to enter into mediation with the intent of resolving all issues regarding _____.

The parties and the mediator understand and agree as follows:

1. Nature of Mediation

The Parties hereby appoint and retain _____ as Mediator for their negotiations. The parties understand that mediation is an agreement-reaching process in which the mediator assists parties to reach an agreement in a collaborative, consensual and informed manner. It is understood that the mediator has no power to decide disputed issues for the parties. The parties understand that mediation is not a substitute for independent legal advice. The parties understand that the mediator's objective is to facilitate the parties themselves reaching their best agreement. The parties also understand that the mediator has an obligation to work on behalf of all parties and that the mediator cannot render individual legal advice to any party and will not render remedy nor arbitrate within the mediation.

2. Scope of Mediation

The parties understand that it is for the parties, with the mediator's concurrence, to determine the scope of the mediation and this will be accomplished early in the mediation process.

3. Mediation is Voluntary

All parties here state their good intention to complete their mediation by an agreement. It is, however, understood that any party withdraw from or suspend the mediation process at any time, for any reason or no reason. The parties also understand that the mediator may suspend or terminate the mediation, if the mediator feels that the mediation will lead to an unreasonable result, if the mediator feels that an impasse has been reached, or if the mediator determines that he can no longer effectively perform his facilitative role.

EMPLOYMENT CONTRACTS

Employment agreement is an agreement that is entered into between two parties, i.e. the employer and employee. It is a document that describes the responsibilities and duties expected of an employee. It also describes the profile of the job and the title. The document ensures that the employee knows his place in the organisation and what is expected of him.

Employment agreements should be created in a way that is just and fair for all the employees. If this is followed, employees will do their tasks and responsibilities well and without any negative emotions toward their employers. Usually employment contracts contain only vague references to the “policies and procedures to which the employee will be bound”.

The employer should provide the employee with all of the company policies and other documents that relate to the contract or are referred to in the contract.

Following are the usual contents of an employment agreement:

- 1) Name of the parties involved
- 2) Starting date of employment
- 3) Title and description of the job
- 4) Location of work
- 5) Hours of work
- 6) Probationary period
- 7) Salary
- 8) Restrictive terms
- 9) Holidays
- 10) Other information like deductions, permissible expenses, notice period etc.

EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT

Certain important issues that need to be taken care of before finalizing the employment agreement are given hereunder:

- Identify the long term requirement of employees.
- Identify the workmen and employees not covered under definition of workmen, respectively.
- Local laws of the State should be borne in mind while drawing up the contracts.
- Issue appointment letters which clearly define the employment terms and conditions.
- Employment contracts, where necessary, should be put in place with clauses for wages, benefits, non-compete, confidentiality, term, termination etc.

- Depending on the requirement, use fixed term contracts for workmen.
- The terms and conditions of the employment should be clearly explained to employees before execution and should be drafted without any ambiguity.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENTS

A settlement agreement is a legal contract that resolves the disputes among all parties by coming to an agreement. It is a legal document where all parties in a court case, in civil law, agree to an outcome of any judgment being made in advance.

Usually, in settlement agreements, there is no need for a long court case which saves the clients both time and money. Settlement agreements are formed through mediation rather than through a trial. However, the judge will ultimately make the decision to approve the settlement after one is reached. Settlement agreements allow all parties to be hard and be satisfied with the outcome.

What is the Purpose of a Settlement Agreement?

If you are contemplating a way to settle your dispute without having to go to court, drafting a settlement agreement may be one of your legal options. With this type of agreement, one party must complete an action or pay a certain amount in exchange for the other party's promise to stop legal proceedings. Here are some situations in which a settlement agreement can apply:

- Any property damage claim;
- Mediation/Conciliation Settlement Agreements;

- Corporate Settlement Agreements;
- Family Business Settlement; and
- Employment disputes.

With any settlement agreement, there first needs to be negotiations in order to agree on certain provisions. A mediator is useful to agree on a factual account of the situation if necessary. In some corporate settlements, one party may only agree to settle if no wrongdoing or liability must be admitted. Some settlement agreements may also have conditions, such as how long a party has to fulfill his or her contractual obligations. Therefore, you must agree on whether all current and future claims are resolved by this agreement or whether it fulfills only a single claim or lawsuit.

How Can You Prepare for a Successful Settlement Agreement?

Understanding the potential terms and researching them will get you ahead in the settlement agreement process. You can start by looking at any terms that would assist the case in the mediation process.

For example, an insured claim being resolved by settlement agreement usually involves payment in exchange for release of legal liability. For these cases, a minimum of preparation requires consideration of whether payment will be made as a lump sum or in a series of payments. In addition, the scope of the claims being asserted and any releases must be considered.

DRAFTING OF BYE-LAWS OF SOCIETIES

Society

A society may be defined as an association of persons united together by mutual consent to deliberate, determine and act jointly for same common purpose.

When a charitable organisation intends to have an open participation of large number of people in its functioning and decision making, it must be registered as a Society. Societies have been envisaged as welfare and charitable associations of people having a broad based membership and comparatively more democratic and transparent set up as compared to such set ups as public charitable trusts.

According to Section 20 of the Societies Registration Act, 1860, the following societies can be registered under the Act: 'charitable societies, military orphan funds or societies established at the several presidencies of India, societies established for the promotion of science, literature, or the fine arts, for instruction, the diffusion of useful knowledge, the diffusion of political education, the foundation or maintenance of libraries or reading rooms for general use among the members or open to the public, or public museums and galleries of paintings and other works of art, collection of natural history, mechanical and philosophical inventions, instruments or designs.' The main instrument of any society is the memorandum of association and rules and regulations. All promoters should sign each page of the memorandum and the signature should be witnessed by competent officers/professionals with their rubber/official stamp and complete address.

The Memorandum should contain name, registered office, area of operation, objects, name of members of governing body and names of promoters. The Rules and Regulations should include all the provisions that would regulate functioning of the proposed Society; it should comprise membership, powers and responsibilities of office-bearers, meetings, quorum of meetings, termination of membership, operation of bank account and financial year, procedure of dissolution or merger of Society if so required, and other general rules required to manage the society.

According to the provisions of Societies Registration Act, 1860, minimum seven or more adult persons can form a Society. For a national level Society eight persons from seven different states would be required as promoters. An authorised person from among the promoters must apply to the concerned Registrar with preferably three alternative names of the proposed Society so as to avoid any inconvenience if the envisaged name has already been allotted to some other Society. Individuals (excluding minors but including foreigners), partnership firms, companies and registered societies are eligible to form a Society.

Registration can be done either at the state level (i.e., in the office of the Registrar of Societies) or at the district level (in the office of the District Magistrate or the local office of the Registrar of Societies).

A society registered under the Act enjoys the status of a legal entity apart from the members constituting it. A society so registered is a legal person just as an individual but with no physical existence. As such it can acquire and hold property and can sue and be sued. The society should be registered under the Act to acquire the status of juridical person.

When the society is registered, it and its members become bound to the same extent, as if each member had signed the memorandum. A society, registered under this Act, must confine its activities to the sphere embraced by its objects. An unregistered society cannot claim benefits under the Income-tax act.

All societies in India have to be registered under the Societies Registration Act 1860. By and large, the registration and filing procedures are similar in all the states. The only difference is that in some states there is a little more paperwork than the others.

Moreover, always sound humble in your reply and also sound sorry for the same. Lastly, be always very careful to file the reply within the specified time limit mentioned in the notice.

In case of Meenakshi v. State of Haryana, Considering the chain of facts and highlighting the reply filed by the petitioner to the notice under Section 340, the Court clarified that there was nothing illegal in it and did not amount to miscarriage of justice at all, for the opportunity of being heard was given to the petitioner as she was allowed to file reply to the show-cause notice. It is the non-acceptance of the forgiveness sought that has led to the filing of the complaint in the Court. Inderjit Singh, J accordingly held that there is no merit in the case and accordingly, dismissed the petition.

SUB: REPLY TO YOUR LEGAL NOTICE U/S 138 NEGOTIARLE INSTRUMENT ACT, 1881 DATED 02.04.2023

Dear Sir,

Your legal notice dated 02.04.2023 has been placed before me by my client Sh..... at Connaught Place, New Delhi -110001 and I, the undersigned, have been instructed to reply to your said notice by my client on his behalf as under:

- A. That, at the outset you are being informed that the notice under reply, you have sent on behalf of your above said client, contains false and frivolous facts provided by your said client against my client, thereby your notice under reply deserves to be withdrawn, with unconditional apology by your client, because the claim made by you is without any basis and is based upon concocted facts, as no claim is made out against my client and in favour of your client.
- B. That, in fact, my client did not place any order for supply of any machines whatsoever, as alleged by you. But, with a view to dispose off your old stock of outdated machines, you requested my client to place them at his shop for sale. Keeping in view old relations my client agreed to your client's proposal, which was subject to the condition that payment would be made only after those machines were sold out. However, those machines were not only outdated, but were also mechanically faulty, because of which till date they are lying with my client, which your client is at liberty to take back with two days' prior notice. It is pertinent to mention here that the cheque in question was handed over by my client blank and the same was to be used only upon instructions of my client, after he could sold out your all those machines.

- C. That, however, your client has cheated my client by misusing that cheque which is not in the handwriting of my client. As a matter of fact, your client has committed fraud in the matter and, consequently, is liable to be proceeded under the relevant provisions of law.
- D. That, therefore, it is denied that the cheque in question was issued by my client to your client in discharge of any liability. Rather, your client has misused that blank cheque with ulterior motives, after forging the same.

Reply on merits

1. That the contents of para 1 of your legal notice are wrong and denied and whatsoever is stated above is reiterated. It is denied that my client purchased from you client any machines whatsoever. Rather, my client helped your client to keep your machines in his godown/shop for disposal. Therefore, it is denied that the cheque in question was issued in discharge of any liability towards my client, as alleged in this para.
2. That the contents of para 2 are denied for want of knowledge. However, it is reiterated that my client ever issued any cheque, in the manner as alleged by you.
3. That, in reply to para 3 of your legal notice, what is stated above is reiterated. It is submitted that your client was not entitled to use that cheque for encashment and deposit the same in his bank.
4. That the contents of para's 4 &5 are denied for want of knowledge. However, it is reiterated that any cheque was issued in discharge of any liability towards my client to your client.
5. That the contents of para 6 need no comments. However, it is denied that my client committed any offence whatsoever.

In view of aforesaid facts and circumstances, you are being advised to further advice your client to withdraw the said notice under reply and further advise him not to drag my client in any frivolous litigation, failing which my client shall be constrained to contest the same, besides proceeding against your client under the relevant provisions of law, at the costs, risks and consequences of your client only. Copy kept for future record and reference.

Yours Sincerely,

Advocate

TIPS TO IMPROVE DRAFTING OF LEGAL DOCUMENTS

1. Keep Readers In Mind: What you write should resonate with what the recipients or readers want. For figuring out the exactness, you should get deep with their expectations. The tone & intent of the document should be based on the requirement of the audience.
2. Jot Points Prior Writing: Every legal document should be optimally organized. It is a key to its success. For it, create a layout by jotting all contextual points. Take those points as a guide for the effective legal document writing.
3. Avoid Formal & Technical Terms: The formal and technical terms is called Legalese in legal writing. These can be typical legal phrases and jargon. The inclusion of words like aforementioned, herein, wherein, and hereto etc. can make your writing offbeat, forced and detached. So, replace them with more concise, clear and simple words.

- 4. Keep Writing To The Point: Your every word should be comprehensively brief. Keep your sentences short and concise, contributing to the entire case. Avoid extraneous words. Complex sentences have a great scope for redundancies. So, try to make them short and simple.
- 5. Active Voice Brings Clarity on Subject: Passive voice creates confusion. It turns out more complicated when there is no mention of the subject of any doing. On the flip side, active voice makes it crystal clear who the doer or subject is. So, instead of writing "People were terminated", say, "XYZ terminated people".
- 6. Be Careful When You Edit: Impeccable writing needs merciless editing. Keep your heart aside when it comes to omitting unnecessary words. Don't hesitate to rewrite where the documents need more clarity on a specific point. Legal writing needs careful proofreading. You may lose your credibility as a legal professional if your documents are full of grammatical & punctuation errors or spelling mistakes. Even, your client may underrate your work.

LESSON ROUND-UP

- The skill of drafting is one's ability to express one's thought process in writing. Probably no other profession demands this ability more than the legal profession. A document is a voice of a sender. Every written word in a legal profession is precious, as it has the power to advocate, inform, instruct and persuade.
- Lease means According to Section 105 of the Transfer of Property act, 1882, a lease of immovable property is a transfer of a right to enjoy such property, made for a certain time, express or implied, or in perpetuity, in consideration of a price paid or promised, or of money, a share of crops, service or any other thing of value, to be rendered periodically or on specified occasions to the transferor by the transferee, who accepts the transfer on such terms.
- Essential Elements of lease are Parties, Subject matter of lease, Duration of lease, Consideration and Sub-lease.
- The essential distinction between a Lease and a Licence is that in a Lease, there is transfer of interest in the property while in the case of licence, there is no such transfer although the licensee acquires only a personal right to occupy the property. This principle has been confirmed by number of various High Courts and Supreme Court judgments.
- There are 6 types of Mortgages i.e Simple Mortgage, Conditional Mortgage, Usufructuary Mortgage, English Mortgage, Mortgage by deposit of Title deeds or Equitable Mortgage and Anomalous Mortgage.
- A gift is a common mode of transfer of property. It is the transfer of certain existing moveable or immoveable property by one person to another. The person transferring the property is called the donor. The person to whom the property is transferred is referred to as the donee. The essential elements of a gift are Voluntary, Without consideration, Donor, Donee, Competence to gift, Subject matter of gift, Transfer and Acceptance.
- The sale deed is the main document by which a seller transfers his right on the property to the purchaser, who then acquires absolute ownership of the property. It is also referred to as the conveyance deed.

- Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) offers to resolve all type of matters including civil, commercial, industrial and family etc., where people are not being able to start any type of negotiation and reach the settlement. There are 3 types of ADR i.e Arbitration, Conciliation and Mediation.
- Employment agreements should be created in a way that is just and fair for all the employees. If this is followed, employees will do their tasks and responsibilities well and without any negative emotions toward their employers. Usually employment contracts contain only vague references to the “policies and procedures to which the employee will be bound”.
- Minimum seven persons, eligible to enter into a contract, can form society. When a charitable organisation intends to have an open participation of large number of people in its functioning and decision making, it must be registered as a Society.
- The Act makes it obligatory for employers of an industrial establishment where 100 or more workers are employed to clearly define the conditions of employment, by way of standing orders/services rules and to make them known to the workmen employed. However in the N.C.T. of Delhi, the Act applies to an industrial establishment where 50 or more workmen are employed or were employed in the preceding 12 months.
- Points to be kept in mind while writing a reply to show cause notice are (i) A proper explanation has to be provided at the earliest (ii) It should be kept as brief as possible (iii) It must be written in such a manner that the Court is satisfied with the fact that he/she is aware of the gravity of the situation.

GLOSSARY

Document: Ordinarily the word “document” denotes a textual record. Increasingly sophisticated attempts to provide access to the rapidly growing quantity of available documents raised questions about which should be considered a “document”.

General Power of Attorney: Where the instrument is executed generally for certain acts, it is called “General Power of Attorney”, i.e. if the Power of Attorney authorizes the agent to act generally on in more than one transaction in the name of the principal, it is known as general power-of-attorney. However, the word “general” means that the power must be general in respect to the subject-matter.

Special Power Of Attorney: If an instrument is executed for specified act or acts, it is called a “Special Power of Attorney”. In other words, a Power of Attorney conferring on the agent the authority to act in single or specified transactions in the name of the principal is known as special power-of-attorney.

Lease: According to Section 105 of the Transfer of Property act, 1882, a lease of immovable property is a transfer of a right to enjoy such property, made for a certain time, express or implied, or in perpetuity, in consideration of a price paid or promised, or of money, a share of crops, service or any other thing of value, to be rendered periodically or on specified occasions to the transferor by the transferee, who accepts the transfer on such terms.

Licence: Licence is a grant of a right to do something upon an immovable without creating interest in the property. It is therefore, distinguishable from an allied grant such as a lease or an easement. Both lease and easement create an interest in the property. Licence is only a permission to do something on an immovable property like occupation, or enjoying fruit thereof, or using it for some other purpose.

Mortgage: Mortgage is a transfer of an interest in a specific immovable property for the purpose of securing the payment of money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, an existing or future debt or the performance of an agreement, which may give rise to a pecuniary liability. The person borrowing and transferring his interest in an immovable property to the lender is the mortgagor. The lender is the mortgagee. The funds lent against which the property is used as security is the mortgage money. The instrument by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

Sale Deed: A sale deed acts as the main legal document for evidencing sale and transfer of ownership of property in favour of the buyer, from the seller. Further, it also acts as the main document for further sale by the buyer as it establishes his proof of ownership of the property.

INTRODUCTION

When your business starts to make agreements with other businesses for supply or sale of goods and services, then a proper commercial contract is required to record these agreements and protect the parties in case of a dispute. Commercial contracts are legally enforceable agreements between two or more parties. They are agreements used to govern commercial activity(s) and involve with the commercial aspects of a product or service. They guarantee that parties follow their word and streamline transaction flow. The terms of a commercial agreement are usually quite formal and vary for each organisation and transaction. A commercial contract meets two objectives:

- the first is that it must simultaneously advance and protect the business interests of the parties.
- the second, and often overlooked, goal of a properly drafted commercial contract is that it should not unduly disturb or endanger the commercial arrangement that the two contracting parties have struck.

JOINT VENTURE

A joint venture (JV) means a strategic arrangement between two or more businesses, where resources are pooled, to work together on a specific project or an ongoing basis. Joint ventures are a useful way of collaborating with other businesses and to combine different areas of expertise for targeted or general business purposes. Each of the participants in a JV is responsible for profits, losses, and costs associated with it. However, the venture is its own entity, separate from the participants' other business interests. It is important that the parties to the joint venture define their respective roles and responsibilities early on and how the parties will work together to achieve the joint venture's targets. There are several types of ways to structure a joint venture. Before taking too many steps towards a joint venture it is important to note whether the deal is for a short or long-term arrangement, whether a separate company should be set up for the purpose, whether it is purely a loose collaboration agreement or whether there is a view to a merger or acquisition in the future. Among the categories of JV Agreements Contractual Joint Venture can take the form of two or more parties coming together to collaborate on a specific project, share the costs of R&D act or share knowledge and expertise on an ongoing basis, Partnership where two or more parties start working together and carry on a business in common with a view to profit they will form a de facto partnership, even if the parties are unaware of this and Limited Liability Company involve a high-cost project, eg developing a new product or service, and both parties will put capital into the venture, they may decide to form a new company for this purpose (sometimes called a 'special purpose vehicle/SPV').

FOREIGN COLLABORATION AGREEMENTS

When two parties join hands for exchange of technical know-how, technical designs and drawings; training of technical personnel of one of the parties in the manufacturing and/or research and development divisions of the other party; continuous provision of technical, administrative and/or managerial services, they are said to be collaborating in a desired venture. The word “collaboration” has, however, acquired a specific meaning, which refers to cooperation between a party within India and a party abroad. The agreements drawn and executed between such collaborating parties are known as “foreign collaboration agreements”. With sophistication and technical advance achieved in the developed countries and motivated by the desire of carrying the country into the twenty-first century, the Indian entrepreneurs are seeking all possible avenues for obtaining technical know-how in the fields of agriculture, mining, oil exploration, power generation, etc. A large number of Indian industrialists have already entered into long and short-term collaboration arrangements with foreign companies, firms etc. In order to ensure quick processing of the proposed collaboration arrangements and on a uniform basis, the Central Government has issued guidelines for prospective collaborators so that they submit their proposals in accordance with those guidelines.

Example: Mr. A is a plot owner and Mr. B is constructor, entered into a contract stating inter alia that Mr. B will construct 4 floors on the entire plot and Mr. A will take two floors and remaining two floors will be owned by Mr. B on account of construction cost. Here, Mr. B is not taking any construction cost from Mr. A and they are using each other's' resources. Such contracts are named as Collaboration contracts.

Guidelines for entering into Foreign Collaboration Agreements

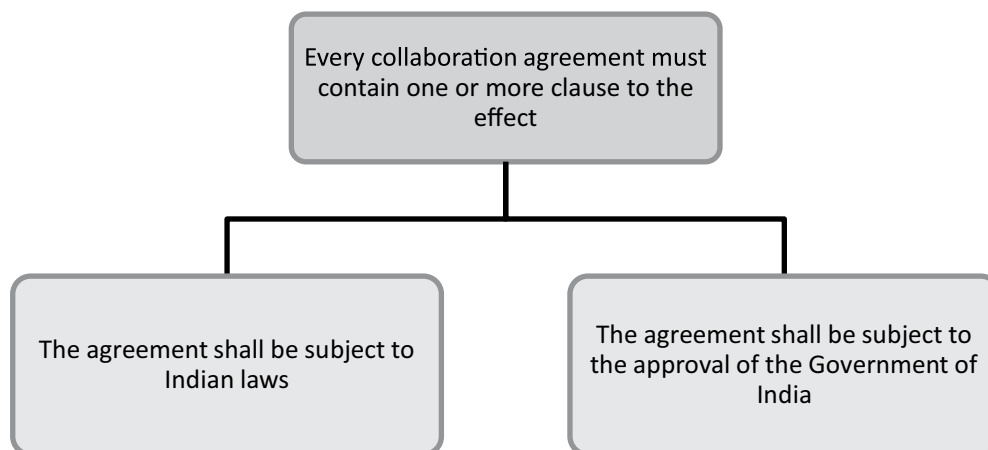

These guidelines cover the following aspects of foreign collaboration agreements:

1. Investment: Where in a foreign collaboration agreement, equity participation is involved, the value of the shares to be acquired about be brought in cash.
2. Lump Sum Payment: The amount agreed to be paid by an Indian party to a foreign collaborator for technology transfer should be paid in three instalments as follows:
  - (i) one-third to be paid after the agreement has been approved by the Central Government;
  - (ii) one-third on transfer of the technical documents; and
  - (iii) one-third on the commencement of commercial production.
3. Royalty: Royalty payable to a foreign collaborator has to be calculated on the basis of net ex-factory selling price of the product less excise duties and cost of imported components. The normal rate of royalty may be three per cent to five per cent. This rate will depend upon the nature and extent of the technology involved. Payment of a fixed royalty is preferred by the Government in certain cases. There should be no provision for payment of a minimum guaranteed royalty, regardless of the quantum and value of production.
4. Duration of agreement: Normal period of a foreign collaboration agreement is eight years subject to maximum of ten years. The period is approved by the Government usually for five years from the date of the agreement in the first instance or five years from the date of commencement of commercial production; the total period, however, not exceeding eight years from the date of the agreement.
5. Renewal or extension of agreement: The Central Government may consider an application for renewal of a foreign collaboration agreement or for extension of its period on merit.
6. Remittances: Remittances to foreign collaborators are allowed only on the basis of the prevailing exchange rates.
7. Sub-licensing: An agreement shall not normally impose any restriction on the sub-licensing of the technical know-how to other Indian parties. The terms of such sub-licensing will be as mutually agreed to between all the concerned parties including the foreign collaborator. Sub-licensing is, however, subject to the Central Government's approval.

8. Exports: No foreign collaboration agreement shall be allowed to contain any restriction on the free export to all countries, except in a case where the foreign collaborator has licensing arrangements in which case the countries concerned shall be specified.
9. Procurement of capital goods etc.: There should be no restriction on procurement of capital goods, components, spares, raw materials etc. by the Indian party. The Indian collaborator must be free to have control over pricing facility and selling arrangements.
10. Technicians: The number, terms of service, remuneration, etc., of technicians to be deputed on either side are subject to approval of the Reserve Bank of India.
11. Training: Provision shall be made in the agreement for adequate facilities for training of Indian technicians for research and development.
12. Exploitation of Indian patents: Where any item of manufacture is patented in India, the payment of royalty or lump sum to the foreign collaborator should make provision for compensation for use of such patent until its expiry. There should also be provision for manufacture by the Indian company of the said item even after the expiry of the collaboration agreement without making any additional payment.
13. Consultancy: If the necessity for any consultancy arises, it should be obtained from an Indian company. If, however, in the special circumstances foreign consultancy becomes essential, even then the prime consultant should be an Indian company.
14. Brand Name: There should be no insistence on the use of foreign brand names on products for sale in India. There can, however, be no objection for use of foreign brand name on products to be exported to other countries.
15. Indian Laws: All collaboration agreements shall be subject to Indian laws.
16. Approval of Central Government: Every foreign collaboration agreement shall be approved by the Central Government.

While drafting a collaboration agreement, care should be taken that it is in compliance with the guidelines as detailed above.

JOINT DEVELOPMENT RIGHTS AGREEMENT

Present is the age of collaborative science, where the resources of different agencies are collaborated and put together for harnessing the expertise of different agencies. For development of real estate, model of joint development arrangement has emerged as a popular model wherein land owner and developer combine their resources and efforts. In a Joint Development Agreement (JDA), a landowner contributes his land for the construction of a real estate project and the developer undertakes the responsibility for the development of property, obtaining approvals, launching, and marketing the project. This agreement should be registered in the court of law under Section 53A of the Transfer of Property Act. The agreement bounds the landowner and the developer in an agreement for the construction of new projects. In return for the land provided by the former, the latter agrees to provide to some provisions. The developer agrees to provide lump sum consideration, percentage of sales revenue, or a certain percentage of the newly constructed project on the said piece of land. This depends on the terms and conditions, mutually agreed upon by the parties. In this manner, the resources and efforts of land owner and developer are pooled together so as to bring out the maximum productive result. The cost of land in a real estate project entails substantial part of total cost of the project. In such arrangement, developer is not required to make investment for acquiring land at the initial stage and he can utilize his expertise of project development with limited resources in a much efficient manner. On the other hand, land owner, who may not be having requisite experience and expertise for developing the project, gets better price for his land in comparison to what he would have got in the case of outright sale of land. Thus, it creates a win-win situation for both the parties. In fact, it can be said that the joint development arrangement is a commercial arrangement of convenience where in both the parties try to exploit their respective resources in the best possible manner and without much financial investment.

However, the area of Joint development agreement is not restricted to Real Estate only. With the expansion of technology, a joint development agreement can be for a new product or technology. In these types of agreements, prominence is on the research and development of Intellectual Property Rights. A Joint development agreement is also called a strategic alliance agreement.

Drafting of Joint Development Agreement

Drafting of a joint development agreement is a highly specialized job. Both the parties have to ensure that inbuilt safeguards are incorporated to take care of their respective interests. Joint Development Agreement should be drafted in a manner so as to have, inter alia, clarity of terms as agreed between the parties, protection of interests of both parties, legal enforceability in case of need, fair exit-route for both the parties in case of any dispute having regard to tax considerations & implications. While drafting Joint Development Agreement, the following points should be carefully observed, which may have legal and tax implications of wide ramifications:

1. In what manner and at what point of time, ownership rights of the land are transferred by the land owner to the developer so as to decide the capital gain tax liability in the hands of the land owner.
2. Whether possession of the land is handed over to the developer in a manner so as to grant license to enter upon and possess land only for the development or the developer enjoys the possession of the land beyond that. Whether there is transfer of ownership/beneficial rights in the land in terms of the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882.
3. Whether exclusive rights to sell the developed real estate units and enter into buyers' agreement with the customer are granted to the developer under Joint Development agreement or as per other document executed between the land owner and the developer.

Annexure 1: Specifications*SERVICE AGREEMENTS*Contents of a Service Contract

Service contracts are drafted in the same way as other agreements. The terms of employment should be definitely fixed and clearly expressed and nothing should be left to presumptions. They are required to be both affirmative (describing the acts and duties to be performed) as well as negative (putting restrictions on the acts of the employee during and/or after the term of employment). Important clauses for the service agreements are as under:

Necessary provisions for Service Agreements

As the employer and the employee may not be conversant with law, the terms of a service contract should be as explicit as possible and should be easily intelligible to a lay man, Unlike other agreements and legal documents which need not contain matters presumed or implied by law, it is better in such an agreement to specify even such matters and all other matters so as to make it a complete code, embodying the rights and duties of each party.

In respect of Government service, normally no formal contract is executed and only an appointment order is issued and the terms of service are thereafter governed by statutory rules and Government order. The same is the position of statutory corporations as employers. For other employment contract, important terms are discussed hereinafter:

1. Period of Service: This may be definite or indefinite. If no period is fixed or an indefinite period is stated, e.g., "so long as the parties respectively please", the contract is terminable by a reasonable notice on either side. What is a reasonable notice varies in different cases, according to the characters of the employment and the general custom, from 15 days to six months. When no term is fixed, it is always proper to provide for determination by notice. In such a case, and also in case option of determination is reserved during the term, the period of notice should be settled and expressed in the agreement.
2. Remuneration: Remuneration may be fixed monthly salary, or fees or commission, or salary as well as fees or commission. Sometimes in business firms, employees are allowed a share in the profits in addition to a fixed salary. All these should be clearly provided.
3. Leave: Conditions and grounds on which, and the period for which leave may be granted as well as allowance payable during leave should be stated. In the case of Government servants engaged on contract, the leave rules applicable to permanent Government Servants in general may be applied but as there are different rules for different classes of Government Servants those applicable should be clearly referred to, or if they are not lengthy, they may be embodied in the agreement in the form of a covenant.
4. Determination of Employment: The grounds for determination of employment should be clearly expressed in the agreement. The grounds on which the employment may be determined during the term are generally misconduct, negligence, or want of medical fitness. Subject to what has been stated earlier, it may also be determined at pleasure by notice, without giving any ground. In the case of misconduct or neglect, no notice is required, but, provision may be made for framing charges and taking defence as in the case of Government Servants. Since an employee is entitled to damages for wrongful dismissal if the termination of the service is not properly made, provision in this respect should be carefully worded.
5. Restrictive Covenants: It is usual to include restrictive covenants in the agreement such as that the employer will not undertake any other work or service or that he will not divulge the employer's secrets or make improper use of his trade secrets or information about the employer's affairs.

While drafting restrictive covenants, it is necessary to see that they are not illegal. Agreements in restraint of trade are void under Section 27 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 and should not be inserted in an agreement.

6. Effect of Labour Laws: Many Acts have been passed by the Central or State legislatures relating to the conditions of employment of teachers and other employees of aided schools and colleges and of universities, and of workers in factories and commercial establishments, for e.g. the Factories Act, the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, the Payment of Wages Act, the Employees' Compensation Act etc. In drawing up a service contract for such an employee, the provisions of the relevant Acts must be kept in view. Any term of contract contrary to the statutory provisions will be null and void, as it is not open to an employee to contract out of the safeguards provided by the legislature for his protection.

DEALERSHIP AGREEMENT, DISTRIBUTORSHIP AGREEMENT & FRANCHISE AGREEMENT

Dealership Agreement

A dealership agreement is a legal document that outlines the terms of the contract between a distributor or a vendor and a dealer. A dealer agreement can also govern the business relationship between a general dealer and a vendor. These agreements can get more complex and lengthier depending on the size of the manufacturer and dealers involved in the agreement. A dealership agreement with a larger manufacturer can include obligations of a dealer such as requirements of the facilities, rules around the dealer's employees and personnel selling and requirements for statements and sales reporting. Common sections included in Dealership Agreements are:

- Purpose of the agreement.

- Tenure of the Agreement.
- The obligation of the parties, which may include.
- The procedure of supply and return of goods.
- Promotion and training.
- Invoices and the mode of payment.
- Any restrictions upon the parties.
- Termination of the dealership.

Distributorship Agreement

A distributorship agreement is a legally binding contract between a supplier and a distributor in which the distributor purchases and sells items from the supplier in order to sell them to retailers and/or consumers directly. As a result, the distributor does not hold any stock in the firm. The distributorship agreement describes the parties' rights, expenses, area, and obligations in respect of product distribution. The agreement confers on the distributor the right to supply the manufacturer's goods within a region or regions. The basic elements of a distributorship agreement include the term (time period for which the contract is in effect), terms and conditions of supply and the sales territories covered by the agreement. Matters such as remuneration to be paid, insurance; transportation and related risk, duration of the distributorship, legal matters are mentioned in a distributorship agreement. The manufacturer or vendor must also determine whether the distributorship agreement will be exclusive or nonexclusive. In an exclusive agreement, the specified distributor will be the sole distributor with the right to sell the product within a particular geographic region or within multiple regions. If the arrangement is nonexclusive, the manufacturer or vendor may supply other distributors, sometimes competing in the same market. The following is a checklist of factors to be considered when drafting a distribution contract:

- Exclusive Distributor/ Distributors.
- Terms and conditions of sale.
- Term for which the contract is in effect.
- Duration of the agreement.
- Marketing rights.
- Trademark licensing.
- Geographical territory covered by the agreement.
- Performance.
- Reporting.
- Returned goods credits and costs.
- Defects and returns provisions.
- Circumstances under which the contract may be terminated.

Difference between a distribution agreement and a dealer agreement

- A distributor agreement involves the manufacturer and a distributor, while a dealership agreement is between a distributor or a vendor and a dealer.

- Dealers, such as retailers or value-added resellers, buy products from distributors and resell them to their consumers. The distributor operates as an intermediary between a supplier and dealers in a distributor-dealer relationship.
- The scope of both agreements also varies. Distributors are often assigned territorial rights, which may stretch across one or several states, while dealers typically limit their operations to the city or a local community. The investment involved in Distributorship is considerably more than the Dealership. Both distributors and dealers rely on each other. The structure is such that distributors are wholesalers who buy from manufacturers and provide to dealers, whereas the dealers obtain products from the distributors and sell to the public.
- A dealership agreement often outlines the conditions of sales for items acquired from the distributor, as well as the dealer's expected obligations and responsibilities and the circumstances under which the agreement may be cancelled.

Franchise Agreement

A franchise agreement is a legally enforceable contract between a franchisor and a franchisee. These agreements authorise a franchisee to open a franchise site while also granting the ability to use franchise-specific resources such as branding, business methods, and supplier sources. A franchise agreement, like any other contract, is intended to define precise conditions for the parties' relationship. These agreements provide safeguards and duties that benefit both parties. Franchise agreements define the limitations within which franchisees can operate and clarify any financial commitments they have to their franchisors. They also often provide greater safeguards to franchisors than to franchisees. Typically, these types of agreements are unilateral in nature. One of the primary goals of a franchise settlement is to protect the franchise system as a whole. This includes the brand, the integrity of the operating system, and the conduct of franchisees within the mix.

What should a standard franchise agreement include:

1. Basis of the agreement
2. Grant of a franchise
3. The agreement's duration
4. Fee for franchising
5. Operations management
6. Services provided by franchisor
7. Safety of Intellectual Property
8. Training
9. Advertising
10. Limitations relating to defaults and damages
11. Obligations upon expiration
12. Royalties
13. Quality assurance
14. Indemnification
15. Geographic restrictions

16. Insurance
17. Restrictions and non-compete covenants.

Difference between a Distributorship Agreement and a Franchise Agreement

Difference areas	Franchise Agreement	Distributorship Agreement
The method of operation	The franchisee is allowed and encouraged to use the franchisor's trademarks and brand name in ordinary business procedures under the terms of the franchise agreement. To aid the franchisee's success, the franchisor also gives advertising and training assistance. To retain the franchisor's brand identity, a franchisee must follow precise criteria while promoting and selling items.	A distributor is not allowed to use the company's trademarked name when distributing its items. Instead, the distributor does business under its own identity. It serves as a product reseller, but it does not conduct business on behalf of the firm that manufactures the things.
The degree of control	Franchisor has far more influence over the franchisee and the franchisee's management of the franchised firm. An excellent example is a franchisor maintaining continuous quality control over its franchisees, frequently through an operations manual, marketing strategies, inspections, and other processes to guarantee brand standards are maintained across the network.	The supplier has less influence over the operations of a distributor.
Payments	A franchisee pays an initial fee and a continuing royalty to the franchisor in exchange for the right to operate the business under the franchisor's name.	A distributor pays for the items purchased from the supplier.

OUTSOURCING AGREEMENTS

Outsourcing is the contracting out of a company's activities to specialists. It differs from contracting in that outsourcing is a strategic management tool that involves the restructuring of an organization around what it does best - its core competencies.

Two common types of outsourcing are Information Technology (IT) outsourcing and Business Process Outsourcing (BPO). BPO includes outsourcing related to accounting, human resources, benefits, payroll, and finance functions and activities. Knowledge Process outsourcing (KPO) includes outsourcing related to legal, paralegal, and other highly skilled activities. A good outsourcing agreement is one which provides a comprehensive road map of the duties and obligations of both the parties - outsourcer and service provider. It minimizes complications when a dispute arises. However, many a times people neglect to pay attention while drafting an outsourcing agreement. Before finalizing an outsourcing agreement, the terms should be thoroughly discussed and negotiated to avoid any misunderstanding at a later stage. It is advisable to consult a professional before finalizing any outsourcing agreement.

Before signing an outsourcing agreement, the following factors must be properly addressed:

- Duties and obligations of Outsourcer
- Duties and obligations of service receiver
- Security and confidentiality
- Legal compliance
- Fees and payment terms
- Proprietary rights
- Auditing rights
- Applicable law to outsourcing agreement
- Term of the Agreement
- Events of Defaults and Addressing
- Dispute Resolution Mechanism
- Time limits
- Location of Arbitration
- Number of Arbitrators
- Interim measures/Provisional Remedies
- Privacy Agreement

- Non-compete Agreement
- Confidentiality Agreement
- Rules Applicable
- Appeal & Enforcement
- Be aware of local peculiarities
- Survival terms after the termination of the outsourcing agreement.

Every outsourcing agreement should be modified as applicable under different circumstances. [Source: www.madaan.com]

NON-DISCLOSURE AGREEMENT

A non-disclosure agreement (NDA) which is sometimes also referred to as a “Confidentiality Agreement” is a legally binding contract that establishes a confidential relationship. The party or parties signing the agreement agree that confidential/sensitive information they may obtain will not be made available to any others. An NDA may also be referred to as a confidentiality agreement. The NDA serves a purpose in a variety of situations e.g. NDAs are generally required when two companies enter into discussions about doing business together but want to protect their own interests and the details of any potential deal. In this case, the language of the NDA forbids all involved from releasing information regarding any business processes or plans of the other party or parties. The key elements of Non-Disclosure Agreements:

- Identification of the parties
- Definition of what is deemed to be confidential
- The scope of the confidentiality obligation by the receiving party

ELECTRONIC CONTRACTS (E-CONTRACTS)

Due to the immoderate advancement of technology E-Commerce has become a part of human daily life. E-Commerce is the selling and purchasing of goods and services using technology. E-Contracts are basically the contracts analyzed with E-Commerce and other transactions taking place in the digital environment.

E-contract (contract that is not paper based but rather in electronic form) is any kind of contract formed in the course of e-commerce by the interaction of two or more individuals using electronic means, such as e-mail, the interaction of an individual with an electronic agent, such as a computer program, or the interaction of at least two electronic agents that are programmed to recognize the existence of a contract. Traditional contract principles and remedies also apply to e-contracts. This is also known as electronic contract.

Electronic contracts are born out of the need for speed, convenience and efficiency. For example, a contract that an Indian exporter and an American importer wish to enter into. One option would be that one party first draws up two copies of the contract, signs them and couriers them to the other, who in turn signs both copies and couriers one copy back. The other option is that the two parties meet somewhere and sign the contract. In the electronic age, the whole transaction can be completed in seconds, with both parties simply affixing their digital signatures to an electronic copy of the contract. There is no need for delayed couriers and additional travelling costs in such a scenario.

There was initially an apprehension amongst the legislatures to recognize this modern technology, but now many countries have enacted laws to recognize electronic contracts. In India, Information Technology Act, 2000 governs the law relating to e-contracts substantially. The Act provides for the Attribution, Acknowledgement, Dispatch of Electronic Records, Secure Electronic Records and Secure Digital Signatures which are related to the E-Contracts [Sections: 4, 11, 12, 13, 15].

The contracts formed through electronic media are treated as the general contracts and their formation and acceptance are governed as per the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

The Indian Contract Act, 1872 governs the manner in which contracts are made and executed in India. It governs the way in which the provisions in a contract are implemented and codifies the effect of a breach of contractual provisions. Within the framework of the Act, parties are free to contract on any terms they choose.

Indian Contract Act consists of limiting factors subject to which contract may be entered into, executed and breach enforced.

The conventional law relating to contracts is not sufficient to address all the issues that arise in electronic contracts. The Information Technology Act (IT Act) solves some of the peculiar issues that arise in the formation and authentication of electronic contracts.

The Indian Evidence Act, 1872 deals with the presumption as to e-records. Providing the electronic records as evidence in the disputed matter [Sections: 85A, 85B, 88A, 85C]

ESSENTIALS OF E-CONTRACT

As per the Indian Contract Act, the essentials of a e-contract are:

- (i) An offer or proposal by one party and acceptance of that offer by another party resulting in an agreement consensus-ad- idem.
- (ii) An intention to create legal relations or intent to have legal consequences.
- (iii) The agreement is supported by lawful consideration.
- (iv) The parties to contract are legally capable of contracting.
- (v) Genuine consent between the parties.
- (vi) The object and consideration of the contract is legal and is not opposed to public policy.
- (vii) The terms of the contract are certain.
- (viii) The agreement is capable of being performed, i.e., it is not impossible of being performed.

Therefore, to form a valid contract there must be

- (1) an agreement,
- (2) based on the genuine consent of the parties,
- (3) supported by consideration,
- (4) made for a lawful object, and
- (5) between the competent parties.

The bargaining process must satisfy two requirements to result in a valid contract: first, mutual assent as an expression of the parties' intent to contract and second, sufficiently definite terms. In arriving at such mutual assent and definite terms, the parties employ the mechanics of offer and acceptance.

TYPES OF E-CONTRACTS

Generally the basic forms of e-contracts are:

- The Click-wrap or Web-wrap Agreements.
- The Shrink-wrap Agreements.
- The Electronic Data Interchange or (EDI).
- Online Shopping Agreements.

Click-wrap or Web-wrap Agreements

These are the agreements which we generally come across while surfing internet such as "I AGREE" to the terms or "I DISAGREE" to the above conditions. A click-wrap agreement is mostly found as part of the installation process of software packages. It is also called a "click through" agreement or click-wrap license.

Click-wrap agreements can be of the following types:

1. Type and Click where the user must type "I accept" or other specified words in an on-screen box and then click a "Submit" or similar button. This displays acceptance of the terms of the contract. A user cannot proceed to download or view the target information without following these steps.
2. Icon Clicking where the user must click on an "OK" or "I agree" button on a dialog box or pop-up window. A user indicates rejection by clicking "Cancel" or closing the window. Upon rejection, the user can no longer use or purchase the product or service. A click wrap contract is a "take-it-or-leave-it" type of contract that lacks bargaining power.

The Shrink-wrap Agreements

Shrink wrap contracts are license agreements or other terms and conditions which can only be read and accepted by the consumer after opening the product like CD ROM of software. The terms and conditions are printed on the cover of CD ROM. Sometimes additional terms are imposed when in such licenses appear on the screen when the CD is downloaded to the computer. The user has right to return if the new terms and conditions are not to his liking.

Electronic Data Interchange or EDI

These contracts, used in trade transactions which enable the transfer of data from one computer to another in such a way that each transaction in the trading cycle (for example, commencing from the receipt of an order from an overseas buyer, through the preparation and lodgment of export and other official documents, leading eventually to the shipment of the goods), can be processed with virtually no paperwork. Here unlike the other two, there is exchange of information and completion of contracts between two computers and not an individual and a computer.

On-Line Shopping Agreement

Suppose 'X' Ltd. wants to offer online shopping services to its customers. 'X' would tie-up with manufacturers of books, toys, clothes, etc., and offers their products for sale through its website. Some of the products could be stocked in Y's warehouses while others could be stocked with the manufacturers.

Additionally, visitors can post reviews, comments, photos etc on the 'X' website. 'X' would need to enter into a contract with all its potential customers "before" they place an order for a product using 'X' services. This contract must serve the following purposes:

1. Outline the scope of services provided by 'X' Ltd.
2. Restrict 'X's liabilities in case there is any defect in the products sold through the 'X' website.
3. Outline the duties and obligations of the customer.
4. Grant suitable licence to the customer to use the 'X' website.
5. Restrict Y's (Product) liabilities in case of loss or damage suffered by the customer as a direct or indirect result of the 'X' website.

IMPORTANT POINTS IN REGARD TO E-CONTRACTS

The important points relating to e-contracts are as under:

1. Customer's relationship with 'X'

The contract must specify that by using the 'X' website, the customer becomes subject to the terms of a legal agreement between the customer and Y. Customers must be informed that they must be of legal age to enter into the contract.

2. Acceptance of the terms of the contract

The contract must clearly lay down that a customer cannot use the 'X' website unless he agrees with the terms of the contract. The customer can usually indicate his acceptance by clicking on an "I Accept" link or checking an "I Accept" checkbox.

3. Copyright

The contract should clearly state that all content included on the 'X' website, such as text, graphics, logos, button icons, images, audio clips, digital downloads, data compilations, and software, is the property of 'X' Ltd.

4. Customers duties and obligations

The contract should clearly lay down the duties and obligations of the customer. Amongst others, the customer must:

- i. Not overload Y's systems.
- ii. Not download or modify the 'X' website.
- iii. Collect and use any product listings, descriptions, or prices.
- iv. Download or copy account information by data gathering and extraction tools.
- v. Not frame or utilize framing techniques to enclose any trademark, logo, or other proprietary information (including images, text, page layout, or form).
- vi. Not use any meta tags or any other "hidden text" utilizing Y's name or trademarks.
- vii. License from Y

5. License from Y

The contract should specify that 'X' is giving the customer a limited, revocable, and nonexclusive right to create a hyperlink to the home page of 'X' so long as the link does not portray Y, or its products or services in a false, misleading, derogatory, or otherwise offensive matter. The contract must also specify that 'X' is giving the customer a personal, worldwide, royalty-free, non-assignable and non-exclusive licence to use the software provided as part of the 'X' website. The contract must clarify that this licence is for the sole purpose of enabling the customer to use the 'X' website. The contract must forbid the customer from the following acts in respect of the said software:

- i. copying,
- ii. modifying,
- iii. creating a derivative work of,
- iv. reverse engineering,

LESSON ROUND-UP

- Commercial contracts outline transaction details, payment terms, goods or services exchanged, date, and price. However, it's important to note that each commercial contract is different and contains varied elements. They specify the parties, the deliverables, a clear plan for what will happen if the parties don't fulfill their responsibilities, and the applicable law.
- Limited Liability Partnership is governed by Limited Liability Partnership Act-2008. LLP Agreement is a written contract between the partners of the LLP or between the LLP and its designated partners. It establishes the rights and a duty of the designated partners toward each other as well toward the LLP. Well-structured detailed LLP Agreement set the groundwork and act as a backbone to strengthen the firm. It is the guide that gives directions to the LLP registration.
- A collaboration between a resident and non-resident nation is known as a "foreign collaboration." It is a partnership or union between a domestic and international business. It takes the shape of a contract that both parties have signed for their mutual benefit. Forming a foreign partnership requires the association of one non-resident entity.
- A Joint Venture is a strategic partnership when two or more people or businesses concur to contribute capital, goods, or services to a single commercial enterprise. Compatibility between the parties to the contract is essential for any joint venture to be successful in India. The associated parties should have a distinct objective, and conditions should be spelled out in the JV (Joint Venture) agreement provisions.
- A Joint Development Agreement is a contract between a real estate developer and the landowner to build projects on the latter's land. As per the contract, the landowner provides the land, and the developer manages the construction side of the project.
- Service Agreement is an agreement between a business providing services and its customer or client. A clear demarcation of the services to be offered by either party along with their expertise, saves the time of the parties and reduces the chances of dispute due to the agreed set of terms and conditions in the Agreement.

- Dealership Agreement means an oral or written agreement, either express or implied, between a supplier and a dealer which provides that the dealer is granted the right to sell, distribute, or service the supplier's equipment, regardless of whether the equipment carries a trade name, trademark, service mark, logotype, advertisement, or other commercial symbol, and which provides evidence of a continuing commercial relationship between the supplier and the dealer.
- A distribution agreement is a legally binding agreement between a supplier and a distributor of products. The distribution agreement governs the distribution of items made by a producer and sold by a distributor. The details of the agreement are defined in the distribution contract, which includes the cost of the items or the commission rate, the length of the contract, the distributor's operating area, and other data.
- A franchise agreement is a legally enforceable contract between a franchisor and a franchisee. These agreements authorise a franchisee to open a franchise site while also granting the ability to use franchise-specific resources such as branding, business methods, and supplier sources. A franchise agreement, like any other contract, is intended to define precise conditions for the parties' relationship.
- An outsourcing contract is an agreement made between the company and the outsourcing service provider, placed over a legal document that states what work will be handled to the outsourcing service provider. Typically, an outsourcing agreement includes provisions such as pricing and payment, transfer of assets, information security, intellectual property matters, monitoring provisions, termination, service level etc.
- A non-disclosure agreement is a legally enforceable contract that creates a confidential connection between two parties. The signatory party or the parties to the agreement agree that any sensitive information they collect will not be shared with anyone else. A confidentiality agreement is another name for a non-disclosure agreement.
- Globalization and diffusion of technology has accelerated the presence of e-commerce companies throughout the world. E-Contract is an agreement that is enforceable under the law and is in all respects drafted, negotiated, and executed digitally.

REGULATORY FRAMEWORK

- The Companies Act, 2013
- Transfer of Property Act, 1882
- Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996

TRANSFER OF UNDERTAKINGS: AMALGAMATION

Amalgamation means merging of two corporations, destroying both in the process and creating an entirely new entity i.e. a new financial organization. This emergence allows the newly formed company to inherit the assets and liabilities of its constituent parties to incorporate within as a sort of successor to both of them being bigger and better than both as well.

The amalgamation is a blending of two or more existing undertakings into one undertaking, the shareholders of each blending company become substantially the shareholders in the company which is to carry on the blended undertakings.

There may be amalgamation either by:

- (i) the transfer of two or more undertakings to a new company, or
- (ii) the transfer of one or more undertakings to an existing company.

CASE LAWS

In the matter of Speed line Agencies Vs. T Stanes & Co. Ltd- Supreme Court decided that, with effect from the effective date, all proceedings in which Transferor Company was a party be continued, prosecuted and enforced by or against the Transferee Company in the same manner and to the same extent as it would be or might have been continued, prosecuted and enforced by or against the Transferor Company as if the Scheme had not been made.

In other words, when a transferor company stands dissolved (with or without winding up) due to amalgamation, its right under the decree for eviction devolves on the transferee company.

Sections 230 to 240 of the Companies Act, 2013 provide various methods of company re-organisation or reconstruction. The various terms used for reorganisation are arrangement, reconstruction, amalgamation, merger, take-over, etc. They are distinct terms but they have many common features and to a great extent they overlap. The expression “arrangement” is of wider import and include reconstruction and amalgamation.

“Arrangement” has been defined in explanation to section 230(1) of the Companies Act, 2013 as including a reorganisation of the company’s share capital by the consolidation of shares of different classes, or by the division of shares into shares of different classes, or by both those methods.

“Arrangement” has a wider interpretation and includes reconstructions and amalgamations.

“Reconstruction” has not been defined in the Companies Act. A reconstruction normally entails the transfer of an undertaking to another company, consisting substantially of the same shareholders with a view to its being continued by the transferee company, and usually resorted to for achieving one or more of the following objects:

- (a) For the purpose of raising fresh capital by issuing partly paid shares in the new company in exchange for fully shares in the old company, and calling up the balance on new shares as and when required;
- (b) For extending the company’s objects;

- (c) For reorganising or rearranging the capital structure and the rights of members as between themselves; and
- (d) For effecting a compromise with creditors, or the allotment to them of shares or debentures in settlement of their claims.

A reconstruction may, however, take place, without the promotion and incorporation of new company, by compromise with members involving alterations of various rights between each class, usually also involving the writing down of the amount of share capital (as in a reduction of capital, which is a special form of reconstruction) and by a compromise with creditors (including debenture holders).

Amalgamation usually covers a situation where two or more companies join forces either under the name of one of them or in a new company formed for the purpose. This is a blending of two or more existing undertakings into one, the shareholders of each company becoming substantially the shareholders in the company which is to carry on the blended undertakings.

MORTGAGE DEEDS FOR COMPANIES

What is a Mortgage?

A mortgage meaning in simple words is a transaction between two people: a borrower and the lender. Section 58 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 defines Mortgage as the transfer of an interest in specific immovable property for the purpose of securing the payment of money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement which may give rise to a pecuniary liability.

The transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee; the principal money and interest of which payment is secured for the time being are called the mortgage-money, and the instrument (if any) by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

Types of Mortgage

(a) Simple mortgage.— In a simple mortgage, the mortgagor without delivering possession of the mortgaged property binds himself personally to pay the mortgage money and agrees expressly or impliedly that if he fails to pay the debt and interest in terms of the mortgage deed, the property may be sold and the proceeds applied in payment of the mortgaged money.

Characteristics of a simple Mortgage:

It has following characteristics:-

- i. That the mortgagor must have bound himself personally to repay the loan.
- ii. That to secure the loan he has transferred to the mortgagee the right to have the specific immovable property sold in the event of his having failed to repay.
- iii. That the possession of the property is not delivered to the lender.
- iv. In a simple mortgage, the security for the debt is two-fold:
  - (a) the personal obligation; and
  - (b) The property.

CASE LAWS

In Ram Narayan Singh v. AdhindraNath, AIR (1916) PC 119 the Court held that the fact that some immovable property has been mentioned as security for its repayment does not displace the personal liability of mortgagor to repay the loan with interest.

Schedule – Description of the Property

(b) Mortgage by conditional sale.—Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property on condition that on default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date, the sale shall become absolute, or on condition that on such payment being made the sale shall become void, or on condition that on such payment being made the buyer shall transfer the property to the seller, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale.

CASE LAWS

Harminder Singh (D) THR. LRS. Appellant(S) Vs. Surjit Kaur(D) THR. LRS. & Ors. Respondent(S), Supreme Court of India, dated 27th April, 2022

Fact of the Case

The plaintiff is in appeal before this Court against the Judgment and decree passed by the High Court in Second Appeal on 21.12.2007 whereby the mortgagor's appeal was allowed holding that the mortgagor has a right to redeem the land in question.

Gulab Singh – mortgaged his share of land in favour of Rajinder Singh on 02.05.1921 with possession. The defendants inherited the estate of Gulab Singh whereas Rajinder Singh - mortgagee died issueless and his rights were inherited by his wife – Rajinder Kaur. Rajinder Kaur sold her mortgagee rights to the plaintiff vide sale deed dated 18.06.1979.

Since the mortgage was not redeemed by the mortgagor within a period of 30 years, the plaintiff filed a suit for declaration that she had become the owner after the extinguishment of the mortgage rights and for permanent injunction.

Decision

The Court held that once a usufructuary mortgage is created, the mortgagor has a right to redeem the mortgage at any point of time on the principle that once a mortgage always a mortgage.

Such judgment was affirmed by Supreme Court in 'Singh Ram (Dead) Through Legal Representatives Vs. Sheo Ram & Ors.' In view of the aforesaid judgment, we do not find any merit in the present appeal and the same is dismissed.

Schedule – Description of the Property

(d) English mortgage.—In an English mortgage, a mortgagor binds himself to repay the mortgaged money on certain date and transfers the mortgaged property absolutely to the mortgagee subject to the proviso that he will re-transfer it to the mortgagor upon payment of the mortgaged money as agreed. In this mortgage the borrower promises to repay the borrowed money on a certain date. The borrower transfers the property to the lender. The lender will re-transfer the property when the money is repaid. The mortgaged property is absolutely transferred to the mortgagee.

Characteristics of English Mortgage:

- The mortgagor binds himself to repay the mortgage money (debt) on a certain date.

- The mortgage-property is transferred absolutely to the mortgagee.
- The absolute transfer is subject to a proviso that mortgagee will re-transfer the property to mortgagor on payment of mortgage-money on the said date.
- It is known to mortgagee with certainty when the mortgagor is to redeem or he to proceed to foreclose or sell.

CASE LAW

In Narayana v. Venkataramana, ILR (1902) 25 Madras 220 (235) (FB) case the court opined that the English Mortgage has three essential ingredients. First, the mortgagor has to bind himself to repay the mortgage money on a certain day. Secondly, the property mortgaged is transferred “absolutely” to the mortgagee. Thirdly, this transfer is subject to a proviso that the mortgagee will reconvey the property to the mortgagor upon payment of the mortgage – money on the date fixed for repayment.

The statutory power of sale by an English mortgagee arises when the mortgagor and the mortgagee are not Hindus, Muhammadans or Buddhists or members of any other race, sect, tribe or class from time to time specified in this behalf by the State Government in the Official Gazette. This means that majority of people in India, though entitled to go in for English mortgage, cannot have the statutory power of sale due to confinement of this power only to certain communities such as Christians, people of English origin only.

Schedule – Description of the Property

(e) Mortgage by deposit of title-deeds — Mortgage by deposit of title deeds is called in English law as equitable mortgage. It is an oral transaction and no documents like Deed of Mortgage is required to be executed. No written acknowledgement is required for creating this mortgage. It is however, prudent to have a record of transaction to avoid difficulties to establish the creation of the mortgage. In this case, a Memorandum of Mortgage by deposit of title deeds is prepared by the mortgagee to secure the specific mortgage money. The main characteristics of this type of mortgage are as under:

1. Debt even time barred, present and future advances are covered under the equitable mortgage. In other types of mortgage, future advances are not covered.

2. Delivery of title deeds is required to be made in Mumbai, Chennai and Kolkata and other specified towns to which the facility is extended by State Government from time to time through Gazette notification.

It is not necessary for creation of mortgage that the property be located in the specified town or the company making deposit should have its registered office in that town.

3. This deposit can be made by the company through its nominee or agent duly authorised.
4. Intent to create security by deposit of title deeds should be present at the time of such deposit in the mortgagor.
5. Neither ownership nor possession of the property passes to the mortgagee under the equitable mortgage.

Equitable mortgage is preferred by the lenders/banks/creditors as well as the commercial enterprises because of the inherent advantages viz.

- (a) to save time and avoid inconvenience of documentation, and registration;
- (b) to minimise cost of creating mortgage and cost of borrowed funds by saving stamp duty;
- (c) to maintain secrecy of the debt transaction;
- (d) section 180 of the Companies Act, 2013.

CASE LAW

In K.J. Nathan, S. Maruthi, AIR (1965) SC 430 case, the physical delivery of the title-deeds had taken place outside the towns specified. But the intention to create equitable mortgage by these deeds was formed after delivery of the deeds and in a town which was within the notified area. The Supreme Court held that an equitable mortgage was created under section 58 (f) of the Transfer of Property Act. The Court opined that there must be a bona fide intention that possession of title-deeds with the creditor is by way of security for the money advanced by him. However, the intention to create security by the deposit of title-deeds is a question of fact and not of law.

Share Purchase Agreement

A share purchase agreement is defined as a legal contract between a seller and a buyer of shares. They may be referred to as the vendor and purchaser in the contract. The specific number of shares are listed in the contract at the stated price. This agreement proves that the sale and the terms of it were agreed upon mutually.

Share Purchase Agreement is an agreement entered into between the buyer and seller(s) of shares of a target company. Usually Share Purchase Agreements entail that the buyer would be taking over whole or significantly whole of the undertaking of the company. In such a scenario, the buyer would not only be taking over the assets but also the liabilities of a company.

Prior to drafting a Share Purchase Agreement, the parties should negotiate and draw up a term sheet which would address the key terms of the Share Purchase Agreement. This would help ease the drafting and negotiations of the Share Purchase Agreement as all the material terms would already be agreed to between the parties.

A share purchase agreement sets out specific rights and liabilities related to the purchase and sale of shares in a particular entity. It is important to set out the requirements related to a share purchase agreement. Usually a share purchase agreement would be typically used in the mergers and acquisitions processes. A particular entity would purchase about 50% or more of the share capital of the target company.

Advantages of Share Purchase Agreement

- Shares Specified- By entering into this form of agreement, there is a specific proportion of shares allocated to the buyer or the entity.
- Rights and Liabilities- The rights and liabilities of the parties are specifically drawn from this form of agreement. This would ensure that all the parties' rights and liabilities arising out of the agreement are covered. In case of any breaches, the parties' first point of reference would be the SPA.
- Warranties- By entering into such an agreement the parties would be covered by specific warranties. Any party cannot escape the amount of any warranty which is arising from the share purchase agreement. All the parties would equally be covered by specific amount of warranties of the share purchase agreement.
- No Third-Party Involvement- As the contract has only specific amount of parties, there is no involvement of any other party or third-party.

Key Contents of Share Purchase Agreement

- ✓ Details of the buyer, seller and the company.
- ✓ The liabilities and obligations of both parties.
- ✓ The permissions, authorisations, etc. need to be taken before the transfer or sale of shares by the shareholder.
- ✓ Details of the number of shares and kind of shares purchased.
- ✓ Information about the pricing at which the shares are sold by the company.
- ✓ The rights that are given to the shareholder.
- ✓ Dispute resolution and arbitration process in cases of legal disputes arising.
- ✓ Jurisdiction of the court and law applicable in case of a legal dispute.

Share Purchase Agreement is an agreement entered into between the buyer and seller(s) of shares of a target company. Usually Share Purchase Agreements entail that the buyer would be taking over whole or significantly whole of the undertaking of the company. In such a scenario, the buyer would not only be taking over the assets but also the liabilities of a company. Hence any potential buyer needs to take proper stock of the company before entering into such a transaction.

Share-holders Agreement

A shareholders' agreement is a contract between the shareholders of a company and the company itself. It ties the shareholders to rules to preempt issues that might become contentious in the future. A shareholders' agreement mentions the shareholders' rights and obligations, regulates the ownership of shares, privileges, the management of the company, voting and various other insulative provisions for shareholders.

It is a known fact that the Articles of Association (hereinafter 'AoA') act as the Constitution for a company and thus they are mandatory and standard in nature. AoA ties a company and its shareholders in their capacity as shareholders and further mentions the responsibilities of the directors, the means by which the shareholders exert control over the board of directors and the kind of business to be undertaken.

When it comes to a shareholders' agreement the protection of the shareholders is given more importance. Even though a shareholders' agreement may include certain terms from the AoA, it has no specific format i.e., the shareholders' agreement can be as flexible and extensive as required by the shareholders according to their needs. While AoA is a public document, the shareholders' agreement is a private document because it contains confidential internal information of a company. A shareholders' agreement is an affordable option to reduce the risk of possible business disputes because it specifies how decisions must be made regarding certain disputes including the provision of a framework and procedures for dispute resolution.

The AoA and a shareholders' agreement must be complementary to each other. However, a shareholders' agreement may contain a supremacy clause to ensure that it overrides the AoA in case there is any inconsistency so that the shareholders can amend the AoA as required.

The purpose of this Agreement is to protect the interests of the Partners. It is not meant to punish a Partner who unintentionally breaches this Agreement and discontinues his or her misconduct after notification from other Partners.

In this spirit, the Partners agree not to sell The Company's shares to outsiders when share disposal restriction provisions of this Shareholders' Agreement (hereinafter referred also as Agreement) restrict the selling of the shares.

5. Proceedings

By default, each Partner can freely vote in a shareholders' meeting. However, the Partners agree on two exceptions to the above:

Firstly, if more than 2/3 of the shares owned by the Partners are supporting certain voting behavior, then all Partners will vote in agreement with the 2/3 majority of Partners.

The purpose is to ascertain that the Partners will be unified, acting as a single group, even in the situations when there would be other shareholders in the Company than the Partners alone.

Secondly, certain decisions will require support by Partners holding at least 90% of all Partner shares; otherwise all Partners agree to vote against these decisions. The decisions are the following:

- Increasing and decreasing the share capital,
- Issuing new shares,
- Issuing convertible loans or options that can be transferred to shares,
- Selling all or a major part of the business of the company,
- Authorizing the Board to make decisions listed above.

To implement the proceedings describe above, the Partners agree to efficiently work together at the shareholders' meetings and before them. Any Partner may call the partners to meet in two week's notice, either in person if possible, or over internet/telephone, and otherwise following the protocols used for inviting a shareholders' meeting. The Partners will do their best effort to find meeting times – several meetings if necessary – to work out their common voting strategy. The Partners agree to participate in all shareholders' meetings, either in person or by proxy instructed to follow the proceedings describe above.

6. Competition Restriction Clause

- The Partners who have an active role in the Company undertake not to compete in any way, directly or indirectly, with the business of The Company. Here, the following definitions are used:

  - ✓ The business of The Company is defined based on the strategy, business plans, customer relations and pipeline, product roadmaps, and IPR's of The Company at any given time.
- If a Partner ceases to have an active role in The Company, then the Partner agrees not to compete in any way with the business of The Company as defined at that moment, during the following [number of months i.e. 12].
- In addition to the above, all Partners (not just those having an active role in The Company) agree not to compete in any way with the business of The Company during the first [number of months i.e. 6] after signing this Shareholders Agreement of the company.
- If the Company decides to change its strategy, business plan or business focus, this change and new business plan must be communicated to each Partner. If a competitive situation follows from the change by The Company, this is not considered as a breach of this Competition Restriction Clause.
- If one or several Partners materially breach this Competition Restriction Clause, and do not correct the breach within [number of days i.e. 30] after being notified about the breach by The Company or other Partners having at least 2/3 of the remaining Partner shares, with shares of the Partner(s) breaching the Clause excluded, then following sanction will be applicable.
- The Partner(s) breaching the Competition Restriction Clause agree to sell their shares at a price that is 10% of their fair market price, pro rata of the other Partners' ownerships. In addition, each Partner breaching the Clause agrees to pay [Rs_____] to The Company.
- This breach shall be documented by the Board and it shall be proven to be harmful (e.g. The Company has lost business or competitive advantage) for The Company.
- The Partners shall be deemed to have provided written consent to each Partner current ownership of and role/appointment in other companies/businesses and other activities as set forth in Exhibition B

In such share transfer, the Selling Partner shall make best efforts to find a third Partner to whom all of the shares could be transferred at market price. The other Partners respectively must inform the Selling Partner within [number of days i.e. 30] from the receipt of the Tag-Along Notice whether they wish to use their respective Tag-Along Rights.

In the event that a group of owners holding majority of Company shares ("Majority Holders") have found a candidate ("Third Partner Offeror") who wishes bona fide to purchase all of the shares of the Company, the Majority Holders shall have the right but not the obligation, to require that the other Partners to this Agreement transfer their shares to the Third Partner Offeror ("Drag-Along Right") at the same consideration and otherwise on the same terms and conditions obtained by the Majority Holders. A transfer of shares from a Partner to a third party must always happen simultaneously with the third party becoming also a partner in this Shareholders agreement, and the selling Partner is responsible to see that this happens.

10. Market Value Determination

If the shares are to be valued based on provisions of this Agreement, and if the Partners concerned cannot agree on what the market value for the shares will be, the market value shall be determined on the basis of an arms-length third Partner purchase offer for the shares. In the absence of such offer, a respectable financial advisor or investment bank appointed by the Board of Directors shall determine the market value.

11. Disclaimers and Order of Interpretation

The Agreement here is understood by all the Partners to contain all relevant questions currently concerning the governance of the Company.

This Agreement supersedes – only for the above-mentioned issues handled within this Agreement– any arrangements, understandings, promises or Agreements made or existing between the Partners hereto, prior to, or simultaneously with the Agreement and constitutes the entire understanding between the Partners hereto.

Underwriting and Brokerage Agreements

Underwriting is one of the most important functions in the financial world wherein an individual or an institution undertakes the risk associated with a venture, an investment, or a loan in lieu of a premium. Underwriters are found in banking, insurance, and stock markets.

The nomenclature 'underwriting' came about from the practice of having risk takers to write their name below the total risk that she/he undertakes in return for a specified premium in the early stages of the industrial revolution.

In the securities market, underwriting involves determining the risk and price of a particular security. It is a process seen most commonly during initial public offerings, wherein investment banks first buy or underwrite the securities of the issuing entity and then sell them in the market. This ensures that the issuers of the security can raise the full amount of capital while earning the underwriters a premium in return for the service.

Investors benefit a lot from the underwriting process as the information provided by an underwriting agency can help them take a more informed buying decision. An underwriter who holds a large chunk of the securities of a particular company or is the market maker for such a security provides the core liquidity for the security and enhances price stability and distribution.

Underwriters in the banking sector perform the critical operation of appraising the credit worthiness of a potential customer and whether or not to offer it a loan. They appraise the credit history of the customer through their past financial record, statements, and value of collaterals provided, among other parameters.

In the insurance world, underwriters determine whether an insurance agency should undertake the risk of insuring a client. They determine the risk and exposure of clients and also how much insurance should be granted to a client, how much they should pay for it and whether or not to offer an insurance policy to the client in the first place.

The Underwriting Agreement sets forth the terms and conditions pursuant to which the underwriters will purchase the offered securities and distribute them to the public. Both the issuer's and underwriters' legal counsel play critical roles in negotiating key provisions of the underwriting agreement that have significant effects on the offering.

COLLECTIVE DECISION MAKING PROCESS IN COMPANIES- “RESOLUTION”

Resolution as per Cambridge Dictionary means “an official decision that is made after a group or organization has voted”.

It is a decision or agreement made by the directors and shareholders of the company. When a resolution is proposed it is called motion. After passing a resolution company is bound to act according to it.

A company is an artificial judicial person created by law having its own distinct entity form and capable of entering into contracts. Though company is bestowed with the characteristic of separate legal entity but it cannot take decision on its own. It is capable of acting in its own name, entering into contracts. It is capable of owning and holding property in its own name, sue others and to be sued by others in its name. Despite all these powers, since it is not a natural person, it expresses its will or takes its decisions through natural persons (i.e. directors or members) collectively which is known as “resolutions.”

There are two collective bodies in the company which take decision through resolutions:

- (i) Board of Directors – who manage, control and direct the business of the company (A document in writing created by Board of Directors certifying a binding corporate action is called a Resolution), and
- (ii) General body of members – who ultimately own the company.

Types of Resolutions

Board Resolution: Any important decisions taken by the Board of Directors of the Company in Board Meeting and in writing is known as Board Resolution. It’s a Formal and a Legal document binding on the Company.

Ordinary Resolution: According to Section 114(1) of the Companies Act, 2013, a resolution shall be an ordinary resolution if the notice required under this Act has been duly given and it is required to be passed by the votes cast, whether on a show of hands, or electronically or on a poll, as the case may be, in favour of the resolution, including the casting vote, if any, of the Chairman, by members who, being entitled so to do, vote in person, or where proxies are allowed, by proxy or by postal ballot, exceed the votes, if any, cast against the resolution by members, so entitled and voting.

Broadly, Ordinary Resolutions are required to be passed by simple majority.

Special Resolution: According to Section 114(2) of the Companies Act, 2013, a resolution shall be a special resolution when—

- (a) the intention to propose the resolution as a special resolution has been duly specified in the notice calling the general meeting or other intimation given to the members of the resolution;
- (b) the notice required under this Act has been duly given; and
- (c) the votes cast in favour of the resolution, whether on a show of hands, or electronically or on a poll, as the case may be, by members who, being entitled so to do, vote in person or by proxy or by postal ballot, are required to be not less than three times the number of the votes, if any, cast against the resolution by members so entitled and voting.

Thus, Special Resolutions are required to be passed by three-fourth (3/4th) majority.

Unanimous Resolution- It requires the approval of all the members present and voting without a single vote cast against it.

Passing of Resolution by Circulation-As per Section 175(1) of the Companies Act, 2013, a Company may pass resolution through circulation. The said resolution may be circulated in draft, together with necessary papers, if any, to all the directors or members of the Committee at their address registered with the Company in India by hand delivery or courier/ post or through e-mail/fax. The same must be approved by majority of directors or members, who are entitled to vote on the resolution.

A resolution passed through circulation shall be noted at a subsequent meeting and made part of minutes of such meeting.

Further, where not less than one-third of the total number of directors of the company for the time being require that any resolution under circulation must be decided at a meeting, the chairperson shall put the resolution to be decided at a meeting of the Board.

Practical aspects on drafting of Resolution

All resolutions, no matter how simple they are, should be drafted in clear and distinct terms since resolutions embody the decisions of the meetings. The following points should be remembered while drafting resolutions, both for Board and general meetings:

- (a) All essential facts are to be included in the resolution.
- (b) Surplus and meaningless words or phrases should not be included in resolutions.
- (c) Reference to documents approved at a meeting should be clearly identified, e.g., the re-appointment of a managing director should indicate that such appointment is on the terms and conditions contained in the draft agreement, a copy of which was placed before the meeting and initialed by the chairman for the purpose of identification.
- (d) Resolutions must indicate the relevant provisions or sections of the Act and the Rules pursuant to which they are being passed.

- (e) If a resolution is one which requires the approval of the Central Government or confirmation of the National Company Law Tribunal/Court, this must be stated in the resolution.
- (f) A resolution must indicate when it will become effective.
- (g) A resolution must confine itself to one subject matter and two distinct matters should not be covered in one resolution.
- (h) A resolution should be crisp, concise and precise and should be flexible enough to take care of eventualities.
- (i) Where lengthy resolutions have to be approved, they should be divided into paragraphs and should be arranged in their logical order having regard to the subject matter of the resolution.
- (j) A resolution must be so drafted that anybody not present at the meeting or anybody referring to it at a later date will know clearly what the decision was at that meeting without referring to any other document.

How to draft a resolution?

- Resolutions are written within quotes.
- Resolutions begin with “RESOLVED THAT _____.
- Mention the sections of Companies Act 2013, rules made thereunder or provisions of any other law pursuant to which decision is made. E.g. RESOLVED THAT pursuant to the provisions of section 161 of the Companies Act, 2013 and rules there under, and other applicable provisions of law for the time being in force,_____.
- If resolution further requires approval of Central Govt. or general meeting or any other authority, it shall specifically specify the authority whose approval is required e.g. RESOLVED THAT subject to approval of Central Govt under section _____ of Companies Act 2013 or rules made thereunder or any other law for the time being in force, _____.
- In case of resolution passed at general meeting, it shall be specifically mentioned in the notice convening the meeting that whether it is Ordinary resolution or Special resolution.
- For filing forms with RoC and other authorities, authorize a person e.g. FURTHER RESOLVED THAT Mr_____, director (DIN..) is authorized to execute, sign and do all other acts and deeds as may be required to give effect to this resolution.

REGULATORY FRAMEWORK

- The Companies Act, 2013
- Arbitration and Conciliation Act of 1996

INTRODUCTION

A professional opinion on any subject/ issue/ matter at hand is a written statement by an expert based on giver's professional understanding of that particular aspect of any matter. A person might want to know the correct legal position on a matter of interest or the likelihood of his winning a case if he initiates legal proceedings based on the information that he has supplied to the expert. Example, a client (querist) may request a tax opinion from its counsel to provide a basis for the avoidance of penalties, if the tax aspects of a transaction are later challenged.

The term "opinion" can be defined in a variety of ways, depending upon the context in which it is used. In business transactions, a legal opinion regarding a particular issue is customarily presented in an opinion letter and is widely understood to express the opinion giver's professional understanding of the legal principles generally applicable to a specific transaction or applicable to a particular aspect of the transaction. Many commentators view an opinion letter as a document that provides the opinion recipient with the opinion giver's professional judgment about how the highest court of the jurisdiction whose law is being addressed would resolve the issues covered by the opinion letter on the date of the opinion. It is widely recognized that neither an opinion letter nor any particular legal opinion expressed in it is intended to be or is a guarantee of a particular outcome. Companies may also seek opinion from evaluation and monitoring experts on the effectiveness of the projects being funded by its corporate social responsibilities (CSR) obligations under the Companies Act, 2013. ESG is another upcoming area where companies may seek written opinion of outside experts.

CASE FOR OPINION WRITING

An effective and legally sound legal opinion has an immense value. It can show where a party stands in a given factual matrix when looked from a legal perspective and also save time and money spent in futile litigation proceedings. Business savvy clients do not want to litigate, defend or enter into transactions without obtaining a written opinion from at least one legal expert if not more. Some of the common purposes for which legal opinion are sought are as follows:

1. Lawfulness of an action: Opinion letters are given when one wants to know if an action is lawful.
2. Legal consequences: Sometimes a party entering into a transaction obtains legal opinion to ascertain if the action will lead to desired legal consequences.
3. Answer questions: A client may be confused about an issue and they want professional guidance in the area. They also address the question raised by other professionals. Legal opinions provide an authoritative basis for reports, opinions, and reports on matters where other professionals lack the professional capability to make judgments. For example, an opinion regarding local law provided to foreign counsel.
4. Regulatory requirements: Sometimes legal opinion has to be sought because it is mandated by law to get the opinion of outside legal expert.
5. Compliance: A legal opinion can be sought for assessing the requirements of the regulatory regime so that the querist can meet the compliance requirement.
6. Protective shield: Clients sometimes desire the protection of an expert's legal opinion to be used as evidence of lack of mens rea in certain proceedings.
7. Designed to mislead: Sometimes promoters of unscrupulous schemes obtain as many opinions from different experts as is possible and use the one which is favourable to their scheme of things.

8. To satisfy contractual requirements: Sometimes a clause in commercial contracts require the opinion of an expert. E.g.: an opinion given by issuer's counsel to investors in connection with the sale of securities or by borrower's counsel to the lender pursuant to a loan agreement.
9. Due Diligence: Professionals and clients often cite due diligence as the principal reason for requesting opinion letters in business transactions.

TYPES OF LEGAL OPINIONS

1. Advices on Transaction: Due diligence is the principal reason for opinion letters in business transactions. An opinion letter may be one component of a party's due diligence, but it is not normally a substitute for due diligence performed by the opinion recipient and its counsel.
2. Advices on Law: Sometimes the client would want to know how the law will apply to a given situation. Without in-depth knowledge of law and legal research one cannot give an opinion to the satisfaction of the client. The proper way is to start with the cases and work through to reach a deduction as to the principle of law that covers the situation. Quite often however one forms a value judgment as to what the conclusion ought to be from first principles and moral feelings and then searches for the authorities to support this conclusion. This is top down reasoning should be avoided.
3. Opinions on Facts: The third type of opinion is one which is predominantly related to facts. One is given a series of statements and documents and asked whether on that material there are reasonable prospects of prosecuting or defending the claim. The matter may be a simple personal injury case in which the law is well settled. The real question is whether one's side's witnesses will be believed or not. The first problem about this sort of opinion is that seldom does one have any real knowledge of what the other side's witnesses are going to say. One often has little idea of the quality of one's own witnesses and none at all of that of the opposition's. Here one has to search relevant material from the material one is provided with and then arrive at the probabilities of success or failure.
4. Advices on Evidence: A special type of opinion is a brief to advice on evidence.
When advising on fact or law one should not be too positive. In relation to advices on quantum of damages one can never be sure so it is advisable to not give a precise figure but a range. Where the law is in a state of flux or doubtful the legal expert should always draw attention to this explaining why one cannot be more positive.

QUALITY OF WRITING

The primary purpose of a legal opinion is communication of advice to either a layman or professional client. It is therefore of the utmost importance that it is clear and in plain, understandable English. Every word of the legal opinion should be chosen because it communicates precisely the advice which the writer intends to convey.

It is important to write in plain English wherever possible. A good legal opinion will avoid archaic language and legalese. It will no doubt be conveying specialised legal advice and must therefore be as detailed as the writer thinks necessary. The use of plain English simply involves saying what needs to be said in the clearest way possible and avoiding unnecessary verbosity. There are times where technical terms will have to be used if they carry the precise meaning of the advice being delivered. This should not be shied away from. Perfect grammar, punctuation and precision of language are essential.

A legal opinion will often contain a complicated set of facts which will have to be sorted into specific legal issues and defined in legal terms. Clarity of expression is therefore vital. Clarity of expression can only be achieved through thorough planning and thought.

A thorough plan will lead to a logical structure. Any legal opinion will be conveying a particular point, but that point will inevitably need to be broken down into sections. Clarity of legal writing also requires conciseness. This does not necessarily imply brevity, but once the point has been made, nothing more need be said. Having said that, completeness and total accuracy is vital and conciseness should not come above giving full and precise advice.

Most of the time, the clients approach the expert with an unclear question. So, when drafting the questions, they need to be made more sensible. It must be ensured that the questions are phrased in a way that communicates the client's issues but in a more clear and understandable way.

FORM AND ELEMENTS OF THE OPINION LETTER

Coverage in Opinions

There is no form for a legal opinion prescribed by law or rule. Opinion letters, however, have developed a certain uniformity because of their repeated use. In general, a legal opinion will cover the following:

1. Introductory Matters: such as the date, the identity of the opinion recipient, the role of the opinion giver giving the opinion, and the purpose for which the opinion is given.
2. References: a general or specific recitation of the documents and other factual and legal matters reviewed by the opinion giver, including in some instances a statement of reliance on various factual assumptions.
3. Legal Conclusions and Qualification: the legal conclusions expressed in the opinion, and any qualifications to the legal conclusions.
4. Peculiar Matter: matters peculiar to the particular opinion, such as matters relative to opinions of local counsel in other jurisdictions and specific limitations on the use of the opinion.
5. Signature: the signature of the opinion giver.

Forms and Elements of Opinion

There is likely to be some resistance to a high fee charged for a short opinion. The work that the legal expert has done may not be obvious and therefore very short legal opinions are rare to find. Therefore, the form and essential elements can be as follows:

1. Introductory Matters
  - i. Title: It should be entitled OPINION or ADVICE and contain the title of the case in the heading.
  - ii. Date: The opinion speaks as of the date mentioned on the opinion letter and need not state separately the effective date of the opinion. If for some reason a conclusion expressed in the opinion is reached as of a date prior to the delivery of the opinion, the opinion giver may so specify in the opinion letter.
  - iii. Addressee: The opinion is normally addressed to a specified party in an individual capacity, to a party as representative of a larger group, or to an identified class of persons. In all cases, it is customary practice for the opinion recipient to be clearly identified in the opinion letter.

Generally, the only person or persons entitled to rely on an opinion are the person or persons to whom the opinion letter is specifically addressed. No additional limitation need be expressed in the opinion letter. As a matter of prudence, however, many professionals include a sentence at the conclusion of the opinion letter to the following effect:

The opinions set forth herein are rendered solely for your use in connection with the above transaction and may not be relied upon, delivered to or quoted by any other person or for any other purpose without our prior written consent.

In some limited instances, an opinion letter is intended to be relied upon by persons other than the stated addressee(s). Examples include an opinion letter addressed to an underwriter concerning the validity of a proposed stock issuance that is also to be relied on by the issuer's transfer agent, and an opinion letter of local counsel on which the principal opinion giver will rely to render its opinion. In those cases, the opinion letter normally states specifically who, in addition to the addressee, is entitled to rely upon the opinion.

2. Introduction

The first paragraph should serve as an introduction to the legal opinion, laying out the salient facts and what the expert has been asked to advise about. An opinion must set out the questions on which it is sought very clearly and unambiguously. If the Querist (which is what we call a person who seeks the opinion) is himself confused, his questions will be equally mindless. It is your duty as an expert to unravel his tangled skein of thought, identify the issues that are material and on which the relief he wants depends, and then frame them as questions. Of course, these must resemble the original questions, because otherwise the Querist will feel that you have not answered him, however stupid his questions might have been. If the querist is not very clear about the subject matter on which he/she seeks the opinion, then once the expert has formed the queries based on the briefing, it is always advisable to check with the querist if the expert has correctly formed the questions and proceed only after he/she has received a go-ahead from the querist. If it's not done there is a possibility that after the opinion is delivered, the querist might get around and say that the expert did not form the queries as per his briefing. Thankfully, such confused briefings are very rare in this field and most of the times the querist has very specific and precise questions that need to be answered.

3. Definitions

For purposes of brevity and clarity, it is advisable to define the principal terms used in the opinion. Whenever a term utilized in an opinion letter is derived from statutory law, the opinion customarily uses that term or provides an express definition. Terms that are defined in the underlying Agreement are most often given the same definitions in the opinion, either by defining each term in the opinion or by a reference to the Agreement, such as:

The terms used in this opinion letter that are defined in the Agreement have the same definitions when used herein, unless otherwise defined herein.

4. Understanding Facts of the Case

The obligation of an opinion giver to exercise diligence in determining the factual and legal bases for an opinion is implicit in every opinion letter. The first rule is always to commence the opinion by setting out the facts that have been given or have been presumed from the instructions given. Adopting the practice of commencing opinion by outlining the facts upon which one is advising serves another purpose as well. It crystallises those facts in one's mind, visualises any gaps as to which one may need to take further instructions or make assumptions and, where issues of fact are involved, suggests areas which need attention.

Any fact that has not been supplied should not be included in the narration. However, any inference or presumption one has made from the facts must be included and should not forget to mention that the inference or presumptions are his personal opinions. Facts should be stated in a manner which brings out the materials that will become material for answering questions, whether with an "yes" or a "no".

The advantage of listing down the facts is that if the ultimate conclusion is wrong, or inapposite, because the facts are wrong, the fault will be that of the client for giving the wrong data or at least the error may be veiled by the failure of the client or solicitor to adapt opinion to the true facts.

The opinion giver must be satisfied that he has reviewed or assumed (expressly or implicitly) sufficient facts to support each of the legal conclusions expressed in the opinion letter. In case of legal opinion in business transaction, in most instances the opinions in an opinion letter can be supported by an examination of documents, either in their original form or copies identified to the satisfaction of the opinion preparers, or of certificates of public officials or officers of the Company relating to factual matters.

Some opinion givers preface their opinion letters with a reference to a detailed list of the documents and certificates examined, together with either a statement that they have examined such other documents and have made such further legal and factual investigation as they consider necessary for purposes of rendering the opinion or, alternatively, a specific disclaimer to the effect that they have not made any other examination or factual investigation. Other opinion givers prefer to deliver opinion letters that merely set forth language to the following effect:

We have been furnished with and have examined originals or copies, certified or otherwise identified to our satisfaction, of all such records of the Company, agreements and other instruments, certificates of officers and representatives of the Company, certificates of public officials and other documents as we have considered necessary to provide a basis for the opinions hereinafter expressed. We have not independently established the facts stated therein.

At times, the decision whether to set forth a list of documents and certificates reviewed by the opinion giver is dictated by the opinion recipient. Certain lending institutions and securities underwriters desire the 'long-form' opinion letter containing such a list to provide the additional comfort that the opinion giver has reviewed the listed documents for purposes of its opinion. In most instances, however, the decision is based on the preference of the opinion giver. If the opinion giver intends to limit the scope of the opinion to the documents and certificates listed, it should include an express statement to that effect in the opinion.

a. Reliance on Certificates of Public Officials:

Usually opinions include legal conclusions concerning the corporate nature and existence of the Company and its ability to transact business. They also often include legal conclusions concerning the good standing and ability of the Company to transact business in other jurisdictions. These opinions customarily are based on certificates of public officials in the various jurisdictions involved. The principal certificate among them is the certified copy of the Articles of Incorporation, together with amendments. This certification represents conclusive evidence of the formation of the corporation and prima facie evidence of its existence for all purposes.

Certain certificates maybe required from various state agencies. For example, in loans backed by mortgage of immovable property, certificates showing the title to the property may be required. Many states have implemented websites on which such information can be accessed at any time. The information on any particular website can only be relied upon as current to the extent specified by the state agency responsible for that website.

Because certificates of public officials will normally bear a date before the delivery of the opinion, the opinion giver must decide what additional verification, if any, is necessary for purposes of the opinion. Additional verification may or may not be necessary depending upon the facts and circumstances of the case. In general, customary practice does not require that every certificate be updated. Opinion recipients routinely accept opinions that in part are based on certificates of a reasonably recent date.

b. Officers' Certificates:

In business transactions opinion preparers typically obtain two somewhat analogous types of officers' certificates:

- (1) certificates verifying the authenticity of referenced documents; and

- (2) certificates relating to factual matters not readily verifiable by the opinion preparers or only verifiable at considerable cost.

A common example of the first type of certificate is a certificate of the secretary of the Company certifying that, attached to the certificate, is a true copy of the articles, bylaws and corporate minutes or resolutions pertaining to the transaction.

The second type of officers' certificate relates to factual matters not readily verifiable or only verifiable at considerable cost by the opinion giver when preparing the opinion. These certificates are used as factual support for legal conclusions expressed in the opinion. The need for them arises, for example, when an opinion giver renders an opinion that the transaction will not cause a breach of the terms of any loan agreement to which the client is a party. The opinion giver is competent to review the loan agreements but may need an officers' certificate to identify the loan agreements to which the client is a party since, typically, the opinion giver is not in a position to know what agreements to review.

The opinion giver must use its own judgment in determining under what circumstances (and to what extent) reliance on factual matters contained in the certificates can be justified. The opinion giver should also exercise its own judgment in determining those circumstances and matters which reasonably should be supported by an officers' certificate.

c. Documentary Examination Assumptions:

Opinion givers customarily assume that the signatures on all documents examined are genuine, that copies of documents examined conform to the originals, and that such documents are binding on the other parties. Opinion givers often state these assumptions expressly, although by customary usage, they are implicit and need not be expressly stated. If stated, a common formulation of the assumption is as follows:

In rendering this opinion, we have assumed the authenticity of all documents submitted to us as originals; the conformity to originals of all documents submitted to us as copies; and the accuracy, completeness and authenticity of all certificates of public officers.

5. Research on Relevant Case Laws

After the facts are over the opinion giver may begin his analysis on which the opinion depends. There is no need to set out basic principles of law with which the opinion recipient will be familiar. Otherwise, authorities should be cited to support propositions of laws and when doing so a full citation should be given. It is important to prioritise the authorities cited in a legal opinion in order of importance to the point being addressed. If a particular case is central to the reasoning, the basis on which the case was decided should be set out fully in the legal opinion. It may even be appropriate to quote directly from the judgment although often paraphrasing the effect of the decision will usually suffice. The case being cited must always be referred back to the facts being dealt with in the legal opinion. The most authoritative case on the point of law being dealt with must always be cited. For example, there is no point citing a High Court judgment which has been overruled by a subsequent judgement of the Supreme Court.

An easy way of analysing is to first set out the law and the provisions of the law (or laws) that are applicable. Then go on to summarize the binding precedents (judgments of the Supreme Court and the High Court of the State exercising jurisdiction over the subject matter) with full citations. If the choice of extracts is precise enough, the ultimate opinion will almost automatically appear from the extracts of the judgments that have been quoted.

With regard to statute, much of the same advice will apply. If there is a statutory provision which deals directly with the subject of the legal opinion then this should be clearly stated and its effects fully explained. Care must be taken to ensure that any statutory provision being cited is in force at the time of writing the legal opinion.

In case of business transactions an opinion letter covers only law that a lawyer exercising customary professional diligence would reasonably be expected to recognize as being applicable to the opinion giver's client, the transaction or the Agreement to which the opinion relates.

6. Expression of the Opinion

Once the facts are organised, a legal framework needs to be constructed into which these facts can be logically slotted. A legal opinion in a personal injury action for example will be based on negligence and therefore will usually be structured along the lines of duty, breach, damages, causation, foreseeability and contributory negligence. In a negligence legal opinion it will be vital to assess the level of damages that the client can expect to receive or pay out. This will be at the forefront of the client's mind.

The substantive portion of the opinion normally begins with an introductory statement referring to matters upon which the opinion giver has relied. This introductory statement is generally phrased in a manner that does not limit the opinion giver's investigation to the matters specifically described, but rather indicates that the opinion giver has made such further investigation as it considers appropriate under the circumstances. An example of such an introductory statement reads as follows:

Based on the foregoing and upon such further investigation as we have considered necessary, it is our opinion that:

The opinion can be in the form of summary statement of conclusions or, where a series of discrete questions have been asked, precise answers to the particular questions asked. If the argument has been properly conducted these answers may well be monosyllabic. "Yes", "no", or "does not arise". However, when the monosyllabic answers cannot apply, the answers must be kept short and to the point. Where the querist has asked "Is the transaction a valid mortgage", the answer can be "Yes" or "No", followed by "in view of what has been said in paragraphs such and such of the facts and paragraphs such and such of the analysis". However, where the question is "Why is this not a valid mortgage" the opinion giver cannot answer with 'yes' or 'no' but must explain, though with reference to what has been written in the analysis sections.

7. Qualifications

In practice, opinions are frequently subject to qualifications that narrow their apparent scope. Some opinions may be qualified by assumptions or exceptions. Opinions also may be qualified as to scope, particularly when the opinion covers a specialized area of the law. Qualifications take various forms, depending upon the opinion giver's preference and the length of the qualification. If the qualification is short and applies only to one portion of the opinion letter, it often will be included in the operative language of the specific opinion by the reference "subject to _____" or "except "

If the qualification pertains to more than one portion of the opinion letter or is lengthy, it will usually appear separately from the operative opinion clauses. Typical clauses introducing such qualifications include the following: "our opinion in paragraph _____ is subject to;" or "we express no opinion on the effect of;" or "in rendering our opinion in paragraph we have assumed that."

To simplify the analysis process, number all previous paragraphs. This will relieve you of the burden of repeating previously written information.

8. Special Matters

a. Foreign Law and Reliance on Local Counsel:

The principal opinion giver for a party in a business transaction typically renders an opinion covering the laws of the state and applicable central laws and sets forth this limitation in the text of the opinion. The opinion giver may also be requested to furnish an opinion on matters governed by the laws of some other country. Unless the limited nature of the review of another jurisdiction's law is described in the opinion, because the opinion giver would likely be held to the same standard as a lawyer licensed or otherwise competent to give advice on the law of the other jurisdiction, the opinion giver will, in most instances, seek the advice and opinion of local counsel.

An opinion giver should, however, always be cognizant of the fact that rendering an opinion based upon legal principles applicable in foreign jurisdictions exposes the opinion giver to liability for a negligent interpretation of that law.

The retention of local counsel to furnish an opinion raises different questions with respect to the principal opinion giver's responsibility for the opinions expressed in the local lawyer's opinion. If the principal opinion giver renders an opinion on the same matters as the local lawyer, the opinion giver customarily expresses its reliance on the local counsel's opinion (an example of recommended language is included below) rather than simply restating the local counsel's opinion in the body of its opinion:

In rendering the opinions expressed in paragraphs, and _____, we have relied [solely] on the opinion of _____, in so far as such opinions relate to the laws of _____, and we have made no independent examination of the laws of that jurisdiction.

When expressly stating reliance on the opinion of local counsel, the principal opinion giver's sole responsibility is to exercise reasonable care in the selection of local counsel (if, in fact, the principal opinion giver selects such counsel). The opinion giver is not responsible for independently investigating or otherwise verifying the law of the foreign jurisdiction. The principal opinion giver may assume a broader responsibility to examine the statutory and case law of the foreign jurisdiction if the principal opinion giver's opinion letter states that the opinion giver "concur[s]" with the legal opinions provided in the opinion letter of local counsel or that the local counsel's opinion letter is satisfactory in substance. The preferred and more recent common practice is for the local counsel's opinion letter to be addressed to the recipient of the principal opinion letter (rather than to the principal opinion giver) and for the principal opinion giver not to render an opinion on that subject.

b. Reliance on Opinion of 'Special' Counsel:

Considerations similar to those arising in the selection and use of local counsel apply in the retention of special counsel. A lawyer who has no expertise in a specialized matter should not render an opinion in the specialized area, and should refer the matter to a lawyer qualified in that field. The principal opinion giver normally does not furnish an opinion on the same matters as the specialist, even an opinion rendered solely in reliance on the specialist's opinion. The specialist customarily is retained specifically because the principal opinion giver does not have sufficient expertise to render the opinion in question.

9. Signature

The procedure typically followed by most law firms is for the opinion letter to be manually signed in the name of the firm. Some law firms follow different practices, such as "XY&Z by A, a partner" or "A on behalf of XY&Z."

10. Usual disclaimers

Disclaimers can save the opinion giver from being reported for malpractice if the opinion is wrong. Under the disclaimer, it is written that the opinions provided are based on the law as per the time of drafting the opinion. Moreover, it is also indicated that the opinion is also based on the documents and facts provided. All the documents that the clients provided for the sake of drafting the legal opinion can also be listed.

THINGS TO BE KEPT IN MIND WHILE PREPARING FOR OPINION

Differences between opinion givers and opinion recipients generally arise over:

- (1) the time and expense required to render an opinion on a matter that is peripheral to the primary concerns of the opinion recipient,
- (2) the appropriate scope of a particular opinion,
- (3) whether the opinion will cover matters that are essentially factual in nature,
- (4) whether the opinion will cover matters about which there is some recognized legal uncertainty, and
- (5) requests for what historically were referred to as “comfort opinions” but are more properly referred to as “negative assurances.

1. Opinions that are not Cost-Effective

Opinion givers are held to certain standards of skill and care in rendering legal opinions. Although the nature and extent of the applicable standards of care are not defined, the opinion giver is obligated to avoid misleading opinion recipients about the scope and depth of any investigation undertaken. Moreover, professionals are responsible for conducting customary legal and factual diligence in rendering legal opinions. For this reason, rendering an opinion letter is a costly process, even in the context of a relatively straightforward matter or business transaction. In determining whether a particular opinion is appropriate under the circumstances and, if so, what the nature and scope of that opinion should be, the opinion giver must consider the costs of giving the opinion relative to the benefits to the client of satisfying the request of the opinion recipient.

2. Inappropriate Scope

In a business transaction a number of opinions would be considered inappropriate because their scope is not reasonably within the competence of the opinion giver or they are not cost-justified. Examples of such opinions include the following:

- i. the client is qualified to do business as a foreign corporation in all jurisdictions in which its property or activities require qualification or in which the failure to qualify would have a material adverse effect on the client;
- ii. the client is not in material violation of any central, state or local law, regulation or administrative ruling; and
- iii. the client is not in material violation of any contract, indenture or undertaking to which it is a party or by which it may be bound.

The common characteristic of these examples is that they are essentially open-ended. Requests for opinions of this sort inherently cast into question whether the party requesting the opinion may be effectively seeking legal “insurance” rather than legal “assurance.” an opinion giver may properly refuse to give such opinions.

3. Confirmations of Fact; Negative Assurance

Opinion givers should take care that the opinion letter makes a clear distinction between those portions that constitute actual opinions on matters of law and other portions (including confirmations of a purely factual nature) that do not.

Opinion givers generally decline to provide confirmations of purely factual matters. Although often characterized as an opinion, these confirmations in essence ask the opinion giver to express a view not founded on professional competence. The function of a legal opinion is to provide informed judgments on matters of law, not assurance regarding factual statements that the parties to a transaction are in a better position to verify. An opinion giver normally should not be asked to state that it lacks knowledge of particular factual matters. Opinion givers generally should not be asked for opinions on the outcome of pending or threatened claims or legal actions.

4. Opinions Regarding Issues of Significant Legal Uncertainty

A fourth common area of disagreement involves legal issues that, although potentially appropriate for inclusion in an opinion, are subject to significant legal uncertainty. If the uncertainty extends only to one of the opinions expressed, the question is frequently resolved by a “qualification” to that opinion. The “qualification” may be a statement that the particular opinion does not cover the effect of a certain law or laws or may identify the uncertainty. Such qualifications are usually acceptable if they relate to demonstrable legal uncertainties.

An opinion giver should not render an unqualified opinion on an issue as to which there is significant uncertainty. If there is disagreement regarding the existence or degree of the legal uncertainty, a compromise is sometimes reached in the form of a “reasoned” opinion. In that situation, the opinion giver does not simply express a legal conclusion but also presents a discussion of relevant statutory and judicial authorities, often (but not always) indicating that the matter is uncertain or “not free from doubt,” and stating a prediction of the likely judicial resolution of the matter if the issue were appropriately presented to a court of competent jurisdiction. By their nature, these opinions can require substantially more time and effort in their preparation than would ordinarily be the case.

Where an issue of legal uncertainty exists, the opinion giver should discuss the matter with its client before agreeing to issue the requested opinion because the opinion may influence the form or even the viability of the business transaction as proposed.

5. Fraudulent or Misleading Opinions and the Limits of Professional Competence

A professional should not render an opinion that he/ she knows would be misleading. In addition, a professional should not render an opinion based on factual assumptions if he/ she knows that the assumptions are false or that reliance on those facts is unreasonable. In addition, a professional should not be asked to render opinions on matters that are outside his or her area of professional competence. Where an opinion is appropriate but beyond the competence of the opinion giver, then the opinion giver should associate competent professional to render the opinion. In no event should a professional be asked for opinions that are generally beyond the professional competence of professionals from that area of practice, such as asking a Professional to express his opinion on financial statement analysis or valuation.

6. The Time to prepare Opinion Letter

Sometimes one may be faced with the necessity of giving an urgent opinion or one when the time is not available to allow one to perform the depth of research one would wish. This may occur because the matter is truly urgent or more often because the client has delayed moving for advice until the last possible moment. In such a case one should qualify the opinion with a disclaimer.

Sometimes the reason for urgency might be of one’s own making. Even in these circumstances one should not make the mistake of giving a half baked, half thought out opinion over the telephone and promising the written advice at a later date. If the opinion giver is wrong not only will he face considerable embarrassment in correcting his informal opinion but if his client has acted on the faith of it, the opinion giver will have no defence to a claim for damages. Further the desire of opinion giver to make the final opinion accord with his interim one will destroy his objectivity.

Example: Mr. A, comes to you for taking opinion on a matter, which is required to be used in a return to be filled on the next day.

In this scenario, proper due diligence should be done before giving any opinion.

STANDARDS APPLICABLE TO PREPARATION OF AN OPINION

1. Generally

A professional is expected to be well informed and to exercise such skill, prudence and diligence as professionals of ordinary skill and capacity commonly possess and exercise in the performance of the tasks which they undertake. When a matter falls within a recognized area of legal specialty, such as tax or securities law, it is advisable to take that assignment only if it falls within the competence of the professional.

2. Customary Practice

An attorney does not ordinarily guarantee the soundness of his opinions and, accordingly, is not liable for every mistake he may make in his practice. He is expected, however, to possess knowledge of those plain and elementary principles of law which are commonly known by well informed attorneys, and to discover those additional rules of law which, although not commonly known, may readily be found by standard research techniques.

The opinion preparers should devote the time needed to interpret and apply legal principles relevant to the situation at hand, ascertain (through appropriate inquiry and certificates of officers of the Company) the facts that underlie the opinion, and identify areas of significant uncertainty (if any) in the interpretation and application of legal principles. In certain cases, opinion givers may conclude that it is necessary to conduct research with respect to particular legal principles or to conduct an investigation of the underlying facts relevant to the opinion.

3. Fraudulent or Misleading Opinions

An opinion giver may be liable for an opinion that constitutes fraudulent misrepresentation. A professional owes a duty to non-clients to refrain from fraudulent misrepresentation. It is generally understood that, regardless of compliance with other standards, and even if an opinion is technically correct, a professional should not render an opinion that he recognizes would be misleading to the opinion recipient.

4. Ethical Issues Relating to the Provision of Opinions to Non-clients

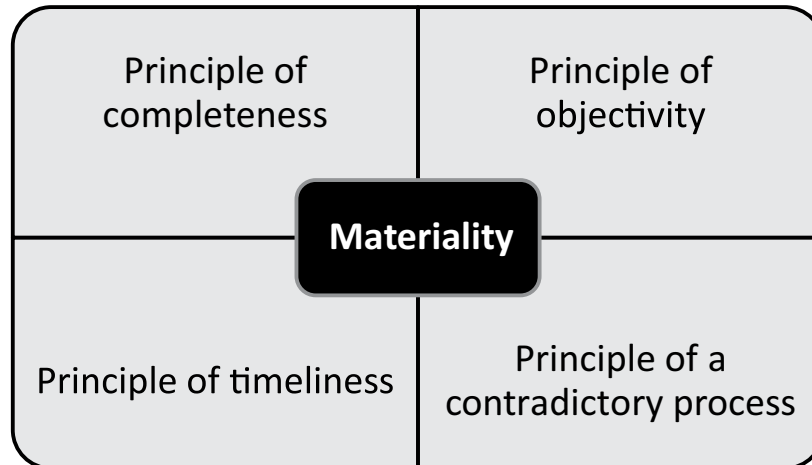

A professional delivering an opinion letter to a non-client should also consider ethical principles. For example, rendering an opinion to a non-client may conflict with the opinion giver's ethical obligations to maintain the confidences of its client. He should decline to give legal opinion in such cases.

COMPANY SECRETARY AUDITING STANDARD ON OPINION WRITING

The Company Secretaries Auditing Standard (CSAS-3) is applicable to the Auditor undertaking Audit under any statute. The Standard deals with basis and manner for forming Auditor's opinion on subject matter of the audit. The objective of CSAS-3 is to enable the Auditor to lay down the basis and manner for evaluation of the conclusions drawn from the Audit Evidence obtained and express the opinion through written report.

Process of forming an opinion under CSAS-3

Step 1: Materiality

The Auditor shall consider Materiality while forming his opinion and adhere to:

- a. The principle of completeness that requires the Auditor to consider all relevant Audit Evidence before issuing a report;
- b. The principle of objectivity that requires the Auditor to apply professional judgment and scepticism in order to ensure that all reports are factually correct and that findings or conclusions are presented in a relevant and appropriate manner.
- c. The principle of timeliness that implies preparing the report in due time; and
- d. The principle of a contradictory process that implies checking the accuracy of facts and incorporating responses from concerned persons.

Note: The Auditor may consider various judgments, clarifications, opinion, conflicting interpretations while framing the opinion to the best of his professional acumen.

Step 2: Precedence and Practices

The Auditor shall adhere to generally accepted precedence and practices in relation to forming of an opinion as may be available from historical perspective of any kind of audit.

Step 3: Third Party Report or Opinion

The Auditor shall adhere to the following while forming an opinion based on Third Party reports or opinions:

- (a) The Auditor shall indicate the fact of use of Third Party report or opinion and shall also record the circumstances necessitating the use of third party report or opinion;
- (b) The Auditor shall indicate the fact if Third Party report or opinion is provided by the Auditee;
- (c) The Auditor shall consider the important findings/ observation of Third Party;
- (d) The Auditor shall, if necessary and feasible, carry out a supplemental test to check veracity of the Third Party report or opinion.

Step 4: Form of an Opinion*1. Unmodified Opinion

The Auditor shall express an unmodified opinion when based on Audit Evidence, the Auditor concludes that:

- a. there is due compliance with the applicable laws in terms of timelines and process; and
- b. the Records as relevant for the audit verified by him as a whole are free from Misstatement and maintained in accordance with the applicable laws.

2. Modified Opinion

The Auditor shall express modified opinion when the Auditor concludes that:

- (a) based on the Audit Evidence obtained, there is non-compliance with the applicable laws in terms of timelines or process; or
- (b) based on the Audit Evidence obtained, the Records as a whole are not free from Misstatement; or are not maintained in accordance with applicable laws; or
- (c) he is unable to obtain sufficient and appropriate Audit Evidence to conclude that there is due compliance with the applicable laws in terms of timelines and process; or
- (d) he is unable to obtain sufficient and appropriate Audit Evidence to conclude that the Records as a whole are free from Misstatement; or are maintained in accordance with applicable laws.

Whenever the Auditor expresses a modified opinion or disclaims an opinion, the text of the opinion shall be either in italics or bold letters.

3. Limitation

If, after accepting the Audit Engagement, the Appointing Authority imposes a limitation on the scope of the audit which, in the opinion of the Auditor, is likely to result in the need to express a modified opinion or to disclaim an opinion, the Auditor shall request the Appointing Authority to remove the limitation.

If the Appointing Authority refuses or fails to remove the limitation, the Auditor shall communicate the matter to the Management and determine whether it is possible to perform alternative procedure to obtain sufficient and appropriate Audit Evidence.

If the Auditor is unable to obtain sufficient and appropriate Audit Evidence, the Auditor shall determine the implications as follows:

- a. If the Auditor concludes that the possible effects of unavailable Audit Evidence could be non-material, the Auditor shall modify the opinion; or

- b. If the Auditor concludes that the possible effects of unavailable Audit Evidence could be material, the Auditor shall express disclaimer of opinion.

Step 5: Auditor's Responsibility

The Auditor's Report shall include a section with the heading "Auditor's Responsibility". Auditor's Report shall state that the responsibility of the Auditor is to express opinion on the compliance with the applicable laws and maintenance of records based on audit. The Auditor's Report shall also state that the audit was conducted in accordance with applicable Standards. The Auditor's Report shall also explain that those Standards require that the Auditor comply with statutory and regulatory requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about compliance with applicable laws and maintenance of Records.

Auditor's Report shall also state that due to the inherent limitations of an audit including internal, financial and operating controls, there is an unavoidable risk that some Misstatements or material non-compliances may not be detected, even though the audit is properly planned and performed in accordance with the Standards.

Step 6: Format of the Report

The report shall be addressed to the Appointing Authority unless otherwise specified in the Audit Engagement Letter or provided in the applicable law. The report shall be detailed enough to serve its intended purpose. Where specific formats are prescribed, those formats shall be followed for reporting. If any information cannot be appropriately placed within the paragraphs of the report, it shall be given in form of annexure(s).

Signature block shall mention the name of the audit firm along with the registration number, if any, the name of the Auditor, certificate of practice number, the membership number of the Auditor, specifying whether associate or fellow member, as applicable. The Auditor shall clearly mention date and place of signing the report, in case report is signed by two different persons on different dates or different places; same shall be mentioned in the report.

SAMPLE FORMAT OF OPINIONS

A few sample opinion pieces can give a better understanding of the practical aspects of opinion writing. Professionals have to keep in mind that they need to focus on the structure and the presentation of the opinion and not the opinion per say.

On the basis of the reference received by _____, the following question has been framed for legal opinion:

Question: Is the appointment of a person as a sole arbitrator by one party barred in law even if the same be provided in the arbitration agreement between the parties?

1. The Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 does not bar the appointment of a person as a sole arbitrator by one party. However, it places certain fetters on such appointments and these have further been elaborated by the Supreme Court and various High Courts in a number of judgments. Having said that, there are still certain areas that need to be ironed out.

2. According to section 12(3) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996,

An arbitrator may be challenged only if—

- (a) circumstances exist that give rise to justifiable doubts as to his independence or impartiality, or
- (b) he does not possess the qualifications agreed to by the parties.

3. Clause (a) of section 12(3) is clear in its language that the appointment of an arbitrator can be challenged if there are circumstances that give rise to justifiable doubts as to his independence or impartiality. Appointment of a sole arbitrator by one of the parties raises justifiable doubts as to the arbitrator's independence or impartiality. Thus the other party can always challenge the appointment of such an arbitrator in Court and the appointment of the arbitrator is most likely to be struck down.
4. The Supreme Court in the matter of TRF Limited v. Energo Engineering Projects Ltd, (2017) 8 SCC 377 ruled against unilateral appointments of arbitrators and further clarified it in Perkins Eastman Architects DPC v. HSCC (India) Limited 2019 (9) SCC OnLine SC 1517, where it held that a party to an arbitration agreement can neither appoint oneself or any other person unilaterally as the sole arbitrator. In both these cases the arbitration clause provided that only the officer at a specified rank or someone nominated by that officer could act as the sole arbitrator.
5. The reason for holding it so is because a person having an interest in the dispute or in the outcome or decision thereof, must not only be ineligible to act as an arbitrator but must also not be eligible to appoint anyone else as an arbitrator and that such person cannot and should not have any role in charting out any course of the dispute resolution by having the power to appoint an arbitrator. In a case where only one party has a right to appoint a sole arbitrator, its choice will always have an element of exclusivity in determining or charting the course for dispute resolution.
6. If the arbitration clause provides for appointment of sole arbitrator by one of the parties, such arbitrator should be appointed with the consent of the other party. However, if one party appoints a sole arbitrator and the other party does not object to it, it would be considered as a waiver and that appointment would be considered valid. A point to be kept in mind is that such an appointment should not be made by a person who himself is disentitled to act as an arbitrator under the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996.

CASE STUDIES ON OPINION WRITING*CASE STUDY 1

Mr. X was acting as a director on the Board of Directors of a company, going by the name of CSCM Private Ltd., between 2006 and 2008. Mr. X is also a shareholder in the said company, and owns approximately 25.66% equity shares. He drew a salary of Rs. 1.50 Lakh per month.

Commissioner of Central Taxes GST, based on the information received, that CSCM Private Ltd. was availing Input Tax Credit (ITC) against fake/ineligible invoices, commenced investigation, under section 67 of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017, against CSCM Private Ltd.

Mr. X, as per the commissioner, in her statement made to the concerned officer, inter alia, admitted to the fact that he had acted as a director of the company, between 2006 and 2008, and since then, he has been working in the company in the capacity of a mentor/advisor.

Furthermore, Mr. X is also said to have stated that, it is in her capacity as the mentor/advisor to company, that he received Rs. 18 Lakh in the concerned FY i.e. 2019-2020, from the company. According to Mr. X, this money was given as she had been providing “strategic guidance” to the Company.

On the basis of the reference received by _____, the following question has been framed for legal opinion:

Question: Whether the attachment of Bank Account of director is sustainable merely on the ground of allegation against Company.

1. Section 83 of the Central Goods and Services Act, 2017

Provisional attachment to protect revenue in certain cases

- (1) Where during the pendency of any proceedings under section 62 or section 63 or section 64 or section 67 or section 73 or section 74, the Commissioner is of the opinion that for the purpose of protecting the interest of the Government revenue, it is necessary so to do, he may, by order in writing attach provisionally any property, including bank account, belonging to the taxable person in such manner as may be prescribed.
- (2) Every such provisional attachment shall cease to have effect after the expiry of a period of one year from the date of the order made under sub-section (1).

2. The Delhi High Court in the case of Roshni Sana Jaiswal v. Commissioner of Central Taxes GST Delhi (East) W.P.(C) NO. 2348 OF 2021 CM NO. 6860 OF 2021 has inter alia decided as under:

The petitioner claimed, in her voluntary statement, that she was paid Rs. 1.50 crores in the FY 2019-2020 for rendering services in her capacity as a mentor/advisor to Milkfood Ltd. Therefore, even if we assume, for the moment, that, since investigations are on against the taxable person, and therefore, proceedings are pending under section 67 of the Act, there is nothing placed on record to show that there was material available with the respondent, linking the petitioner to purported fake invoices. In other words, in the absence of such material, the impugned action concerning provisional attachment of the petitioner's bank accounts, which is otherwise a "draconian" step, was unsustainable. In the zeal to protect the interest of the revenue, the respondent cannot attach any and every property, including bank accounts of persons, other than the taxable person.

Analysis

In view the above quoted provisions and the case decided by the Hon'ble High Court of Delhi, attachment of the petitioner's bank accounts may be unsustainable

CASE STUDY 2

A foreign garment brand outsources production to a number of factories in India. Subscribed to the concept of 'Living Wage', the brand wants the factories to pay its workers some extra allowance so that the workers cash in hand is more than minimum wages set by the Government. The Brand intends to pay to factory this extra amount but wants all of it to go into workers hands. The brand had entered into a discussion with its suppliers regarding paying this additional 'Living wage allowance' on a monthly basis to workers but there was some hesitancy on the part of the factories.

The Brand wants to understand the financial implications of paying this extra allowance for the factories and how should the Brand move forward on this.

Opinion

Date: _____

Dear _____

On the basis of the reference received by _____, the following question has been framed for legal opinion:

Question: What could be the possible reason for factories'/ employers' reluctance to pay the 'Living wage allowance' to its workers when the Company (Querist) will be paying that amount to the factory/ employer?

1. The reluctance of factories to pay additional living wage allowance stems from the increased financial liability for the factories that the Querist did not factor in while coming up with the additional allocation for living wage allowance.
2. To get the employer on board for payment of living wage, the Brand must ensure that the financial burden on the employer does not increase because of the payment of living wage. The financial burden on employer can increase in atleast four ways:
  - a. Through employer's contribution to PF that is currently fixed at 12 percent of basic wages, dearness allowance and retaining allowance.
  - b. Through employer's contribution to ESI that is currently fixed at 3.25 percent of wages.
  - c. Through payment of gratuity that is contingent on last drawn salary/ wages.
  - d. Through payment of bonus that is fixed as a certain per cent of annual salary or wage.
3. Except in rare cases where the employer is willing to bear the additional financial responsibility, the Brand must either ensure that the employer's contributions/ payments remain unchanged. The problem with optimising the payment of additional amount becomes complicated because the contributions of the employer and bonus and gratuity payments by him are dependent on different definitions of wages/ salary. Moreover, in States that have Professional Tax in India, the brand might also want to structure the payment of additional amount so that the employee does not get caught in its net.

4. Provident Fund:

According to section 6 of Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952, the contribution which shall be paid by the employer to the Fund shall be ten per cent. of the basic wages, dearness allowance and retaining allowance (if any) for the time being payable to each of the employees (whether employed by him directly or by or through a contractor), and the employees' contribution shall be equal to the contribution payable by the employer in respect of him (a proviso empowers the Central Government to increase this contribution to 12 per cent.). Explanation to the section says that for the purposes of this section, dearness allowance shall be deemed to include also the cash value of any food concession allowed to the employee.

Thus the contribution of the employer and the employee is based on basic wages, dearness allowance and retaining allowance and dearness allowance includes cash value of any food concession allowed to the employee.

According to section 2(b) of the Act:

"basic wages" means all emoluments which are earned by an employee while on duty or on leave or on holidays with wages in either case in accordance with the terms of the contract of employment and which are paid or payable in cash to him, but does not include—

- (i) the cash value of any food concession;
- (ii) any dearness allowance (that is to say, all cash payments by whatever name called paid to an employee on account of a rise in the cost of living), house-rent allowance, overtime allowance, bonus, commission or any other similar allowance payable to the employee in respect of his employment or of work done in such employment;
- (iii) any presents made by the employer.

Therefore, the PF contribution is not dependent on house rent allowance, overtime allowance, bonus commission or any other similar allowance payable to the employee in respect of his employment or of work done in such employment or any presents made by the employer.

5. Employee's State Insurance:

Under the ESI Act, the contribution to ESIC is fixed as a certain percent of 'wages'.

Section 2(22) of the ESI Act defines wages as:

"wages" means all remuneration paid or payable, in cash to an employee, if the terms of the contract of employment, express or implied, were fulfilled and includes any payment to an employee in respect of any period of authorised leave, lock-out, strike which is not illegal or lay-off and] other additional remuneration, if any, paid at intervals not exceeding two months, but does not include—

- (a) any contribution paid by the employer to any pension fund or provident fund, or under this Act;
- (b) any travelling allowance or the value of any travelling concession;
- (c) any sum paid to the person employed to defray special expenses entailed on him by the nature of his employment; or
- (d) any gratuity payable on discharge;

The definition of 'wages' under the ESI Act is wide but it excludes any remuneration that is paid at an interval exceeding two months. Therefore, if the living wage allowance is paid at a quarterly frequency, it would keep that amount outside the ambit of wages and no ESI contribution on that extra amount will have to be made.

6. Payment of Gratuity:

The relevant part of the Act says that for every completed year of service or part thereof in excess of six months, the employer shall pay gratuity to an employee at the rate of fifteen days' wages based on the rate of wages last drawn by the employee concerned [section 4(2)].

Section 2(s) defines wages as:

"wages" means all emoluments which are earned by an employee while on duty or on leave in accordance with the terms and conditions of his employment and which are paid or are payable to him in cash and includes dearness allowance but does not include any bonus, commission, house rent allowance, overtime wages and any other allowance.

Thus the definition of wages for the purpose of gratuity is restricted and gives the Employer the freedom to pay living wage allowance without increasing the financial burden on the employer in case the worker retires after the applicable period.

7. Payment of Bonus:

The Payment of Bonus Act requires that a minimum bonus which shall be 8.33 per cent of the salary or wage earned by the employee during the accounting year or one hundred rupees, whichever is higher must be paid, whether or not the employer has any allocable surplus in the accounting year:

As per section 2(21) of the Act:

"salary or wage" means all remuneration (other than remuneration in respect of over-time work) capable of being expressed in terms of money, which would, if the terms of employment, express or implied, were fulfilled, be payable to an employee in respect of his employment or of work done in such employment and includes dearness allowance (that is to say, all cash payments, by whatever name called, paid to an employee on account of a rise in the cost of living), but does not include—

- (i) any other allowance which the employee is for the time being entitled to;

- (ii) the value of any house accommodation or supply of light, water, medical attendance or other amenity or of any service or of any concessional supply of food grains or other articles;
- (iii) any traveling concession;
- (iv) any bonus (including incentive, production and attendance bonus);
- (v) any contribution paid or payable by the employer to any pension fund or provident fund or for the benefit of the employee under any law for the time being in force;
- (vi) any retrenchment compensation or any gratuity or other retirement benefit payable to the employee or any ex gratia payment made to him;
- (vii) any commission payable to the employee.

Explanation. – Where an employee is given in lieu of the whole or part of the salary or wage payable to him, free food allowance or free food by his employer, such food allowance or the value of such food shall, for the purpose of this clause, be deemed to form part of the salary or wage of such employee;

The definition under the Act excludes a number of items and gives Brand the freedom to pay Living Wage allowance without increasing the Bonus Payment by the employer.

8. Any additional payment to workers should be made after considering the above four contributions/ payments by the employer and operating under the presumption that the objective of the whole exercise is to increase payment to workers (so that they achieve 'living wage') without increasing the financial burden on the employer and to avoid incidence of tax on workers through legally permissible means.
9. It must be clear that PF contribution depends on basic wages, dearness allowance and retaining allowance. PF contribution by employers is an additional financial burden for the employers and they try to keep it to the legal minimum. Believing (genuinely or not, is a separate matter) that the definition of 'basic wages' in the PF Act allowed certain allowances to be excluded from the definition of basic wages, the employers started paying workers a number of different allowances like canteen allowance, leave allowance, dress allowance etc. This allowed them to give workers a wage hike without increasing their (or workers') PF contribution. The Government authority that ensures compliance with the PF Act and has wide ranging powers believed that exempting allowances apart from the ones specifically excluded in the definition as per the Act was nothing but an attempt to camouflage basic wage as allowances to avoid PF contribution and initiated action. The matter went to the Courts and was finally settled in the Supreme Court of India in 2019 (The Regional Provident Fund Commissioner (II) West Bengal vs. Vivekananda Vidyamandir and Others) which ruled in favour of the PF authority.
10. After the said ruling, the legal position is as follows:
  - a. Those wages which are universally, necessarily and ordinarily paid to all the employees across the board are basic wage.
  - b. Where the payment is available to those who avail the opportunity more than others, the amount paid for that cannot be included in the basic wage.

The second point would cover things like overtime allowance, leave encashment etc.

11. After this ruling by the Supreme Court the proliferation of various types of allowances by employers has stopped. The factories/ employers believe that if living wage allowance is paid to workers under whatever head, for the purpose of PF he will have to consider it as a part of basic wage and consequently its PF contribution will increase.

12. One can still pay an additional amount on a monthly basis and legitimately say that the payment does not fall under point 1 above. For example, paying only those workers that are involved in Brand's production and not across the board (non-universal), or ex-gratia (not necessarily) but the downside risk is that if the PF authorities consider it a part of the basic wage, the employer will have to pay the contribution for itself and the workers as well as interest and fine. The other option for the employer would be to challenge the action of the authority in the Courts. Both these scenarios involve additional financial expense on part of the employer and it is likely that the factories/employers are unwilling to take on the additional financial burden.

LESSON ROUND-UP

- A professional opinion on any subject/ issue/ matter at hand is a written statement by an expert based on giver's professional understanding of that particular aspect of any matter. A person might want to know the correct legal position on a matter of interest or the likelihood of his winning a case if he initiates legal proceedings based on the information that he has supplied to the expert.
- There are 4 types of Legal Opinion i.e. (i) Advices on Transaction (ii) Advices on Law (iii) Opinions on Facts (iv) Advices on Evidence
- The primary purpose of a legal opinion is communication of advice to either a layman or professional client. It is therefore of the utmost importance that it is clear and in plain, understandable English. Every word of the legal opinion should be chosen because it communicates precisely the advice which the writer intends to convey.
- Differences between opinion givers and opinion recipients generally arise over (1) the time and expense required to render an opinion on a matter that is peripheral to the primary concerns of the opinion recipient, (2) the appropriate scope of a particular opinion, (3) whether the opinion will cover matters that are essentially factual in nature, (4) whether the opinion will cover matters about which there is some recognized legal uncertainty, and (5) requests for what historically were referred to as "comfort opinions" but are more properly referred to as "negative assurances.
- The objective of CSAS-3 is to enable the Auditor to lay down the basis and manner for evaluation of the conclusions drawn from the Audit Evidence obtained and express the opinion through written report.

GLOSSARY

Opinion: A document that provides the opinion recipient with the opinion giver’s professional judgment about how the highest court of the jurisdiction whose law is being addressed would resolve the issues covered by the opinion letter on the date of the opinion

Expression of the Opinion: Once the facts are organised, a legal framework needs to be constructed into which these facts can be logically slotted. A legal opinion in a personal injury action for example will be based on negligence and therefore will usually be structured along the lines of duty, breach, damages, causation, foreseeability and contributory negligence. In a negligence legal opinion it will be vital to assess the level of damages that the client can expect to receive or pay out.

INTRODUCTION

“Until the contract is signed, nothing is real. -- Glenn Danzig”

Contracts are an essential deep rooted in civilized society and have gradually become an indispensable part of our lives. Right from buying milk and bread in the morning till ordering online food for dinner, all are one or other forms of contract. Though in personal life, we instinctively enter into various contract and/or agreement, yet in commercial world, these contracts are quite significant and forms an integral part for the success of the business. Considering the significance of contract and necessity of its enforcement, law of contract is well established in the jurisdiction. In India, inter-alia, there is Indian Contract Act, 1872 and other legal provisions, which substantiate contracts and its enforceability more specifically for the growth of business. Moreover, it is important to note that law enforces the conditions of a contract, hence it becomes imperative understand what criteria of a good contract and what the general and special conditions a commercial contract shall carry. Accordingly, this project inter-alia aims to understand the criteria of good contract and the general and special conditions, imperative for good contract.

Meaning and Definition of Contract

As per Britannica dictionary<sup>1</sup>, a contract, in the simplest definition, a promise enforceable by law. The promise may be to do something or to refrain from doing something. The making of a contract requires the mutual assent of two or more persons, one of them ordinarily making an offer and another accepting. If one of the parties fails to keep the promise, the other is entitled to legal redress. The law of contracts considers such questions as whether a contract exists, what the meaning of it is, whether a contract has been broken, and what compensation is due the injured party.

As per Merriam Webster, a contract is a binding agreement between two or more persons or parties especially: one legally enforceable.

As per section 2 (h) of Indian Contract Act, 1872 – a contract is “an agreement enforceable by law”. In other words, we can say that a contract is anything that is an agreement and enforceable by the law of the land. This definition has two major elements in it viz – “agreement” and “enforceable by law”. So, in order to understand a contract in the light of The Indian Contract Act, 1872 we need to define and explain these two pivots in the definition of a contract.

In section 2 (e), the Act defines the term agreement as “every promise and every set of promises, forming the consideration for each other”.

The Act in its section 2(b) defines the term “promise” here as: “when the person to whom the proposal is made signifies his assent thereto, the proposal becomes an accepted proposal. A proposal when accepted, becomes a promise”. In other words, an agreement is an accepted promise, accepted by all the parties involved in the agreement or affected by it. This definition says that in order to establish or draft a contract, we need to initiate some steps:

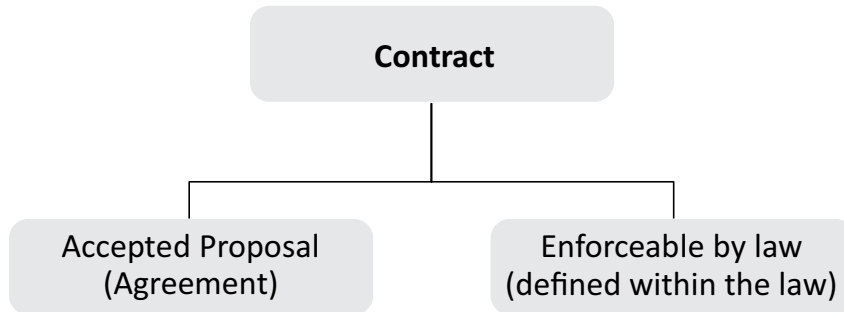

The person (parties) in step one must be in a position to fully understand all the aspects of a proposal.

“signifies his assent thereto” – means that the person in point one accepts or agrees with the proposal after having fully understood it.

Once the “person” accepts the proposal, the status of the “proposal” changes to “accepted proposal”.

“accepted proposal” becomes a promise. Note that the proposal is not a promise. For the proposal to become a promise, it has to be an accepted proposal.

1. <https://www.britannica.com/topic/contract-law>

Under the above backdrop, we can summarize as below:

Purpose of Contract

The main purpose of a contract is to formalize new relationships and outline the various legal obligations each party owes to the other. Presently, most contracts are agreed between businesses as well as individuals. Whilst individuals will sign basic contracts occasionally - to sell a house, or accept a job offer - businesses sign legal agreements in the masses, with partners, customers, and suppliers. The truth is, contractual agreements form the backbone of every commercial relationship.

Significance of Contract

There is immense significance of contract both in professional as well as personal sphere. Some key points highlighting the significance of contract is as below:

Avoids Misunderstanding and legal disputes (Impact on business)

Misunderstanding is a common problem confronted in any business due to several reasons. To avoid such cases, drafting a contract is important and it is required for both parties to read the consented rules and abide by them. It has a large impact on the business as breaching the contract rules can lead to conflicts between the parties and thereby affect the business overall. Therefore, contracts in business are important.

Acts as a Record of the Business (Impact on business)

A written contract is a relevant record stating the mutual consent of the proceedings listed in the agreement. It can be used for future reference and, comprises information regarding the stipulated delivery timeline of any work assigned as per contract. The tenure of the contract is also highlighted in the agreement, which provides more clarity regarding the termination details. However, the contract may be terminated in the worst case if the other party is not fulfilling the rules mentioned in the contract or bypassing the terms.

Evidence in Court of Law

The contract can act as legal evidence if any of the party files a case against the other at times of contract breaching.

Increases Operational Efficiency

Contracts are essentially binding agreements that state that one side will deliver goods and services for a certain consideration by the other side. A contract with the appropriate term will help the business to operate efficiently.

It is important to understand that a blockade in a contract is equivalent to a blockade in revenue. Conversely, a well-drafted contract leads to a smooth flow of operation and hence easily helps to generate revenue. In addition to this, contracts are easier to manage and are comprehensive. This helps the business operation to save up a lot of revenue that can be diverted to more productive means.

Proof of Details (Impact on business)

The prime purpose of creating a contract is related to the recording of details, which both parties have agreed with mutual consent. It provides a precise knowledge of the services provided by the third party or monetary expectations to be met by the person. These details will serve as legitimate proof and are very important in a contract.

Provides Security (Impact on business)

A contract document plays a pivotal role in making the parties secure as it clearly specifies the tenure of the contract and set of responsibilities. Here, an employer is lawfully responsible to pay the committed salary on time and the employee is responsible to perform his duties as designated. Any deviation is considered contract breaching and, either of them has the sole rights to take appropriate action. Therefore, it is pivotal to understand the importance of law of contracts.

Provides Confidentiality

It includes an NDA (Non-disclosure agreement, which protects confidential information. According to this agreement, concerned parties are not entitled to reveal the business and monetary transactions between them with any third person. In case of disclosure, either of them will be subjected to suffering as per contract rules, enforced by the law legally.

Prevents Conflicts and Minimizes Risk

Contracts detail down each party's responsibility. This leads to clarity between the parties and better understanding among them regarding the deal. Conflicts in a business are undesirable as they exploit resources that could have otherwise been used to increase productivity.

Record of Commitment

Contracts represent the relationship one party enters with the other. Each party has certain responsibilities and enjoys certain rights towards the other. A contract is a visual record of this relationship.

In addition to this, contracts also minimize the risk involves by detailing out the extent of one's liability. For example- a contract may limit one's liability and save his/her personal property from being liquidated to pay off the debt in case of dissolution of the business.

BUSINESS/COMMERCIAL CONTRACTS: A BRIEF

A commercial contract forms an integral and critical part of any business venture, as such arrangements detail the rights and obligations, commercial terms discussed and agreed upon between the parties including recourse in case of any dispute. Additionally, commercial contracts are documents that cover a combination of legal and commercial factors. To be concise commercial contracts define and regulate business relationships, whether a standard employment agreement or more complex agreements like merger and acquisition contracts. In its simplest form, a commercial contract is a legally binding agreement between two or more parties. Commercial contracts are most often written documents. Commercial contracts spell out exactly what each party must do for the contract to remain legitimate, as well as the consequences of any of the terms and conditions are not followed. It's for the companies and organizations, and one of its main requirements is that legal agreements enable the contract's maximum benefits to be realized. Therefore, it is extremely crucial to ensure that the terms mentioned in the contract are drafted in a manner that protects the interests of the parties to the contract.

Now, the term "contract" is defined under Section 2(h) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 as an agreement enforceable by law. Commercial contracts are primarily governed by the Contract Act and; the Specific Relief Act, 1963 ("SRA").

It also provides the grounds which are necessary to claim damages and indemnity from a defaulting party in case of breach or violation of any provisions or obligations under the contract. On the other hand, the SRA provides for remedies to persons whose contractual rights have been violated such as the recovery of possession of the property, specific performance of the contracts, rescission of contracts, rectification of instruments etc. Under this background, let us understand some important features of Commercial Contracts in detail.

NEGOTIATION OF BEST COMMERCIAL AND OPERATIONAL TERMS WITH VENDOR

Negotiation is a skill that can benefit business owners every single day, whether they're dealing with vendors or landlords, employees or clients. Negotiating with vendors is vital for improving an overall vendor contract. The negotiation process can help you understand the needs of each party and determine a contract that benefits both sides of the transaction. From interest to length of contract to payment terms, your vendor contract is made of many facets that can be negotiated. One can negotiate with potential suppliers as well as existing vendor contracts, provided one follows the effective and result driven negotiation. Following are some major guidelines for creating best commercial and operational terms with the vendor:<sup>2</sup>

1. Make a plan

Before you reach out to the vendors, make a plan as to what you are going to ask. For example - have a plan in place before you approach a vendor to negotiate new payment terms. It's important to know what you can afford to pay now. This plan will give you a starting point from which to negotiate. Additionally, take the time to review what your rights are under your contract. Be sure to check for cancellation clauses and penalties in addition to late payment fees. You may want to speak to a lawyer about the specifics of your vendor agreement before exploring a renegotiation.

2. Build a foundation of communication

Without clear and trustworthy communication, one never gets anywhere. Take the time to mindfully commit to the conversation, and speak in person whenever possible. Do your best to respond to communications in a timely manner, and show respect by saving communication for appropriate times. Consider a single point of contact for the vendor, so it's always the same person reaching out and getting to know one another. When there are issues, give your full attention to solving the problems and establishing trust. If a vendor sends mass emails about prices or services, it is unlikely they are open to negotiation so look for vendors with a personal touch in communication.

3. Be proactive in communication

Early communication is always more welcome than suddenly reaching out in an emergency. Try to be proactive about your need to renegotiate. Explore renegotiations and deadline extensions before you stop payment or cancel the agreement altogether.

4. Research pricing

It is critical that one research about the pricing and market fluctuations. You will also need to understand variance in quality, since most vendors will try to justify higher prices with better quality. For most vendors, it is economical to keep existing customers and more expensive to find new business. If a vendor is worried, they might lose you, this could be used as leverage as they may be more willing to whittle down prices. Understanding what existing vs. new business costs them can aid in negotiation.

5. Learn from them

Treat your vendors like the industry experts they are, and ask them to help you learn more about your field. Not only will you better understand your industry, but you will earn their respect. Do your best to understand where they are coming from and the issues they face in the industry. Vendors want to work with well-informed business owners that will run their companies successfully over the long term. Demonstrate that you want to stay on the cutting edge of industry development and learn the details of the business and you will demonstrate that you are a company smart enough for partnership.

6. Sell the vendor

Your vendor wants to be well-represented and sell as much of their product as possible. Demonstrate to the vendor how you can help them meet their goals and increase their sales. Will you get their product in front of key demographics? Is your sales team world-class? Maybe you can find ways to promote the vendor in your operations. Sell your operation to the vendor and they will be excited to work with you (and be open to negotiations).

7. Get quotes

Even if you know which vendor you would prefer, always get multiple offers from potential vendors. Competition is key for driving down pricing and increasing the customer service of your vendor. Consider not only other products, but getting your own wholesale with transport and packaging (or any other steps the vendor would complete). Don't forget to get quotes for different quantities or tiers. The entire process of procurement is negotiable and presents multiple touch points for improvement and innovation.

8. Try a different angle

It may be that your vendor is unable or unwilling to negotiate price. That does not mean the contract negotiation is over. Try finding other areas where you can make a better deal, perhaps the down payment, interest, repayment terms and length, discounts in bulk, or other factors.

9. Talk to customers

If you want to establish a relationship with a supplier that will include the perks of price negotiation, it is a good idea to talk to their current customers. Ask the supplier for a list of client references and then reach out to them. You can determine if they are a reliable vendor and also come armed with the prices their existing customers are paying. The payment terms offered to these customers may give you a jumping off point for your negotiations.

10. Lead with a deposit

The vendor is the one taking a risk, and what they truly want is to get paid. If a vendor feels confident in your payment, they will be more willing to negotiate prices. Therefore, offering up a large deposit or downpayment on an order can encourage the vendor to give you a better price.

11. Be Patient

It's a general rule of thumb that the "winner" is usually the party who wants it the least, because the party who wants it the most is more willing to bend. When you are ready to negotiate, have a Plan B and even a Plan C for other vendors. Stay confident and remember that you can always walk away. Typically, it is not a good idea to take the first offer—carefully consider and respond with a better counter offer. It is also important to leave plenty of time for negotiations and don't rush through.

12. Be Partners

A truly successful relationship between you and your vendors will look more like a partnership, not like an order fulfillment chore. Figure out what will make your vendor's life easier—how can you save them money or time? Offer your supplier something that is mutually beneficial and treat the relationship like a long-term partnership. Consider what other services and perks you could offer them beyond your business order. In a partnership, you may log months or even years together, so know when to back off and let them "win" for the time being.

13. Start strong

Vendors are not likely to negotiate with a company who has missed a deadline or made late payments. Similarly, vendors don't want clients who are overly complicated or difficult to work with. By making your payments in full and on time you begin to build trust. Communicate promptly, treat all points of contact with respect, and represent yourself as the type of client they want to retain.

14. Find a win-win solution

When you come to the table, suggest ways that more generous terms could benefit them as well. For example: explain how more cash flexibility may allow you to increase your order volume, for example, or mention that you'd like to send peers in your industry their way if you can tell them how easy this vendor is to work with.

Good Contract: Analysis

Contracts gain such vital importance in our lives because they legally bind the parties in a relation. Any breach of a contract can be redressed, and the damages can be liquidated. Besides the basic feature, the contract also contains other vital legal aspects that boost the relationship between parties.

In general, a good contract is understandable and unambiguous. Contracts that clearly state their terms and condition are preferred over contracts that don't. All relationships require clear communication for healthy continuation and so do business relations. Contracts serve as an efficient communication tool that ensures that the relationship is a healthy one.

Contracts are by nature collaborative and relational. By clearly stating the important clauses for the parties they lead to transparency which enhances communication. A contract with convoluted language and imprecise terms is likely to cause a great deal of confusion between the parties. Further, well drafted contracts clearly capture the obligations of the parties. If a party tries to back out of its obligations, it can cause problems in the relationship. Hence, a good contract cuts down the likelihood of a breach.

A well-drafted contract is likely to state every detail and the extent to which the parties are bound to each other. A contract defines the relationship between the parties. If a party breaches the obligation to which it is committed, the other party can approach the court.

A contract states the:

- The goal or objectives that the parties intend to achieve through the transaction.
- The scope of work to be performed by the contracting parties.
- In case of a specific purpose, the description of specific purpose to be achieved.
- The consideration agreed to be paid and terms of payment.
- The indemnities which each party would give the other as applicable.
- The limit of the liability of each person vis-a-vis the other party or a third party.
- Grounds of termination of the contract.

In addition to well drafted and unambiguous contracts, a good contract also captures the legal essentials like jurisdiction, governing law, arbitration, etc. to make them enforceable in accordance with the object and intent of the contract.

General and Special Conditions of a Contract

Although, in the previous paras, we have already discussed in detail on contract, its meaning, significance, valid essentials of contract also the concept of commercial contracts. Yet, it is important to note that it is majorly the terms and conditions of the contract, which make the contract a good contract. It is always imperative that general and the specific terms are captured clearly in contract. This is not only making the agreement effectively enforceable but also minimize the risk of dispute between the parties.

General Conditions

The general terms and conditions of the contract include but not limit to the following:

1. Legal Status of the Parties

This clause deals with the legal status and nomenclature of the parties entering into the contract.

2. Definitions

Definition clause is an important clause in a contract. It defines all the important and capitalized terms in a contract. It majorly aims to capture the intent of a capitalized term used in a contract.

3. Interpretation Clause

A good contract always captures a general interpretation clause, which clarifies the intention of some general terms used in the agreement. For example, he includes she and alike.

4. Object/ Scope of Work and/or Services

This is one of the important clauses in a contract. It captures the scope of work/object for which the contract is being entered upon between the parties.

5. Representations and Warranties

In this clause, parties represent and warrants certain factual details, which forms the integral part of the contract and basis which parties are acting upon the contract.

6. Contractual Period

This clause defines the term of the contract. A good contract also captures the renewal of term and the conditions of such renewal.

7. Fees and Taxes

Consideration is a valid essential of the contract. Hence this clause captured fees and taxes mutually decided for the scope of work of that contract.

8. Payment Method

Apart from consideration for a contract, it is also vital to clearly capture the method vide which the fees and commercials of the contract shall be paid.

9. Commencement Date

This clause identifies the effective date of the contract on which the rights and obligations of the parties shall take effect.

10. Rights and Obligations of the Contractual Parties

This clause specifies the rights and obligations of the contractual parties.

11. Termination of Contract

This clause describes the process of termination of contract, in case party wishes to terminate the contract before it expires. It also identifies the events which will cause the contract to terminate by either of the parties.

12. The Right of Withdrawal from the Contract

This covered the withdrawals rights of the parties; in case they wish to withdraw from few obligations of the contract.

13. Disclaimer of Warranty

Vide this clause, parties disclaim certain warranties.

14. Indemnification

This clause states the obligations of the parties to indemnify other party, hold and safe harmless, and defend, at its own expense, from and against all suits, claims, demands, and liability of any nature or kind, arising out of acts of omission of the indemnifying party”.

15. Limitation of Liability

This clause limits the liabilities of the parties in case of any indemnity or liability required to be given/bear under the contract.

16. Confidentiality

When two or more parties enter into a contract, there will almost certainly be a considerable number of details exchanged for all parties to fulfil their contractual obligations. Given the necessity of providing some details about each party's financial and business practices, the contract must have a strict confidentiality clause. This provision should prohibit all parties from disclosing any and all information exchanged during the transaction. Of course, where valuable intellectual property is at stake, this is especially important.

17. Force majeure/Mitigating Factors

The term “Force Majeure” simply means “greater factor”. This clause should be included in all commercial contracts because it can shield parties from events that are beyond their control. For example a shipping schedule could be unavoidably interrupted in the event of a natural disaster such as an earthquake or hurricane. In general, the term “force majeure” is very broad, and many contracts have clauses that cover items like terrorist attacks and even acts of God. This provision is necessary to ensure that any failure to perform as a result of an unforeseen interruption is not considered as breach of contract.

18. Jurisdiction

Cross-border transactions are quite common these days, both domestically and internationally. When the parties to a contract are from different states, or even different countries, it can be difficult to determine which state's laws apply to the contract. As a result, commercial contracts should always state which state will have authority over the deal, so that the relevant laws are crystal clear.

19. Dispute Resolution

The most carefully written contracts are prone to disagreement. As a consequence, it's important to understand the parties' strategies for resolving disputes in the event that one occurs. Parties are increasingly using an arbitration provision in their contracts, forcing the parties to agree to arbitration before or in lieu of finding a settlement through litigation. While some contracts do allow for conventional legal redress, this is usually a quicker and less expensive way to resolve contract-related issues.

20. Damages

Due to high level of contract violations and the need to prevent them, it is also common practice for commercial contracts to include damages clauses. Liquidated damages clauses, which are normally a fixed sum due if one party fails to perform, will be used in most contracts. Depending on the extent and effect of the violation, a court can award other forms of damages in addition to that amount.

21. Entire Contract and Precedence in case of inconsistency clause

Special Conditions

As the name suggests, special conditions are special as per the nature of the contract. These conditions cannot be common for all the contracts. Few instances of special conditions are as follows.

- Sub-Contracting

- Assignment
- Additional Scope of Work
- Alternative Dispute Resolution
- Data Deletion and/or Data Purging Clause
- Privilege and Immunities
- Tax Exemption
- Choice of Law.

Execution of Contracts<sup>3</sup>

Contract execution is a system event in which all appropriate parties sign the contract and the contract becomes a legal entity. When the contract is signed, an internal user can record the execution and attach a scanned signed copy of a document to the contract.

In short, executed contracts are agreements that have passed the signature stage and have been approved by all parties involved. An executed agreement establishes a contractual and enforceable relationship, and each party is now responsible for fulfilling the legal obligations stated in the agreement.

Significance of Executed Contract<sup>4</sup>

Contract ambiguity: A successful contract execution uses clear language that is easy to understand by all parties. If contract terms are unclear, litigation may ensue or the agreement may not be enforceable. In addition, it could frustrate business partners or cause costly delays.

Unenforceable contracts: Unfinalized contracts turn out to be ineffective. The agreement cannot be enforced in court if this is the case. If the contract isn't properly executed, all the hard work will be for nothing. Costly litigation can result in severe financial losses, lost value, and lost resources.

After a contract is executed, no changes can be made to the contract language.

CONTRACT RELATED DOCUMENTS AND CORRESPONDENCE

Almost all the well drafted contracts keep the following clause in the contract:

“Documentation and Correspondence. All documentation and correspondence to be delivered between the Parties pursuant to this Agreement shall be in the English language.”

The clause itself confirms that there are plenty of correspondence and documents in a contract and each and every such documents and correspondence are vital to the contract. Hence this section deals with the common documents and correspondence related to a contract.

Contract Documents: Meaning and Significance<sup>5</sup>

A contract document is a legally binding agreement between two or more parties. It captures:

- the terms and conditions of the relationship between the parties of the contract, and
- sets forth the rights and obligations of each party.

The contract document may also include different types of contract documents, and the specific documents required for a particular project will vary depending on the type of project and the contracts involved. The most common types of contract documents are:<sup>6</sup>

1. Contract Agreement: A contract agreement defines the agreement between the client and the contractor in which the parties are specified and their responsibilities are defined in the construction process. It is the essential document to which other contract documents attach or reference. A standard document contracts can be used for the agreement.

6. Reproduced from Victor Z. Young, Project Documentation, Projectcubicle.

2. Scope of work: This document outlines the specific work to be completed under the contract. It may also include information on how the work will be performed, timelines, milestones, and other important details.
3. Addendum: An addendum is a document attached to and executed with the original contract, making it a part of the original contract from the start. It usually contains information or requirements of the parties that are not fully spelled out in the contract. An addendum should not be confused with an amendment (or modification), which is a document that modifies an already signed contract.
4. General Conditions: General conditions define all general terms and items such as utilities, vehicles, organizational structure, mobilization, and demobilization. But these items are not directly related to the construction activities. Obligations of both parties, general conditions, overhead costs, bonuses, and some other conditions are included in this portion.

General conditions set the framework of the contract that establishes all the rights and obligations of the parties involved.

Simply put, general conditions answer the how questions;

- How change orders are submitted
- How payment applications are processed
- How disputes are resolved

5. Special Conditions: Special conditions describe specific requirements and instructions for the work. Mostly they are addendums to the general conditions. Special conditions include details and conditions regarding the individual tasks or the whole project.
6. Bill of Quantities: Bill of Quantities is a document used for tendering that lists all work to allow the contractor to price the work for which he or she is bidding. It includes quantity and price for each work and after the bidding phase, it will be an attachment of the contract document.
7. Schedule: Work schedule is very important for both parties. Because a project cannot be performed without a proper plan. A project schedule shows site delivery date, start and finish milestones, project duration, and other useful information. Tasks are listed and grouped under specific Work Breakdown Structure levels such as civil, electrical, and mechanical works within a project schedule. A work schedule can be created by using various project scheduling techniques.
8. Budget: The budget outlines the estimated costs for the project. This may include materials, labor, overhead, and other associated costs.
9. Drawings and specifications: Detailed drawings and specifications are often required for construction projects. These documents provide information on the materials to be used, dimensions, tolerances, and other important details.
10. Insurance requirements: Most contracts will require that certain insurance policies be in place before work can begin. This may include general liability insurance, workers' compensation insurance, or other specialized coverage.
11. Bonding requirements: Many public projects require that contractors obtain performance bonds or payment bonds before work can begin. These bonds protect the owner from financial loss if the contractor fails to perform as specified in the contract.
12. Technical Specifications: Technical Specifications describe the materials, workmanship, and equipment required for a task. Typically, technical specifications describe the end product, therefore, the client should describe them clearly before the tendering stage. Every little task should be specified and deviation limits should be determined in technical specifications.

MAINTENANCE OF CONTRACT DOCUMENTS

Many people who have shred their calories in finding a specific document in a sea of paperwork, can easily understand the importance of document management. However, document management for contracts is much more hurricane and complex task entirely. At the same time, it is equally important to maintain the contract documents, as this assists in the effective realization of contractual rights and also to execute it rights, if need so.

It involves organizing and tracking documents. Maintenance of contract documents means creating and maintaining accurate records of all communications and correspondence with contracting parties. It may or may not involve involves monitoring compliance with contract terms and keeping track of any changes or amendments that need to be made.

Briefly, document management is simply the process of organizing and storing documents. This can include scanned documents, electronic files, or even physical paperwork.<sup>7</sup>

Types of Maintaining Contract Documents

Document management is the process of sourcing, organizing, storing, and analyzing documents. When it comes to document management, there are two main types of systems: (a) manual and (b) electronic.

- (a) A manual document management system (DMS) is controlled by humans. This could involve a physical filing system where employees manually file documents or an online system where employees enter data into a database.
- (b) An electronic document management system (EDMS), on the other hand, is a system that is controlled by computers. This could involve an online system where employees access files remotely or an offline system where employees download files to their computers.

Document Management vis-à-vis Contract Management<sup>8</sup>

It is to be noted that while contract management and document management involve the organization and tracking of documents, there are several key distinctions between the two disciplines. Let us understand them one by one as below:

Document Management	Contract Management
Document management includes maintaining, arranging and storing the documents for better tracking and retrieval, when necessary, but it does not include features like negotiation, risk management, and compliance.	Contract management includes elements of negotiation, risk management, and compliance.

However, one has to always remember that Document management along with Contract Management systems works to improve the overall efficiency of a business and business contracts.

COMPLIANCE WITH LAWS

It is a well settled principle of law that no contract between the parties can oust the application of law. In short, every contract is subject to applicable laws and parties to the contract are bound to comply with the laws applicable on them as well as on transaction. In almost all the contracts, there is a clause confirming compliance with laws. For example: in a technology agreement the compliance of laws clause will read like the below:

“Compliance with Laws: Each Party will comply with all applicable Laws and the Operating Regulations, governmental requirements, and industry standards, including those with respect to privacy, data protection, portability, or accountability, applicable to such Party or its personnel with respect to the Software, the Services, and the performance of its obligations under this Agreement; provided that All scripts will have no obligation to comply with any Operating Regulations unless such Operating Regulations are disclosed to it. Neither Party will, nor permit any third parties to, export, re-export, or release, directly or indirectly, any Controlled Technology to any country or jurisdiction to which the export, re-export, or release of any Controlled Technology (a)is prohibited by applicable Law or (b)without first completing all required undertakings (including obtaining any necessary export license or other governmental approval).”<sup>9</sup>

Briefly, these compliance with laws clauses are used in commercial agreements and require one or more parties to comply with applicable laws with respect to the performance of the agreement. National, state, or local laws and regulations may be covered by this clause. This template includes practical guidance and drafting notes. Contracting parties have a pre-existing obligation to comply with applicable law regardless of whether the underlying agreement contains a covenant addressing such compliance. Inclusion of a legal compliance clause, however, makes the obligation contractual, rendering a violation of applicable law a breach of contract, which can trigger the non-breaching party’s right to suspend or terminate the agreement and pursue monetary and equitable damages, as applicable.<sup>10</sup>

TRACKING OF CONTRACTS AND EXTEND, RENEW AND CLOSE

Contract tracking is the process whereby stakeholders in the contract lifecycle (particularly in legal or compliance) are able to know where a contract is alive or not, without having to investigate across multiple systems.

Contracts go through many stages to minimize an organization’s financial, legal, and procurement risks. These stages include:<sup>11</sup>

- Request and draft: The parties decide to enter into an agreement, and one party offers the initial draft with the necessary clauses, terms, and conditions.
- Review and negotiations: A lawyer or business professional examines the contract provisions to identify any potential risks. Both parties negotiate over the contract's terms and conditions and make any necessary adjustments to establish acceptable terms for both sides.
- Approval and execution: If both parties agree to the contract's wording, they approve it and execute the deal via their preferred signing method.
- Storage: Each party should store the signed contract in a secure yet easily accessible location.
- Performance: Each party complies with its obligations and monitors the other's performance over several months or even years. This stage also usually requires quickly finding, searching, and reviewing contract provisions.
- Reporting and analytics: Both parties can accumulate, filter, analyze, and report on contract data.
- Amendments: Both parties can negotiate addendums to their contracts and use joinders to add a new party to the original contract.
- Extend, Expiration (Close) and Renewals: When the parties reach the end of the contract, they may decide to renew their agreement, negotiate a new contract, or terminate it.

When done correctly, contract tracking empowers stakeholders to execute, monitor, and comply with the agreement's terms more effectively. Additionally, a contract tracking system makes document processing and the approval process smoother and lets an organization gain valuable insights into its own operations.

Golden Rules for Tracking the Contract for Renewals, Extension and Closure:<sup>12</sup>

Following are the golden rules which help in the effective tracking of the contracts

Know the place/storage of contracts

The first thing you should do when preparing to track your contracts and their details is to be sure you know where all of your agreements are located. It might sound simple, but for far too many companies, contracts are not all stored in one location.

Wherever you choose to store your contracts - whether it's a filing cabinet, a shared drive, or using contract management software - establish a system for organizing your repository so you can quickly find any agreement when it needs to be referenced or reviewed. This is a crucial beginning step that will impact everything else you do with your contracts throughout the life of each agreement.

Determine the requirement of tracking

Once each new agreement has been executed. Consider documenting every piece of important data that needs to be monitored. One need to create a strategy through the time know that contract is expired and archived. Some of the common pieces of information to track and monitor during the contract lifecycle include:

- Deliverables and obligations
- End dates
- Opt-out/renegotiation windows
- Termination notice requirements

12. Andy Silverman (2020) 5 Tips for Effectively Tracking and Monitoring Contracts, Contractworks. Available <https://www.contractworks.com/blog/5-tips-for-effectively-tracking-and-monitoring-contracts>

- High-risk clauses
- Compliance requirements
- Contract performance.

Be proactive, not reactive

Staying ahead of dates and deadlines and proactively looking for risks and opportunities during the contract monitoring process will help to remain in control of agreements and obligations. By regularly reviewing agreements marked as important or critical areas and the specific areas outlined in the previous section, one will have the best chance of catching any changes needed or corrections early rather than having to react to issues after they happen.

The reason it's so important for contract managers to track deadlines well in advance is so there's time to assess the situation before making a decision about next steps. For example, when you know a contract end date is coming weeks or months ahead of time, you can work with other stakeholders to make an informed decision about renewing, renegotiating, or terminating the agreement.

Keep stakeholders informed

Tracking and monitoring agreements is a critical part of the contract management process, but it has to be made sure that the information gets to the appropriate parties. Contract management is a collaborative process, and effective contract managers communicate openly with stakeholders throughout the organization.

Approaching deadlines and deliverables might be the first things that come to mind in terms of what to share, but the importance of contract performance shouldn't be ignored. Every agreement - whether it's a buy-side or a sell-side contract - represents a financial impact to the company, which is why department leaders and decision makers need as much information as possible to determine whether each contract is performing as expected.

Streamline the process with contract management software

Tracking and monitoring corporate agreements becomes much simpler and more streamlined when you incorporate contract management software into your process. Here are some of the ways contract management software can help you accomplish the recommendations in the previous sections:

- A contract repository gives you a centralized place to store and organize your agreements so you can always find the documents you need quickly.
- Custom reporting tools allow you to report on any data points in your contract portfolio and automatically send those insights to various parties on a recurring basis.
- Alerts and notifications help you stay ahead of upcoming contract dates so you have plenty of time to take strategic action at the appropriate time.

BUILD AND MAINTAIN RELATIONSHIP WITH VENDORS, CLIENTS<sup>13</sup>

Business relationships are a two-way street. One party does not hold more power over the other. It requires commitment and maturity from both sides. Understanding each other's perspectives and respecting differences is key, along with an understanding of how each party benefits themselves as well as each other.

It requires open and honest communication, and the ability to have difficult conversations if required. It's worth it though, as a great supplier relationship can make a world of difference in serving your customers and lowering your own stress levels.

1. Choose suppliers that align with your values

If excellent customer service is important to you then choose suppliers for whom this is also paramount. It is vital for good customer relations that any products, materials or services you supply your clients have warranties or return policies that match your own. It is a bit like personal relationships. It is very difficult to maintain a relationship with a person who differs in core values. When selecting suppliers consider their ethics, values, positioning and reputation.

2. Understand Suppliers Needs

Respect their way of doing things and make it easy for them by following their processes and timelines. Provide the product as per the requirements of customer/supplier as the case may be. Stay on top of supplying things like insurance certificates, business information and purchase order numbers.

3. Be a great customer

Think about what you love about your customers and do the same for your suppliers. Pay on time and keep your records in order so you don't have to waste your suppliers' time by getting them to re-send things.

In the same way that you go the extra mile to look after a great customer, so will your suppliers if you are a great customer to them. Putting some deposits in the goodwill bank can be very helpful if you need a favor from your suppliers at a later stage.

4. Maintain regular communication

Keep in touch with your suppliers and try and schedule a time to get together over a coffee. Reflect on what's working well and talk through areas for improvement.

Having the opportunity for both parties to provide feedback on what's been helpful or difficult can be the spark to develop innovative ways to strengthen the relationship even further.

5. Give timely feedback

Don't ring up and yell at your supplier if stuff is not going right. Instead, be calm and direct so things do not fester and become the proverbial storm in a teacup.

Despite the very best preparation and planning, mistakes and miscommunication can happen. It is important to tackle them with your supplier quickly and in a professional manner. Always allow your supplier the opportunity to be part of a solution. In a good supplier relationship, it is essential to speak up when something is wrong.

6. Reward good service with loyalty

If your supplier has done the right thing by you, reward them with your loyalty and continue your business relations with them.

CONTROL OVER ANY CHARGES FOR SERVICES OUT OF THE SCOPE OF THE CONTRACT<sup>14</sup>

A change to an existing contract is a modification. A contract modification could change the scope of the contract, the price of the contract, or both. A contract modification exists when the parties to the contract approve the modification either in writing, orally, or based on the parties' customary business practices.

However, in cases where the parties to an arrangement have agreed to a change in scope, but not the corresponding change in price (for example, an unpriced change order), the reporting entity should estimate the change to the transaction price in accordance with the guidance on estimating variable consideration.

<sup>14</sup>. Reproduced from Contract Modification, US Revenue Guide, PwC. Com. https://viewpoint.pwc.com/dt/us/en/pwc/accounting\_guides/revenue\_from\_contrac/revenue\_from\_contrac\_US/chapter\_2\_scope\_and\_\_US/29contract\_modificat\_US.html

Management should assess all relevant facts and circumstances (for example, prior experience with similar modifications) to determine whether there is an expectation that the price will be approved. Below example illustrates a contract modification with an unpriced change order.

Example: Contract modifications – unpriced change order

Contractor enters into a contract with a customer to construct a warehouse. Contractor discovers environmental issues during site preparation that must be remediated before construction can begin. Contractor obtains approval from the customer to perform the remediation efforts, but the price for the services will be agreed to in the future (that is, it is an unpriced change order). Contractor completes the remediation and invoices the customer $2 million, based on the costs incurred plus a profit margin consistent with the overall expected margin on the project.

Charges/Payment of Services – Outside the Scope of the Contract: Indian Legal Perspective<sup>15</sup>

Quantum meruit compensation

Compensation under quantum meruit is awarded for the services rendered by the contractor when the payment thereof is not fixed by the contract. Quantum meruit is a right which arises outside a construction contract. A quantum meruit claim arises, where work is done or services rendered by the contractor for the employer or owner, in circumstances which entitle the constructor doing the work or rendering the services to receive a reasonable additional remuneration, the situation being one where either there is no construction contract or there is a contract but the particular situation is not covered under that construction contract.

The compensation under the principle of Quantum Meruit is allowed in the courts under Section 70 of the Indian Contract Act 1872. The three conditions need to be fulfilled before the benefit of this section can be invoked by a person. The three conditions under section 70 of Indian Contract Act, 1872 are as follows:

- The first condition is that the claimant should either lawfully do something for another person or deliver something to him.
- The second condition is that while doing or delivering something, the claimant must not be acting gratuitously and
- Thirdly, the person for whom something is done or to whom something is delivered must enjoy the thing done for or delivered to him as the case may be.

Compensation awarded by the tribunal or court in quantum meruit laid on the equitable considerations. For the construction work which has been rendered by Constructor for Employer and the benefit of which has been taken by the Employer, then Employer will be made to compensate to the Constructor, unless it is shown that Constructor intended to render the services gratuitously. This is the principle on which quantum meruit compensation is granted. This is often described as “restitution for quasi-contract”. However, the facts necessary for exercising this jurisdiction must be proved by the claimant.

In the case, Alopi Parshad and Sons Ltd. v. Union of India, Hon’ble Supreme Court dealt with a compensation which consists of certain amount on the basis of quantum meruit and it was held that,

“Compensation under quantum meruit is awarded for work done or services rendered, when the price thereof is not fixed by a contract. For work done or services rendered pursuant to the terms of a contract, compensation quantum meruit cannot be awarded where the contract provides for the consideration payable on that behalf. Quantum meruit is but reasonable compensation awarded on implication of a contract to remunerate, and an express stipulation governing the relations between the parties under a contract, cannot be displaced by assuming that the stipulation is not reasonable.”

<sup>15</sup>. Reproduced from Additional payment for extra work done outside the scope of construction contracts, (2020), Ipleaders. Available at <https://blog.ipleaders.in/additional-payment-extra-work-done-outside-scope-construction-contracts/>

In the case of Satyanarayan Construction Co. Ltd. V. Union of India, the Hon'ble Supreme Court strictly followed the condition and rejected a grant of additional payment to the contractor for the cost of the work already mentioned in the construction contract notwithstanding the fact that the contractor incurred almost double the cost stipulated in the construction contract.

In the case of Mulamchand v. State of M.P., the court held that, if a claim for compensation is made by one person against another person under Section 70 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, it cannot be on the basis of any existing construction contract between the parties but on the basis different kinds of obligations.

ACTION IN CASE OF BREACH OF CONTRACT<sup>16</sup>

Chapter VI (Section 73 to 75) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 deals with the consequences of breach of the contract.

Section 73 – deals with compensation for loss or damage caused by breach of contract

When a contract has been broken, the party who suffers by such breach is entitled to receive, from the party who has broken the contract, compensation for any loss or damage caused to him, which naturally arose in the natural course of things from such breach, or which the parties knew, when they made the contract, to be likely to result from the breach of it.

- No compensation shall be given to any remote and indirect loss or damage sustained by reason of breach.
- Compensation in regard to failure to discharge obligation which resembles those created by the contract.
- An obligation resembling those created by contract has been incurred and has not been discharged, any person affected by the failure to discharge it is entitled to receive the same compensation from the party in default as if such person had contracted to discharge it and had broken his contract.
- Compensation for loss or damage which naturally arose in the usual course of things from such breach.
- Compensations to be recovered for loss or damage which the parties knew or which would have naturally arisen in the usual course, to be likely to result from the breach of it.

An uncommonly known fact is that Section 73 is based on a case law, i.e., Hadley v. Baxendale (1854) 9 Ex. 354. The well-known rule in this case was stated by the Court as follows:

“Where two parties have made a contract which one of them has broken, the damages which the other party ought to receive in respect of such breach of contract should be either such as may reasonably and fairly be considered as arising naturally, i.e., according to usual course of things, from such breach of contract itself, or such as may reasonably be supposed to have been in the contemplation of both parties at the time they made the contract as the probable result of the breach of it.”

Section 73 deals with remote and indirect loss or damage

It states that no compensation is payable for remote and indirect loss or damage arising out on account of breach of contract. The indirect loss cannot be said to arise on usual course of things. The aggrieved party can claim compensation for indirect loss or loss of profit, only where it is expressly made known to the other party or contemplated by contract that breach of non-performance of the contract would result in some indirect loss or loss of profit to the party term remoteness of damage refers to the legal test used for deciding which type of loss caused by the breach of contract may be compensated by the award of damage.

In Madras Railway Company v. Govinda (1898) 21 Mad. 172, the Plaintiff, who was a tailor, delivered a sewing machine and some clothes to the defendant railway company, to be sent to a place where he expected to carry on his business in an upcoming festival. Due to mistakes made by the company's employees, the goods were delayed and were not delivered until some days after the festival was over. The plaintiff had not given any notice to the railway company that the goods were required to be delivered within a fixed time for any special purpose. On a suit by the plaintiff to recover a sum of his estimated profits, the Court held that the damages claimed were too remote.

Section 73 deals with breach of resembling contract

It confers a statutory right upon a party to get compensation from a party who has incurred a statutory obligation to pay compensation in case default even though there may be no contract to pay compensation. The party in default is under obligation to pay compensation to the injured party as if there was a contract and has broken such contract.

Section 73 deals with: mitigation of losses

It explains that the means which existed of remedying the inconvenience caused by the non-performance of the contract must be considered while calculating the damage or loss for breach of the contract. [M. Lachia Setty & Sons Ltd v. Coffee Board Bangalore, AIR 1981 SC 162, 168]

Section 74 – Penalties with regard to Breach of Contract

The party to the contract may agree at the time of contracting that, in the occurrence of breach, the party in default has to pay a stipulated sum of money to the other, or may agree that in the event of breach by one party any amount paid by him shall be forfeited. If this sum is genuine pre-estimate of damage likely to flow from the breach is called 'liquidated damages'. If it is not genuine pre-estimate of the loss, but an amount intended to secure performance of the contract, it may be called 'penalty'.

Section 74 provides for the measure of damages in two classes: (a) where the contract names a sum to be paid in case of breach; and (b) where the contract contains any other stipulation by way of penalty (Fateh Chand v. Balkrishna Das [1964] 1 SCR 515).

Essence of Penalty and Liquidated Damages

Penalty is a payment of money to a non –defaulting party, which puts the other party in fear and enforces the other party to perform its promise under the contract. The penalty is deterrent in nature.

A liquidated damage is a genuine and reasonable pre-estimate of damage. Liquidated damages mean it shall be taken as the sum which the parties have by the contract assessed as damages to be paid whatever may be the actual damage.

Section 75 – Compensation to the Party Rightfully Rescinding the Contract

A person who rightfully rescinds the contract is entitled to compensation for any damage which he has sustained through non fulfillment of the contract .A party to a contract is entitled to rescind the contract in circumstances given in Section 39, 53, 55, 64 and 65 of the Contract Act. The claim for compensation under Section 75 is maintainable when the right of repudiation of the contract has been exercised either of the Section 39, 53, 54 and 55 of the Contract Act, 1872 (Mirza Javed Murtaza v. UP Financial Corpn, Kanpur, AIR 1983 All. 235).

Damage can be claimed by:

Only those parties can claim damages for breach of contract who have performed or is willing to perform his part of the obligations arising under the contract. Section 73 and 74 are for the benefit of a party willing to perform the contract and not for defaulting party. Loss which is caused by the party's failure to fulfill his duty is not recoverable from the other party. A party to a Contract cannot be in a better position by reason of his own default, than if he had fulfilled his obligations. A person, who is not a party to the contract, cannot claim damages.

Can damage or loss suffered by a third party be claimed?

A party claiming the damage need not necessarily suffer any loss from breach of contract. When it is contemplated by the contract. When it is contemplated by the contract that breach by any of the parties to the contract is likely to cause loss to an identified or identifiable stranger to the contract, rather than to the contracting party, a party not in default can claim damages for the loss caused to an identified or identifiable stranger to the contract. Thus, the party may recover substantial damages even though it does not personally bear the cost of correcting the defects or personally suffers the diminution in the value; provided this was intended or was within the contemplation of the parties; and if such intention or contemplation is shown it is immaterial that the true party or sufferer is stranger to the contract. [Alfred McAlpine Constn Ltd. v. Panatown Ltd., (2001) All ER (D) 41 (Apr)].

Can interest be claimed as damage?

Interest would be refused if the party fails to show that interest is being claimed under a contract or on account of usage or customs. The Supreme Court in Mahavir Prasad Rungta v. Durga Dutta, 1961 AIR 990 has ruled that interest can be claimed only if it is payable by custom or there is express or implied provision in the agreement for payment of interest or under provisions of substantive law plaintiff is entitled to recover the interest.

Nature of remedy of damage

The principle behind awarding damage for breach of contract to the party, who has suffered the loss, is to place that party in the same position in which it would have been had that contract not been broken. The damages must commensurate with the loss suffered. Where the contract is broken by one party, contract is discharged, and the obligations under the contract come to end; a new obligation arises for the payment of damages.

A contract is the fountain head of a correlative set of rights and obligations of the parties and would be of no value if there is no statutory provision for compensation for damage or loss caused to the aggrieved party. Chapter VI of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 provides for the remedy to the non-defaulting party to contract by way of compensation for damage or loss caused due to breach of contract by the other party. Section 73 provides for compensation for actual damage or loss from the party in breach of the contract Reasonable liquidated damages are payable without proof of loss. Section 74 provides that contracting parties in the event of breach, may agree that the defaulted party shall pay a stipulated amount to the other, or may agree that in the event of breach by one party any amount paid to him shall be forfeited. If it is not genuine pre-estimate of the loss, but an amount intended to secure performance of the contract, it may be called 'penalty'. However mere stipulation does not give right for compensation by way of penalty. Prove has to be established for loss or damages caused by breach of contract.

A Decree for Specific Performance

The situation where specific performance of contract may be allowed are as under:

When there is no standard for ascertaining actual damage

When it is impossible to quantify the actual damage caused by the non-performance of the act agreed to be done, the Court may, in its discretion, grant a decree of Specific Performance of that act.

Duke of Somerset v. Cookson, 1935, 3 P Wins. 390

Art, paintings, old furniture, antiques, etc. have a special value to the contracting party, although such articles may not have much monetary value. For example, an idol which has been passed down from generation to generation of a family has immense value to that family, even if it means nothing to someone else. No number of damages can compensate for the loss to the members of the family, even if the Court makes an attempt to assess the damages payable instead of the idol. Therefore, an order will be passed for specific delivery of that idol, not for damages.

In Vijaya Minerals v. Bikash AIR 1996 Cal. 67, the Hon'ble Calcutta High Court has observed that since manganese and iron ore are not ordinary items of commerce, if a contract for sale of iron and manganese ore from a mine has been made, specific performance of such an act would be allowed.

When monetary compensation would not afford adequate relief

When the act agreed to be done is such that compensation offered in money for its non-performance would not afford adequate relief. However, until the contrary is proved, it is to be presumed that:

The breach of a contract to transfer immovable property cannot be adequately compensated by payment of money.

The breach of a contract to transfer movable property can be so compensated, except in the following cases:

- Where the property is not an ordinary article of commerce or is of special value or interest to the plaintiff, or consists of goods which are not easily obtainable in the market.
- Where the property is held by the defendant as the agent or trustee of the plaintiff.
- Usually, the Courts are entitled to presume that in case of breach of contract to transfer of immovable property, mere compensation is not adequate relief, whereas specific performance is adequate relief, whereas in the case of movable property, compensation is the ordinary relief and specific performance is exceptional. However, it must be noted that these presumptions are rebuttable.

In Bank of India v. Chinoy, AIR 1949 PC 90, it was held that if shares are freely available in the market, then specific performance would not be granted. If shares of a particular company, for instance a private company are not readily available in the market, specific performance would be granted.

Suits for Enforcement of a Contract To Execute A Mortgage

In a suit for the enforcement of a contract to execute a mortgage or furnish any other security for the repayment of any loan which the borrower is not willing to pay at once, specific performance may be allowed. However, where only part of the loan has been advanced by the lender, he must be willing to advance the full amount of the loan.

- Contracts for the purchase of any debentures of a company.
- Suits for the execution of a formal deed of partnership.
- Suits for the purchase of partner's share.

Suits for the enforcement of a building construction contract or any other work on land, provided the following three conditions are fulfilled:

1. The building or other work has been described in the contract in a reasonably precise manner, so as to enable to Court to decide the exact nature of building or work;
2. The plaintiff has substantial interest in the performance of the contract, and the interest is such that financial compensation for non-performance of the contract would not be adequate relief; and
3. After the contract, the defendant has obtained possession of the whole or any part of the land in question.

It is important to remember that specific performance is an equitable remedy, and is therefore left to the discretion of the Court, rather than to the right of a person by law.

An Injunction

Under Section 36 of Specific Relief Act 1963, an injunction is defined as an order of a competent court, which:

- (i) Forbids the commission of a threatened wrong,
- (ii) Forbids the continuation of a wrong already begun, or
- (iii) Commands the restoration of the status quo (the former course of things).

Clauses (i) and (ii) deal with preventive relief, whereas clause iii deals with an injunction called mandatory injunction, which aims at rectifying, rather than preventing the defendant's misconduct.

Under Sections 36 & 37 of the Specific Relief Act 1963, there are two types of injunctions – temporary and perpetual, whereas Section 39 governs mandatory injunctions.

- Temporary or interim injunctions are governed by Order 39 of Civil Procedure Code 1908 and are those injunctions that remain in force until a specified period of time, e.g. 15 days, or till the date of the next hearing. Such injunctions can be granted at any stage of the suit.
- Permanent or perpetual injunctions, as under Sections 38 to 42 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 are contained in the decree passed by the Court after fully hearing the merits of the case. Such an injunction permanently prohibits the defendant from committing an act which would be contrary to the plaintiff's rights.

When are perpetual injunctions granted?

Under Section 38 of the Specific Relief Act 1963, whenever the defendant invades, or even threatens to invade the plaintiff's right to enjoyment of property or right to property itself, the Court may grant to the plaintiff a perpetual or permanent injunction in the four cases as follows:

- (i) Where there is no standard for quantifying the actual damages caused, or likely to be caused, to the plaintiff, by the invasion of his rights;
- (ii) Where invasion of the plaintiff's rights is such that any compensation in money would be inadequate relief;
- (iii) Where the defendant is a trustee of the property for the plaintiff;
- (iv) Where the injunction is necessary to prevent multiplicity of judicial proceedings.

Mandatory injunctions are granted in cases where in order to prevent the non-performance of an obligation, it is necessary to compel the performance of certain acts which the Courts are capable of enforcing. Thus, the Court may at its discretion grant an injunction to prevent such non-performance and also to compel performance of the required acts. This injunction is applicable to the breach of any obligation. It may be permanent or temporary, although temporary-mandatory injunctions are rare.

Damages instead of, or in addition to injunction:

Section 40 of the Specific Relief Act 1963 states that a plaintiff may claim damages either in addition to or in substitution for suing for perpetual or mandatory injunction, and if the Court deems fit, it may even grant such damages.

It is worth emphasizing that damages and injunction are not alternate remedies. Both may be allowed at the discretion of the Court.

However, damages cannot be granted unless the plaintiff has claimed damages in the plaint. In the event that the plaintiff has not claimed damages in the plaintiff itself, he should be allowed to amend the plaintiff, at any stage of the proceedings, on such terms as may be just in the circumstances of the case.

To conclude, it is thus evident that there are several remedies available in case of breach of a contract, none of which are very simple. One would have to overcome an abundance of challenges and rebuttals to prove a case of breach of contract.

LESSON ROUND-UP

- A contract, in the simplest definition, a promise enforceable by law. The promise may be to do something or to refrain from doing something. The making of a contract requires the mutual assent of two or more persons, one of them ordinarily making an offer and another accepting.
- The prime purpose of creating a contract is related to the recording of details, which both parties have agreed with mutual consent. It provides a precise knowledge of the services provided by the third party or monetary expectations to be met by the person. These details will serve as legitimate proof and are very important in a contract.
- Negotiation is a skill that can benefit business owners every single day, whether they're dealing with vendors or landlords, employees or clients. Negotiating with vendors is vital for improving an overall vendor contract.
- Contracts are by nature collaborative and relational. By clearly stating the important clauses for the parties they lead to transparency which enhances communication. A contract with convoluted language and imprecise terms is likely to cause a great deal of confusion between the parties.
- Many people who have shred their calories in finding a specific document in a sea of paperwork, can easily understand the importance of document management.
- Every contract is subject to applicable laws and parties to the contract are bound to comply with the laws applicable on them as well as on transaction.
- Business relationships are a two-way street. One party does not hold more power over the other. It requires commitment and maturity from both sides. Understanding each other's perspectives and respecting differences is key, along with an understanding of how each party benefits themselves as well as each other.
- Penalty is a payment of money to a non –defaulting party, which puts the other party in fear and enforces the other party to perform its promise under the contract. The penalty is deterrent in nature.
- Section 40 of the Specific Relief Act 1963 states that a plaintiff may claim damages either in addition to or in substitution for suing for perpetual or mandatory injunction, and if the Court deems fit, it may even grant such damages.

INTRODUCTION

In view of the multifarious activities of a welfare state, legislature is entrusted with the primary duty of making the Laws. However, the legislature cannot work out all the details to fit the varying aspects of complex situations. It must necessarily delegate the working out of details to the executive or any other agency. Therefore, one of the most significant developments of the present century is the growth in the legislative powers of the executives. There is no such general power granted to the executive to make law, it only supplements the law under the authority of legislature. This supplementary legislation is known as 'delegated legislation' or 'subordinate legislation'. The development of the legislative powers of the administrative authorities in the form of the delegated legislation occupies very important place in the study of the administrative law. However, the primary function of the executives are administration of the law.

After the role of executive i.e. implementation of the law, the judiciary is entrusted to administer the justice. <sup>1</sup>One of the unique features of the Indian Constitution is that, notwithstanding the adoption of a federal system and existence of Central Acts and State Acts in their respective spheres, it has generally provided for a single integrated system of Courts to administer both Union and State laws. At the apex of the entire judicial system, exists the Supreme Court of India below which are the High Courts in each State or group of States. Below the High Courts lies a hierarchy of Subordinate Courts. Panchayat Courts also function in some States under various names like Nyaya Panchayat, Panchayat Adalat, Gram Kachheri, etc. to decide civil and criminal disputes of petty and local nature. Different State laws provide for different kinds of jurisdiction of courts. Each State is divided into judicial districts presided over by a District and Sessions Judge, which is the principal civil court of original jurisdiction and can try all offences including those punishable with death. The Sessions Judge is the highest judicial authority in a district. Below him, there are Courts of civil jurisdiction, known in different States as Munsifs, Sub-Judges, Civil Judges and the like. Similarly, the criminal judiciary comprises the Chief Judicial Magistrates and Judicial Magistrates of First and Second Class.

<sup>2</sup>'Tribunal' is an administrative body established for the purpose of discharging quasi-judicial duties. An Administrative Tribunal is neither a Court nor an executive body. It stands somewhere midway between a Court and an administrative body. The exigencies of the situation proclaiming the enforcement of new rights in the wake of escalating State activities and furtherance of the demands of justice have led to the establishment of Tribunals. According to Law commission of Indian report, to overcome the situation that arose due to the pendency of cases in various Courts, domestic tribunals and other Tribunals have been established under different Statutes. A 'tribunal' in the legal perspective is different from a domestic tribunal. The 'domestic tribunal' refers to the administrative agencies designed to regulate the professional conduct and to enforce discipline among the members by exercising investigatory and adjudicatory powers. Whereas, Tribunals are the quasi-judicial bodies established to adjudicate disputes related to specified matters which exercise the jurisdiction according to the Statute establishing them.

TYPES OF COURTS AND THEIR JURISDICTION

Broadly speaking there are two types of courts- civil and criminal. The civil courts deal with matters of civil nature whereas the criminal courts deal with criminal matters. Then there are Constitutional Courts. The framework of the current legal system has been laid down by the Indian Constitution and the judicial system derives its powers from it but the system has been inherited from the British rule that preceded independence.

In India, we have courts at various levels – different types of courts, each with varying powers depending on the tier and jurisdiction bestowed upon them. They form a hierarchy with the Supreme Court of India at the top, followed by High Courts of respective states with District and Sessions Judges sitting in District Courts and Magistrates of Second Class and Civil Judge (Junior Division) at the bottom. The normal trend of the judiciary system is to start any general dispute in the lower court which is then escalated to the higher courts. The judgments can be challenged in the higher courts if the parties to the cases are not satisfied. The process of escalation is systematic.

Supreme Court

India has one of the oldest legal systems in the world. Its law and jurisprudence stretches back into the centuries, forming a living tradition which has grown and evolved with the lives of its diverse people. India's commitment to law is created in the Constitution which constituted India into a Sovereign Democratic Republic, containing a federal system with a Parliamentary form of Government in the Union and the States, an independent judiciary, guaranteed Fundamental Rights and Directive Principles of State Policy containing objectives which though not enforceable in law are fundamental to the governance of the nation.

According to Article 124 of the Constitution, there shall be a Supreme Court of India consisting of a Chief Justice of India and other Judges. Supreme Court of India is the highest level of court of Indian juridical system. It plays the role of the guardian of the Constitution of India. The present strength of Supreme Court is 34 including the Chief Justice of India.

The Supreme Court exercises original jurisdiction exclusively to hear the cases of disputes between the Central Government and the State Governments or between the States. The Supreme Court has original but not exclusive jurisdiction for enforcement of Fundamental Rights as per the provision of Constitution of India through the way of writs. This court is also an appellate court.

Supreme Court has the power to exercise extra ordinary jurisdiction to hear any appeal related to any matter for which any court or tribunal had decided with judgment through the option of special leave petition except the case of tribunal related to Armed Forces. Supreme Court has the power to withdraw or transfer any case from any High Court. The Supreme Court has the authority to review any verdict ordered. The order of Supreme Court is binding on all courts across India.

Advisory jurisdiction: The Supreme Court has the option to report its opinion to the President about any questions raised of public importance referred to it by the President.

High Courts

Article 226 of Constitution of India has given the power to the High Courts to issue different writs for the enforcement of Fundamental Rights guaranteed under the Constitution.

According to Article 226 of the Constitution of India, every High Court shall have power, throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction, to issue to any person or authority, including in appropriate cases, any Government, within those territories directions, orders or writs, including writs in the nature of habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto and certiorari, or any of them, for the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III and for any other purpose.

The power conferred above to issue directions, orders or writs to any Government, authority or person may also be exercised by any High Court exercising jurisdiction in relation to the territories within which the cause of action, wholly or in part, arises for the exercise of such power, notwithstanding that the seat of such Government or authority or the residence of such person is not within those territories.

However, the power conferred on a High Court by article 226 shall not be in derogation of the power conferred on the Supreme Court by clause (2) of article 32.

High Courts also hear appeals against the orders of lower courts. High courts are empowered to practice superintendence over all the courts and tribunals effective within the regional jurisdiction of the High Court. All the High Courts have the power to pronounce punishment for contempt of court. The High Courts are confined to the jurisdiction of State, group of States or Union Territory. The subordinate courts are covered by the administrative power of the High Courts under which they function.

Lower Courts

The District Court in India are established by the respective State Government in India for every district or more than one district taking into account the number of cases, population distribution in the district. These courts are under administrative control of the High Court of the State to which the district concerned belongs.

The court at the district level has a dual structure that runs parallel- one for the civil side and one for the criminal side. The civil side is simply called the District Court and is headed by the district judge. There are additional district judges and assistant district judges who are there to share the additional load of the proceedings of District Courts. These additional district judges have equal power like the district judges for the jurisdiction area of any city which has got the status of metropolitan area as conferred by the state government. These district courts have the additional jurisdictional authority of appeal handling over the subordinate courts in their jurisdiction. The subordinate courts covering the civil cases, in this aspect are considered as Junior Civil Judge Court, Principal Junior and Senior Civil Judge Court, which are also known as Subordinate Courts. All these courts are treated with ascending orders.

The criminal court at the district level is headed by the Sessions Judge. Usually there are Additional Sessions Judges as well in the Court to share the workload of the Sessions Judge. The subordinate courts covering the criminal cases are Second Class Judicial Magistrate Court, First Class Judicial Magistrate Court, and Chief Judicial Magistrate Court along with family courts which are established to deal with the issues related to disputes of matrimonial issues only. The status of Principal Judge of family court is at par with the District Judge.

The court of the district judges is the highest civil court in a district. It exercises both judicial and administrative powers. It has the power of superintendence over the courts under its control. The parallel structure of law courts at the district level usually converges at the top and the head of the court has power of trying both civil and criminal cases. Thus he is designated as the District and Sessions Judge. It must also be borne in mind that name of the subordinate courts at the district level is not uniform across the States.

Revenue Courts

There is a government apparatus to deal with revenue matters. These are 'courts' but are not a part of Judiciary because they come under the administration of the State governments. Revenue courts deal with matters pertaining to stamp duty, registration etc.

At the lowest level, we have the 'Tehsildar' or Assistant Tehsildar. Above it is the office of the 'Sub-Divisional Officer' (SDO). Then comes the office of District Collector and above it is the 'Board of Revenue'. The Board of Revenue is the highest decision making body at the State level.

E-Courts

The eCourts Project was conceptualized on the basis of the "National Policy and Action Plan for Implementation of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) in the Indian Judiciary – 2005" submitted by eCommittee, Supreme Court of India with a vision to transform the Indian Judiciary by ICT enablement of Courts.

Ecommittee is a body constituted by the Government of India in pursuance of a proposal received from the than Hon'ble the Chief Justice of India to constitute an eCommittee to assist him in formulating a National policy on computerization of Indian Judiciary and advise on technological communication and management related changes.

The eCourts Mission Mode Project, is a Pan-India Project, monitored and funded by Department of Justice, Ministry of Law and Justice, Government of India for the District Courts across the country.

The objective of the ecourt mission project are:

- To provide efficient & time-bound citizen centric services delivery as detailed in eCourt Project Litigant's Charter.
- To develop, install & implement decision support systems in courts.
- To automate the processes to provide transparency in accessibility of information to its stakeholders.
- To enhance judicial productivity, both qualitatively & quantitatively, to make the justice delivery system affordable, accessible, cost effective, predictable, reliable and transparent.

On 7th August 2013, Hon'ble the Chief Justice of India launched the e-Courts National portal ecourts.gov.in of the eCourts Project. More than 2852 Districts and Taluka Court Complexes have secured their presence on the NJDG portal ecourts.gov.in and are providing Case Status, Cause lists online with many of them also uploading orders/judgments. The data of more than 7 crore pending and disposed of cases and 3.3 crore orders/judgments of District Courts in India is available on NJDG at present.

With dynamic real time data generated and updated continuously, the NJDG is serving as a source of information of judicial delivery system for all the stakeholders. It is regularly analyzed for meaningful assistance in policy formation and decision making. The NJDG is working as National data warehouse for case data including the orders/judgments for Courts across the country with full coverage of District Courts.

There is an Online Analytical Processing, and Business Intelligence Tools that will help in the summation of multiple databases into tables with summarized reports for preparation of informative management system and dashboards for effective Court and Case Management. The Judicial Management Information System will be helpful in litigations and adjudication pattern analysis and also the impact analysis of any variation in governing factors relating to law, amendments, jurisdiction, recruitment etc. It will also serve as judicial performance enhancing measure for policy makers to be used for decision support system.

According to Objective Accomplishment Report of eCourts Project of eCommittee of Supreme Court of India, the success of eCourts mission Project can be attributed to three systemic and structural:

Firstly, the entire Project has been conceptualized and implemented in Free and Open Source Software. This is perhaps the largest FOSS based project in the world and has resulted in an estimated saving of Rs. 340 crore to the Exchequer excluding huge recurrent cost of license fee and maintenance, simultaneously providing freedom to customise and use the system software.

Secondly, the core-periphery model has been utilized and implemented in the software development. The core is sacrosanct and is decided by the eCommittee and contains data that is available for policy and decision making at the national level – Supreme Court, Parliament and Central Government. Of course, the core data can be accessed and utilized for policy and decision making at the State level. The periphery modules are to be developed by each High Court and can be implemented through the available data in the core. Each High Court has full freedom to develop its periphery modules based on the High Court Rules, the Civil and Criminal Court Manuals. These periphery modules are intended for State level utilization – High Court and District Courts, State Legislature and State Government.

Thirdly, the eCourts Project has been focussed on being citizen-centric, keeping the litigant in mind. This focus has resulted in remarkable coordination and teamwork between hundreds of judicial officers (Trainers and Master Trainers) and court staff (District System Administrators and System Administrators). Appreciating the importance and significance of the eCourts Project for expeditious and affordable justice delivery, the Department of Justice, National Informatics Centre and other Central Government institutions coordinated and cooperated with the expert eCommittee team to bring success to the Project. It is through this teamwork that important software and applications such as Case Information System, eFiling, ePayment, National Service and Tracking of Electronic Processes, Video Conferencing, Virtual Court, National Judicial Data Grid, a variety of mobile applications and several others have been successfully tried, tested and implemented.

TYPES OF TRIBUNALS/QUASI-JUDICIAL BODIES

Tribunals in India are a part of the Executive branch of the Government which are assigned with the powers and duties to act in judicial capacity for settlement of disputes. Part XIV of the Constitution of India makes provisions for establishment and functioning of the Tribunals in India. They are quasi-judicial bodies that are less formal, less expensive and enable speedy disposal of cases.

There are tribunals for settling various administrative and tax-related disputes, including Central Administrative Tribunal (CAT), Income Tax Appellate Tribunal (ITAT), National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT), National Green Tribunal (NGT) and Securities Appellate Tribunal (SAT), among others.

Tribunals were added in the Constitution by Constitution (Forty-second Amendment) Act, 1976 as Part XIV-A, which has only two articles viz. 323-A and 323-B. Article 323A provides that a law made by the parliament may provide for establishment of an Administrative Tribunal for the Union and a separate Administrative Tribunal for each state or two or more states. Article 323 B empowers the parliament or state legislatures to set up tribunals for matters other than those mentioned under Article 323A.

Some of the important Tribunals are as follows:

1. Debt Recovery Tribunal (DRT)

The Debt Recovery Tribunals have been constituted under Section 3 of the Recovery of Debts and Bankruptcy Act, 1993(RDBA). The original aim of the Debts Recovery Tribunal was to receive claim applications from Banks and Financial Institutions against their defaulting borrowers. (DRT) was established for expeditious adjudication and recovery of debts due to banks and financial institutions in order to reduce the non-performing assets of the Banks and Financial Institutions.

Prior to the introduction of Debt Recovery Tribunal, petitions had to be filed separately for adjudication of cases and execution proceedings in different courts depending upon their jurisdiction. DRT acts as a single judicial forum for adjudication of cases as well as execution of the decrees passed for recovery of debts due to banks and financial institutions under RDB Act and Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interests (SARFAESI) Act, 2002.

The e-DRT project has also been implemented in all DRTs and DRATs. This project aims to bring in improved access, efficiency and transparency. e-DRT provides access to e-filing, e-payment of fees, cause list generation and a case information system that enables viewing of case status, orders and judgments.

2. National Company Law Tribunal

National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) is a quasi-judicial body exercising equitable jurisdiction, which was earlier being exercised by the High Court or the Central Government. It has been established by the Central government under section 408 of the Companies Act, 2013 with effect from 1st June 2016. The Tribunal has powers to regulate its own procedures.

The establishment of the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) consolidates the corporate jurisdiction of the following authorities:

- i) Company Law Board
- ii) Board for Industrial and Financial Reconstruction
- iii) The Appellate Authority for Industrial and Financial Reconstruction
- iv) Jurisdiction and powers relating to winding up restructuring and other such provisions, vested in the High Courts.

3. Consumer Forum/Commissions

To protect the rights of the consumers in India and establish a mechanism for settlement of consumer disputes, a three-tier redressal forum containing District, State and National level consumer forums/commissions have been set up. The District Consumer Forum/Commission deals with consumer disputes involving a value of upto Rs. 50 Lakh rupees. State Commission has jurisdiction in consumer disputes having a value of exceeds 50 lakh rupees but does not exceed 2 crore rupees. The National Commission deals in consumer disputes above Rs. 2 crores, in respect of defects in goods and or deficiency in service. It is important to note that consumer courts do not entertain complaints for alleged deficiency in any service that is rendered free of charge or under a contract of personal service.

The Consumer Protection Act, 2019 stipulates that every complaint shall be disposed of as expeditiously as possible and endeavour shall be made to decide the complaint within a period of 3 months from the date of receipt of notice by opposite party where the complaint does not require analysis or testing of commodities and within 5 months if it requires analysis or testing of commodities.

The Act also provides consumers the option of filing complaint electronically. To facilitate consumers in filing their complaint online, the Central Government has set up the E-Daakhil Portal, which provides a hassle-free, speedy and inexpensive facility to consumers around the country to conveniently approach the relevant consumer forum, dispensing the need to travel and be physically present to file their grievance. E-Daakhil has many features like e-Notice, case document download link & VC hearing link, filing written response by opposite party, filing rejoinder by complainant and alerts via SMS/Email. Presently, facility of E-Daakhil is available in 544 consumer commissions, which includes the National Commission and consumer commissions in 21 states and 3 UTs.

To provide a faster and amicable mode of settling consumer disputes, the Act also includes reference of consumer disputes to Mediation, with the consent of both parties.

4. Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (MACT)

The Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal deals with matters related to compensation of motor accidents victims or their next of kin. Victims of motor accident or legal heirs of motor accident victims or a representing Advocate can file claims relating to loss of life/property and injury cases resulting from Motor Accidents. Motor Accident Claims Tribunal are presided over by Judicial Officers from the State Higher Judicial Service and are under direct supervision of the Hon'ble High Court of the respective state.

5. Central Administrative Tribunal (CAT)

Central Administrative Tribunal is a multi-member body to hear on cases filed by the staff members alleging non-observation of their terms of service or any other related matters and to pass judgments on those cases. This Tribunal established in pursuance of the amendment of Constitution of India by Articles 323A.

6. National Green Tribunal (NGT)

National Green Tribunal was established for effective and expeditious disposal of cases relating to environmental protection and conservation of forests and other natural resources including enforcement of any legal right relating to environment and giving relief and compensation of damages to persons and property and for related matters.

NGT dedicated jurisdiction in environmental matters shall provide speedy environmental justice and help reduce the burden of litigation in the higher courts. The Tribunal is mandated to make and endeavour for disposal of applications or appeals finally within 6 months of filing of the same.

PROCEDURAL ASPECTS OF WORKING OF CIVIL COURTS

1. Jurisdiction

The Civil Procedure Code, 1908 stipulates that the courts shall have jurisdiction to try all suits of a civil nature excepting suits of which cognizance is either expressly or impliedly barred. The inherent lack of jurisdiction cannot be cured even by consent of parties, which means if the court does not have any jurisdiction at all; the parties cannot subsequently confer it by an agreement. The onus of proving that the court does not have jurisdiction lies on the party who disputes the jurisdiction. The jurisdiction is basically of three types.

- (a) Pecuniary: The purpose of Pecuniary jurisdiction is to decide the maximum monetary limits for which a forum can entertain a cause of action.
- (b) Territorial: The purpose of territorial jurisdiction is to ensure smooth and speedy trial of the matter with least inconvenience to the affected parties. Hence the suit cannot be filed at any place depending on wish of the party. The court concern should have territorial jurisdiction. The territorial jurisdiction is conferred on a court by following factors:-
  - (i) By virtue of the fact of residence of the Defendant.
  - (ii) By virtue of location of subject matter within jurisdiction of the court.
  - (iii) By virtue of cause of action arising within jurisdiction of such court.
- (c) As to subject matter: For example, Motor Vehicles Act provides for special tribunal for matters under it. Similarly disputes relating to terms of service of government servants go to Administrative Tribunals.

The first and fundamental rule governing jurisdiction is that suit shall be instituted in the court of lowest grade competent to try it.

The Full Bench of Calcutta High Court in the case of Hriday Nath Roy, has mentioned that jurisdiction may have to be considered with reference to place, value and nature of the subject matter. The classification of jurisdiction into territorial jurisdiction, pecuniary jurisdiction and jurisdiction of the subject matter is of a fundamental character. In the Order of Reference to a Full Bench in the case of Sukh Lal v. Tara Chand 33 C. 68, it was stated that jurisdiction may be defined to be the power of a Court to hear and determine a cause, to adjudicate or exercise any judicial power in relation to it. In other words, by jurisdiction is meant the authority which a Court has to decide matters that are litigated before it or to take cognizance of matters presented in a formal way for its decision.

2. Stay

With the object of preventing courts of concurrent jurisdiction simultaneously trying two parallel suit in respect of the same matter in issue, Civil Procedure Code has vested inherent power in the court to stay the suit. The pendency of a suit in Foreign Court does not preclude the courts in India for trying a suit founded on same cause of action. The application for stay of suit is maintainable at any stage of the suit. The court does not have option to refuse on ground of delay.

3. Res Judicata and bar to further Suits

The principle of res judicata aims at bringing finality to the litigation. The basic principle is that a final judgement rendered by a court of competent jurisdiction is conclusive on merits as to rights of the parties and constitutes an absolute bar against subsequent action involving the same claim. The principle of resjudicata applies only under following circumstances:

- (i) The matter directly and substantially in issue has been directly and substantially in issue in a former suit between same parties or between whom they claim litigation under the same title.
- (ii) The matter is in the court competent to try such subsequent suit or the suits in which such issue has been subsequently raised and has been heard and finally decided.

The word former suit means suit decided prior, irrespective of the date of institution. The matter must be decided on merits i.e. the issue was alleged by one party and denied by the other. The principle of resjudicata is one of convenience and not one of absolute justice and it should not be unduly conditioned and qualified by technical interpretations.

4. Plaint

The entire legal machinery under the Civil Law is set in motion by filing of plaint and hence plaint is the actual starting point of all pleadings in a case. Though the law has not laid down any tight jacket formats for plaints, its minimum contents have been prescribed.

The Plaintiff is required to annex list of documents which the Plaintiff has produced alongwith the plaint and shall also submit additional copies as may be required. Where the Plaintiff sues upon a document in his possession or power he shall produce it in the court when plaint is presented. If the document is not in his possession, the Plaintiff will state in whose possession it is. A document, which has to be produced and has not been produced at the time of presenting the plaint cannot be received in evidence at the hearing of the suit without permission from the concerned court.

If after submitting the plaint the court finds that it should be submitted before some other court the plaint is returned, and intimation thereof is given to the Plaintiff.

The court has power to reject the plaint on following grounds:

- (i) Where it does not disclose the cause of action
- (ii) Where the relief claimed is undervalued and Plaintiff fails to correct the valuation within the time fixed
- (iii) If the relief is properly valued but insufficient court fee / stamp is paid and the Plaintiff fails to make good such amount
- (iv) Where the suit appears to be barred by any law, from the statements in the plaint. The rejection of plaint on aforesaid grounds does not of its own force bar the Plaintiff from presenting a fresh plaint.

5. Summons

When the suit is duly instituted summons may be issued to Defendant to appear and answer the claim. Summons is an instrument used by the court to commence a civil action or proceedings and is a means to acquire jurisdiction over party. It is a process directed to a proper officer requiring him to notify the person named, that an action has been commenced against him, in the court from where process is issued and that he is required to appear, on a day named and answer the claim in such action.

Defendant to whom a summons has been issued may appear in person or by a pleader duly instructed or by a pleader accompanied by some person who is able to answer all questions. To expedite the filing of reply and adjudication of claim, the court may direct filing of written statement on date of appearance and issue suitable summons for that purpose. Failure to do so may result in Ex-parte judgement. The provisions of substituted service have to be resorted when the summons is not served by normal process through the court bailiff.

Where the court is satisfied that there is reason to believe that the Defendant is keeping out of the way for purpose of avoiding service or that for any others reason the summons cannot be served in ordinary way the court shall order summons to be served by affixing copy thereof in conspicuous part of the house. To expedite service of summons one more provision is relating to substituted service under which the court orders service by an advertisement in a newspaper, the newspaper shall be a daily newspaper circulating in the locality in which the Defendant last resided or carried on business or personally worked for gain. Where the service is substituted, the court shall fix time for appearance of the Defendant as the case may require.

6. Appearance of Parties

On the day fixed in the summons the Defendant is required to appear and answer and the parties shall attend the court unless the hearing is adjourned to a future day fixed by the court. If the Defendant is absent court may proceed ex-parte. Where on the day so fixed it is found that summons has not been served upon Defendant as consequence of failure of Plaintiff to pay the court fee or postal charges the court may dismiss the suit. Where neither the Plaintiff nor the Defendant appears the court may dismiss the suit. Such dismissal does not bar fresh suit in respect of same cause of action.

If the Defendant appears and Plaintiff does not appear and the Defendant does not admit the Plaintiff's claim wholly or partly, court shall pass order dismissing the suit. If Defendant appears and admits part or whole of the claim the decree will be passed accordingly. If the Plaintiff shows sufficient cause re-opening of the matter is mandatory. What is sufficient cause depends upon facts and circumstances of each case and the court adopt liberal and generous construction which advances cause of justice and hence restoration is ordinarily not denied.

7. Adjournments

Courts have the power to adjourn a case and take it up on a future date. Adjournments frequently sought by the parties contribute significantly to the delays caused in deciding the matters. The granting of adjournments is at the discretion of the court. The rules governing adjournments are considerably strict if applied in their true spirit.

8. Ex-parte Decrees

A decree against the Defendant without hearing him or in his absence/in absence of his defence can be passed under the following circumstances:-

- (i) Where any party from whom a written statement is required fails to present the same within the time permitted or fixed by the court, as the case may be the court shall pronounce judgement against him, or make such order in relation to the suit as it thinks fit and on pronouncement of such judgement a decree shall be drawn up.
- (ii) Where Defendant has not filed a pleading, it shall be lawful for the court to pronounce judgement on the basis of facts contained in the plaint, except against person with disability.
- (iii) Where the Plaintiff appears and Defendant does not appear when suit is called up for hearing and summons is property served the court may make an order that suit will be heard ex parte.

If an ex-parte decree is passed and the Defendant satisfies that he was prevented by sufficient cause then he has the following remedies open:

- (i) Prefer appeal against decree.
- (ii) Apply for Review.
- (iii) Apply for setting aside the Ex-parte Decree.

The words "Sufficient Cause" has not been defined and it will depend on facts and circumstances of each case. The Defendant is not entitled to approach the court to set aside the ex-parte decree as a matter of right. An ex-parte decree is an equally effective decree unless set aside in appeal or by the same court. The court, which passed ex-parte decree, has the power to set aside the decree.

9. Interlocutory Proceedings

The period involved between initiation and disposal of litigation is substantially long. The intervention of the court may sometimes be required to maintain the position as it prevailed on the date of litigation.

In legal parlance it is known as “status quo”. It means preserving existing state of things on a given day. In that context interlocutory orders are provisional, interim, temporary as compared to final. It does not finally determine cause of action but only decides some intervening matter pertaining to the cause.

The procedure followed in the court is that the separate application for interim relief is moved at the time of filing of suit or at a subsequent stage. The court either grants the order ex-parte or issues urgent show cause notice and the reply is to be filed within short time.

One of the most common interlocutory reliefs sought is that of ‘injunction’.

10. Written Statement

The Defendant is required to file a written statement of his defence at or before the first hearing or such time as may be allowed along with the list of documents relied upon by him. If Defendant disputes maintainability of the suit or takes the plea that the transaction is void it must be specifically stated. A general denial of grounds alleged in the plaint is not sufficient and denial has to be specific. The denial should not be an evasive denial but it must be on point of substance. Every allegation of fact in the plaint if not denied specifically or by necessary implication or stated to be not admitted in the pleading shall be deemed to be admitted.

11. Examination of Parties

Examination of parties is an important stage after appearance. At first hearing of the suit the court shall ascertain from each party or his pleader whether he admits or denies such allegations of fact as are made in the plaint or written statement. Such admissions and denials shall be recorded. The examination may be an oral examination.

Where admission of facts have been made either in the pleading or otherwise, whether orally or in writing, the court may at any stage of the suit, either on the application of any party or of its own motion and without waiting for determination of any such question between the parties, make such order or give such judgement as it may think fit.

12. Production of documents

The parties or their pleaders shall produce at or before the settlement of issues, all documentary evidence of every description in their possession or power, on which they intend to rely, and which has not been filed in the court or ordered to be produced.

No documentary evidence in the possession or power of any party, which should have been but has not been produced in accordance with the aforesaid requirements, shall be subsequently admissible. Any objection as to mode of proof is to be raised at the time when document is sought to be proved in evidence. When document is exhibited without any objection as to mode of proof, it is not proper for the court to take any objection regarding the mode of proof for providing the document at final stage.

Every document which a party is called upon to admit, if not denied specifically or by necessary implication, or stated to be not admitted in the pleading of that party or in his reply to the notice to admit documents shall be deemed to be admitted. The court may however at its discretion and for reasons to be recorded, require any document so admitted to be proved otherwise than by such admission.

13. Framing of Issues

The court shall at first hearing, after reading the plaint and written statement ascertain upon what material propositions of facts or law parties are at variance.

Court is required to pronounce judgement on all the issues. Issues may be framed from allegations made on oath by the parties or in answer to interrogatories or from contents of documents produced by either party. If the court is of the opinion that the case or any part thereof may be disposed of on issue of law only, it may first try it, if issue relates to:-

- (i) Jurisdiction of the court,

- (ii) Bar to the suit created by law for the time being in force.

Where the parties are at issue on some question of law or fact and issues have been framed by the court as herein-above provided, if the court is satisfied that no further argument or evidence than what the parties can at once adduce is required upon such of the issues as may be sufficient for decision of the suit and that no injustice will result from proceeding with the suit forthwith, the court may proceed to determine such issues and if the finding thereon is sufficient for the decision, may pronounce judgement accordingly.

14. Summoning and Attendance of Witnesses

On the date appointed by the court and not later than 15 days after the date on which issues are settled parties shall present in court a list of witnesses whom they propose to call either to give evidence or to produce documents.

The judge shall make or dictate on a typewriter or cause to be mechanically recorded, a memorandum of the substance of deposition of witnesses. A witness may be examined on commission also. If signature of witness is not taken on any part of deposition or correction it does not make deposition invalid.

The court may at any stage of a suit inspect any property or thing concerning which any question may arise. The court also has the power to recall any witness who is already called earlier and put such questions as deemed fit. Court is also having suo motu powers. The court may of its own accord, summon and examine any witness including a party to the suit or strangers to the suit.

Where a person to whom summons has been issued either to attend or to give evidence or production of any documents and his deposition or production is material and person has failed to attend without lawful excuse, court may issue orders for arrest either with or without bail. If the witness appears such orders may be withdrawn.

15. Affidavits

The court may at any time for sufficient reason order that any particular fact or facts may be proved by affidavit or affidavit of any witness may be read at hearing, on such condition, as court thinks reasonable.

Affidavit shall contain only such facts as the deponent is able of his own knowledge to prove except on interlocutory applications on which statement of belief may be admitted provided grounds are stated. The affidavits have to be properly verified to avoid any dispute at a later stage. Need for verification of affidavits is to test genuineness and authenticity of allegations and also to make the deponent responsible for allegation made. Affidavit, which is not properly verified, is no affidavit at all. If affidavits are not in conformity with the rules, they can be rejected. Instead of rejecting the affidavit the court may give opportunity to the party to file proper affidavit. Interlocutory applications can also be decided on affidavits.

Even if evidence is given on affidavit the court may direct that such person will be produced for cross examination.

16. Final Argument

Once the documents have been exhibited in the court and the witness(es) of both the sides examined and cross-examined, the stage is set for 'final arguments'.

It allows both the sides to present its case after taking into account the submissions made by the witnesses of the other party and the documents produced by it. It can, therefore, be said to be an opportunity for both the sides to present a summary of their case or defence, as the case may be.

17. Judgement

Judgement means the statement given by the judge on ground of which a decree is passed. The court after the case has been heard shall pronounce judgement in open court either within one month of completion of arguments or as soon thereafter as may be practicable, and when the judgement is to be pronounced judge shall fix a day in advance for that purpose. Where judgement is not pronounced within 30 days from the date on which hearing of case was concluded, the court shall record the reasons for such delay. The last paragraph of the judgement shall indicate in precise terms the relief, which has been granted by such judgement. Every endeavor shall be made to ensure that the decree is drawn as expeditiously as possible and in any case within 15 days from the date on which the judgement is pronounced. The court also has the power to award 'cost'. If on any date fixed for hearing, a party to the suit fails to take step or obtains adjournment for producing evidence, the court may also award costs for causing delay. If the court, that the claim or defence as against the objector is false or vexatious to the knowledge of the party by whom it has been put forward, and if such claim is disallowed, abandoned or withdrawn, court holding the claim false or vexatious may order compensatory costs.

18. Decree and Execution

After the decree is passed the process of execution which involves actual implementation of the order of the court through the process of the court starts the entire process of executing of decree.

TYPES OF CRIMINAL TRIAL

According to the Code of Criminal Procedure, a criminal trial is of three types. Depending upon the type of criminal trial the different stages of a criminal trial are discussed below.

1. Warrant Cases

According to Section 2(x) of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 a warrant case is one which relates to offences punishable with death, imprisonment for life or imprisonment for a term exceeding two years. The trial in warrant cases starts either by the filing of FIR in a police station or by filing a complaint before a Magistrate. Later, if the Magistrate is satisfied that the offence is punishable for more than two years, he sends the case to the Sessions court for trial. The process of sending it to Sessions court is called "committing it to Sessions court".

Important features of a warrant case are:

- Charges must be mentioned in a warrant case
- Personal appearance of accused is mandatory
- A warrant case cannot be converted into a summons case
- The accused can examine and cross-examine the witnesses more than once.
- The Magistrate should ensure that the provisions of Section 207 are complied with. Section 207 of Cr. P.C. 1973, include the supply of copies such as police report, FIR, statements recorded or any other relevant document to the accused.

The stages of trial in warrant cases are given from Section 238 to Section 250 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

A. Different Stages of Criminal Trial in a Warrant Case when instituted by the police report

- First Information Report: Under Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, an FIR or First Information Report is registered by any person. FIR puts the case into motion. An FIR is information given by someone (aggrieved) to the police relating to the commitment of an offense.

- Investigation: The next step after the filing of FIR is the investigation by the investigating officer. A conclusion is made by the investigating officer by examining facts and circumstances, collecting evidence, examining various persons and taking their statements in writing and all the other steps necessary for completing the investigation and then that conclusion is filed to the Magistrate as a police report.
- Charges: If after considering the police report and other important documents the accused is not discharged then the court frames charges under which he is to be tried. In a warrant case, the charges should be framed in writing.
- Plea of guilty: Section 241 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 talks about the plea of guilty. After framing of the charges the accused is given an opportunity to plead guilty, and the responsibility lies with the judge to ensure that the plea of guilt was voluntarily made. The judge may upon its discretion convict the accused.
- Prosecution evidence: After the charges are framed, and the accused pleads not guilty, then the court requires the prosecution to produce evidence to prove the guilt of the accused. The prosecution is required to support their evidence with statements from its witnesses. This process is called “examination in chief”. The magistrate has the power to issue summons to any person as a witness or orders him to produce any document.
- Statement of the accused: Section 313 of the Criminal Procedure Code gives an opportunity to the accused to be heard and explain the facts and circumstances of the case. The statements of accused are not recorded under oath and can be used against him in the trial.
- Defence evidence: An opportunity is given to the accused to produce evidence so as to defend his case. The defense can produce both oral and documentary evidence.
- Judgement: The final decision of the court with reasons given in support of the acquittal or conviction of the accused is known as judgement. In case the accused is acquitted, the prosecution is given time to appeal against the order of the court. When the person is convicted, then both sides are invited to give arguments on the punishment which is to be awarded. This is usually done when the person is convicted of an offence whose punishment is life imprisonment or capital punishment.

B. Stages of Criminal Trial in a Warrant Case when Private Complaint institutes case

It may sometimes happen that the police refuses to register an FIR. In such cases one can directly approach the criminal court under Section 156 of CrPC. On the filing of the complaint, the court will examine the complainant and its witnesses to decide whether any offence is made against the accused person or not. After examination of the complainant, the Magistrate may order an inquiry into the matter by the police and to get him submit a report for the same.

- After examination of the complaint and the investigation report, the court may come to a conclusion whether the complaint is genuine or whether the prosecution has sufficient evidence against the accused or not. If the court does not find any sufficient material through which he can convict the accused, then the court will dismiss the complaint and record its reason for dismissal.
- After examination of the complaint and the inquiry report, if the court thinks that the prosecution has a genuine case and there are sufficient material and evidence with the prosecution to charge the accused then the Magistrate may issue a warrant or a summon depending on the facts and circumstances.

2. Summons Cases

According to Section 2(w) of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, those cases in which an offence is punishable with an imprisonment of fewer than two years is a summons case. A summons case does not require the method of preparing the evidence. Nevertheless, a summons case can be converted into a warrant case by the Magistrate if after looking into the case he thinks that the case is not a summons case.

Important points about summons case

- A summons case can be converted into a warrant case
- The person accused need not be present personally
- The person accused should be informed about the charges orally. No need for framing the charges in writing.
- The accused gets only one opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses.

The different stages of criminal trial in a summons case are given from Section 251 to Section 259 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Stages of Criminal Trial in a Summons Case

- Pre-trial: In the pre-trial stage, the process such as filing of FIR and investigation is conducted.
- Charges: In summons trials, charges are not framed in writing. The accused appears before the court or is brought before the court then the Magistrate would orally state the facts of the offence he is answerable.
- Plea of guilty: The Magistrate after stating the facts of the offence will ask the accused if he pleads guilty or has any defence to support his case. If the accused pleads guilty, the Magistrate records the statement in the words of the accused as far as possible and may convict him on his discretion.
- Plea of guilty and absence of the accused: In cases of petty offences, where the accused wants to plead guilty without appearing in the court, the accused should send a letter containing an acceptance of guilt and the amount of fine provided in the summons. The Magistrate can on his discretion convict the accused.
- Prosecution and defense evidence: In summons case, the procedure followed is very simple and elaborate procedures are eliminated. If the accused does not plead guilty, then the process of trial starts. The prosecution and the defense are asked to present evidence in support of their cases. The Magistrate is also empowered to take the statement of the accused.
- Judgement: When the sentence is pronounced in a summons case, the parties need not argue on the quantum of punishment given. The sentence is the sole discretion of the judge. If the accused is acquitted, the prosecution has the right to appeal. This right to appeal is also extended to the accused.

3. Summary Trial

Cases which generally take only one or two hearings to decide the matter comes under this category. The summary trials are reserved for small offences to reduce the burden on courts and to save time and money. Those cases in which an offence is punishable with an imprisonment of not more than six months can be tried in a summary way. The point worth noting is that, if the case is being tried in a summary way, a person cannot be awarded a punishment of imprisonment for more than three months.

The trial procedure is provided from Section 260 to Section 265 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

Stages of Criminal Trial in Summary Cases

- The procedure followed in the summary trial is similar to summons-case.
- Imprisonment up to three months can be passed.
- In the judgement of a summary trial, the judge should record the substance of the evidence and a brief statement of the finding of the court with reasons.

APPELLATE FORUMS

Any society that claims to uphold the supremacy of law will definitely have an elaborate provision for appeal under its various laws. This is because the majesty of judiciary notwithstanding, at the end of the day, judges are human beings and they can also be at fault just like any other individual. It is a fundamental tenet of a just society that the shortcomings of men should not operate to the disadvantage of fellow human beings in the courts of law. The system of Appeal provides an opportunity to correct judicial orders which otherwise would operate unjustly. Indian legal system has made sufficient provisions for appeal both under the Civil Procedure Code as well as the Criminal procedure Code. Various laws themselves have specific provisions for appeal.

Under the Civil Procedure Code, an appeal may be an appeal from order or an appeal from decree. All orders are not appealable and complete description of the appellable orders has been given in Order 43 of the Code of Civil Procedure. The appeal has to be preferred within prescribed limitation period before the appellate court. The limitation period for appeal to High Court is 90 days and appeal to District Court is 30 days. If the period of limitation is expired, then application for condonation of delay also is required to be moved.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 also contains elaborate provisions on appeals against a judgment or order of the criminal courts. Appeals to the Sessions Court and to the High Court are largely governed by the same set of rules and procedure. But the High Court being the highest appellate court within a state, has been given primacy in many cases where appeal is permissible.

Thus, District and Sessions Court and High Courts are the most common appellate forums.

The Supreme Court is the appellate court of last resort and enjoys very wide plenary and discretionary powers in the matters of appeal. Under Article 136 of the Constitution, the Supreme Court also enjoys a plenary jurisdiction in matters of appeal. However, Article 136 is not a regular forum of appeal at all. It is a residual provision which enables the Supreme Court to interfere with the judgment or order of any court or tribunal in India in its discretion.

Indian laws that have constituted Tribunals for dispute settlement or grievance redressal have constituted appellate forum. For example, under the Companies Act, 2013 the appellate forum is National Companies Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) if one wants to challenge the order of National Company law Tribunal. Similarly, the appellate tribunal for Securities Exchange Board of India (SEBI) is Securities Appellate Tribunal (SAT) and for Debt Recovery Tribunal is Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal (DRAT). Some of the laws like the Companies Act provide that matters from appellate tribunal (NCLAT) will go directly to the Supreme Court and not to the High Courts.

As appeal by itself shall not operate as stay of proceedings under the decree or order, except when directed otherwise by the appellate court, the execution of decree passed by the lower court also shall not be stayed for the mere reason that appeal is preferred.

REFERENCE AND REVISION UNDER CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE

Reference

Section 395 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (Cr.P.C.) empowers a Court subordinate to the High Court to make a reference to the High Court under sub-section (1) if following conditions exist:

- (1) The case pending before it must involve a question as to validity of any Act, Ordinance or Regulation.

A mere plea raised by a party challenging the validity of an Act is not sufficient to make a reference to the High Court unless the Court itself is satisfied that a real and substantial question as to validity of the Act is actually involved for the disposal of the case.

- (2) Secondly, the Court should be of the opinion that such Act, Ordinance Regulation, as the case may be, is invalid or inoperative but has not been so declared by High Court or by the Supreme Court.
- (3) While making a reference to the High Court, the Court shall refer to the case setting out its opinion and reasons for making a reference.

The section does not permit a reference with a view to resolve a conflict of authority where different views on a certain point of law have been expressed by some High Court, the reason being that the Court desiring to make a reference is supposed to follow the law laid down by the High Court to which it is subordinate.

It is necessary for the Court making a reference to give its own opinion on the law which is sought to be referred to for clarification because the High Court is not expected to answer hypothetical questions of law however interesting or important they might be.

Revision

Sections 397 to 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure deals with the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court and the Sessions Court. Revision lies both in pending and decided cases and it can be filed before a High Court or a Court of Session. Very wide discretionary powers have been conferred on the Sessions Court and the High Court.

The object of the revision is to confer upon superior criminal courts a kind of paternal or supervisory jurisdiction in order to correct miscarriage of justice arising from misconception of law, irregularity of procedure, neglect of proper precautions of apparent harshness of treatment which has resulted on the one hand in some injury to the due maintenance of law and order, or on the other hand in some undeserved hardship to individuals. The purpose of revision is to enable the revision court to satisfy itself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order recorded or passed and as to the regularity of any proceedings of the inferior criminal court.

Section 397 empowers the High Court and the Sessions Judge to call for records of any inferior Criminal Court and examine them for themselves as to whether a sentence, finding or order of such subordinate Court is legal, correct or proper and whether the proceedings of such Court are regular or not, with a view to prevent miscarriage of justice and perpetuation of illegality.

The High Court or the Sessions Judge have the power to interfere at any stage of the proceeding, i.e., the case and they are under a legal duty to interfere when it is brought to their notice that some person has been illegally prosecuted or subjected to harassment, or some material error of law or procedure has been committed by an inferior Court which has resulted in miscarriage of justice.

The cases of wrong exercise of jurisdiction or non-exercise of jurisdiction or improper appreciation of evidence etc. call for interference of the High Court or the Sessions Judge under Section 397.

The provisions of Section 397 are attracted under the following conditions:

- (a) The proceedings must be that of an inferior Criminal Court;
- (b) The term 'inferior Court' includes all Magistrates whether judicial or Executive, exercising original or appellate jurisdiction. They shall be deemed to be inferior to the Sessions Judge for the purposes of Sections 397 and 398. The Court of District Magistrate shall also be an inferior Court to the Sessions Judge for the purpose of this section;
- (c) Such inferior Court must be situated within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the revisional Court; and

- (d) The purpose of calling records by the revisional Court should be to enable itself to satisfy as to correctness or legality of any finding, sentence or order recorded or passed or to examine the regularity of any proceedings of such inferior Court.

The revisional jurisdiction of the High Court or a Sessions Judge under Section 397 extends only to the 'inferior Criminal Courts' and it does not include a civil or revenue Court acting under Section 340 of Cr.P.C. The Sessions Judge is inferior to the High Court and, therefore, the High Court can call for and examine the record of any proceeding before the Sessions Judge.

Proceeding

The term 'proceeding' used in Section 397 (1) of CrPc has a very wide connotation. It is not only confined to cases related to a commission or trial of an offence but include all judicial proceedings taken before an inferior Criminal Court even though they are not related to any specific offence. The real test is not the nature of the proceeding but nature of Court in which such proceeding is held. If it is held in an inferior Criminal Court, the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court or Sessions Judge would extend to such proceeding under Section 397 (1).

The revisional Court has the power to order the release of offender on bail or bond under Section 397(1). The discretion in this regard should, however, be used judicially considering all the circumstances of the case.

Dismissal of revision by the High Court without assigning reasons is not sustainable and matter may be remitted to the Court for reconsideration.

Interlocutory Order

Section 397(2) bars the exercise of revisional power in relation to any interlocutory order passed in any appeal, inquiry, trial or other proceeding. The statutory bar on the power of revision in relation to interlocutory orders is intended with the object of eliminating inordinate delay in the disposal of criminal cases and to ensure expeditious trials.

What is an interlocutory order has always been a debatable issue, more so, because it has not been defined anywhere in the Code of Criminal Procedure. An order which is not final but merely provisional or temporary is generally called an interlocutory order. But the true test of determining whether or not, an order is interlocutory in nature is whether the order in question finally disposes of the rights of the parties or leaves the case still alive and undecided. For instance, grant or cancellation of bail, adjournment of cases, etc. are interlocutory orders.

The Supreme Court has, however, held that the term 'interlocutory order' as used in Section 397(2) should be given liberal construction in favour of the accused in order to ensure fairness of the trial and the revisional power of the High Court or the Sessions Judge could be attracted to 'intermediate' or 'quasi-final' orders which are not purely interlocutory in nature.

No Second revision

Section 397(3) permits only one revision therefore if an application is made to a Sessions Judge and he is of the opinion that it should be referred to the High Court, then a fresh application for revision can be made to the High Court. But the sub-section bars an application for the revision to the High Court if a person has already applied for it to the Sessions Judge or vice versa.

A person can directly move a revision application to the High Court without first approaching the Sessions Judge. But if he moves the Sessions Judge he cannot thereafter approach the High Court for another revision.

The general rule in this regard is that a concurrent jurisdiction is conferred on two Courts, the aggrieved party should ordinarily first approach the inferior Court, i.e., the Sessions Judge in the context of Section 397(3) unless exceptional grounds for taking the matter directly to the higher Court (High Court in this case) are made out.

Under Section 398 Cr PC, the revision Court may make an order for further inquiry. Further inquiry entails supplemental inquiry upon fresh evidence. The power under Section 398, CrPC is not co-extensive with Section 397, CrPC but extends far wider as the record can 'otherwise' be examined by the revision Court without recourse to Section 397, CrPC.

Sessions Judge's powers of revision (Section 399 of CrPC)

- (1) In the case of any proceeding the record of which has been called for by himself, the Sessions Judge may exercise all or any of the powers which may be exercised by the High Court under Section 401(1) of the Code.
- (2) Where any proceeding by way of revision is commenced before a Sessions Judge under sub-section (1), the provisions of sub-sections (2), (3), (4) and (5) of Section 401 shall, so far as may be, applied to such proceeding and references in the said sub-sections to the High Court shall be construed as references to the Sessions Judge.
- (3) Where any application for revision is made by or on behalf of any person before the Sessions Judge, the decision of the Sessions Judge thereon in relation to such person shall be final and no further proceeding by way of revision at the instance of such person shall be entertained by the High Court or any other Court.

Thus, while hearing a case records of which have been called for revision by himself, the Sessions Judge has the same powers as the High Court has under Section 401 of the Code. It would appear from Section 399(3) of the Code that, while a person has the choice to move either the High Court or the Sessions Judge under Section 397 of the Code, if he chooses to go before the Sessions Judge, he cannot thereafter go before the High Court even if the Sessions Judge rejects his revision application.

An Additional Sessions Judge shall have and may exercise all the powers of a Sessions Judge under this Chapter in respect of any case which may be transferred to him by or under any general or special order of the Sessions Judge.

Section 401 deals with the powers of the High Court as a Court of revision. It is a discretionary jurisdiction vested in the High Court which should be exercised sparingly to decide questions as to legality, propriety, regularity or correctness of any finding, sentence or order recorded or passed by the inferior Criminal Court. The section also empowers the High Court to direct tender of pardon to the accused as contemplated by Section 307.

The High Court can exercise revisional powers under this section either suo motu, that is, on its own initiative or on a petition of any aggrieved party or any other person. The exercise of revisional power by the High Court is, however, subject to two limitations which are as follows:

- (1) Where a person or someone on his behalf has made an application for revision before the Sessions Judge under Section 399 (3), no further revision can be entertained by the High Court at the instance of such person; and
- (2) Where an appeal lies but it was not availed of by the person, no revision can be entertained by the High Court at the instance of the party who could have appealed but did not do so.

The High Court may even direct additional evidence to be taken in case of a revision against discharge of the accused in the interest of justice. But otherwise the jurisdiction of the High Court in a criminal revision is drastically restricted and it cannot embark upon re-appreciation of the evidence.

Section 401(1) provides that in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction the High Court may exercise any of the powers conferred on it as a Court of Appeal subject to exceptions specified there under.

These exceptions are:

- (1) In an appeal, the High Court is empowered under Section 386(a) to reverse an order of acquittal into conviction and vice versa, but in its revisional power it cannot convert a finding of acquittal into a conviction as per sub-section (3) of Section 401. It has no jurisdiction to convert finding of acquittal into one of conviction by seeking recourse to indirect method of ordering retrial.
- (2) In appeal, the High Court will interfere if it is satisfied about the guilt of the accused but in revision it may interfere only when it is brought to its notice that there has been miscarriage of justice.
- (3) An appeal cannot be dismissed unless the accused or his pleader is afforded an opportunity to be heard but in revision the accused is to be given opportunity to be heard only if the order to be passed is going to be prejudicial to him.

The revisional power of the High Court may be said to be wider in scope than its appellate powers in the sense that the High Court can correct irregularities or improprieties of procedure which come to its notice. Again, the provision of abatement of appeal on death of the accused does not apply to revision petition and it can exercise its revisional power even after the death of the accused.

As already discussed in the context of Section 397 (2) the High Court shall not use its revisional power in relation to an interlocutory order passed by an inferior criminal Court in any appeal, inquiry, trial or other proceeding.

Though the High Court is not empowered to set aside an order of acquittal in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction but where the acquittal is based on compounding of an offence and the compounding is invalid in law, such an acquittal may be set aside by the High Court in the exercise of revisional powers.

Though the High Court has no power to set aside an order of acquittal and convert it into conviction of the accused under this section but it has the power to direct re-trial of the case when there has been patent illegality or gross miscarriage of justice in the findings of the inferior Court.

The High Court should order re-trial of the case under its revisional jurisdiction only in very exceptional cases where the “interests of public justice require interference for the correction of gross miscarriage of justice”. It cannot be exercised merely because the inferior Court has misappreciated the evidence or taken a wrong view in interpreting any provision of law.

No Revision where right to Appeal exists

Section 401(4) provides that the party having right of appeal cannot apply for revision. The Cr.P.C. provides a remedy, by way of appeal under Chapter XXX and if the party does not file an appeal against an order of the inferior criminal Court, he will not be permitted to prefer a revision against that order. But legal bar does not stand in the way of High Court’s exercise of power of revision suo motu. It can itself call for the records of proceedings of any inferior criminal Court and has power to enhance the sentence by exercising its revisional jurisdiction.

Revision may be treated as Appeal

Section 401(5) vests a discretionary power in the High Court to treat a revision petition as an appeal and deal with it under its appellate jurisdiction under Chapter XXX. But it can do so when an appeal against the order of the inferior Court lies but the petitioner has filed a revision under an erroneous belief that an appeal does not lie and when it is in the interest of justice to do so.

Enhancement of Sentence

The High Court, under its revisional jurisdiction does not exercise power of enhancing the sentence in every case in which the sentence passed appears to be inadequate. It would interfere when it is convinced that the sentence passed is manifestly and grossly inadequate.

The District Magistrate, a Sessions Judge or the Government pleader may draw the attention of the High Court to a sentence which is inadequate and deserves to be enhanced or the High Court can also suo motu call for the record of a particular case where it is of the opinion that the sentence awarded is grossly inadequate.

There is no limitation on the power of the High Court as regards enhancement of sentence to the extent of maximum prescribed by the Indian Penal Code, except in cases tried by Magistrates. But before doing so, the Court has to be issued a show-cause notice against the enhancement of his sentence.

Reduction of Sentence

If after hearing the State, i.e., the Government pleader, the High Court comes to a conclusion that the sentence imposed on the accused is too severe and needs to be reduced, it may reduce it exercising its revisional jurisdiction. However, it cannot be reduced below the prescribed statutory limit, if any, provided in the Indian Penal Code or the relevant Act.

Fact finding

The jurisdiction of the High Court in revision of criminal cases is severely restricted and confined only to the questions of law. It cannot embark upon a re-appreciation of evidence. The High Court does not normally interfere with a concurrent finding of fact. The High Court in exercise of its revisional power will not go into the question of sufficiency of material before the lower Court for its decision or order. Where the trial has dealt with the matter fully, the High Court will not interfere and disturb the order of the trial Court. While disposing of revision petition the High Courts must ensure that the principles of natural justice are not violated.

REFERENCE, REVIEW AND REVISION UNDER CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE

References

Reference under Section 113 and Order XLVI, Civil Procedure Code:

- (a) A reference should be made to the High Court by a District Judge or Judge of a Court of Small Causes, under the provisions of Section 113 and Order XLVI, Rule I of the Code of Civil Procedure, only when the presiding Judge entertains a reasonable doubt on the point of law or usage having the force of law referred, and not merely on the importunity of pleaders.
- (b) A proviso has been added to Section 113 of the Code by the Codes of Civil Procedure and Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 1951 (No. XXIV of 1951). Now where a Court finds that it is necessary for the disposal of a case to decide a question about the validity of any Act, Ordinance or Regulation and the Court is of the opinion that the Act, Ordinance or Regulation is invalid or inoperative but has not been so declared by the High Court of that State or the Supreme Court, the Court shall refer the matter in the manner laid down for the opinion of the High Court.

“Reasonable doubt on a point of law”

A subordinate Court cannot be supposed to entertain a reasonable doubt on a point of law if it has been decided clearly in a ruling of the High Court, unless some doubt has been thrown on the correctness of the same by a ruling of the Supreme Court. Nor has an Appellate Court, which has no jurisdiction to hear an appeal, any jurisdiction to make a reference.

Mode of reference

In making a reference the presiding Judge should be careful to conform to the requirements of Order XLVI, Rule I, of the Code of Civil Procedure by:

- (i) drawing up a statement of the facts;

- (ii) stating the point on which doubt is entertained; and
- (iii) stating his opinion on such point.

Each of the above statement should be precise and clear, or the High Court will find itself compelled to return the reference for amendment under Order XLVI, Rule 5, of the Code of Civil Procedure.

References under Order XLVI, Rule 7

It should also be noted that, by the terms of Order XLVI, Rule 7, a reference may be made only when it appears to the District Court that a Court subordinate to it has by reason of erroneously holding a suit to be cognizable by a Court of Small Causes, or not to be so cognizable, failed to exercise a jurisdiction vested in it by law, or exercised a jurisdiction not so vested; unless this condition is fulfilled – that is, unless the Court is itself of opinion that one of these errors has been committed, – it has no power to refer; when that condition is fulfilled, the Court still has a discretion to make or refuse to make a reference unless it be required to make it by a party. In the latter case, the Court is bound to make a reference.

References by Sub-Judge as a Court of appeal

If a Subordinate Judge sitting as a Court of appeal is of opinion that a reference ought to be made under Order XLVI, Rule 7, of the Code of Civil Procedure, he should submit the record of the case to the District Judge for orders with a statement of reasons.

Character of suit to be described in reference

It is essential that the true character of the suit should be described with precision and accuracy in the heading of the reference.

Parties should be heard before making reference

A reference by a Civil Court under Order XLVI, Rule 6 or 7, of the Code of Civil Procedure shall not be made until the parties to the suit have had an opportunity of showing cause against such reference in the Court which proposes to make it.

Objections of parties to be placed of record

The Court making a reference under any of the sections mentioned in the preceding paragraph shall in its order of reference, certify that such opportunity has been given, and shall place on record the objections, oral or written (if any), of any party against the making of such reference.

Notice of references to parties

The Court making the reference shall give notice, either orally or in writing, to such parties as attended or are represented in Court when the order of reference is made –

- (i) that the attendance of the parties in the High Court at the hearing of the reference is not obligatory;
- (ii) that any party desirous of attending at such hearing must enter an appearance at the office of the Deputy Registrar on or before a date to be specified in the notice.

Date fixed for appearance in High Court

The date specified shall be such as to allow a reasonable time for the parties to appear in the High Court, and shall be a date not less than one month in advance of the date of making the reference.

Court shall satisfy that parties have been informed

The Court shall certify in its order

- (1) that the notice required by paragraph 12 has been duly given, orally or in writing as the case may be, and
- (2) the date specified in such notice.

While making reference under this rule court is not to submit its opinion on merits. Ganga Datt and others v. Mandir Narayan Deota, AIR 1953 HP 31. Necessary records to be sent along with order of reference The Court making the reference shall forward, with its order, the record of the suit in which the reference is made and of all proceedings (if any) by way of execution or otherwise in such suit subsequent to the decree, and also the records of any other connected proceedings necessary for consideration of the reference in the High Court.

Necessary records to be sent along with order of reference

The Court making the reference shall forward, with its order, the record of the suit in which the reference is made and of all proceedings (if any) by way of execution or otherwise in such suit subsequent to the decree, and also the records of any other connected proceedings necessary for consideration of the reference in the High Court.

Reminder from High Court if no reply received

Whenever it is found that a reference made to the High Court has not been replied to, or intimation of a date having been fixed given within two months of making such reference, the attention of the Registrar should be drawn to the fact.

Review: Section 114 of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908

Review means re-examination or re-consideration of its own decision by the very same court. An application for review may be necessitated by way of invoking the doctrine 'actus curiae neminem gravabit' which means an act of the court shall prejudice no man. The other maxim is, 'lex non cogit ad impossibilia' which means the law does not compel a man to do that what he cannot possibly perform.

Section 114 of the Code of Civil Procedure provides for a substantive power of review by a civil court and consequently by the appellate courts. Section 114 of the code although does not prescribe any limitation on the power of the court but such limitations have been provided for in Order 47, Rule 1 of the CPC.

The section is worded as follows:

114. Review- Subject as aforesaid, any person considering himself aggrieved –

- (a) by a decree or order from which an appeal is allowed by this Code, but from which no appeal has been preferred,
- (b) by a decree or order from which no appeal is allowed by, this Code, or
- (c) by a decision on a reference from a Court of Small Causes, may apply for a review of judgment to the court which passed the decree or made the order, and the court may make such order thereon as it thinks fit.

An 'aggrieved' person is one who has suffered a legal grievance, i.e., against whom a decision has been pronounced which has wrongfully affected his title or wrongfully deprived him of something which he was entitled to.

All decrees or orders cannot be reviewed. The right of review has been conferred by section 114 and Order XLVII of the Code.

Condition precedent

The conditions to invoke Section 114 have been dealt with in Order XLVII Rule 1 of the CPC. They are:

1. Discovery of new and important matter or evidence

An application for review on the ground of discovery of new evidence should show that:

- (i) such evidence was available and of undoubted character;

- (ii) that the evidence was so material that its absence might cause a miscarriage of justice; and
- (iii) that it could not with reasonable care and diligence have been brought forward at the time of the decree.

The applicant has, however, to satisfy that there was no remissness on his part.

2. Mistake or error apparent on the face of the record

Whether there is a mistake or error apparent on the face of record in a case depends on individual facts. However, it must be borne in mind, that in order to come to the conclusion that there is a mistake or error apparent on the face of record, it must be one which is manifest on the face of record. The error or mistake be so manifest, so clear, that no court would permit such an error or mistake to remain on the record. In coming to the finding that a mistake or error is apparent on the face of record, the court is not required to look into other evidence. Such mistake or error should appear in the order itself or from any other document, which it referred in the said order. If such error occurs then the court is definitely bound to review such judgment.

The mistake is not limited to a mistake of fact. It may be of law. It should be an error which can be seen by a mere perusal of the record without reference to any other extraneous matter. Where, therefore, the legal position is clearly established by a well-known authority, but the Judge has by some oversight failed to notice the same and thus gone wrong, it will be a case coming within the category of an error apparent on the face of the record. The error has to be patent, and an ordinary error of law or a mere failure to interpret a complicated point of law correctly is not an error of law apparent on the face of the record.

Failure of the court to take into consideration an existing decision of the Supreme Court taking a different or contrary view on a point covered by its judgment would amount to a mistake or error apparent on the face of the record. But a failure to take into consideration a decision of the High Court would not amount to any mistake or error apparent on the face of the record.

In view of the Explanation added by the amendment of 1976, a subsequent decision of the Supreme Court or a larger Bench of the same court taking a contrary view on the point covered by the judgment does not amount to a mistake or error apparent on the face of the record.

3. Any other sufficient reason

The phrase “any other sufficient reason” means a reason at least analogous to those specified in the rule immediately previously, namely, excusable failure to bring to the notice of the court new and important matter or evidence or mistake or error apparent on the face of the record. These words have been interpreted in Chajju Ram v. Neki, to mean a reason sufficient on grounds at least analogous to those specified in 1 and 2.

Difference between Appeal and Review

It is well-settled that the review proceedings are not by way of an appeal and have to be strictly confined to the scope and ambit of Order XLVII, Rule 1, C.P.C. There are definitive limits to the exercise of the power of review and it cannot be exercised on the ground that the decision was erroneous on merits. That is the province of a Court of Appeal. A power of review is not to be confused with appellate power which may enable an appellate court to correct all manner of errors committed by the subordinate Court.

Scope of an application for review is much more restricted than that of an appeal. The Supreme Court in Lily Thomas vs. Union of India, AIR 2000 SC 1650, has held that the power of review can only be exercised for correction of a mistake and not to substitute a view and that the power of review could only be exercised within the limits of the statute dealing with the exercise of such power. The review cannot be treated like an appeal in disguise. The mere possibility of two views on the subject is not a ground for review. Once a review petition is dismissed no further petition of review can be entertained.

Where an appeal has been preferred a review application does not lie. But an appeal may be filed after an application for review. In such event the hearing of the appeal will have to be stayed. If the review succeeds the appeal becomes infructuous for the decree appealed from is superseded by a new decree. No court can, however, review its order after it has been confirmed on appeal.

A party who is not appealing from a decree or order may, however, apply for a review of judgment notwithstanding the pendency of an appeal by some other party except where the ground of such appeal is common to the applicant and the appellant, or when, being respondent, he can present to the appellate court the case on which he applies for the review.

Order XLVII of CPC deals with Review

Rule 1 is the primary rule that has been discussed above. Some of the other important rules under Order XLVII are:

Order XLVII, Rule 4: No application for review, however, shall be granted without previous notice to the opposite party to appear and oppose the application. It shall also not be granted on the ground of discovery of new matter or evidence which the applicant alleges was not within his knowledge at the time of the passing of the decree or order, without strict proof of such allegation.

Order XLVII, Rule 6: Where the application for a review is heard by more than one judge and the court is equally divided, the application shall be rejected. Where there is a majority, the decision shall be according to the opinion of the majority.

Order XLVII, Rule 7: An order of the court rejecting the application for review shall not be appealable, but an order granting the application may be objected to at once by an appeal from the order granting the application or in any appeal from the decree or order finally passed or made in the suit.

In case the application has been rejected on failure of the applicant to appear, the court may restore the rejected application to the file on being satisfied that the applicant was prevented by sufficient cause from appearing upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit.

Order XLVII, Rule 9: No application to review an order made on an application for a review or a decree or order passed or made on a review shall be entertained.

Revision

Section 115 of Code of Civil Procedure 1908

Section 115 reads as under:

- (1) The High Court may call for the record of any case which has been decided by any court subordinate to such High Court and in which no appeal lies thereto, and if such subordinate court appears-
  - (a) To have exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law, or
  - (b) To have failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested, or
  - (c) To have acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity;
 the High Court may make such order in the case as it thinks fit.

Provided that the High Court shall not, under this section, vary or reverse any order made, or any order deciding an issue, in the course of a suit or other proceeding, except where the order, if it had been made in favour of the party applying for revision, would have finally disposed of the suit or other proceedings.

- (2) The High Court shall not, under this section, vary or reverse any decree or order against which an appeal lies either to the High Court or to any court subordinate thereto.
- (3) A revision shall not operate as a stay of suit or other proceeding before the Court except where such suit or other proceeding is stayed by the High Court.

Explanation: In this section, the expression “any case which has been decided” includes any order made, or any order deciding an issue, in the course of a suit or other proceeding.

Scope

Section 115 applies to jurisdiction alone, the irregular exercise or non-exercise of it or the illegal assumption of it. Section 115 empowers the High Court to satisfy itself on three matters:

- (a) that the order of the subordinate court is within its jurisdiction;
- (b) that the case is one in which the court ought to exercise jurisdiction; and
- (c) that in exercising jurisdiction the court has not acted illegally, that is, in breach of some provision of law, or with material irregularity by committing some error of procedure in the course of the trial which is material in that it may have affected the ultimate decision.

In order for Section 115 to come into picture, it is necessary to establish three conditions precedent for calling upon and for requesting the revisional court to exercise the revisional jurisdiction. These conditions are as under:

- (a) That the order impugned amounts to be a case decided;
- (b) That the order impugned is not directly liable to be challenged by way of appeal from the order itself before the same court before which the revision has been filed;
- (c) That the order impugned suffers from jurisdictional error.

The power to interfere under Section 115 is much circumscribed. The section is not directed against conclusion of law or fact in which the question of jurisdiction is not involved. Unless the lower appellate court had exercised jurisdiction where it had none or exercised it illegally or with material irregularity, the High Court cannot interfere with the order of the lower appellate court even when the order sought to be revised be erroneous or not in accordance with the law.

In the exercise of revisional powers it is not the duty of the High Court to enter into the merits of the evidence; it has only to see whether the requirements of the law have been duly and properly obeyed by the court whose order is the subject of the revision and whether the irregularity as to failure or exercise of jurisdiction is such as to justify interference with the order.

The decision of the subordinate court on all questions of law and fact not touching its jurisdiction is final and however erroneous such a decision may be, it is not revisable under sub-section (a) and (b) of Section 115. On the other hand, if by an erroneous decision on a question of fact or law touching its jurisdiction, e.g., on a preliminary fact upon the existence of which its jurisdiction depends, the subordinate court assumes a jurisdiction not vested in it by law or fails to exercise a jurisdiction so vested, its decision is not final, and is subject to review by the High Court in its revisional jurisdiction under the sub-section.

The words ‘acting illegally’ would mean acting in breach of some provisions of law and the words ‘acting with material irregularity' would mean committing some error of procedure and in the course of proceedings, which is material in the sense that it may have affected the ultimate decision. Therefore, it is only when a court decides a case perversely that it can be said to act illegally or with material irregularity in the exercise of its jurisdiction and the other errors of questions of law or procedure are outside the scope of clause (c) of Section 115(1) of the Civil Procedure Code. The mere fact that the decision of the lower court is erroneous, whether it be upon a question of fact or law, does not amount to an illegality or material irregularity. To come to an erroneous conclusion does not amount to acting with material irregularity or illegality and a court has much jurisdiction to pass a correct order as a wrong one.

It may be pointed out that the jurisdiction under Section 115 of the Code is a discretionary one. The Supreme Court has observed in Major S.S. Khanna v. F.J. Dhillon, A.I.R. 1964 S.C. 497, that the exercise of jurisdiction under Section 115, C.P.C., is discretionary and that the court is not bound to interfere merely because the conditions in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of Section 115(1) are satisfied. The fact that another remedy is available to an aggrieved party by way of any appeal from the ultimate judgment or decree, is one of the relevant considerations for refusing to exercise discretion under Section 115(1), C.P.C.

Under Section 115, the High Court can call for the record of the case suo motu and revise the same if it finds that the subordinate court exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law or failed to exercise the jurisdiction so vested or acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity. Therefore, if the case is not presented by a duly authorised person and the court finds that the impugned order falls within the purview of Section 115, it can suo motu revise it.

'Any case which has been decided'

The power of the High Court under Section 115 is exercisable in respect of 'any case which has been decided'. The word "case" is something wider but not wide enough to include every order passed by a court during the pendency of a suit. It would include a decision on any substantial question in controversy between the parties affecting their rights, even though such order is passed in the course of the trial of the suit.

A case can be said to have been decided when any rights or obligations for the parties are adjudicated upon. The orders which are passed in a routine manner and do not decide any substantial right or question affecting rights of the parties cannot be said to amount to a case decided.

The Supreme Court observed in Major S.S. Khanna v. Brig. F.J. Dhillon, that the expression 'case' is a word of comprehensive import; it includes a civil proceeding and is not restricted by anything contained in Section 115 of the Code to the entirety of the proceeding in a civil court. To interpret the expression 'case' as an entire proceeding only and not a part of the proceeding imposes an unwarranted restriction on the exercise of powers of superintendence and may result in certain cases in denying relief to the aggrieved litigant.

The "case decided" is to be construed in its wider amplitude giving realistic meaning to these words. "Case decided" does not necessarily mean case finally adjudicated, rather each decision which terminates a part of the controversy though the suit or the case may not be finally decided, shall come within the ambit of the term "case decided".

Illegally or with material irregularity

The words 'illegally' and 'material irregularity' in Section 115 do not cover either error of fact or of law. These words do not refer to the decision arrived at but to the manner in which it is reached. The errors as contemplated relate to material defects of procedure.

Section 115 empowers the High Court to satisfy itself upon three matters, viz.,

- (a) that the order of the subordinate court is within its jurisdiction,
- (b) that the case is one in which the court ought to exercise jurisdiction, and
- (c) that in exercising jurisdiction the court has not acted illegally that is in breach of some provision of law, or with material irregularity.

If the High Court is satisfied upon those three matters, it has no power to interfere because it differs, however profoundly, from the conclusions of the subordinate court upon questions of fact or law. The High Court will not interfere with an incorrect decision of the lower court where there is no question of lack of jurisdiction or material irregularity in procedure. Where there is a willful disregard or conscious violation of a rule of law or procedure the case is one of material irregularity calling for interference in revision.

APPLICABILITY OF CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE ON TRIBUNALS

The Code of Civil Procedure is applicable on the Tribunals in a restricted manner. There is no straight jacketed rule which can be applied to find out which provision of the Civil Procedure Code is applicable on a particular tribunal. The provisions of Civil Procedure Code are made applicable on the tribunals by the legislations (including delegated legislation) controlling the functioning of the tribunal.

Applicability of Civil Procedure Code on National Company Law Tribunal

Rule 57 of NCLT Rules: Issue of process of execution

According to rule 57 of NCLT Rules, on receipt of an application under rule 56 the NCLT shall issue a process for execution of its order in such Form as provided in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. Further, NCLT shall consider objection, if any, raised by the respondent and make such order as it may deem fit and shall issue attachment or recovery warrant in such form as provided in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

Rule 126 of NCLT Rules: Form and contents of the affidavit

An affidavit before NCLT shall conform to the requirements of order XIX, rule 3 of Civil Procedure Code, 1908.

Rule 131 of NCLT Rules: Application for production of documents, form of summons

Except otherwise provided in the NCLT Rules, discovery or production and return of documents shall be regulated by the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

Rule 135 of NCLT Rules: Procedure for examination of witnesses, issue of Commissions

The provisions of the Orders XVI and XXVI of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, shall mutatis mutandis apply in the matter of summoning and enforcing attendance of any person and examining him on oath and issuing commission for the examination of witnesses or for production of documents.

Applicability of Civil Procedure Code on SEBI and SAT

SEBI

According to section 11(3) of SEBI Act, 1992, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force while exercising the powers under clause (i) or clause (ia) of sub-section (2) or sub-section (2A) of section 11 which is relating to function, SEBI shall have the same powers as are vested in a civil court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, while trying a suit, in respect of the following matters, namely :

- (i) the discovery and production of books of account and other documents, at such place and such time as may be specified by the Board;
- (ii) summoning and enforcing the attendance of persons and examining them on oath;
- (iii) inspection of any books, registers and other documents of any person referred to in section 12, at any place;
- (iv) inspection of any book, or register, or other document or record of the company referred to in sub-section (2A)
- (v) issuing commissions for the examination of witnesses or documents.

SAT

According to section 15U of SEBI Act, 1992, the Securities Appellate Tribunal (SAT) shall not be bound by the procedure laid down by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, but shall be guided by the principles of natural justice and, subject to the other provisions of SEBI Act, and of any rules, the Securities Appellate Tribunal shall have powers to regulate their own procedure including the places at which they shall have their sittings.

Further, the Securities Appellate Tribunal shall have, for the purposes of discharging their functions under SEBI Act, the same powers as are vested in a civil court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, while trying a suit, in respect of the following matters, namely :

- (a) summoning and enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath;
- (b) requiring the discovery and production of documents;
- (c) receiving evidence on affidavits;
- (d) issuing commissions for the examination of witnesses or documents;
- (e) reviewing its decisions;
- (f) dismissing an application for default or deciding it ex parte;
- (g) setting aside any order of dismissal of any application for default or any order passed by it ex parte;
- (h) any other matter which may be prescribed.

In the case of Shri G.S. Rathore vs The Union of India (UOI) decided on 21st June, 2007, it has been decided by the Bombay High Court that it is not the Legislative intent that the provisions of the Code should be applicable stricto sensu. The paramount precept of administrative procedure before the tribunal is the principle of natural justice, added by the own prescribed procedure of the tribunal. (Of course, further to add to the same provision of Section 22(3) of the Act, to what extent the tribunal shall be vested with the power of the civil court). The application of the provisions of the Code would, therefore, be limited and restricted to the extent specified specifically in the provisions of Section 22(3) of the Act.

LESSON ROUND-UP

- The word jurisdiction is used in various contexts. It means legal authority, extent of power and limitation on such powers. It is a term of comprehensive import embracing every kind of judicial action. It means power and authority of the court to hear and determine a judicial proceeding and power to render particular judgement in question.
- The eCourts Project was conceptualized on the basis of the “National Policy and Action Plan for Implementation of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) in the Indian Judiciary – 2005” submitted by eCommittee, Supreme Court of India with a vision to transform the Indian Judiciary by ICT enablement of Courts.
- In view of the multifarious activities of a welfare state, the legislature cannot work out all the details to fit the varying aspects of complex situations. It must necessarily delegate the working out of details to the executive or any other agency. Therefore, one of the most significant developments of the present century is the growth in the legislative powers of the executives. There is no such general power granted to the executive to make law, it only supplements the law under the authority of legislature.

- Under the Constitution of India, Articles 245 and 246 provide that the legislative powers shall be discharged by the Parliament and State legislature. The power of Legislature to delegate its legislative power is not prohibited in the Constitution.
- Law making by the administration can take various forms. It can be in the form of rules, regulations, bye-laws etc. In the case of this normal type of delegated legislation, the limits of the delegated power are clearly defined in the enabling statute and they do not include such exceptional powers as the power to legislate on matters of principle or to impose taxation or to amend an act of legislature.
- In India, we have courts at various levels – different types of courts, each with varying powers depending on the tier and jurisdiction bestowed upon them. They form a hierarchy with the Supreme Court of India at the top, followed by High Courts of respective states with District and Sessions Judges sitting in District Courts and Magistrates of Second Class and Civil Judge (Junior Division) at the bottom.
- Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 is the procedural law for conducting a criminal trial in India. The procedure includes the manner for collection of evidence, examination of witnesses, interrogation of accused, arrests, safeguards and procedure to be adopted by police and courts, bail, the process of criminal trial, a method of conviction, and the rights of the accused of a fair trial by principles of natural justice.
- A reference to the High Court by a District Judge or Judge of a Court of Small Causes, under the provisions of Section 113 and Order XLVI, Rule I of the Code of Civil Procedure, should be made only when the presiding Judge entertains a reasonable doubt on the point of law or usage having the force of law referred, and not merely on the importunity of pleaders.
- Review means re-examination or re-consideration of its own decision by the very same court. An application for review may be necessitated by way of invoking the doctrine ‘actus curiae neminem gravabit’ which means an act of the court shall prejudice no man. The other maxim is, ‘lex non cogit ad impossibilia’ which means the law does not compel a man to do that what he cannot possibly perform.
- The Code of Civil Procedure is applicable on the Tribunals in a restricted manner. There is no straight jacketed rule which can be applied to find out which provision of the Civil Procedure Code is applicable on a particular tribunal. The provisions of Civil Procedure Code are made applicable on the tribunals by the legislations (including delegated legislation) controlling the functioning of the tribunal.

BACKGROUND OF INDIAN SYSTEM

In the ancient times when the king was the fountainhead of all justice, a petitioner used to appear before the king in person and place all facts pertaining to his case before His Majesty. After such oral hearing, the King used to summon the other party and thereafter listen to the defence statements put forward by the person so summoned. There used to be some sort of cross examination or cross questioning of the parties by the King himself. Thereafter, the decision was announced. There was hardly any system of written statements; some “pleadings” did exist, although they were oral. The King and his courtiers kept on what may be called a mental record of the proceedings. Perhaps only few serious and otherwise significant cases, their decisions were recorded. Similarly, during the Mughal period also pleadings were oral in form. During British period with the establishment of Diwani Courts, High Courts etc. and with the passage of time, judicial system underwent a change. The administration at justice was separated from the executive and assigned to the court of law. Complexity resulted in enormous litigation, and oral hearing of the ancient times became almost impossible. Scribes used to keep records of all the proceedings. Gradually, this procedure was also abandoned, and the litigants were allowed to bring their claims and contentions duly drawn up to file them before the Hon’ble courts. When this change exactly happened, it is difficult to say. Experience was a better teacher; and the changes in court procedure took place not only in the light of the past experience but also in the face of expediency. Written proceedings made the task of the courts of law easier and less complicated than the earlier oral proceedings. By the turn of 19th century, the procedure of pleadings has become fairly elaborate and systematized. Pleadings has been substantially reproduced from the Code of Civil Procedure Code.

CONSTRUCTION OF PLEADING

It is a settled law that the pleadings should be construed liberally. The very object of pleadings being to certain for the guidance of the parties and the court, the material fact in issue, it follows that they are not to be too strictly, narrowly or pedantically construed. Does very document is referred to and relied on in the pleadings, the contents of the document might well be considered as constituting a part of the pleadings and when such document happens to be a notice given by the landlord to the tenant relating to the subject matter of the controversy, there is all the more reasons to treat the contents of the document as part of the pleading and to fix the opposite party with the knowledge of its contents.

INTRODUCTION & MEANING

When the civil codes came to be drafted, the principles of pleadings were also given statutory form. Vide Order VI Rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 “Pleading” shall mean ‘plaint’ or ‘written statement’. Mogha has elaborated this definition when he remarked that “pleadings are statements in writing drawn up and filed by each party to a case, stating what his contentions will be at the trial and giving all such details as his opponent needs to know in order to prepare his case in answer”.

Pleading includes plaint and written statement.

Before the trial of a civil suit starts, it is highly desirable that the Court should know exactly what it has to decide upon, and the parties should know exactly what they are contesting about. The most satisfactory method of achieving this object would be one by which each party in turn is obliged to state his own case, and answer the case of the opponent before the trial comes on. Such statement of the parties and the replies to them are known as pleadings. The present day system of pleadings in our country is based on the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908 supplemented from time to time by rules in that behalf by High Courts of the States. There are rules of the Supreme Court and rules by special enactments as well. For one, words 'plaints' and 'complaints' are nearly synonymous. In both, the expression of grievance is predominant. When a suitor files a statement of grievance, he is the plaintiff and he files a 'complaint' containing allegations and claims remedy. As days passed, we have taken up the word 'Plaint' for the Civil Court and the word 'Complaint' for the Criminal Court. Section 26 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 states that every suit shall be instituted by the presentation of a Plaint or in such other manner as may be prescribed. Order IV Rule 3 states "every suit shall be instituted by presenting a plaint in duplicate to the Court or such officer as it appoints in this behalf". Similarly, Order VIII Rule 1 defines that when a suit has been duly instituted, a summon may be issued to the defendant to appear and answer the claim and to file the written statement of his defence, if any, within thirty days from the date of service of summons on that defendant.

The document stating the cause of action and other necessary details and particulars in support of the claim of the plaintiff is called the "plaint". The defence statement containing all material facts and other details filed by the defendant is called the "written statement". The written statement is filed by the defendant as an answer to the contentions of the plaintiff and it contains all material and other objections which the defendant might place before the court to admit or deny the claim of the plaintiff.

Plaint	Written Statement
Document stating the cause of action and other necessary details and particulars in support of the claim of the plaintiff.	Defence statement containing all material facts and other details filed by the defendant.

Pleadings are, therefore, the foundation of any litigation, and must be very carefully drafted. Any material omission in the pleading can entail serious consequences, because at the evidence and argument stages, parties are not permitted to depart from the points and issues raised in the pleadings, nor can a party be allowed to raise subsequently, except by way of amendment, any new ground of claim or any allegation of fact inconsistent with the previous pleadings of the party pleading the same. In some cases, the court may allow amendment of the plaint or the written statement on the application of a party to the suit. This can be done by taking recourse to order VI Rule 17 of Civil Procedure Code, 1908. Another case of departure is where the defendant pleads for set-off or that of the counter-claim under order VIII of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

Pleadings contain material facts, contentions and claim of the plaintiff, and the material facts, contentions, denials or admissions of claims by the defendants. There may also be counter claims by the defendant which may of two categories –

- (i) a claim to set-off against the plaintiff's demand is covered by order VIII Rule 6, and
- (ii) and independent counter claims which is not exactly set off but falls under some other statute.

While the former is permitted to be pleaded by the courts, the latter is not, but when the defendant files such counter claims, the written statements is treated as a plaint.

Object of Pleadings

The Paramount object of all rules of procedure is to regulate the business and procedure of the courts, so that justice may be done between the parties, according to their rights and interests at law and contracts. The whole object of pleading is to give a fair notice to each party of what the opponent's case is. Pleadings bring forth the real matters in dispute between the parties. It is necessary for the parties to know each other's stand, what facts are admitted and what denied, so that at the trial they are prepared to meet them. Pleadings also eliminate the element of surprise during the trial, besides eradicating irrelevant matters which are admitted to be true. The facts admitted by any parties need not be pursued or proved. Thus, the pleadings save the parties much bother, expense and trouble of adducing evidence in support of matters already admitted by a party, and they can concentrate their evidence to the issue framed by the Court in the light of the facts alleged by one party and denied by the other. The sole object of the system of pleading is to secure that both the contending parties shall know what are the real points of controversy between them in order that they may have an opportunity of bringing forward such evidence or to submit such arguments as may be appropriate to determine such points at issue between them, and to prevent surprise at the trial.

Ogders in his "Pleading and Practice" (14th Ed. At p 65) observes:

"The defendant is entitled to know what it is that the plaintiff alleges against him; the plaintiff in his turn is entitled to know what defence will be raised in answer to his claim. The defendant may dispute every statement made by the plaintiff, or he may be prepared to prove other facts which put a different complexion on the case. He may rely on a point of law, or raise a cross claim of his own. In any event, before the trial comes on it is highly desirable that the parties should know exactly what they are fighting about, otherwise they may go to great expense in procuring evidence to prove at the trial facts which their opponents will at once concede. It has been found by long experience that the most satisfactory method of attaining this object is to make each party in turn state his own case and answer that of his opponent before the hearing. Such statements or answers to them are called the pleadings."

Main Object of pleadings

- 1) To define the issue of fact and question of law to be decided between the parties;
- 2) To give fair notice of the case which has to be met so that the opposite party may direct his evidence to the issue disclosed by them; and
- 3) To provide a brief summary of the case of each party, which is readily available for reference and from which the nature of the claim and defence may be easily apprehended, and to constitute a permanent record of the questions raised in the action and of the issues decided therein, so as to prevent future litigation upon matters already adjudicated upon between the litigants.

Function of pleadings

The function of a pleading is not simply for the benefit of the parties but also and perhaps primarily for the assistance of the court by defining with precision for the assistance of the court the area beyond which without the leave of the court and consequential amendment of the pleadings, the conflict must not be allowed to extend.

Importance of pleadings

The importance of the art of pleading is insufficiently realised in this country. It is at least as important as any other part of the duties of an advocate. Moreover, it demands a high degree of skill, and the final form of any pleading should be stated only by advocates who have the necessary skill and experience. The case of a party is one which is set out in his pleading. No relief based on any ground not set out as pleading can be granted. A party urging a ground which is entirely a legal ground may be allowed to set it up at a later stage but plea based on a question of fact or a mixed question of law and fact cannot be allowed to be taken at a later stage. A finding based on no pleading and no evidence, cannot be sustained.

Rule of Pleading and a Rule of Proof

It is necessary to keep in mind the distinction between a rule of pleading and a rule of proof. That inconsistent pleading can be pleaded in the alternative is a well-established rule of pleading, but the proof of a plea depends upon the provisions of substantive law.

FUNDAMENTAL RULES OF PLEADINGS

It is a rule to observe in all Courts that a party complaining of an injury and suing for redress, can recover only secundum allegata et probata<sup>1</sup>. The provisions of law under which the suit has been instituted should also be mentioned<sup>2</sup>. The pleas should be specifically mentioned, as the evidence cannot be looked into in the absence of a specific plea or point. When pleading contains pleas which are apparently inconsistent or irrevocable, it is not open to the court to ignore one plea and act merely on the basis of another. The Court will however see the substance, if the plea is not properly worded. The four fundamental rules of pleadings are:

- 1) That a pleading shall contain, only a statement of facts, and not Law;
- 2) That a pleading shall contain all material facts and material facts only;
- 3) That a pleading shall state only the facts on which the party pleading relies and not the evidence by which they are to be proved;
- 4) That a pleading shall state such material facts concisely, but with precision and certainty.

Rule I: Facts and not Law

One of the fundamental rules of pleadings embodied in Order VI Rule 2 is that a pleading shall contain ~~and contain~~ only a statement of facts and not law. The duty of the pleader is to set out the facts upon which he relies and not the legal inferences to be drawn from them. And it is for the judge to draw such inferences from those facts as are permissible under the law of which he is bound to take judicial notice. A judge is bound to apply the correct law and draw correct legal inferences and facts, even if the party has been foolish to make a written statement about the law applicable of those facts. If a plaintiff asserts a right in him without showing on what facts his claim of right is founded or asserts that defendant is indebted to him or owes him a duty without alleging the facts out of which indebtedness or duty arises, his pleading is bad.

The parties should not take legal pleas but state the facts on the basis of which such legal conclusions may logically follow and which the court would take a judicial notice of. Thus, where a party pleads that the act of the defendant was unlawful, or that the defendant is guilty of negligence, or that the defendant was legally bound to perform specific contract, such a pleading would be bad. In such cases, the plaintiff must state facts which establish the guilt or negligence of the defendant, or how the particular act of the defendant was unlawful, of the fact leading to the contract which thus bound the defendant. The plea should only contain the recitals that would form the basis of the claim. The legal position created thereby need not be described.

Thus, in a declaratory suit, it is not enough to plead that the plaintiff is the legal heir of the deceased for this is an inference of law. The plaintiff must show how he was related to the deceased, and also show the relationship of other claimants, and other material facts to show that he was nearer in relation to the deceased than the other claimants.

Similarly, on money suit it is not enough that the plaintiff is entitled to get money from the defendant. He must state the facts showing his title to the money. For example, he should state that the defendant took loan from the plaintiff on a particular date and promised to return the money along with specified interest on a fixed date, and that he requested the defendant to return the said amount after such date but then he refused to return the money. If some witnesses were present when the money was lent or when the demand was made or when the refusal by the defendant was made, the fact should be stated specifically, for at the time of the trial the Court may order the plaintiff to adduce evidence in support of his statement, and then he can rely on the evidence of the witnesses in whose presence he had lent money or in whose presence he had made a demand for the return of the money.

In a matrimonial petition, it is not enough to state that the respondent is guilty of cruelty towards the petitioner-wife and that she is entitled to divorce. The petitioner must state all those facts which establish cruelty on the part of the respondent. She may state that her husband is a drunkard and comes home fully drunk and in a state of intoxication he inflicted physical injuries on her, she should specify dates on which such incidents took place; or that the husband used to abuse her or beat her in the presence of her friends and relations or that after her marriage she was not allowed to visit her parents or that he was forcing her to part with her dowry, giving threats of physical beating; or that immediately after her marriage till date the respondent did not even talk to her, nor he cohabited with her. It is such facts which can establish physical or mental cruelty.

In another example plaintiff files a suit for negligence and damages. It is not enough for him to state negligence. First of all, the plaintiff must state those facts which establish the defendant's duty towards the plaintiff. Thereafter, he must state how and in what manner the defendant was guilty of negligence. Thus, he must state all the facts on which his plaint is based. The inference of law to the breach of duty should be left to the Court because the correct legal principles will be applied by the Court and the plaintiff cannot even add any prayer that a particular legal conclusion which follows must be applied. The only prayer that he may add is that the relief may kindly be granted to him.

Omission to state all the facts renders the pleading defective whatever inferences of law might otherwise have been pleaded. Such a plaint may be rejected on the ground that it discloses no cause of action. The plaintiff or the defendant as the case may be, and his counsel must be on their guard not to omit any facts and straight-away jump to pleading containing legal interference without stating such facts.

For example, in a suit for recovery of money for the goods sold, the defendant should not just take the plea that he is not liable. Such a statement is a plea of law and can hardly stand and in spite of his good defence his case will fail. In such a case the defendant must clearly state that he did not purchase any goods from the plaintiff nor was there an agreement to do so. He may also state that though the goods were sent to him, but he did not take the delivery as he had placed no order therefore or that the goods were sold to him on credit and the money was to be paid to the plaintiff after the sale of such goods and the goods were still lying with him unsold, and that he was willing to return the goods to the plaintiff in accordance with the written or oral understanding that in case of the goods remaining unsold the same shall be taken back by the plaintiff. Such facts would be valid pleas.

In another example of a suit for defamation and damages, it is not sufficient for the plaintiff to state that the defendant defamed him and therefore he was entitled to damages or special damages. The plaintiff must state all the facts of the defendant act or acts such as his public utterances in which he named the plaintiff and made remarks about his character or profession or the publications in which he was painted in a manner as would in the opinion of a common man lower him in the eyes or estimation of society. Wherever possible, the plaintiff must give the exact words spoken or used in the entire sentence or statement and also give the general, grammatical or implied meaning of such words spoken or used. Wherever there is any ambiguity, he may take the plea of "inuendo" and state how such a remark was commonly understood by persons known to him. Thus, the plaintiff should build his case on facts from which the conclusion would naturally and logically follow.

The rule that every pleading must state facts and not law is subject to the following exceptions:

- i. Foreign Law
- ii. Customs

- iii. Mixed question of law and fact
- iv. Legal Pleas
- v. Inferences of law.

Rule II: Material Facts

The word “material” means necessary for the purpose of formulating a complete cause of action. Cause of action mean – every fact which if traversed, it would be necessary for the plaintiff to prove in order to support his right to the judgement of the Court. When a litigant comes to a legal practitioner, he brings all facts and circumstances pertaining to a case. In fact, he tries to narrate each and every event which may possibly have a remote bearing upon the case. Not all such facts are important. If everything were to be included in the plaint, then the plaint is likely to become so voluminous that the learned judge is likely miss the essential track and be guided by the inessentials.

What is necessary therefore are the facts which are material; facts which have a direct and immediate bearing on the case, facts which are secondary or incidental may easily be omitted. Of course, the lawyer must weigh each fact and test its significance and relevance in relation to the given case. Marshalling of facts is what a good lawyer would always do before he sets them down in form of a plaint.

The second fundamental rule of pleading is therefore, that every pleading shall contain and contain only, a statement of the material fact as on which the party pleading relies for his claim or defence. This rule is embodied in Order VI Rule 2 and it requires that –

- I. The party pleading must plead all material facts on which he intends to rely for his claim or defence as the case may be; and
- II. He must plead material facts only, and that no fact which is not material should be pleaded, nor should the party plead evidence, nor the law of which a Court may take a judicial notice<sup>3</sup>.

The rule is indeed a strict one. The question would naturally arise: what are the material facts? Indeed, every fact on which the cause of action or the defence is founded is material fact. The purpose entertained by the rule is that every unnecessary and irrelevant fact need not be brought on record, and the rule acts as a damper to the litigants, habit of stating all details that strike their mind, whether such details are relevant or not, it necessitates the process of elimination on the part of the litigant. All facts which will be required to be proved at the trial in order to establish the existence of a cause of action or defence are material facts. Then there are other facts which do not directly establish the cause of action or defence, but which nonetheless are material facts in that the party pleading them has an inherent right to prove them at the trial.

Whether a particular fact is material or not will depend upon the circumstances of the case. A fact may not appear to be material at the initial stage but it may turn out to be material at the time of the trial. Thus if a party is not able to decide whether a fact is material or not, or if he entertains a reasonable doubt as to the materiality of a particular fact, it would be better to include than to exclude, because if a party omits to state or plead any material fact, he will not be permitted to adduce evidence to prove such a fact at the trial unless the pleading is amended under Order VI Rule 17. The general rule is that a party cannot prove a fact which he has not pleaded.

The task of a lawyer is therefore rather difficult. He must observe the rule that only material facts are to be pleaded, and, at the same time, he must not exclude any fact which may seem apparently unnecessary but which may turn out to be material as the trial progresses. Thus, he must visualize all the possible directions or dimensions which the pleadings are likely to assume. An experienced lawyer would marshal all the facts placed before him by his client and by correlating them, and after carefully examining the interplay between such facts, decide what facts are material to establish the cause of action or defence. There after he would prepare or rough or a mental outline of the pleading and submit all such facts to a close analysis in order to make sure whether if he is able to prove all such material facts he would succeed. By a process of elimination, he must also see whether by excluding certain seemingly immaterial facts from the outline he has prepared, he would still succeed. If he can return an affirmative answer, he should exclude such irrelevant facts, but if the answer be in the negative, then he must include them another way of testing the materiality of the facts would be to ask whether by proving a particular fact, he would certainly establish the cause of action or the defence.

“Material facts” are primary or basic facts which must be pleaded by the plaintiff or by the defendant in support of the case set up by him either to prove his cause of action or defence.

The idea is that the pleading should not include any fact which would not assist the party even if such a fact is proved. And why at all waste energy, time and money is establishing the correctness or otherwise of a fact which does not advance the party’s case? One of the reasons why the litigation drags on for years is that the litigants do not come to the point, there being much about nothing. In India, the courts are filled with all sorts of litigation. The lawyers are taking briefs of all sorts and they are extremely busy. They have hardly any time to examine the materiality of the facts narrated to them by their clients. The pleadings, therefore, become unwidely and voluminous, so much so that at the time of framing the issues, the matter becomes really a hard nut to crack. The litigation drags on withstanding the wishes of the parties to the contrary. It is the duty of the lawyers to ensure that the pleadings conform to the rules laid down in the code of civil procedure. They should be guided more by their own sense of proportion rather than succumb to every whim or eccentricity of their clients.

Instances of Material Facts: In a suit for damages for injuries sustained in a collision, the plaintiff in framing his statement of claim should set out the circumstances of the collision, so far as they are known to him, with clearness and accuracy to enable his adversary to know the case he has to meet, he should also state in particular terms the particular acts of negligence which, according to him, caused the collision.

In a suit for ejectment of a trespasser from the land and for injunction it is material to allege that defendant “threatens and intends to repeat the illegal act” similarly, if a party seeks a stay order against any authority’s act of demolition his premises, shop or building he must allege that he is owner of the property and the plans or the map thereof was duly sanctioned by the appropriate authority. Or if a government land, he must allege that he has been in undisturbed possession thereof for over twelve years. Such facts are material, because if proved, they will establish the cause of action.

In a suit for defamation, it is material to allege that the words were intended to defame the plaintiff or at least they were so understood by men at large, if the words are ambiguous, then “innuendo” must be pleaded that they were ironically used or were intended so to be understood.

Where a party claims the benefit of a special rule or custom then he must allege all facts which bring the case within the ambit of that special rule or custom. For example, where a marriage between two sapindas or between two persons within the degrees of prohibited relationship is challenged in some property matter, the party that is challenging the validity of the marriage must allege that there was no custom governing the parties which permitted or sanctioned such a marriage between sapindas. It is material to allege the existence of a long-established family or caste custom governing the parties to the marriage which permitted or sanctioned such a marriage.

In a money suit, it is material to allege part-payment of the loan and also any other fact which gives a new lease of three years’ time to the loan in order to save the suit from the bar of limitation.

When a plaintiff bases his claim on some document, it is material to state the effect of such a document. For example, where the case is based on a sale-deed, it is material to state that a particular person has sold property to him by a sale-deed dated so and so which was duly registered.

In a suit for specific performance of a contract, it is material to allege that the plaintiff has always been willing and is willing to perform his part of the contract.

Example of Facts not Material

In a suit on a promissory note, it is not material to state that the plaintiff requested the defendant to make the payment and he refused, because no demand is necessary when the promissory note becomes due and it is payable immediately.

Similarly in a suit for recovery of money for the goods sold, it is not material to state that the goods belonged to the plaintiff or that the goods were sold to the defendant on the belief that he would honestly make the payment.

In the case of damages, general damages are presumed to be the natural or probable consequence of the defendant's act. Such damages need not be proved. But special damages will not be presumed by law to be the consequence of the defendant's act but will depend on the special circumstances of the case. Therefore, it will have to be proved at the trial that the plaintiff suffered the loss and also that the conduct of the defendant resulted in the loss so suffered by the plaintiff. In such cases the proof of special damages is essential to sustain an action. A person has no right of action in respect of a public nuisance unless he can show some special injury to himself which is over and above what is common to others.

Thus, it is clear that whereas general damages may not be pleaded the special damages must be alleged, and all facts on which such special damages are based are material to the pleading. They are material because they will have to be proved. All such facts must, therefore, be mentioned or stated with necessary particulars to show what special damage the plaintiff suffered. For example, in a suit for defamation it will have to mentioned that services of the plaintiff were terminated as a result of a particular article which damaged the professional reputation of the plaintiff so much salary which he might have continued to get but for the publication of the defamatory article.

Exception to the General Rules: The second fundamental rule of pleading, namely, that every pleading must state all the material facts and the material facts only is subject to the following well known exceptions:

- i. Condition Precedent: The performance or occurrence of any condition precedent need not be pleaded as its averments shall be implied in the pleading. But where a party chooses to contest the performance or occurrence of such condition, he is bound to set-up the plea distinctly in his pleading. This follows from the provision contained in Order VI Rule 6 C.P.C. which runs thus:

“Any condition precedent, the performance or occurrence of which is intended to be contested, shall be distinctly specified in his pleading by the plaintiff or defendant, as the case may be; and, subject thereto, an averment of the performance or occurrence of all conditions precedent necessary for the case of the plaintiff or defendant shall be implied in his pleading.”

For example, X agrees to build a house for Y at certain rate. A condition of the contract is that payment should only be made upon the certificate of Y's architect that *** amount is due. If X desires to file a suit for money against Y, the obtaining and presenting of the certificate from Y's architect is a condition precedent to X's right of action. Here it is not necessary of Y to state in his plaint that he has obtained the said certificate. He can draft a plaint showing a good prima facie right to the agreed amount without mentioning any certificate. It will be for Y to plead that the architect has never certified that the amount is due.

- ii. Presumption of Law: Order VI Rule 13, C.P.C., provides that neither party need in any pleading allege any matter of fact which the law presumes in his favour or as to which the burden of proof lies upon the other side unless the same has first been specifically denied. For example, in a suit on a promissory note the plaintiff need not allege consideration as Section 118 of Negotiable instruments Act, 1881 raises a presumption in his favour. It is also not necessary to state that the defendant executed the bond of his own free will and without any force or fraud because the burden of proving any fact invalidating the bond lies upon the defendant. In Sethani v. Bhana<sup>4</sup>, a sale deed was executed by a tribal woman who was old, illiterate and blind, in favour of one of her relatives with whom she was living till her death and was dependent on him. It was held that it was upon that relative to prove that the sale-deed was executed under no undue influence. A party should not plead anything which the law presumes in his favour.

Regarding legal presumptions, the exception applies to only such facts as the court “shall presume” and not to those facts which the court may presume”, and therefore the facts falling under the latter class must be pleaded.

- iii. Matters of Inducement: Another exception to the general rule is regarding facts which are merely introductory. Such facts only state the names of the parties, their relationships, their professions and such circumstances as are necessary to inform the Court as to how the dispute has arisen. Such facts are hardly necessary or material to the pleading, but they are generally tolerated and are set in the pleadings by both the parties in order to facilitate the court to take a stock of the situation of the parties. It is better if such prefatory remarks are cut down to the minimum.

Rule III: Facts not Evidence

The third fundamental rule of pleadings is that only facts must be stated and not the evidence there of as there is a tendency among the litigants to mix up the bare facts with the facts which are in reality the evidence. At the stage of pleading, the Court and the opposite party should be supplied with the facts and such contentions on which the claim is founded; the plaintiff must keep the facts in evidence for a later stage of evidence. Order VI Rule 2 of C.P.C. enjoins that every pleading shall contain a statement of the material facts on which the party pleading relies for his claim or defence but not the evidence by which they are to be proved. While drafting a plaint, a lawyer must distinguish between facts which are asserted and which have to be established through evidence whether documentary or oral, and facts which are, by themselves, in the nature of evidence. At the initial stage only, the former facts have to be narrated, and when the state of evidence comes, then the other facts will be represented as a part of evidence in order to establish the first set of facts. The reason behind the rule stating evidence is that if the evidence were also allowed to be stated in the pleading, then there shall remain no limit of details and the chief object of the pleading would disappear. Evidence also consists of facts. Then how to distinguish between the two kinds of facts (i.e., material facts and evidence)? Long back in Ratti Lal v. Raghu AIR 1954 VP 53, the question was answered thus: Material facts are those facts which a plaintiff must allege in order to show a right to sue or a defendant must allege in order to constitute his defence. Evidence also consists of facts and in order to distinguish between the two kinds of facts, the material facts on which the party pleading relies for his claim or defence are called facta probanda and the facts by means of which they (i.e., material facts) are to be proved are called facta probantia.

- (a) Facta probanda: The facts which are to be proved. These are the facts on which a party relies and are ought to be stated in the pleading.

4. AIR 1993 SC 956.

(b) Facta probantia: These are the facts which are not to be stated because by their means facta probanda are proved. Thus, these facts are the evidence as to the existence of certain facts on which the party relies for his cause of action or defiance as the case may be. Facta probanda are not facts in issue, but they are relevant in that at the trial their proof will establish the existence of facts in issue. No doubt in certain cases both the facts in issue and their facts in evidence are mixed up and are almost indistinguishable. They should not be stated in the pleading.

For ex., A was married to B in accordance with a particular custom governing marriage between A and B. In this case the “custom” is a both fact in issue and a fact in evidence, because once the custom is proved, then the marriage also, stands proved. In the pleading, it is sufficient to allege that the marriage was celebrated in accordance with a particular custom. At the evidence stage, it will be sufficient to refer to the manual of customary law which records customs.

The following rules have been enacted under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 and hereunder we elaborate them with the help of suitable illustrations:

- a. Mental Condition: Order VI Rule 10 clearly says that wherever it is material to allege malice, fraudulent intention, knowledge or other condition of the mind of any person, it shall be sufficient to allege the same as a fact without setting out the circumstances from which the same is to be inferred. Thus, it is sufficient to allege that the defendant has cheated the plaintiff to the extent of Rs. 10,000/-. It is not necessary, nor would it be in order, to plead how the defendant has cheated the plaintiff. The “how” part would be evidentiary and should not be pleaded. In a suit for malicious prosecution, the plaintiff should only allege that the defendant was actuated by malice in prosecuting him. The details of any previous hostility of the defendant’s previous conduct towards the plaintiff should not be stated.
- b. Notices: Rule 11 of Order VI lays down that wherever it is material to allege notice to any person of any fact, matter or thing, it shall be sufficient to allege such notice as a fact unless the form or the precise terms of such notice or the circumstances from which such notice is to be inferred, are material. In many cases notice has to be alleged as a material fact. For example: In a suit to recover trust property from a person to whom a trustee has given it in breach of the trust or in a suit where priority for subsequent transfer is claimed. In such cases, it is sufficient to allege notice as a fact. It is not necessary to state the entire form or precise words of the note, nor any other circumstances from which such a notice could be inferred sometimes, however, the form or the precise words of the notice are material under must be alleged. For example: where the plaintiff claims to have determined the monthly tenancy by 15 days’ notice to quit, the pleading should state “On 14th Jan. dated, the plaintiff served upon the defendant a written notice calling upon him to vacate the house and deliver up possession to him on the expiry of January the 31st. In such cases the precise form and words of the notice are material and must therefore be clearly stated in the pleading.
- c. Implied Contract or Relation: Order VI Rule 12 directs that wherever any contract or any rotation between any persons is to be implied from a series of letter or circumstances, it shall be sufficient to allege such contract or relation as a fact, and to refer generally to such letters conversations or circumstances without setting them out in detail. And if in such case the person pleading desires to rely in the alternative upon more contracts or relations than one as to be implied form such circumstances he may state the same in the alternative. The reason for this rule is that what is really material is the effect of the letter or conversation etc. which are only a part of evidence. Take the case of carrier’s contract. The moment the goods are accepted to be carried to a particular destination and the receipt is issued, there is an implied contract, and the receipt for the goods is an evidence of the contract. In this case, it would be sufficient to plead the implied contract by making a reference to the receipt issued. The evidence of the receipt and other matters will come up later. If any contract is to be inferred from letters, the dates of the letters must be given.

- d. Presumptions of Law: Order VI Rule 13 states that neither party need in any pleading allege any matter of fact which the law presumes in this favour or as to which the burden of proof lies up-on the other side unless the same has first been specially denied. (e.g., consideration for a bill of exchange where the plaintiff sues only on the bill and not for the consideration as a substantive ground of claim).

Exception: The only exception to the third fundamental rule of pleadings is to be found in the case of writ-petitions and election-petitions. In such petitions, it is necessary to state matters of evidence in support of the allegations made therein.

Rule IV: Facts to be stated concisely and precisely

Order VI Rule 2 enjoins that every pleading must state the material facts concisely, but with precision and certainty. It is a rule to be observed in all courts that a party complaining of an injury and suing for redress, can recover only secundum allegata et probata. This rule is that the material facts should be stated in the pleading in a concise form but with precision and certainty the pleading shall be divided into paragraphs, numbered consecutively. Dates, sums and numbers shall be expressed in figure. What this rule means is that the pleading should be brief and to the point. There should be no obscurity or vagueness or ambiguity of any sort otherwise the very purpose of pleading will be defeated. Another point to remember is that no doubt brevity and conciseness are the rule, but brevity should not be at the cost of precision or clarity. Thus, where brevity and precision cannot be achieved without clarity, prolixity in pleading would be justified. If the facts stated in the pleading are all material, then they all must be alleged notwithstanding the prolixity that might cause.

In order to bring precision, conciseness and clarity, a lawyer should have a good command over the language and grammatical structure, and should know the exact meaning of the words. Longer and complex sentence which is likely to become ambiguous should be avoided.

The following points should be kept in mind while drafting a pleading: -

- a) The names of persons and places should be accurately given and correctly spelt; spellings adopted at one place should be followed throughout the pleading.
- b) Facts should be stated in active and not in the passive voice omitting the nominative.
- c) All circumstances and paraphrases should be avoided.
- d) 'Terse', 'Short', 'Blunt' sentences should be used as far as possible. All 'its' and 'buts' should be avoided.
- e) Pronouns like "he" "she" or "that" should be avoided if possible. Anyway, such pronouns when used should clearly denote the person or the thing to which such pronouns refer.
- f) The plaintiff and the defendant should be referred not only by their names. It is better to use the word "plaintiff" or "defendant".
- g) Things should be mentioned by their correct names and the description of such things should be adhered to throughout.
- h) Where an action is found on some statute, the exact language of the statute should be used.
- i) In any pleading, the use of "if", "but" and "that" should be, as far as possible, avoided. Such words tend to take away the "certainty" and can cause ambiguity.
- j) Necessary particulars of all facts should be given in the pleading. If such particulars are quite lengthy, then they can be given in the attached schedule, and a clear reference made in the pleading. Repetitions should be avoided in pleadings.

- k) Every pleading shall, when necessary, be divided into paragraphs, numbered consecutively, each allegation being, so far as is convenient, contained in a separate paragraph (Order VI Rule 2). The division of the pleading into paragraphs should be so done as to endure that each paragraph deals with one fact. At the same time, the entire pleading should appear a running and well-knit matter, must not look like isolated fact placed together. Inter-relationships of paragraphs must seem to exist. All the relevant facts must be stated in strict chronological order.
- l) Dates, sums and numbers shall be expressed in a pleading in figures as well as in words.

Other Rules

Pleading must be Signed

Order VI Rule 14 makes it obligatory that the pleading shall be signed by the party and his pleader (if any). However, where a party pleading is, by reason of absence or for other good cause, unable to sign the pleading it may be signed by any person duly authorized by him to sign the same or to sue or defend on his behalf.

The main purpose of this rule is to prevent any possible denial by any party that he did not authorize the proceedings. Thus, even if pleader produces the vakalat-nama duly authorizing him to fight or defend the suit, the signature of the pleader alone would not do. The pleading must bear the signature or thumb impression or any other identification mark of the party concerned. The only exception is that the party is unable to sign by reason of absence or any other good cause. Mere absence would be sufficient; "absence" in this context means such as would not enable the party to be present. Where the party is unable to sign the pleading as aforesaid, then a person duly authorized by him will sign the pleading. Such authority to sue or defend must be produced before the court.

Verification of Pleading

Order VI Rule 15, states every pleading shall be verified at the foot by the by any of the parties pleading or by some other person proved to the satisfaction of the Court to be acquainted with the facts of the case. The person verifying shall specify, by reference to the numbered paragraphs of the pleading what he verifies of his own knowledge and what he verified upon on received and believed to be true. The verification shall be signed by the person making it and the date on which and the place at which it was signed. The aim of verification is only to fix responsibility of the statements made in the pleading upon same one before the court proceeds to adjudicate upon them.

A person making a false verification is liable to be punished under the Indian Penal Code, 1860 as making a false statement is by itself an offence. Therefore, the responsibility of verifications is very great and its significance and the consequences thereof must be realized. After the signature to the pleading some space may be left out and then verification should begin.

Striking out pleadings

It is no difference to an application to strike out impertinent matter, it will make the pleading inconsistent and unmeaning or insufficient, for the pleading should be amended if necessary. It meant which is pertinent in a pleading not to be ordered to be expunged on the ground of its being scandalous.

Amendment of pleadings

Court and tribunals are constituted to do justice between the parties within the confines of statutory limitations, and undue emphasis on technicalities or enlarging their scope would cramp their powers, diminish their effectiveness and defeat the very purpose for which they are constituted. Within the limits prescribed by the decisions of the Supreme Court, the discretionary jurisdiction of the tribunals to amend the pleadings is as extensive as that of civil court. The same well settled principle lay down in the matter of amendment to the pleadings in a suit should also regulate the exercise of the power of amendment by a Tribunal. Accordingly, the pleadings should not be too strictly constructed and that regarded should be substance of the matter and not the form.

The general rule governing amendment of pleadings is that a party is not allowed by amendment to set up a new case or a particularly when a suit on the new cause of action is barred by time. But where the amendment does not constitute or amount to the addition of a new cause of action or raise a new and different case already set up, amount mainly to a different or additional approach to the same facts, amendment is to be allowed even after the expiry of the statutory period of limitation. In this context the expression cause of action does not mean every fact which is material to be proved to enable the plaintiff to succeed. Again, the word new cause means new set of ideas. It therefore at the court will not allow an amendment which introduces a new set of ideas acquired by any party by lapse of time.

The court always give leave to amend the pleading of a party. However, negligence or carelessness may have been the first omission and however late the proposed amendment and amendment may be allowed if it can be made without injustice to the other side. The amendment introduces new case, new cause of action, new or alternative relief, correct description, change in the character of suit, to be considered on the basis of the fact and circumstances of each case. The amendment can be allowed at any stage. There is no invariable rule that an amendment which deprives the opposite party of the plea of limitation should always be refused. The court is, however entitled to allow amendment of the plaint even after the period of limitation has expired, holds that the omission was due to a Bonafide mistake on the part of the plaintiff. Rule of amendment of pleadings is essentially a rule of justice, equity and good conscience.

Inconsistent defences

A defence cannot be ruled out merely because it is inconsistent with another defence. It is certainly open to a party to raise inconsistent defences in the alternative, but at the time when evidence is led, he has got to elect as to which of the alternative inconsistent defences he is going to prove.

<sup>5</sup>SUITS FOR TEMPORARY AND PERMANENT INJUNCTIONS

Preventive Relief is granted at the discretion of the court by injunction, Temporary or Perpetual. The Relief of Injunction is an equitable relief and he who seeks equity must do equity. Hence, a party who asks for an injunction must be able to satisfy the court that his dealing of the matter had been fair, honest and free of any fraud or illegality. The Discretion in granting or refusing injunction must be exercised judicially and not arbitrarily.

Following are the kinds of injunctions.

1. Prohibitory Injunction	2. Mandatory Injunction	3. Temporary Injunction	4. Perpetual Injunction
---------------------------	-------------------------	-------------------------	-------------------------

Temporary injunctions are regulated by the Provisions under Order XXXIX of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. A perpetual injunction can only be granted by the decree made at the hearing and upon the merits of the suit.

A suit may be filled for obtaining permanent injunction. However, temporary injunction can be in the nature of interim relief.

Civil Pleadings

The Code of Civil Procedure is an adjective law as opposed to substantive law and is not primarily intended to create new right or to take away existing rights.

- 1. Classes of Civil Courts – Besides the Supreme Court and High Courts, there are Civil Courts at District level. Highest among them is Court of District Judge, followed by Additional District Judges. The lower Civil Courts are divided in two forms e.g., one by territorial limits and secondarily pecuniary limit. The territorial limit is by jurisdiction of the court and by pecuniary limit it is divided into Civil Judge (Senior Division), Civil Judge (Junior Division) and Small Cause Court. When a suit is filed, if it is of civil in nature, it is filed by a complaint which is submitted to computerized filing centre of a District.

- 2. In money suits: Where the plaintiff seeks the recovery of money, the plaintiff shall state the precise amount claimed: But where the plaintiff sue for mesne profits, or for an amount which will be found due to him on taking unsettled accounts between him and the defendant, or for movables in the possession of the defendant, or for debts of which the value he cannot, after the exercise of reasonable diligence, estimate, the plaintiff shall state approximately the amount or value sued for.

2A. Where interest is sought in the suit –

- (1) Where the plaintiff seeks interest, the plaintiff shall contain a statement to that effect along with the details set out.
  - (2) Where the plaintiff seeks interest, the plaintiff shall state whether the plaintiff is seeking interest in relation to a commercial transaction within the meaning of section 34 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 and, furthermore, if the plaintiff is doing so under the terms of a contract or under an Act, in which case the Act is to be specified in the plaintiff; or on some other basis and shall state the basis of that.
  - (3) Pleadings shall also state—
    - (a) the rate at which interest is claimed;
    - (b) the date from which it is claimed;
    - (c) the date to which it is calculated;
    - (d) the total amount of interest claimed to the date of calculation; and
    - (e) the daily rate at which interest accrues after that date.
- 3. Where the subject-matter of the suit is immovable property: Where the subject-matter of the suit is immovable property, the plaintiff shall contain a description of the property sufficient to identify it, and, in case such property can be identified by boundaries or numbers in a record of settlement or survey, the plaintiff shall specify such boundaries or numbers.
- 4. When plaintiff sues as representative: Where the plaintiff sues in a representative character the plaintiff shall show not only that he has an actual existing interest in the subject-matter, but that he has taken the steps (if any) necessary to enable him to institute a suit concerning it.

Dilatory Pleas

Pleas which merely delay the trial of a suit on merits have been characterized as 'dilatory pleas'. They simply raise formal objections to the proceedings and do not give any substantial reply to the merits of the case, e.g., the plea that the court-fee paid by the plaintiff is not sufficient. Such pleas should be raised at the earliest opportunity.

Interlocutory Application

"Interlocutory" means not that decides the cause but which only settles some intervening matter relating to the cause. After the suit is instituted by the plaintiff and before it is finally disposed off, the court may make interlocutory orders as may appear to the court to be just and convenient. The power to grant Interlocutory orders can be traced to Section 94 of C.P.C. Section 94 summarizes general powers of a civil court in regard to different types of Interlocutory orders. It provides for supplemental proceedings. The detailed procedure has been set out in the Schedule I of the C.P.C which deals with Orders and Rules.

Interlocutory orders may take various shapes depending upon the requirement of the respective parties during the pendency of the suit e.g., Applications for appointment of Commissioner, Temporary Injunctions, appointment of Receivers, payment into court, security for cause etc. The Supreme Court in Rashtriya Ispat Nigam Ltd. V. Verma Transport Company, AIR 2006 SC 2800, placing reliance upon its earlier judgment in Vareed Jacob v. Sosamma Geevarghese, AIR 2004 SC 3992 explained the distinction between incidental and supplemental proceedings explaining that incidental proceedings are those which arise out of the main proceedings.

Plaint Structure

PLAINT: Particulars to be contained in plaint provided under order VII, Rule 1.

According to this rule the plaint shall contain the following particulars:

- (a) The name of the Court in which the suit is brought;
- (b) The name, description and place of residence of the plaintiff;
- (c) The name, description and place of residence of the defendant, so far as they can be ascertained;
- (d) Where the plaintiff or the defendant is a minor or a person of unsound mind, a statement to that effect;
- (e) The facts constituting the cause of action and when it arose;
- (f) The facts showing that the Court has jurisdiction;
- (g) The relief which the plaintiff claims;
- (h) Where the plaintiff has allowed a set-off or relinquished a portion of his claim, the amount so allowed or relinquished; and
- (i) A statement of the value of the subject-matter of the suit for the purposes of jurisdiction and of court fees, so far as the case admits.

1. Heading and Title: Name of the Court in which the suit is filed indicated at the top of the first page. Heading of the plaint means the court in which the suit is instituted. Therefore, the name of the court has to come on the top of the plaint (Order VII, Rule 1(a)). If a court has various jurisdictions the specific jurisdiction in which the suit is being instituted should be given below the name of the court.

Examples of Plaints

IN THE COURT OF CIVIL JUDGE (Senior Division)_____

OR

IN THE JUDICATURE OF HIGH COURT_____

Original Jurisdiction

Before the heading of the plaint proper space should be left for affixing court-fee stamp. Just below the name of the court, a space should left for the number of the suit. It is as such

Suit No. _____ of _____(Year)

Thereafter the names of the parties to the suit with all necessary particulars should be given. For ex.: AB s/o CD aged _____ yrs, Resident of _____

Plaintiff

Versus

PQ s/o RS aged _____ Yrs, Resident of _____ Defendant

If there are more plaintiff or defendant than the names of all plaintiffs/and defendant should be given in plaint as plaintiff No. 1/defendant No.1 and so on.

After the names of the parties the title of the suit should be given for example.

“Suit for specific performance and damages”

or

“Suit for Recovery of money”

or

“Suit for damages for malicious prosecution”

or

“Petition for Restitution of Conjugal Rights u/s 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955”

Where the plaintiff or defendant is a minor or a person of unsound mind, the fact should be mentioned in the cause-title. At the same time the name and description to the person through whom such person sues or sued should also be given in the cause-title. The forms given at No. 2 in Appendix A to the First Schedule of C.P.C. would be of special assistance in framing cause-titles in particular cases. For example, if plaintiff or defendant is:

- (i) Individual person - AB S/o _____ Aged _____ Res. of _____
- (ii) Proprietary concern - AB S/o _____ Aged _____ Res. of _____ proprietor of M/s XYZ and carrying on business at .....
- (iii) Partnership firm – M/s XYZ, a partnership firm registered under the Indian partnership Act, 1932 with its principal place of business at _____
- (iv) A company - M/s XYZ, Pvt. Ltd. A company incorporated under the companies Act having its registered office at _____
- (v) Company in Liquidation - M/s XYZ Ltd. In liquidation through liquidator Mr. ABC having office at _____
- (vi) Statutory Corporation - The Life Insurance Corporation of India established and constituted under the Life Insurance Act, having its registered office at _____
- (vii) Municipality – Municipal Corporation of Delhi through its Chairman, Town Hall, Delhi.
- (viii) Minor - AB S/o _____ Aged ____ a minor through his father and natural guardian S/o _____ Aged _____ Res. of _____

2. Body of the Plaint: Then follows the body of the suit/plaint. The plaintiff acquaints the court and defendant with the case. The statement of facts is divided into paragraphs numbered consecutively. As far as convenient a paragraph should contain only one allegation. Dates, time and numbers should be expressed in figures as well as in words. The body of plaint usually begins thus:

‘The above named plaintiff states as follows:

1. That _____

Mogha in ‘The Law of Pleading in India has divided the body of the plaint into two parts (1) Substantive portion and (2) Formal portion.

- I. Substantive portion of the body of plaint is devoted to (i) statement of all facts constituting the cause of action and (ii) the facts showing the defendant’s interest and liability. But, as already noted, often it is desirable to start the plaint with certain introductory statements, called ‘matters of inducement’.

II. Formal portion of the plaint shall state the following essential particulars:

- (i) Date when the cause of action arose;
- (ii) Statement of facts pertaining to jurisdiction;
- (iii) Statement as to valuation of the suit for the purpose of jurisdiction and court fees and it should be stated that the necessary court fee has been affixed to the plaint;
- (iv) Statement as to minority or insanity of a party or if he is representing some other body then statement as to plaintiff's representative character;
- (v) When a suit is filed after the expiry the period of limitation a statement showing the ground or grounds on which he has claimed exemption or condonation of delay in Limitation Law;
- (vi) Every relief sought for by the plaintiff should be accurately worded. Rule 7 says that every plaint shall state specifically the relief which the plaintiff claims either simply or in the alternative, and it shall not be necessary to ask for general or other relief which may always be given as the Court may think just to the same extent as if it had been asked for. And the same rule shall apply to any relief claimed by the defendant in his written statement. The plaintiff can claim more than one relief, in the suit. He can seek reliefs alternatively. A plaintiff is entitled to claim more than one relief in respect of the same cause of action should sue for all of them because he is debarred from bringing a fresh suit in respect to the omitted reliefs except when the omission in the first suit was with the permission of the court [Order 2, Rule 2 (3) of C.P.C.];
- (vii) Signature and Verification: The plaint must be signed by the plaintiff through advocate. But if the plaintiff is, by reason of absence or for other good cause, unable to sign the plaint, it must be signed by any person duly authorized by him to sign the same. The verification is done by the plaintiff himself.

Verification

WRITTEN STATEMENT

A written statement is required to be filed by the defendant in answer to the claim made by the plaintiff in his plaint which is delivered to the defendant along with the summons to attend at the first hearing of the suit. Written statement is the statement or defence of the defendant by which he either admits the claim of the plaintiff or denies the allegations or averments made by the plaintiff in his plaint. The written statement must specifically deal with each allegation of fact in the plaint and when a defendant denies any fact, he must not do so evasively but answer the same in substance. Before proceeding to draft a written statement, it is always necessary for a pleader to examine the plaint very carefully and to see whether all the particulars are given in it and whether the whole information that he requires for fully understanding the claim and drawing up the defence is available. If any particulars are wanting, he should apply that the plaintiff be required to furnish them before the defendant files his written statement. If he cannot make a proper defence without going through such particulars and/ or such documents referred to in the plaint, and that the defendant is not in possession of such copies, or the copies do not serve the required purpose, the defendant should call upon the plaintiff to grant him inspection of them and to permit him to take copies, if necessary, or, if he thinks necessary, he may apply for discovery of documents. If he thinks any allegation/ allegations in the plaint are embarrassing or scandalous, he should apply to have it struck out, so that he may not be required to plead those allegations. If there are several defendants, they may file a joint defence, if they have the same defence to the claim. If their defences are different, they should file separate written statements, and if the defences are not only different but also conflicting, it is not proper for the same pleader to file the different written statements. For instance, if two defendants, executants of a bond, are sued on the bond, and their plea is one of satisfaction, they can file a joint written statement. If the plaintiff claims limitation from the date of certain acknowledgement made by one defendant and contends that the acknowledgement saves limitation against the other also, the defendants may file separate written statements. In a suit on a mortgage deed executed by a Hindu father, to which the sons are also made parties on the ground that the mortgage was for a legal necessity, if the sons want to deny the alleged legal necessity, they should not only file a separate defence from their father's but should also preferably engage a separate pleader.

- (1) Formal Portion of Written Statement: A written statement should have the same heading and title as the plaint, except that, if there are several plaintiffs or several defendants, the name of only one may be written with the addition of "and another" or "and others", as the case may be. The number of the suit should also be mentioned after the name of the court. After the name of the parties and before the actual statement, there should be added some words to indicate whose statement it is, e.g., "written statement on behalf of all the defendants" or "written statement on behalf of defendant No. 1", or "written statement on behalf of the plaintiff in reply to defendant's claim for a set off" or "written statement (or replication) on behalf of the plaintiff filed under the order of the court, dated..." or "written statement on behalf of the plaintiff, filed with the leave of the court". The words "The defendant states _____" or "The defendant states as follows" may be used before the commencement of the various paragraph of the written statement but this is optional.

No relief should be claimed in the written statement, and even statements such as that the claim is liable to be dismissed should be avoided. But when a set off is pleaded or the defendant prefers a counter-claim for any excess amount due to him, a prayer for judgment for that amount in defendant's favour should be made.

(2) Body of the Written Statement: The rest of the written statement should be confined to the defence.

Forms of Defence: A defence may take the form of (i) a "traverse", as where a defendant totally and categorically denies the plaint allegation, or that of (ii) "a confession and avoidance" or "special defence", where he admits the allegations but seeks to destroy their effect by alleging affirmatively certain facts of his own, as where he admits the bond in suit but pleads that it has been paid up, or that the claim is barred by limitation, or that of (iii) "an objection in point of law" (which was formerly called in England "a demurrer"), e.g., that the plaint allegations do not disclose a cause of action, or that the special damages claimed are too remote. Another plea may sometimes be taken which merely delays the trial of a suit on merits, e.g., a plea that the hearing should be stayed under Section 10, C.P.C., or that the suit has not been properly framed, there being some defect in the joinder of parties or cause of action and the case cannot be decided until those defects are removed. These pleas are called (a) "dilatatory pleas" in contradistinction to the other pleas which go to the root of the case and which are therefore known as (b) "peremptory pleas" or "pleas in bar". Some dilatatory pleas are not permitted in pleadings, but must be taken by separate proceedings. Others may either be taken in the written statement under the heading "Preliminary Objections", or by a separate application filed at the earliest opportunity, as some pleas, such as that of a mis-joinder and non-joinder, cannot be permitted unless taken at the earliest opportunity (O. 1, R. 7 and 13).

A defendant may adopt one or more of the above forms of defence, and in fact he can take any number of different defences to the same action. For example, in a suit on a bond he can deny its execution, he can plead that the claim is barred by limitation, he can plead that, as no consideration of the bond is mentioned in the plaint, the plaint does not disclose any cause of action, he can plead that the bond being stated to be in favour of two persons the plaintiff alone cannot maintain the suit. He can as well plead one form of defence to one part of the claim, and another defence to another part of it. He can take such different defences either jointly or alternatively, even if such defences are inconsistent. But certain inconsistent pleas such as those which depend for their proof, on entirely contradictory facts, are generally not tenable. A ground of defence, which has arisen to the defendant even after the institution of the suit, but before the filing of his written statement, may also be raised (O.8, R.8).

All defences which are permissible should be taken in the first instance, for, if the defendant does not take any plea, he may not be allowed to advance it at a later stage, particularly when it involves a question of fact.

How to Draft a Written Statement

When the defendant relies on several distinct grounds of defence or set off, founded upon separate and distinct facts, they should be stated in separate paragraphs (O.8, R.7), and when a ground is applicable, not to the whole claim but only to a part of it, its statement should be prefaced by words showing distinctly that it is pleaded only to that part of the claim, thus: "As to the mesne profits claimed by the plaintiff, the defendant contends that, etc." or "As to the price of cloth said to have been purchased by the defendant, the defendant contends that, etc."

When it is intended to take several defences in the same written statement, the different kinds of defences should be separately written. It is convenient to adopt the following order for the several pleas:

- (i) Denials: A defendant is said to take the defence of denial when he totally and categorically, denies the allegations contained in the plaint. It is also called 'traverse'. Admissions and denials of the material facts alleged in the plaint should be given in the opening paragraphs of the body of the written statement. It may be emphasized that bare denials are in themselves valid defences to the claim made in the plaint.

Rules as to denials: a. Denials must be specific, b. Denials must not be evasive.

- (ii) Dilatory pleas: Pleas which merely delay the trial of a suit on merits have been characterized as 'dilatory pleas'. They simply raise formal objections to the proceedings and do not give any substantial reply to the merits of the case, e.g., the plea that the court-fee paid by the plaintiff is not sufficient. Such pleas should be raised at the earliest opportunity.
- (iii) Objections to point of law: By such an objection, the defendant means to say that even if the allegations of fact (made in the plaint) be supposed to be correct, still the legal inference which the plaintiff claims to draw in his favour from those facts is not permissible.
- (iv) Special defence (confession and avoidance): Special defence is more appropriately called the plea of confession and avoidance. It is a plea whereby the defendant admits the allegations made in the plaint but seeks to destroy their effect by alleging affirmatively certain facts of his own, showing some justification or excuse of the matter charged against him or some discharge or release from it.
- (v) Set off and counter-claim: According to Black's Law Dictionary set off is the defendant's counter demand against the plaintiff, arising out of a transaction independent of the plaintiff's claim. Where the plaintiff sues a defendant for the recovery of money the defendant can defend that suit and he can 'claim a set-off in respect of any claim of his own'. An analysis of sub-rule (1) of Rule 6 of Order VIII would reveal that a claim by way of a set-off is allowed in the following conditions:
  - a. the sum claimed must be ascertained sum of money,
  - b. it must be legally recoverable,
  - c. it must be recoverable by the defendant,
  - d. it must be recoverable from the plaintiff,
  - e. the sum claimed by the defendant must not exceed the pecuniary limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, both parties must fill the same character as they fill in the plaintiff's suit.

Set-off may be of two kinds: legal set-off and equitable set-off. Etymologically the counter claim is the claim made by the defendant against the averments made by the plaintiff in his plaint. Black's Law Dictionary defines it as a claim for relief asserted against an opposing party after an original claim has been made, especially a defendant's claim in opposition to or as a set-off against the plaintiff's claim. Counter claim must be treated as a plaint. It shall have the same effect as a cross suit so as to enable the Court to pronounce judgement in the same suit, both on the original claim and on the counter claim.

All admissions and denials of facts alleged in the plaint should be recorded in the first part of the written statement and before any other pleas are written. If a defendant wishes to add an affirmative statement of his own version to the denial of a plaint allegation, or to add anything in order to explain his admission or denial, it is better and more convenient to allege the additional facts along with the admissions or denial, than to reserve them until after the admissions or denials have been recorded. If there are some defences which are applicable to the whole case and others which apply only to a part of the claim, the former should preferably be pleaded before the latter.

Drafting of Reply/Written Statement – Important Considerations

At the time of drafting the reply or written statement, one has to keep the following points in mind:-

- (i) One has to deny the averment of the plaint/petition which are incorrect, perverse or false. In case, averment contained in any para of the plaint are not denied specifically, it is presumed to have been admitted by the other party by virtue of the provisions of Order VIII, Rule 5 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

It must be borne in mind that the denial has to be specific and not evasive (Order VIII, Rule 3 & 4 CPC)

However, general allegation in the plaint cannot be said to be admitted because of general denial in written statement. [Union v. A. Pandurang, AIR 1962 SC 630.]

- (ii) If the plaint has raised a point/issue which is otherwise not admitted by the opposite party in the correspondence exchanged, it is generally advisable to deny such point/issue and let the onus to prove that point be upon the complainant. In reply, one has to submit the facts which are in the nature of defence and to be presented in a concise manner. [Syed Dastagir v. T.R. Gopalakrishnan Setty 1999 (6) SCC 337.]
- (iii) Attach relevant correspondence, invoice, challan, documents, extracts of books of accounts or relevant papers as annexures while reply is drafted to a particular para of the plaint;
- (iv) The reply to each of the paras of the plaint be drafted and given in such a manner that no para of the plaint is left unattended. The pleadings are foundations of a case. [Vinod Kumar v. Surjit Kumar, AIR 1987 SC 2179.]
- (v) After reply, the same is to be signed by the constituted attorney of the opposite party. If the opposite party is an individual, it could be signed by him or his constituted attorney or if the opposite party is a partnership firm, the same should be signed by a partner who is duly authorised under the Partnership Deed, because no partner has an implied authority to sign pleadings on behalf of the partnership firm by virtue of Section 22 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932. In case of a body corporate, the same could be signed by any Director, Company Secretary, Vice-President, General Manger or Manager who is duly authorised by the Board of Directors of the company because any of the aforesaid persons per se are not entitled to sign pleadings on behalf of the body corporate. [Order XXIX of Code of Civil Procedure.]

It may be noted that if the plaint or reply is not filed by a duly authorised person, the petition would be liable to be dismissed [Nibro Ltd . v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., AIR 1991 Delhi 25; Raghuvir Paper Mills Ltd. v. India Securities Ltd. 2000 Corporate Law Cases 1436]. However, at the time of filing of petition, if the pleadings are signed by a person not authorised, the same could be ratified subsequently. [United Bank of India v. Naresh Kumar, AIR 1997 SC 2.]

- (vi) The reply/written statement is to be supported by an Affidavit of the opposite party. Likewise, the Affidavit will be sworn by any of the persons aforesaid and duly ~~notarized~~ notarized by an Oath Commissioner. The Affidavit has to be properly drawn and if the affidavit is not properly drawn or attested, the same cannot be read and the petition could be dismissed summarily. [Order VI, Rule 15 CPC]. The court is bound to see in every case that the pleadings are verified in the manner prescribed and that verifications are not mere formalities.
- (vii) The reply along with all annexures should be duly page numbered and be filed along with authority letter if not previously filed.
- (viii) At the time of filing of reply, attach all the supporting papers, documents, documentary evidence, copies of annual accounts or its relevant extracts, invoices, extracts of registers, documents and other relevant papers.
- (ix) It may be noted that if any of the important points is omitted from being given in the reply, it would be suicidal as there is a limited provision for amendment of pleadings as provided in Order VI, Rule 17 CPC, and also the same cannot be raised in the Affidavit-in-Evidence at the time of leading of evidence. Because if any point has not been pleaded in the pleadings, no evidence could be led on that point. General rule is that no pleadings, no evidence. [Mrs. Om Prabha Jain v. Abnash Chand Jain, AIR 1968 SC 1083; 1968 (3) SCR 111.]

- (x) If a party is alleging fraud, undue influence or misrepresentation, general allegations are insufficient even to amount to an averment of fraud of which any court ought to take notice, however, strong the language in which they are couched may be, and the same applies to undue influence or coercion. [Afsar Shaikh v. Soleman Bibi, AIR 1976, SC 163; 1976 (2) SCC 142]. While pleading against fraud or misrepresentation, party must state the requisite particulars in the pleadings. [K Kanakarathnam v. P Perumal, AIR 1994 Madras 247.]
- (xi) It is well settled that neither party need in any pleadings allege any matter of fact which the law presumes in his favour or as to which the burden of proof lies upon the other side unless the same has first been specifically denied. [Order VI, Rule 13 CPC; Sections 79 and 90 of Indian Evidence Act.]
- (xii) In every pleading, one must state specifically the relief which the party is claiming from the court or tribunal or forum. While framing the prayer clause, one should claim all possible relief as would be permissible under the pleadings and the law [Order VII, Rule 7 CPC]. The general principle is that the relief if not prayed for, will not be allowed. [R Tiwary v. B Prasad, AIR 2002 SC 136.]

Notice

There is no self-contained general law relating to notices laying down therein what exactly constitutes a notice. What should be at its essential contents, by whom and to whom it should be given and the manner in which it should be served. But in various laws where an appeal or revision or review is provided, invariably there will also be a provision to the effect that the person is likely to be affected should be put on notice before final orders are passed. But beyond that, the provisions do not elaborate in regard to the notice on the various aspects above mentioned. It has therefore become necessary to wade through the labyrinth of case law under various laws requiring notice to the party affected and particularly under section 3 and 106 for the transfer of property act 1882 which give rise to frequent litigation on the subject of notice. Notice is a subject of considerable importance and indeed its scope has become is becoming wider and wider for the simple reason that many cases are fought in court on this solitary issue that there was no notice or the notice given to the affected party was inadequate. The subject of notice falls under two categories. Firstly, the giving of notice by an individual to others before taking action which would affect the other person. Such a notice by an individual may require the other person to do a certain thing failing which legal action would be taken. For example, a notice under section 106 of the transfer of property act 1882 determine the lease and asking the lessee to vacate the premises falls under this category. Similarly, when a private person intends to proceed against the government or a public authority by filing a suit, a notice under section 80 of the CPC is an essential requisite so that the government or public authority may, before the suit is filed redress the grievance of the private person and avoid litigation. A partner withdrawing from partnership giving a notice also falls under this category.

The object of notice under section 80 of CPC is to give the government or the public officer concerned an opportunity to reconsider the legal position and if that course is justified to make amends or settle the claim out of court. The contemplation of the notice under section 80 of CPC is to give to the concerned government and public officers opportunity to reconsider the legal position and to make amends or settle the claim if so advised without litigation. The legislative intention behind that section is that public money and time should not be wasted on unnecessary litigation and Government and public officer should be given a reasonable opportunity to examine the claims made against them lest they should be drawn into avoidable litigation. The purpose of law is advancement of justice.

A lease of the immovable property may be for agriculture purpose or for manufacturing purpose or residential purpose. The period of notice and the manner of its giving are governed by section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act. But this section applies only in the absence of a contract or local law or usage to the contrary. Essential requisites of notice is that it should be in writing and signed by the notice giver or by his authorised agent. Merely typing the name of the person who gives the notice is not sufficient. The notice should be definite and should state in unequivocal terms that the tenancy stands terminated from the specified therein.

PETITIONS*Original Petition

Suits are filed to lodge money claims in civil courts working under District Courts while petitions are filed in High Courts which are above District Courts seeking some directions against the opposite party; mostly the Government.

There is no legal term like original suit or original petition. Suit of a civil nature is ordinarily tried in civil court. Every person has a right to bring a suit of a civil nature and civil court has jurisdiction to try the suits of a civil nature. Due to increasing litigation and delays in civil suits, parliament and state legislative created special courts and Tribunals with special enactments. The reason behind this exercise is for speedy disposal of cases of various types. For ex. Cases of ejection in respect of urban buildings between the landlord and tenant are now dealt with by special courts created under various state legislations. Railway accidents claims are decided by railway claim Tribunals, claims by Industrial woker for payment of wages are entrusted to prescribed authorities. So is the case with the workman's compensation claims. In some states and in center also service tribunal have been created for adjudication of cases of public servants in disputes arising out of their employment, including dismissal, terminator of service, etc. At many places family courts have been established to deal with matrimonial disputes. In such cases which are dealt with by special courts under special enactments the party aggrieved expected to approach such special courts or tribunal and the jurisdiction of the civil courts under section 9 CPC is barred. However, in practice, the words 'petitions' and 'suits' are generally used to mean formal applications for seeking legal remedy. The suit which is initially filed in the first court for the first time is referred as original suit. Petitions are Writ Petitions, Arbitration Petitions, Miscellaneous Petitions etc. & not the original petition.

After judgment in suit or petition, if any aggrieved party challenges it, then it is by filing appeal in the higher court which is ordinarily called as Appeal but often in some court it is termed as Letters Patent Appeal (LPA) & as Special Leave Petition (SLP) in Supreme Court.

Execution Petition

Application for Execution

Execution of decree

Application for execution of a decree shall be made by a holder of a decree who desires to execute it to the appropriate court which passed it or to the officer appointed in this behalf. In case the decree has been sent to another court than the application shall be made to such court or the proper officer thereof. Execution of an injunction decree is to be made in pursuance of the Order XXI Rule 32 CPC as the CPC provides a particular manner and mode of execution and therefore, no other mode is permissible.

Application for execution of a decree may be either (1) Oral; or (2) written.

- (a) Oral Application: Where a decree is for payment of money the court may on the oral application of the decree holder at the time of the passing of the decree, order immediate execution thereof by the arrest of the judgement debtor, prior to the preparation of a warrant if he is within precincts of the court.
- (b) Written Application: Every application for the execution of a decree shall be in writing save as otherwise provided sub-rule (1) signed and verified by the applicant or by some other person proved to the satisfaction of the court to be acquainted with the facts of the case, and shall contain in a tabular form the following particulars, namely :
  - (a) the No. of the suit;
  - (b) the name of the parties;
  - (c) the date of the decree;
  - (d) whether any appeal has been preferred from the decree;
  - (e) whether any, and (if any) what, payment or other adjustment of the matter in controversy has been made between the parties subsequently to the decree;
  - (f) whether any, and (if any) what, previous applications have been made for the execution of the decree, the dates of such applications and their results;

- (g) the amount with interest (if any) due upon the decree, or other relief granted thereby, together with particulars of any cross decree, whether passed before or after the date of the decree sought to be executed;
- (h) the amount of costs (if any) awarded;
- (i) the name of the person against whom execution of the decree sought; and
- (j) the mode in which the assistance of the court is required, whether—
  - (i) by the delivery of any property specifically decreed;
  - (ii) by the attachment or by the attainment and sale, or by the sale without attachment, of any property;
  - (iii) by the arrest and detention in prison of any person;
  - (iv) by the appointment of a receiver;
  - (v) otherwise, as the nature of the relief granted may require.

The court to which an application is made under sub-rule (2) may require the applicant to produce a certified copy of the decree. Some High Courts in different States have framed additional rules in this regard may also be taken care by the draftsman or the executing lawyer.

SPECIAL LEAVE PETITION

In suitable cases, where some arguable questions, mostly on legal points are involved, the Constitution confers under Article 136 wide discretionary powers on the Supreme Court to entertain appeals even in cases where an appeal is not otherwise provided for. But so far as questions of fact, as distinct from questions of law, is concerned, it is only in rare or exceptional cases that the Supreme Court interferes and that too when finding of the High Court or the lower Court is such that it shocks the conscience of the court.

THE HUMBLE PETITION ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONER ABOVE NAMED

MOST RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH:

1. The present Special Leave Petition has been filed under Article 136 of the Constitution of India against the judgment and final order dated _____ passed by the Division Bench of Hon'ble High Court of _____ in Writ Petition No. _____ of _____ whereby the petition filed by the petitioner herein was dismissed.

2. QUESTIONS OF LAW

- A. Whether the land acquisition of land of the petitioner by the respondent is for a Private Company or for a public purpose.
- B. Whether the acquisition is malafide being in colourable exercise of power and fraud on the statute and in sheer abuse of power of eminent domain.

3. DECLARATION IN TERMS OF RULE 3(2)

That no other Petition seeking leave to Appeal has been filed by the Petitioner against the final judgment and order dated _____ passed by the Ld. Division Bench of High Court of _____ in Writ Petition No. _____ of _____.

4. DECLARATION IN TERMS OF RULE 5

That the Annexures filed with the Present Petition are true copies of the pleadings/ documents forming part of the records before courts below.

5. GROUNDS

That the present special leave to Appeal is being filed on the following, amongst other, grounds without prejudice to each other; i. Because the Division Bench of the Hon'ble High Court failed to appreciate that the procedure for acquiring land for a public purpose cannot be adopted for acquiring land for a private company. The acquisition in the instant case was clearly an acquisition for a private company and the respondent State had undertaken a colourable exercise of power by stating it to be an acquisition for a public purpose.

6. GROUNDS FOR INTERIM RELIEF

That the Petitioner has a good case on merits and that there are fair chances of success in the matter before this Hon'ble Court. The acquisition in the instant case was clearly an acquisition for a private company and the State had undertaken a colourable exercise of power by stating it to be an acquisition for a public purpose. If no stay is granted then that would cause serious prejudice to the petitioner.

7. MAIN PRAYERS

In view of the facts and circumstances as mentioned above, it is most humbly prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to:

- i. Grant Special Leave to Appeal against the order passed by the Division Bench of the Hon'ble High Court of _____ in Writ Petition No. _____ of _____ titled as _____
- ii. Pass such other or any further order(s) as may be deemed fit and appropriate by this Hon'ble Court in the facts and circumstances of the present case.

8. INTERIM PRAYER

- a) stay the impugned judgment dated _____ passed by the Division Bench of the

- b) pass such other and further orders as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the interests of justice.

REVISION

Revision is not a continuation of the suit, but is altogether a separate proceeding. Hence a fresh vakalatnama would be necessary to enable the advocate to file the petition for revision. Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, deals with revisionary jurisdiction of the High Courts. The Section lays down:

- “(1) The High Court may call for the record of any case which has been decided by any Court sub-ordinate to such High Court and in which no appeal lies thereto, and if such sub-ordinate Court appears:
- (a) to have exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law; or
  - (b) to have failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested; or
  - (c) to have acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity, the High Court may make such order in the case as it thinks fit:

Provided that the High Court shall not, under the Section, vary or reverse any order made, or any order deciding an issue, in the course of a suit or other proceeding, except where:

- (a) the order, if it had been made in favour of the party applying for revision, would have finally disposed of the suit or other proceeding; or
  - (b) the order, if allowed to stand, would occasion a failure of justice or cause irreparable injury to the party against whom it was made.
- (2) The High Court shall not, under this Section vary or reverse any decree or order against which an appeal lies either to the High Court or to any Court subordinate thereto.”

Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 provides for the remedy of revision. In a case where an appeal does not lie against a final order the aggrieved party can file a revision before the High Court (and no other court). There are certain orders passed by the Civil Courts subordinate to the High Court against which the remedy of appeal is not available, even though such orders finally decide an important question involved in the suit or substantially affect the right or interest of a party to the suit. In such cases the High Court can entertain a revision and quash or modify the order of the court below.

IN THE MATTER OF:

CIVIL REVISION AGAINST THE ORDER DATED _____ PASSED BY THE LEARNED SUB-JUDGE, 1ST CLASS _____ IN THE SUIT ENTITLED ABC -VS.- XYZ (CIVIL SUIT NO _____ OF 2013)

May it please the Hon'ble Chief Justice, High Court of _____ and his companion Justices.

The petitioner most respectfully showeth:

- A. That the petitioner named above has filed a suit against the respondents for the recovery of possession of a house situated in _____, fully described in the plaint. The suit is pending in the court of Sub- Judge 1st Class _____ and the next date of hearing is _____.
- B. That on being summoned the respondent appeared before the court below and filed his written statement wherein he denied the petitioner's title set up in the suit property.
- C. That the trial court framed issues on _____ and directed the petitioner (plaintiff) to produce evidence, upon which the petitioner promptly furnished to the court below a list of witnesses and also deposited their diet expenses etc., making a request that the witness be summoned by that Court.

- D. That on a previous date of hearing that is _____, 20_____, two witnesses of the petitioner had appeared, and their statements were recorded. However, the learned Presiding Officer of the court below passed an order that the remaining witnesses be produced by the petitioner-plaintiff on his own without seeking the assistance of the court. This order was passed despite a request by the petitioner that at least those witnesses named in the list who are State employees should be summoned by the court, as they are required to produce and prove some official records.
- E. That on the next date of hearing the learned trial court by the order impugned in this revision closed the evidence of the petitioner-plaintiff on the ground that the remaining witnesses were not produced by him.
- F. That the impugned order has caused great prejudice to the petitioner and if the same is allowed to stand the petitioner's suit is bound to fail.
- G. That the trial court has unjustifiably denied assistance of the court to the petitioner-plaintiff to secure the attendance of his witnesses. The interests of justice demand that he is provided with all legal assistance in this regard.

In the facts and circumstances discussed above the petitioner prays that this Hon'ble Court be pleased to quash and set aside the order under revision and direct the court below to provide assistance of the court for summoning the plaintiff-witnesses.

PETITIONER

[Affidavit to be filed in support of the fact that the contents of the accompanying revision petition are true and correct to the best of the deponent's knowledge and that nothing has been kept back or concealed].

Criminal Miscellaneous Petition

The Criminal Miscellaneous Petitions are one of the important tasks of the Judge in the Criminal Court. The filing of Criminal Miscellaneous Petition will start even before registering the case by way of anticipatory bail application. According to Oxford Dictionary meaning, "Miscellaneous" means consisting of mixture of various things that are not usually connected with each other. When a petition is filed seeking interim relief, it is registered as miscellaneous petition. A Memo filed before the Court of Law need not be treated as Petition. The main difference between Petition and Memo is that Memo is nothing but bringing a fact to notice before a Court of Law and no relief can be sought for in a Memo and notice to the opposite party is not required. However, where a Petition is filed requiring some relief from the court, a notice to opposite party is mandatory in most of the cases. No order be passed on Memo (Held in a decision held in between Syed Yousuf Ali Vs. Mohd. Yousuf and Others reported in 2016 (3) ALD 235)

In nutshell it can be called a Petition other than a main case. When a Miscellaneous Petition is filed in Criminal cases, it is registered as Criminal Miscellaneous Petition. As soon as a Petition is filed, primary duty of the Court is to see whether the relief sought is provided under Criminal Procedure Code or not. If it is provided, the Petition shall be called in Public Court by assigning a particular miscellaneous number and notices shall be ordered to the opposite party. Having heard both the parties, a speaking order has to be pronounced. In day to day, Criminal Courts come across several Miscellaneous Petitions seeking different reliefs. The petitions filed U/ sec. 239 Cr.P.C, Sec. 227 Cr.P.C, Sec. 311 Cr.P.C, Sec. 319 Cr.P.C, Sec. 451 Cr.P.C and Sec. 457 Cr.P.C and also used to file applications U/sec. 90 and 91 Cr.P.C and Sec. 125(3) Cr.P.C for necessary reliefs.

The other Miscellaneous Petitions which are filed before the Criminal Courts regularly are the petitions under sections 256 and 317 of Cr.P.C. In addition to the above Miscellaneous Petitions, another important Miscellaneous Petitions used to be filed by the accused in criminal cases are the bail petitions U/sec. 436 Cr.P.C and Sec. 437 Cr.P.C before the Judicial Magistrate of I Class Courts and Sec. 438 Cr.P.C. and Sec. 439 Cr.P.C. before the Sessions Court for seeking the bail.

Memorandum of Appeal

Although “Appeal” has not been defined in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 yet any application by a party to an appellate Court, asking it to set aside or revise a decision of a subordinate Court is an “appeal”. A right of appeal is not a natural or inherent right but is a creature of a statute. It is the statute alone to which the Court must look to determine whether a right of appeal exists in a particular instance or not. Parties cannot create a right of appeal by agreement or mutual consent. The right of appeal is not a matter of procedure, but is a substantive right and can be taken away only by a subsequent enactment, if it says so expressly or by necessary intendment and not otherwise. It is for the appellant to show that the statute gives a right of appeal to him. Appeal from original decree is known as first appeal. Second appeal means the appeal from the decree or judgement from the appellate Court. Second appeal only lies to the High Court. First appeal lies to any appellate Court. First appeal lies on the ground of question of law as well as question of facts. Second appeal can only lie on the ground of substantial question of law. Memorandum of appeal contains the grounds on which the judicial examination is invited. A memorandum of appeal is meant to be a succinct statement of the grounds upon which the appellant proposes to support the appeal. It is a notice to the Court that such specific grounds are proposed to be urged on behalf of the appellant, as also a notice to the respondent that he should be ready to meet those specific grounds. The theory of an appeal is that the suit is continued in the Court of appeal and re-heard there. An appeal is essentially a continuation of the original proceedings.

Appeal	Revision
An appeal is a complaint to a superior court of an injustice done or error committed by an inferior court with a view to its correction or reversal.	In a case where an appeal does not lie against a final order, the aggrieved party can file a revision before the High Court (an no other court).

In Gujarat Agro Industries Co. Ltd. v. Municipal Corporation of the City of Ahmedabad & Ors., (1999) 4 SCC 468, the apex Court held that the right of appeal though statutory, can be conditional/qualified and such a law cannot be held to be violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. An appeal cannot be filed unless so provided for under the statute and when a law authorizes filing of an appeal, it can impose conditions as well.

Thus, it is evident from the above that the right to appeal is a creation of Statute and it cannot be created by acquiescence of the parties or by the order of the Court. Jurisdiction cannot be conferred by mere acceptance, acquiescence, consent or by any other means as it can be conferred only by the legislature and conferring a Court or Authority with jurisdiction, is a legislative function. Thus, being a substantive statutory right, it has to be regulated in accordance with the law in force, ensuring full compliance of the conditions mentioned in the provision that creates it.

The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 provides for four kinds of appeals:

- (1) Appeals from original decrees (Sections 96 to 99 and Order XLI);
- (2) Second Appeals (Sections 100 to 103, Order XLII);
- (3) Appeals from Orders (Sections 104 to 106, Order XLIII, Rules 1 and 2); and
- (4) Appeals to the Supreme Court (Sections 109 & 112, Order XLV).
  - (1) Appeals from original decrees may be preferred from every decree passed by any Court exercising original jurisdiction to the Court authorised to hear appeals from the decisions of such Court on points of law as well as on facts.
  - (2) Second Appeals lie to the High Court from every decree passed in appeal by any Court subordinate to the High Court, if the High Court is satisfied that the case involves a substantial question of law.

Under Section 100 to the Civil Procedure Code, an appeal may lie from an appellate decree passed ex parte. The memorandum of appeal shall precisely state the substantial question of law involved in the appeal. The High Court, if satisfied, that a substantial question of law is involved, shall formulate that question. The appeal shall be heard on question so formulated and the respondent shall, at the hearing of the appeal, be allowed to argue that the case does not involve such question. An application which was dismissed on the application of the appellant himself that he wished to withdraw, it cannot be restored even if he was acting under a misapprehension or a mistake of law (Ram Lal Sahu v Dina Nath AIR 1942 Oudh 50).

In the second appeal, the High Court may, if the evidence on the record is sufficient, determine any issue necessary for the disposal of the appeal:

- (a) which has not been determined by the Lower Appellate Court or both by the Court of first instance and the Lower Appellate Court, or
  - (b) which has been wrongly determined by such Court or Courts by reason of a decision on such question of law as is referred in Section 100 of the Code (Section 103).
- (3) Appeals from, Orders under Sections 104 to 106 would lie only from the following Orders on grounds of defect or irregularity of law:
- (a) An Order under Section 35A of the Code allowing special costs;
  - (b) An Order under Section 91 or Section 92 refusing leave to institute a suit;
  - (c) An Order under Section 95 for compensation for obtaining arrest, attachment or injunction on insufficient ground;
  - (d) An Order under the Code imposing a fine or directing the detention or arrest of any person except in execution of a decree; and
  - (e) Appealable Orders as set out under Order XLIII, Rule 1.
- (4) Appeals to the Supreme Court, the highest Court of Appeal, lie in the following cases :
- (1) Section 109 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 provides:

“Subject to the provisions in Chapter IV of Part V of the Constitution and such rules as may, from time to time, be made by the Supreme Court regarding appeals from the Courts of India, and to the provisions hereinafter contained, an appeal shall lie to the Supreme Court from any judgement, decree or final order in a civil proceeding of a High Court, if the High Court certifies:

    - (i) that the case involves a substantial question of law of general importance; and
    - (ii) that in the opinion of the High Court the said question needs to be decided by the Supreme Court.”

Order XLV of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 provides rules of procedure in appeals to the Supreme Court.
  - (2) Articles 132 to 135 of the Constitution deal with ordinary appeals to the Supreme Court:
    - (i) Appeals in Constitutional cases: Clause (1) of the Article 132 of the Constitution provides that an appeal shall lie to the Supreme Court from any judgement, decree or final order of a High Court in the territory of India, whether in a civil, criminal or other proceedings, if the High Court certifies under Article 134A that the case involves a substantial question of law as to interpretation of the Constitution.

(ii) Appeals in civil cases: Article 133 deals with appeals to the Supreme Court from decisions of High Court in civil proceedings. For an appeal to the Supreme Court the conditions laid down in this article must be fulfilled.

These conditions are:

- (a) the decision appealed against must be a “judgement, decree or final order” of a High Court in the territory of India,
- (b) such judgement, decree or final order should be given in a civil proceeding, and
- (c) a certificate of the High Court to the effect that (i) the case involves a substantial question of law, and (ii) in the opinion of the High Court the said question needs to be decided by the Supreme Court.

(iii) Appeals in criminal cases: A limited criminal appellate jurisdiction is conferred upon the Supreme Court by Article 134. It is limited in the sense that the Supreme Court has been constituted a Court of criminal appeal in exceptional cases where the demand of justice requires interference by the highest Court of the land.

There are two modes by which a criminal appeal from any “judgement, final order or sentence” in a criminal proceeding of a High Court can be brought before the Supreme Court:

- (1) Without a certificate of the High Court.
- (2) With a certificate of the High Court.
- (3) Appeal by Special Leave.

In appeals, as a general rule, the parties to an appeal are not entitled to produce additional evidence, whether oral or documentary, but the Appellate Court has discretion to allow additional evidence in the following circumstances:

- (i) When the lower Court has refused to admit evidence which ought to have been admitted;
- (ii) When the party seeking to produce additional evidence establishes that he could not produce it in its trial Court for no fault of his;
- (iii) The Appellate Court requires any document to be produced or any witness to be examined to enable it to pronounce judgement; and
- (iv) For any other substantial cause.

However, in all such cases the Appellate Court shall record its reasons for admission of additional evidence.

The appellate judgement must include the following essential factors:

- (a) the points for determination;
- (b) the decision thereon;
- (c) the reasons for the decision; and
- (d) where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled to.

Drafting of Appeals

An appeal may be divided into three parts:

- (1) formal part, known as the memorandum of appeal,
- (2) material part, grounds of appeal, and
- (3) relief sought for.

The memorandum of appeal should begin with the name of the Court in which it is filed. After the name of the Court, number of the appeal and the year in which it is filed are given. As the number is noted by the officials of the Court, a blank space is left for it. Then follow the names and addresses of the parties to the appeal. The name of the appellant is given first and then that of the respondent. It should be indicated against the names of the parties as to what character each party had in the lower Court, i.e., whether he was a plaintiff or a defendant, or an applicant or an opposite party, as:

A.B., son of etc. (Plaintiff) Appellant

Versus

C.D., son of etc. (Defendant) Respondent

Or

A.B., son of etc. (Decree-holder) Appellant

Versus

C.D., son of etc. (Judgement-debtor) Respondent

After the names of the parties, an introductory statement giving the particulars of the decree or order appealed from (viz., the number and date, the court which passed it, and the name of the presiding officer), should be written in some such form as:

"The above-named appellant appeals to the Court of _____ from the decree of _____ Civil Judge

At _____ in Suit No _____ passed on the _____ and sets forth the following grounds of objections to the decree appealed from, namely". This may also be written in the form of a heading as:

"Appeal from the decree of _____ Civil Judge of _____ at _____ in Suit No _____ passed on the _____".

Thereafter, the grounds of appeal be given under the heading "Grounds of Appeal". The grounds of appeal are the grounds on which the decree or the order appealed from is objected to or attacked. As a general rule, in the grounds of appeal, the following points may be raised:

- (a) any mistake committed by the lower Court in weighing the evidence;
- (b) any mistake in the view of law entertained by the lower Court;
- (c) any misapplication of law to the facts of the case;
- (d) any material irregularity committed in the trial of the case;
- (e) any substantial error or defect or procedure;
- (f) and the defect, error or irregularity of any interlocutory order passed in the case, whether the same was appealable or not.

A ground taken but not pressed in the first Appellate Court cannot be revived in second appeal. A defendant can question the propriety of ex parte proceedings in an appeal from the decree.

The general rule, besides being subject to Section 100 of the Civil Procedure Code, is also subject to two conditions:

- (1) that the mistake of the lower Court should be material i.e., it should be such as affects the decision, and
- (2) that the objection taken must be such as arises from the pleadings and evidence in the lower Court.

Drafting Grounds of Appeals

- (i) Grounds of objection should be written distinctly and specifically;
- (ii) They should be written concisely;
- (iii) They must not be framed in a narrative or argumentative form; and
- (iv) Each distinct objection should be stated in a separate ground and the grounds should be numbered consecutively.

These rules are simple but are most important and must be carefully remembered and observed while drafting Grounds of Appeal.

Relief Sought in Appeal

It is nowhere expressly provided in the Code that the relief sought in appeal should be stated in the memorandum of appeal. The absence of prayer for relief in appeal does not appear to be fatal and the Court is bound to exercise its powers under Section 107 of the Code and to give to the appellant such relief as it thinks proper. However, it is an established practice to mention in the memorandum of appeal, the relief sought by the appellant.

Signature

A memorandum of appeal need not be signed by the appellant himself. It may be signed by him or by his counsel but if there are several appellants and they have no counsel, it must be signed by all of them. It is not required to be verified.

WRIT PETITION

The Supreme Court and High Courts are authorized to issue five types of writs, under Articles 32 and 226 respectively. In fact, under Article 32, the Supreme Court can empower any other Court to issue the writs. But there has been no provision made so far by the court of law therefore to date only the Supreme Court and the High Courts can issue the writs. Earlier the High court of Bombay Madras and Calcutta had the power of issuing these writs, but after 1950 under Article 226 of the Constitution of India all the high courts were eligible to issue the writs. The concept of writs has been taken from England where it is known as prerogative writs. In England, the writs were issued in the exercise of the prerogative of the king who is still considered the Fountain of Justice. Later on, the High courts started to issue the writs as an extraordinary remedy to uphold the liberties of the Britishers.

Writs in Indian Constitution are filed according to Article 32 and Article 226. Before we proceed, it is important to learn about writs under Article 32 and 226 in detail.

	Writ under Article 32	Writ under Article 226
Type of Rights	Article 32 is a fundamental right.	Article 226 is a constitutional right.
Suspension of Articles	Article 32 can be suspended if the President declares an emergency.	Article 226 cannot be suspended even during an emergency.
Scope	Article 32 has a limited reach since it only applies when a fundamental right has been violated.	Article 226 on the other hand, has a greater reach since it applies not only to violations of fundamental rights but also to violations of legal rights.

	Writ under Article 32	Writ under Article 226
Territorial jurisdiction	Under Article 32, the Supreme Court has the authority to issue writs across India. As a result, the Supreme Court's territorial jurisdiction is broader and expanded.	Article 226, on the other hand, allows the High Court to issue a writ exclusively in its own local jurisdiction. As a result, the territorial authority of High Courts is narrower and limited.
Dismissal	Since Article 32 is a basic right, the Supreme Court cannot dismiss it.	Article 226 gives the High Court discretionary power, which means it is up to the High Court to decide whether or not to issue a writ.

Types of Writs

The Supreme Court and high court of India are empowered to protect the fundamental rights of citizens of India. For this, they can issue five types of writs to enforce the fundamental rights of the people of India. These five writs are explained below-

1. Habeas Corpus
2. Certiorari
3. Mandamus
4. Prohibition and
5. Quo-warranto.

1. Habeas Corpus: The writ of habeas corpus is a remedy available to a person who is confined without legal justification. The words "Habeas Corpus" literally mean "to have a body". This is an order to let the Court know on what ground he has been confined and to set him free if there is no legal justification for his detention. This writ has to be obeyed by the detaining authority by production of the person before the Court. Under Articles 32 and 226 of the Constitution, any person may move the Supreme Court and the High Court of competent jurisdiction respectively, for the issue of this writ. The applicant may be the prisoner himself moving the Court or any other person may move the Court on his behalf to secure his liberty praying for the issue of the writ of habeas corpus. No person can be punished or deprived of his personal liberty except for violation of any law and in accordance with the due process of law. Dis-obedience to the writ of habeas corpus attracts punishment for contempt of Court under the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971.

2. Mandamus: The expression "mandamus" means a command. The writ of mandamus is, thus, a command issued to direct any person, corporation, inferior Court or Government authority requiring him to do a particular thing therein specified which pertains to his or their office and is further in the nature of a public duty. This writ is used when the inferior tribunal has declined to exercise jurisdiction. Mandamus can be issued against any public authority. The applicant must have a legal right to the performance of a legal duty by the person against whom the writ is prayed. Mandamus is not issued if the public authority has a discretion.

Mandamus can be issued by the Supreme Court and all the High Courts to all authorities. However, it does not lie against the President of India or the Governor of a State for the exercise of their duties and powers (Article 360). It also does not lie against a private individual or body except where the State is in collusion with such private party in the matter of contravention of any provision of the Constitution or of a Statute. It is a discretionary remedy and the Court may refuse if alternative remedy exists except in case of infringement of Fundamental Rights.

- 3. Prohibition: The writ of prohibition is issued by the Supreme Court or any High Court to an inferior Court preventing the latter from usurping jurisdiction which is not legally vested in it. It compels courts to act within their jurisdiction when a tribunal acts without or in excess of jurisdiction or in violation of rules or law.

The writ of prohibition is available only against judicial or quasi-judicial authorities and is not available against a public officer who is not vested with judicial functions. If abuse of power is apparent this writ may be prayed for as a matter of right and not a matter of discretion. The Supreme Court may issue this writ only in case of Fundamental Rights being affected by reason of the jurisdictional defect in the proceedings. This writ is available during the pendency of the proceedings and before the order is made.

- 4. Certiorari: The writ of certiorari is available to any person whenever any body of persons having legal authority to determine questions affecting the rights of subjects and having the duty to act judicially, acts in excess of its legal authority. The writ removes the proceedings from such body to the High Court in order to quash a decision that goes beyond the jurisdiction of the deciding authority.
- 5. Quo warranto: The writ of quo warranto is prayed, for an inquiry into the legality of the claim which a person asserts to an office or franchise and to oust him from such position if he is an usurper. The holder of the office has to show to the Court under what authority he holds the office. This writ is issued when:
- (i) the office is of a public and of a substantive nature;
  - (ii) the office is created by a Statute or by the Constitution itself; and
  - (iii) the respondent must have asserted his claim to the office. It can issue even though he has not assumed charge of the office.

The fundamental basis of the proceedings of quo warranto is that the public has an interest to see that no unauthorised person usurps a public office. It is a discretionary remedy which the Court may grant or refuse. When an applicant challenges the validity of an appointment to a public office, it is maintainable whether or not any fundamental or other legal right of such person has been infringed. This writ is intended to safeguard against the usurpation of public offices

Affidavit

An affidavit is a sworn statement in writing made especially under oath before an authorized officer. Therefore, great care is required in drafting it. A Court may, at any time, for sufficient reason order that any particular fact or facts may be proved by affidavit or that the affidavit of any particular witness may be read at the hearing, provided that the Court may order the deponent to appear in person in Court for cross-examination [Order XIX Rule 2(1)].

Affidavits to be produced in a Court must strictly conform to the provisions of order XIX, Rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 and in the verification it must be specified as to which portions are being sworn on the basis of personal knowledge and which, on the basis of information received and believed to be true. In the latter case, the source of information must also be disclosed. Order XIX Rule 3 provides that affidavit should be confined to such facts as the deponent is able of his own knowledge to prove, except on interlocutory application, on which statements on his belief may be admitted; provided that the grounds of such belief are stated. The following rules should be remembered when drawing up an affidavit:

- (1) Not a single allegation more than is absolutely necessary should be inserted;
- (2) The person making the affidavit should be fully described in the affidavit;
- (3) An affidavit should be drawn up in the first person;
- (4) An affidavit should be divided into paragraphs, numbered consecutively, and as far as possible, each paragraph should be confined to a distinct portion of the subject (Order XIX Rule 5);
- (5) Every person or place referred to in the affidavit should be correctly and fully described, so that he or it can be easily identified;
- (6) When the declarant speaks of any fact within his knowledge he must do so directly and positively using the words "I affirm" or "I make oath and say";
- (7) Affidavit should generally be confined to matters within the personal knowledge of the declarant, and if any fact is within the personal knowledge any other person and the petitioner can secure his affidavit about it, he should have it filed. But in interlocutory proceedings, he is also permitted to verify facts on information received, using the words "I am informed by so and so" before every allegation which is so verified. If the declarant believes the information to be true, he must add "and I believe it to be true" or "I make oath and say" (Order XIX Rule 8).
- (8) When the application or opposition thereto rests on facts disclosed in documents or copies, the declarant should state what is the source from which they were produced, and his information and belief as to the truth of facts disclosed in such documents;
- (9) The affidavit should have the following oath or affirmation written out at the end:

"I swear that this my declaration is true, that it conceals nothing, and that no part of it is false".

or

"I solemnly affirm that this my declaration is true, that it conceals nothing and that no part of it is false". Any alterations in the affidavit must be authenticated by the officer before whom it is sworn. An affidavit has to be drawn on a non-judicial Stamp Paper as applicable in the State where it is drawn and sworn.

An affidavit shall be authenticated by the deponent in the presence of an Oath Commissioner, Notary Public, Magistrate or any other authority appointed by the Government for the purpose.

- (10) Affidavits are chargeable with stamp duty under Article 4, Schedule I, Stamp Act, 1899. But no stamp duty is charged on affidavits filed or used in Courts. Such affidavits are liable to payment of Court fee prescribed for the various Courts.

INDEMNITY BONDS & UNDERTAKINGS

As per Section 124 of the Indian Contract Act of 1872, an Indemnity bond refers to an agreement between two persons or parties, where one person promises to make payment for the losses and damages of another person caused by his/her conduct or by another party. In other words, it is a financial contract drawn between two parties that promise financial security to a person as the aggrieved party can claim monetary compensation if the contract is breached. The Indemnity bond is primarily used in the mortgage, accounting, law, IT, and insurance industries.

Undertaking is a promise to do something on happening or non-happening of certain event as may be undertaken by person promising therein. Undertaking can be said to be a formal promise or pledge entered into by a person and if it was given to the court then additionally it was a promise to act in a particular manner.

DRAFTING OF AFFIDAVIT IN EVIDENCE – IMPORTANT CONSIDERATIONS

The provisions of Sections 101, 102, 103, 106, 109, 110 and 111 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 must be carefully gone through before one proceeds to draft the affidavit-in-evidence. It is well settled that evidence should be tailored strictly according to the pleadings. No extraneous evidence can be looked into in absence of specific pleadings (Habib Khan v. Valasula Devi, AIR 1997 A.P 52). The following must be kept in mind while preparing the affidavit-in-evidence by the parties –

- (i) The best evidence is that of a person who was personally involved in the whole transaction. In case, that person is not available for any reason, then any other person who has joined in his place to make deposition by way of his affidavit.
- (ii) In case, the petitioner himself was involved in the execution of a contract, he should file affidavit-in evidence.
- (iii) The allegations or charges or grounds relating to facts should be re-produced duly supported by documentary evidence. It may be noted that in the affidavit in evidence, the position of law or legal provisions or principle of law are not reproduced because the position of law or settled principles of law are not required to be proved by any party and they are deemed to exist and any party can argue and take help of those settled position of law while arguing their case before the Court or Tribunal or Forum and need to be proved by filing an evidence. [Section 5, Indian Evidence Act.]
- (iv) In case, the point or issue pertains to engineering, medical, technology, science or other complex or difficult issues, then the evidence of expert is to be filed in the form of his Affidavit. If necessary, the said witness has to appear before the Forum for the purpose of cross-examination by the counsel for the other party. For example, hand-writing or finger print experts etc.
- (v) Besides the leading evidence on the points raised by the petitioner or by the opposite party in his written statement/reply, if possible, the party who is filing the affidavit-in-evidence should also file documents, papers or books or registers to demolish the defence or case set up by the opposite party. (vi) It is also permissible for any party to bring any outside witness (other than the expert witness) in support of his case if the facts and circumstances of the case so warrant and permitted by the Court/ Tribunal.
- (vii) At the time of tendering affidavit-in-evidence, the party must bring alongwith it either the original of papers, documents, books, registers relied upon by it or bring with it the carbon copy of the same.

It may be noted that only photocopy of any paper or document (in the absence of its reply, original or carbon copy) cannot be relied upon and tendered as an evidence.

Evidence, as defined in Section 3 of the Evidence Act, 1872 means and includes–

- (1) all statements which the Court permits or requires to be made before it by witnesses in relation to matters of fact under inquiry; such statements are called oral evidence;
- (2) all documents including electronic records produced for the inspection of the Court; such documents are called documentary evidence.

ARGUMENTS ON PRELIMINARY SUBMISSIONS

Preliminary submissions should primarily confine to the true and correct facts regarding the issue involved and which have been suppressed or not disclosed by the other side in the pleadings. Additionally the provisions of law or legal objections relevant and applicable to the issues involved in the matter should also be mentioned so as to demonstrate that the relief being claimed by the opponent is not eligible to be granted and/or that the relief being claimed by the party being represented by a lawyer/authorized representative should ordinarily be allowed as per those provisions of law. Before incorporating such facts and/or provisions of law in the write-up, a lawyer/ authorized representative should be thorough with the provisions of law and interpretation, thereof, based upon relevant judgments so as to ensure that the submissions being made on behalf of the client are accepted and upheld by the Presiding Officer/Court/Tribunal as the case may be. Thus, for eg., if a claim being opposed by a lawyer/authorized representative is evidently barred by limitation, such an objection should be taken in the preliminary submissions/objections. Such type of submissions/objections should be duly supported by law on the point or by relevant case law/judgments.

ARGUMENTS ON MERITS

Such arguments as relate to the facts pleaded by the parties are termed as arguments on merits. While addressing arguments on merits, a lawyer/authorized representative should carefully point out the pleadings of the parties and the relevant evidence in support thereof, lead by the parties, both oral as well as documentary. A lawyer/ authorized representative should ensure that all or any contradiction in the pleadings of the opponent and the evidence in support of such pleadings are duly pointed out while submitting his/her arguments. Thus, where an agreement/contract of service is pleaded and there is no evidence either oral or documentary on record in support of such an agreement/contract, it should be specifically pointed out that the opponent has failed to prove/establish that such an agreement/contract actually exists or that the same had actually been executed at all. Similarly, where notice is alleged to have been served prior to filing of the case and there is no documentary evidence like postal receipt/courier receipt placed on record by the opponent, it should be pointed out that the opponent has failed to establish that the notice had actually been served. Furthermore, the relevant facts and/or contradictions extracted from the opponent or his/her witness during the course of cross-examination and relating to the factual issues involved in the matter, should be highlighted so as to draw attention of the Court/ Tribunal towards such facts/contradictions.

LEGAL PLEADINGS/WRITTEN SUBMISSIONS

As already pointed out above, legal pleadings/submissions should be taken under the heading “preliminary submissions/objections”. While taking such plea one should ensure that the legal provisions and/or interpretation, thereof, is very clear and directly applicable to the issues involved in the matter. Thus, where an unregistered agreement/contract forms the basis of a claim set up by a party and such an agreement/ contract compulsorily requires registration under Section 17 of the Registration Act, a legal plea should be taken that since the agreement/contract is not a registered document, the same could not be looked into or relied upon by the Court for the reasons that the same cannot be read in evidence. Similarly, all other legal submissions which go to the root of the controversy and which are sufficient as well as material for adjudication of the issues involved, should be taken in opposition to the claims put forth by the opponent. Some illustrations are as under:

- (i) Suit is not maintainable for want of statutory notice etc.
- (ii) Complaint does not disclose cause of action.
- (iii) Plaintiff has no right to sue.
- (iv) Suit barred by principles of res-judicata.
- (v) Suit barred by principles of waiver, estoppel, acquiescence.
- (vi) Suit is barred by special enactment.
- (vii) Court has no jurisdiction.
- (viii) Suit is barred by limitation.
- (ix) Suit is premature, and so on.

Some of these are known technically as 'special defences'. In a suit based on contract, defendant may admit that he made the contract, but may avoid the effect of admission by pleading performance, fraud, release, limitation etc.

WITNESSES IN PLEADINGS

Witnesses in Pleadings is not defined in Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. It can be presumed in form of affidavit and notarised document. The term "affidavit" is also not defined in the Code but it generally means "a sworn statement in writing made especially under oath or on affirmation before an authorised officer or Magistrate." Order 19 deals with the affidavits. An affidavit is, to put it simply, a written declaration of facts that is sworn in front of a witness with the power to conduct oaths. Every affidavit must be written and should only include facts, not conclusions. The person who makes it and signs it is known as Deponent. In the affidavit, the contents are true and correct to the knowledge of the person who signed it and he has nothing concealed material therefrom. The affidavit must be paragraphed and numbered as per the provision of the code. It should be duly attested by the Notary or Oath commissioner appointed by the court of law. According to Code of Civil Procedure Affidavit should be notarized by Notary only and same should not be attested either by Chartered Accountant or Company Secretary or Cost Accountant. The duty of the notary and oath commissioner is to ensure that the signature of the deponent is not forged. The purpose of notarisation is to certify genuineness and proper execution of documents in order to prevent fraud. Notarisation is done by a notary public appointed by the state or central government. He is also authorised to administer oath and take an affidavit from any person. A notarised document is complete once the notary signs it and stamps it with a notary seal, his registration number and date. He also makes an entry of the notarial act in his register. A notary is considered an impartial witness who verifies that parties to an agreement have signed it and have entered into the agreement knowingly and willingly.

IMPROPER ADMISSIONS IN PLEADINGS

Improper admissions is not used anywhere in CPC, however admission is defined. An admission is a statement made by the parties to a legal proceeding, either oral, documentary or contained in electronic form, which suggests an inference with respect to any fact in issue or relevant fact. Order XII Rule 6 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908 provides for judgment on admissions and being an enabling provision, it is neither mandatory nor pre-emptory, but discretionary. Order XII Rule 1 provides that a party can admit the case of the other party, entirely or partially, by giving a notice. The notice should be in writing. Under Rule 2, a party may issue a notice to the other party to admit or refuse to admit any document. The opposite party has to admit the document within 7 days of the service of notice. If the party on whom the notice is served refuses or neglects to admit the document, the onus of bearing the cost of proving the document will be on the refusing or neglecting party. If a notice of admission has been issued by one party and the other party does not specifically deny the document or does not admit it in his pleading or reply, it will be deemed that the document has been admitted. The only exception is where the opposite party is a disabled person. Order 12 Rule 3A confers the power on the court to call upon any party to admit a document and to record the admission or denial of the party. The proviso to Rule 4 clarifies that admissions made by virtue of a notice under a particular proceeding cannot be used against the party making the admission in any other proceedings relating to any other suit. Under Order 12 Rule 6, the Courts have the power to make a judgement in regards to any oral or written admission made by the parties at any stage of the proceedings. Such admission may be made in the pleading or otherwise.

In the case of Karan Kapoor v. Madhuri Kumar (2022) the Apex Court noted that the power under Order 12 Rule 6 should be exercised only where the admission of documents or facts is clear, unambiguous and categorical. The admissions made in the present case were neither clear nor categorical and therefore the judgment of the Trial Court was liable to be set aside.

REJECTIONS IN PLEADINGS - ORDER 7, RULE 11

When any plaint is presented to the court, then it is the first duty of the court to examine the plaint properly for the determining, whether it should be tried, or returned, or rejected and in order to determine the question regarding the rejection of the plaint, and it is also the responsibility of the court to take consideration of other material facts too. Order 7 rule 11 of CPC mentions the provisions, where the plaint should be rejected. The plaint will be rejected in the following cases: -

1. Where plaint does not disclose the cause of action,
2. Where relief claimed is undervalued,
3. Where plaint is insufficiently stamped,
4. Where suit is barred by law,
5. Where plaint is not in duplicate, and
6. Where there is non-compliance with statutory provisions.

Under order 7 rule 11 the grounds for rejection are not exhaustive. A plaint can be rejected on other grounds also, for example, if the plaint is signed by the person not authorised by the plaintiff and if the defect is not cured within the time granted by the court, the plaint can be rejected. Likewise, where the plaint is found to be vexatious and meritless, not disclosing a clear right to sue, the court may reject the plaint under this rule.

The power conferred on the code under order 7 rule 11 is drastic in nature. Conditions precedent to exercise the said power is stringent. Hence, it is the duty of the court before exercising this power that such conditions are fulfilled. The power to reject the plaint can be exercised by the court at any stage of the suit.

LEGAL NOTICE AND ITS REPLIES

A legal notice is basically a legal intimation that is sent to the opponent, it indicates that the aggrieved is preparing a lawsuit to be filed against the concern, in the case the demand that is mentioned in the notice does not get fulfilled. Therefore, a legal notice can be defined as a formal communication to any legal entity or to a person, informing the other party about the intention of undertaking legal proceedings against them. The legal notice serves the purpose of giving an opportunity to the opposite party to reconsider his legal position and to make amendments or afford restitution without proceeding to a Court of Law. The notice helps to settle the disputes outside the Court. Majority of matters settle before the trial commences. The notice gives the opportunity to the opposite party to rethink or reconsider their stance. To avoid a legal dispute the parties can take necessary actions if in their opinion the case can be settled. The parties can settle the matter through negotiation, mediation or arbitration. The Legal Notice acts as a warning against the offender, a fair chance is given to both the parties to resolve their dispute, and provide an amicable settlement. Legal notice must mention the following points

- Name and address of the parties
- Facts and grievances
- Compensation
- Signature

The procedure of sending a legal notice includes -

- i. The legal notice must be addressed to the person against whom the grievances arise.
- ii. A legal notice must be sent on a plain paper or on the letterhead of a lawyer.

- iii. The legal notice must categorically mention the time period in which the addressee must respond to the notice, the time period can be 30 to 60 days. The time period must be stipulated within which the other party is expected to fulfil the demands.
- iv. The legal notice should be signed by the lawyer as well as the sender.
- v. The legal notice must be sent either through a registered post or courier. It is advisable to ensure that the acknowledgement is retained.

Replying to a legal notice is the mix of the process of replying to a written statement and drafting of notice. The reply starts with the mention of the basic details of the legal notice received - date, details of the entity on behalf of whom the legal notice was sent etc. It may also contain mention of claims of legal notice received as false, or something of similar nature. The legal notice then starts with preliminary objections and then moves on to "reply on merits" - replying to the legal notice point/paragraph wise, and may not necessarily contain such a heading. This process is very similar to the drafting of a written statement or rejoinder.

LESSON ROUND-UP

- In the ancient times when the king was the fountainhead of all justice, a petitioner used to appear before the king in person and place all facts pertaining to his case before His Majesty. After such oral hearing, the King used to summon the other party and thereafter listen to the defence statements put forward by the person so summoned.
- The document stating the cause of action and other necessary details and particulars in support of the claim of the plaintiff is called the “plaint”. The defence statement containing all material facts and other details filed by the defendant is called the “written statement”.
- The four fundamental rules of pleadings are:
  - 1) That a pleading shall contain, only a statement of facts, and not Law;
  - 2) That a pleading shall contain all material facts and material facts only;
  - 3) That a pleading shall state only the facts on which the party pleading relies and not the evidence by which they are to be proved;
  - 4) That a pleading shall state such material facts concisely, but with precision and certainty.
- Court and tribunals are constituted to do justice between the parties within the confines of statutory limitations, and undue emphasis on technicalities or enlarging their scope would cramp their powers, diminish their effectiveness and defeat the very purpose for which they are constituted.
- Preventive Relief is granted at the discretion of the court by injunction, Temporary or Perpetual. The Relief of Injunction is an equitable relief and he who seeks equity must do equity. Hence, a party who asks for an injunction must be able to satisfy the court that his dealing of the matter had been fair, honest and free of any fraud or illegality.
- The object of notice under section 80 of CPC is to give the government or the public officer concerned an opportunity to reconsider the legal position and if that course is justified to make amends or settle the claim out of court.
- Suit of a civil nature is ordinarily tried in civil court. Every person has a right to bring a suit of a civil nature and civil court has jurisdiction to try the suits of a civil nature. Due to increasing litigation and delays in civil suits, parliament and state legislative created special courts and Tribunals with special enactments.
- When a petition is filed seeking interim relief, it is registered as miscellaneous petition. A Memo filed before the Court of Law need not be treated as Petition. The main difference between Petition and Memo is that Memo is nothing but bringing a fact to notice before a Court of Law and no relief can be sought for in a Memo and notice to the opposite party is not required.
- The Supreme Court and High Courts are authorized to issue five types of writs, under Articles 32 and 226 respectively. In fact, under Article 32, the Supreme Court can empower any other Court to issue the writs. But there has been no provision made so far by the court of law therefore to date only the Supreme Court and the High Courts can issue the writs.

GLOSSARY

Pleadings: pleadings are statements in writing drawn up and filed by each party to a case, stating what his contentions will be at the trial and giving all such details as his opponent needs to know in order to prepare his case in answer.

Dilatory Pleas: They simply raise formal objections to the proceedings and do not give any substantial reply to the merits of the case, e.g., the plea that the court-fee paid by the plaintiff is not sufficient. Such pleas should be raised at the earliest opportunity.

Written statement: Written statement is the statement or defence of the defendant by which he either admits the claim of the plaintiff or denies the allegations or averments made by the plaintiff in his plaint.

SPECIAL LEAVE PETITION: In suitable cases, where some arguable questions, mostly on legal points are involved, the Constitution confers under Article 136 wide discretionary powers on the Supreme Court to entertain appeals even in cases where an appeal is not otherwise provided for.

Affidavit: An affidavit is a sworn statement in writing made especially under oath before an authorized officer.

PROFESSIONAL ETIQUETTES

Etiquette is the fine art of behaving in front of others. It is a set of practices and forms which are followed in a wide variety of situations. Many people consider it to be a branch of decorum, or general social behavior. Each society has its own distinct etiquette, and various cultures within a society also have their own rules and social norms.

In today's world of business, professionals need to know how to conduct themselves within the business world. One of the best ways to do so is to practice good professional etiquette. Practicing good professional etiquette is necessary for professional success in the emerging business scenario which is constantly changing and making the market place more competitive and contestable. Corporates look for those candidates who possess manners, a professional look and demeanor, and the ability to converse appropriately with business colleagues and clients. Though your academic knowledge and skills may be spectacular, but not knowing proper etiquette required to be successful in the professional career could be a roadblock preventing you to achieve success in the professional life and business relationships. Good professional etiquette indicates to potential employers that you are a mature, responsible adult who can aptly represent their company.

Dealing a client with confidence, acting appropriately at business interactions and knowing the proper table manners at a business dinner are just some of the necessary skills today's professionals must have in an increasingly competitive environment, and that will leave a lasting impression – good or bad. Some manners and behaviour remain constant. Nonetheless, other etiquette moments require you to conduct yourself differently than you do when you are with professional colleagues or clients at any business meeting/get-together. It is in these moments that you need to understand the particulars of etiquette. Being corporate professionals, you must practice some basic etiquette tips that would help you to go up the ladder of success in the workplace. These include Dressing Etiquette; Introduction and Greeting Etiquettes; Conversation Etiquette; Communication Etiquettes; Invitation Etiquette and Dining Etiquettes etc.

Dressing Etiquette

With every organization program comes the inevitable question: What do I wear? Knowing what to wear, or how to wear something, is key to looking great in any event.

- Always wear neat and nicely pressed formal clothes. Choose corporate shades while you are picking up clothes for your office wear.
- Ties for men should compliment.
- Women should avoid wearing exposing dresses and opt for little but natural make-ups. Heels should be of appropriate or modest height.
- Men need to keep their hair (including facial hair) neatly trimmed and set.
- Always polish your shoes.

- Keep your nails clean.
- Wear clothes which you are comfortable in and can carry well. This is very important while you are in a business meeting or client presentation.

Etiquette When Attending Hearings

According to clause 7 of ICSI (Guidelines for Attire and Conduct of Company Secretaries), 2020

All members appearing before any quasi-judicial body shall endeavour to adhere to the following:

- (a) Do not enter the court room chewing gum, beetle leaf, tobacco, gutka or pan masala.
- (b) Do not enter the court room in an inebriated state.
- (c) Switch off all mobile and other beeping devices or put them on silent mode before entering the courtroom as these may disrupt the proceedings.
- (d) Enter the courtroom silently and bow to the Judge as a sign of respect before proceeding to your seat.
- (e) Silence must be observed at all times during the hearing.
- (f) Ensure that all loose sheets of papers are securely fastened, indexed and tagged so as not to waste the time of the court in locating the documents.
- (g) Behave in a polite and courteous manner with all present in the court room and maintain decorum.
- (h) Make all efforts to support and complement court efforts and see that the administration of justice does not fail on account of apathy or neglect.
- (i) Do not attempt to capture photographs or audio/video record the proceedings.
- (j) As a sign of courtesy to the Judge, bow to the Judge just before leaving the courtroom.

Handshake Etiquette

Etiquette begins with meeting and greeting. A handshake is a big part of making a positive first impression. A firm shake is an indication of being confident and assertive. The following basic rules will help you get ahead in the workplace:

- Always rise when introducing or being introduced to someone.
- Shake hands with your right hand.
- Shake hands firmly (but not with a bone crushing or fish-limp grip), and with only one squeeze.
- Hold it for a few seconds (only as long as it takes to greet the person), and pump up and down only once or twice.
- Make eye contact while shaking hands.

Communication Etiquettes

- Always speak politely. Listen to others attentively. A good listener is always dear to every client.
- While speaking over telephones, always greet the other person while starting and ending the call.
- Speak only when the other person has finished talking instead of interrupting in between.
- Show interest in what other people are doing and make others feel good.
- Stand about an arm's length away while talking to others.

- Question another person in a friendly, not prying, manner.
- Make eye contact when talking to others.
- Be polite.
- Avoid foul language, unkind statements, and gossip.
- Keep your conversations short and to the point.
- Maintain your sobriety and politeness even if the client speaks something offensive or rude and avoid replying back in harsh tone/words.

Invitation Etiquette

How you respond to an invitation says volumes about your social skills. It reflects negatively on your manners if your response (or lack of response) to an invitation costs time or money for your host.

- Reply by the date given in the invitation, so that the host or hostess knows what kind of arrangements to make for the event, food is not wasted, and unnecessary expense is eliminated.
- If an RSVP card is not included, respond by calling or sending a brief note.
- If you cancel after initially accepting an invitation, phone your regrets as soon as possible.
- Send a note of regret following the phone conversation.
- Don't ask for permission to bring a guest unless the invitation states.
- Arrive at the event promptly, but not too early.
- Mingle and converse with the other guests.
- Don't overstay your welcome.
- Extend your thanks as you leave.

That apart, you must pay special attention to the following general etiquettes: Always be punctual at your workplace; During a meeting, turn off your mobile phone or put it on silent mode. It is considered extremely impolite to allow a mobile phone to ring during a meeting and take a call while sitting in a meeting. In case it is a must to receive a phone call, it is best to discreetly excuse yourself from the meeting and take it out into the hall or private area; When in a meeting room, always stand up to greet the seniors if they arrive after you; Try to ignore and overlook funny or embarrassing sounds when in a meeting or official conversation; If you have forgotten somebody's name ask him/her politely saying that you are sorry that you cannot remember the name; Always keep a comfortable distance while conversing with others; Avoid standing or sitting too close to the other person. An arm's length would be ideal to maintain the comfort zone.

COURT CRAFT

Practicing these etiquettes in your professional life, will make a great impact on everyone you are associated with. You must always be conscious that your mannerisms reflect on your professionalism and your company. Company Secretaries act as an authorized representative before various Tribunals/Quasi-judicial bodies. It is necessary for them to learn art of advocacy or court craft for effective delivery of results to their clients when they act as an authorized representative before any tribunal or quasi-judicial body.

For winning a case, art of advocacy is important which in essence means to convince the judge and others that my position in the case is the proper interpretation. Advocacy/court craft is learned when we enter the practising side of the profession. The aim of advocacy is to make judge prefer your version of the truth.

Apart from the legal side of the profession, advocacy is often useful and sometimes vital, in client interviewing, in negotiation and in meetings, client seminars and public lectures. It is a valuable and lifelong skill worth mastering.

Technical and legal knowledge about the area in which Company Secretaries are acting is essential. Better their knowledge, the better their advocacy skills and the greater their impact. Good advocacy or negotiating skills will not compensate for lack of appropriate knowledge.

Preparatory points

There are certain basic preparatory points which a Company Secretary should bear in mind when contacted by a client.

- Take minute facts from the client;
- Lend your complete ears to all that client has to say;
- Put questions to the client while taking facts so that correct/relevant facts can be known;
- Convey to the client about exact legal position in context of relief sought by the client;
- Give correct picture of judicial view to the problem posed by the client.

Drafting of Pleadings

Pleadings could be both written and oral. Mastering both the kinds of pleadings is must for effective delivery of results to the clients. Some of the important factors which may be borne in mind while making written pleadings are as under:

- Quote relevant provisions in the petition and excerpts of observations made by the Courts relevant to the point;
- Draft prayers for interim relief in such a manner which though appears to be innocuous but satisfy your requirements;
- Do not suppress facts;
- Highlight material facts, legal provisions and Court decisions, if any;
- State important points at the outset together with reference to relevant provisions/judgements.

If you are opponent

- File your reply to the petition at the earliest opportunity;
- Take all possible preliminary contentions together with reference to relevant law point and judgements;
- Submit your reply to each paragraph of the petition.

If you are for the petitioner

- File your rejoinder upon receiving the reply at the earliest opportunity and this is to be done on the permission of the concerned Court / Tribunal;
- Meet clearly with the specific points raised by the opponent in the reply affidavit.

Oral Pleadings

Effective oral pleadings are relevant both at the stage of preparation of the case before actual presentation and also at the stage of actual presenting a case before NCLT or other tribunals. Following aspects could be relevant at both these stages:

- Preparation before presentation of the case;

- Carefully read your petition, provisions of law and judgements;
- Note down relevant points on a separate sheet of paper together with relevant pages of the compilation;
- Keep copies of judgements to be relied ready for the Court and for your opponent(s).

While Presenting Your Case

- Submit a list of citations to the Court Master before opening of case;
- Start your address to the Court / Tribunal with humble note;
- Refer to the order sought to be challenged or reliefs sought to be prayed;
- State brief facts;
- Formulate issues/points, categorise them and address them one by one;
- Take each point, state relevant facts, provisions of law and relevant binding decisions;
- Hand over xerox copies of binding decisions to the Court Master while placing reliance;
- Refer to relevant pages of the compilation, provisions of law and judgements;
- Complete all points slowly but firmly;
- Conclude your arguments by reiterating your points in brief;
- Permit the opponent counsel uninterruptedly. However, if facts are being completely twisted, interrupt depending upon the relevant circumstances and that too only with the permission of the Court / Tribunal;
- Take instructions from client in advance with respect to alternative reliefs.

As Regards Advocacy

Advocacy is the presentation of logical facts of any dispute in a right perspective. It employs the noblest faculties of the human mind by differentiating between right and wrong, just and unjust, equitable and inequitable. This could be done only by applying the knowledge of law acquired by extensive and intensive learning. Company Secretaries should be able to formulate and present a coherent submission based upon facts, general principles and legal authority in a structured, concise and persuasive manner. They should understand the crucial importance of preparation and the best way to undertake it and be able to demonstrate an understanding of the basic skills in the presentation of cases before the tribunals. They should be able to:

- Identify the client's goals and should continue to enjoy the confidence of his client;
- Identify and analyse factual material;
- Identify the legal context in which the factual issue arises;
- Relate the central legal and factual issues to each other;
- State in summary from the strengths and weaknesses of the case from each party's perspective;
- Develop a presentation strategy;
- Outline the facts in simple narrative form;
- Structure and present in simple form the legal framework of the case;
- Structure the submission as a series of propositions based on the evidence;

- Identify, analyse and assess the specific communication skills and techniques;
- Demonstrate an understanding of the purpose, techniques and tactics of examination, cross-examination and re-examination to adduce, rebut and clarify evidence;
- Demonstrate an understanding of the professional ethics, etiquette and conventions of advocacy.

CONDUCT AND ETIQUETTE

Duty to the Court/Tribunal

- (i) A Company Secretary shall, during the presentation of his case and while otherwise acting before a Court/ Tribunal, conduct himself with dignity and self-respect. He shall not be servile and whenever there is proper ground for serious complaint against a judicial officer, it shall be his right and duty to submit his grievance to proper authorities.

6. Maintain client confidentiality.
7. Keep a track of the status of the case and take follow up whenever necessary. This can ensure the timely completion of the case.
8. Understand the requirements of the procedure before the tribunal.

ADVOCACY TIPS

Some of the tips given by legal experts which professionals like Company Secretaries should bear in mind while appearing before Tribunals or other quasi-judicial bodies are given herein below. They say while pleading, a judge in your pleadings looks for:

- (i) Clarity: The judge's time is limited, so make the most of it.
- (ii) Credibility: The judge needs to believe that what you are saying is true and that you are on the right side.
- (iii) Demeanour: We do not have a phrase "hearing is believing". Humans which includes the human judge, is far more video than audio. The way we collect most of our information is through our eyesight.
- (iv) Eye contact: While pleading, maintain eye contact with your judge.

- (v) Voice modulation: Voice modulation is equally important. Modulating your voice allows you to emphasize the points you want to emphasize. Be very careful about raising your voice. Use your anger strategically. But use is rarely. Always be in control of it.
- (vi) Confident temperament and precise communication: The appearance of a confident company secretary can be helpful for him to present his case. Precise communication will make the judges to listen carefully.
- (vii) Psychology: Understand judge's psychology as your job is to make the judge prefer your version of the truth.
- (viii) Be likeable: At least be more likeable than your opponent. If you can convert an unfamiliar Bench into a group of people who are sympathetic to you personally, you perform a wonderful service to your client.
- (ix) Learn to listen: Entertain your judge. Humour will often bail you out of a tough spot.
- (x) Knowledge and Preparation: Knowledge of the subject matter and proper preparation of the case is of utmost importance and comes before any other skill a professional can have for winning a case.
- (xi) Order sheet: Order sheet are maintained in every proceedings by the Court Master and shall contain all orders passed by the Appellate Tribunal from time to time. A Professional should keep track of the Order Sheets and try to obtain if allowed by the rules pertaining to the proceedings.

APPEARANCE ETIQUETTES

Arguments on Preliminary Submissions

Preliminary submissions should primarily confine to the true and correct facts regarding the issue involved and which have been suppressed or not disclosed by the other side in the pleadings. Additionally the provisions of law or legal objections relevant and applicable to the issues involved in the matter should also be mentioned so as to demonstrate that the relief being claimed by the opponent is not eligible to be granted and/or that the relief being claimed by the party being represented by a lawyer/authorized representative should ordinarily be allowed as per those provisions of law. Before incorporating such facts and/or provisions of law in the write-up, an authorized representative should be thorough with the provisions of law and interpretation, thereof, based upon relevant judgments so as to ensure that the submissions being made on behalf of the client are accepted and upheld by the Presiding Officer/Court/Tribunal as the case may be. Thus, for eg., if a claim being opposed by an authorized representative is evidently barred by limitation, such an objection should be taken in the preliminary submissions/objections. Such type of submissions/objections should be duly supported by law on the point or by relevant case law/judgments.

Arguments on Merits

Such arguments as relate to the facts pleaded by the parties are termed as arguments on merits. While addressing arguments on merits, an authorized representative should carefully point out the pleadings of the parties and the relevant evidence in support thereof, lead by the parties, both oral as well as documentary. An authorized representative should ensure that all or any contradiction in the pleadings of the opponent and the evidence in support of such pleadings are duly pointed out while submitting his/her arguments. Thus, where an agreement/contract of service is pleaded and there is no evidence either oral or documentary on record in support of such an agreement/contract, it should be specifically pointed out that the opponent has failed to prove/establish that such an agreement/contract actually exists or that the same had actually been executed at all. Similarly, where notice is alleged to have been served prior to filing of the case and there is no documentary evidence like postal receipt/courier receipt placed on record by the opponent, it should be pointed out that the opponent has failed to establish that the notice had actually been served. Furthermore, the relevant facts and/or contradictions extracted from the opponent or his/her witness during the course of cross-examination and relating to the factual issues involved in the matter, should be highlighted so as to draw attention of the Court/Tribunal towards such facts/contradictions.

Closing Argument

Closing arguments are very important stage for a hearing. It requires a professional to present before the tribunal what he intends a tribunal to decide. Effective closing arguments can turn the case around in case of doubts in the minds of the members of the tribunal. Therefore, closing arguments should be made with extra caution and preparation.

Other Important Points

1. Make a note of all important points and ensure the coverage of all the points during the hearing. Additional notes of the arguments of the other Party's professional can also be supportive.
2. Keep sufficient copies of the material you want the tribunal to reply such as copy of the Act, Cases, reference books etc.
3. Understand the intention of the client for filling the case and act according to the extent possible.
4. Take the advice from the client with respect to all the possible reliefs he may agree.
5. Keep the record of all the hearings he/she is handling and maintain a diary so that no case hearing is missed by mistake.

PRE-REQUISITES FOR ENTERING APPEARANCE

Legal Pleadings/Written Submissions

As already pointed out above, legal pleadings/submissions should be taken under the heading "preliminary submissions/objections". While taking such plea one should ensure that the legal provisions and/or interpretation, thereof, is very clear and directly applicable to the issues involved in the matter. Thus, where an unregistered agreement/contract forms the basis of a claim set up by a party and such an agreement/ contract compulsorily requires registration under Section 17 of the Registration Act, a legal plea should be taken that since the agreement/contract is not a registered document, the same could not be looked into or relied upon by the Court for the reasons that the same cannot be read in evidence. Similarly, all other legal submissions which go to the root of the controversy and which are sufficient as well as material for adjudication of the issues involved, should be taken in opposition to the claims put forth by the opponent. Some illustrations are as under:

- (i) Suit is not maintainable for want of statutory notice etc.
- (ii) Complaint does not disclose cause of action.
- (iii) Plaintiff has no right to sue.
- (iv) Suit barred by principles of res-judicata.
- (v) Suit barred by principles of waiver, estoppel, acquiescence.
- (vi) Suit is barred by special enactment.
- (vii) Court has no jurisdiction.
- (viii) Suit is barred by limitation.
- (ix) Suit is premature, and so on.

Some of these are known technically as 'special defences'. In a suit based on contract, defendant may admit that he made the contract, but may avoid the effect of admission by pleading performance, fraud, release, limitation etc.

Drafting of Affidavit in Evidence – Important Considerations

The provisions of Sections 101, 102, 103, 106, 109, 110 and 111 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 must be carefully gone through before one proceeds to draft the affidavit-in-evidence. It is well settled that evidence should be tailored strictly according to the pleadings. No extraneous evidence can be looked into in absence of specific pleadings (Habib Khan v. Valasula Devi, AIR 1997 A.P 52). The following must be kept in mind while preparing the affidavit-in-evidence by the parties –

- (ii) The best evidence is that of a person who was personally involved in the whole transaction. In case, that person is not available for any reason, then any other person who has joined in his place to make deposition by way of his affidavit.
- (iii) In case, the petitioner himself was involved in the execution of a contract, he should file affidavit-in-evidence.
- (iv) The allegations or charges or grounds relating to facts should be re-produced duly supported by documentary evidence.

It may be noted that in the affidavit in evidence, the position of law or legal provisions or principle of law are not reproduced because the position of law or settled principles of law are not required to be proved by any party and they are deemed to exist and any party can argue and take help of those settled position of law while arguing their case before the Court or Tribunal or Forum and need to be proved by filing an evidence. [Section 5 of Indian Evidence Act.]

- (v) In case, the point or issue pertains to engineering, medical, technology, science or other complex or difficult issues, then the evidence of expert is to be filed in the form of his Affidavit. If necessary, the said witness has to appear before the Forum for the purpose of cross-examination by the counsel for the other party. For example, hand-writing or finger print experts etc.
- (vi) Besides the leading evidence on the points raised by the petitioner or by the opposite party in his written statement/reply, if possible, the party who is filing the affidavit-in-evidence should also file documents, papers or books or registers to demolish the defence or case set up by the opposite party.
- (vii) It is also permissible for any party to bring any outside witness (other than the expert witness) in support of his case if the facts and circumstances of the case so warrant and permitted by the Court/ Tribunal.
- (viii) At the time of tendering affidavit-in-evidence, the party must bring alongwith it either the original of papers, documents, books, registers relied upon by it or bring with it the carbon copy of the same.

It may be noted that only photocopy of any paper or document (in the absence of its reply, original or carbon copy) cannot be relied upon and tendered as an evidence.

Evidence, as defined in Section 3 of the Evidence Act, 1872 means and includes–

- (1) all statements which the Court permits or requires to be made before it by witnesses in relation to matters of fact under inquiry; such statements are called oral evidence;
- (2) all documents including electronic records produced for the inspection of the Court; such documents are called documentary evidence.

Rule of Adverse Inference

No evidence is required of matters which are, either formally admitted for the purposes of the trial, in civil cases, by the pleadings, by answer to interrogatories, by agreement or otherwise and in criminal cases, as regards proof of those documents admitted under Section 294 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

It is incumbent upon a party in possession of best evidence on the issue involved, to produce such evidence and if such party fails to produce the same, an adverse inference is liable to be drawn against such party. The Court will be justified in drawing an adverse inference against that party. [Ms. Shefali Bhargava v. Indraprastha Appollo Hospital & Anr., 2003 NCJ 787 (NC)].

It is equally incumbent upon a party to produce evidence of some expert where the issue involved is a complex or difficult one as for instance, issues pertaining to engineering, medical, technology or science etc. Since the court cannot constitute itself into an expert body and contradict the claim/proposition on record unless there is something contrary on the record by way of expert opinion or there is any significantly acclaimed publication or treatise on which reliance could be based. [Dr. Harkanwaljit Singh Saini v. Gurbax Singh & Anr., 2003 NCJ 800 (NC)].

Understanding the Jurisdiction of the Tribunal

A case filled without understanding the jurisdiction of the tribunal can only waste the time of a Practising company secretary, client and also the tribunal. Therefore, it is of paramount importance to understand the jurisdiction of the tribunal before filling any matter. Filing a case with the tribunal not having jurisdiction can also degrade the value of a professional before the client and he may perceive the professional as less knowledgeable professional. It can impact the future opportunities that can come to a Professional.

Prepare Approach/Plan

A Professional should prepare an outline plan for which he should further strive. The plan can help a professional move in a direction. After a plan, it will be easy for a professional to take the case forward effectively.

DRESS CODE

In professional life it is important to look presentable because personal appearance counts. How you look can be a major factor in how you are perceived by others. How you look, talk, act and work determines whether you are a professional or an amateur. The way you dress, speaks volumes about who you are as a person and as a professional. Whenever you enter a room for the first time, it takes only a few seconds for people you have never met to form perceptions about you and your abilities. Your clothes and body language always speak first. So it is important that your image gives people the right impression.

Some of the perceptions people can form solely from your appearance are: your professionalism; your level of sophistication; your intelligence and your credibility. Whether these perceptions are real or imagined, they underscore how your appearance instantly influences the opinions of strangers, peers, and superiors. Being well dressed in a corporate setting can influence not just perceptions, but also promotions.

A dress code is a set of rules governing a certain combination of clothing. Apart from the legal profession, professional dress code standards are established in major business organizations and these have become more relaxed in recent decades. Dress codes vary greatly from company to company, as different working environments demand different styles of attire. Even within companies, dress codes can vary among positions.

Getting dressed for work is to project a professional and competent image. It has been observed that the professionals who do not take the time to maintain a professional appearance or those who have never learned how to dress properly for their chosen field of work, are not being taken seriously by co-workers and present the image of not being able to perform satisfactorily on the job.

INTRODUCTION

The Ministry of Corporate Affairs has notified the constitution of NCLT and NCLAT with effect from June 01, 2016. Consolidating the jurisdiction of Company Law Board, High Court and BIFR into a single forum i.e. NCLT, dedicated to Corporate matters, will remove the multi-fold governance. In the first phase, the Ministry of Corporate Affairs has notified the provisions of Companies Act, 2013 where the powers of Company Law Board stood transferred to NCLT and the Company Law Board is dissolved. Many provisions under which new powers are conferred on NCLT have also been notified. These include provisions relating to conversion of public company into private company, composition of offences, power of tribunal to call for an Annual General Meetings, provisions pertaining deposits, class action suits and so on.

The Eradi Committee recommended that the jurisdiction, power and authority relating to winding up of companies should be vested in a National Company Law Tribunal instead of the High Court as at present.

This Lesson covers Applications, Petitions and Appeals under the Companies Act, 2013 before NCLT and NCLAT and also to authority under the Companies Act, 2013 such as Regional Director and Registrar of Companies.

Appeal to NCLT against notice of refusal to transfer shares

Section 58 deals with the Appeals against the refusal for registration of transfer or transmission of securities

If a private company refuses the registration of securities the transferee may appeal to NCLT against the refusal in Form NCLT-1 within a period of thirty days from the date of receipt of the notice or in case no notice has been sent by the company, within a period of sixty days from the date on which the instrument of transfer or the intimation of transmission, as the case may be, was delivered to the company.

If a public company without sufficient cause refuses to register the transfer of securities within a period of thirty days from the date on which the instrument of transfer or the intimation of transmission, as the case may be, is delivered to the company, the transferee may, within a period of sixty days of such refusal or where no intimation has been received from the company, within ninety days of the delivery of the instrument of transfer or intimation of transmission, appeal to NCLT in Form NCLT-1.

Refusal to transfer shares- whether permissible?

The grounds/reasons on which a Public Company can refuse to register transfer of shares have not been specifically enumerated under the Companies Act. However, the provision of 111A (2) of the Companies Act, 1956 allowed the Board of Directors to refuse to register transfer of shares “for sufficient cause” Gujarat Machinery Manufactures Ltd. v. Nile Ltd.(2001) 105 Com Cas 817 (CLB). It is now well-settled that the words “sufficient cause” should not be given a restricted meaning. The Company is fully entitled to examine as to whether formalities required, such as signatures, stamp etc., have been fulfilled and that transfer would not involve violation of any other provision of the Companies Act, SEBI Act, or Regulations issued by SEBI, SICA or any other law for the time being in force. The Company, however, cannot act arbitrarily and will have to justify its action if questioned by the Company Law Board. It may be noted that under the scheme of Sec 108A to 108D of Companies Act, 1956, the Central Government while granting or declining to grant the approval for acquisition of shares, required to examine various factors such as :

- the impact of the acquisition on the management of the company,
- whether such an impact is desirable, the existing legal obligation of the company,
- whether such transfer itself would place the company in a situation to make a breach of certain existing contractual obligations of the company, thereby exposing the company to an action in law etc.

The company can thus also refuse to register transfer of shares on these grounds.

Refusal to register transfer of shares under Section 58 of Companies Act, 2013

The provisions of Section 58 of Companies Act, 2013, are as under:

- (1) If a private company limited by shares refuses, whether in pursuance of any power of the company under its articles or otherwise, to register the transfer of, or the transmission by operation of law of the right to, any securities or interest of a member in the company, it shall within a period of thirty days from the date on which the instrument of transfer, or the intimation of such transmission, as the case may be, was delivered to the company, send notice of the refusal to the transferor and the transferee or to the person giving intimation of such transmission, as the case may be, giving reasons for such refusal.
- (2) Without prejudice to sub-section (1), the securities or other interest of any member in a public company shall be freely transferable:
Provided that any contract or arrangement between two or more persons in respect of transfer of securities shall be enforceable as a contract.
- (3) The transferee may appeal to the Tribunal against the refusal within a period of thirty days from the date of receipt of the notice or in case no notice has been sent by the company, within a period of sixty days from the date on which the instrument of transfer or the intimation of transmission, as the case may be, was delivered to the company.
- (4) If a public company without sufficient cause refuses to register the transfer of securities within a period of thirty days from the date on which the instrument of transfer or the intimation of transmission, as the case may be, is delivered to the company, the transferee may, within a period of sixty days of such refusal or where no intimation has been received from the company, within ninety days of the delivery of the instrument of transfer or intimation of transmission, appeal to the Tribunal.
- (5) The Tribunal, while dealing with an appeal made under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4), may, after hearing the parties, either dismiss the appeal, or by order –
  - (a) direct that the transfer or transmission shall be registered by the company and the company shall comply with such order within a period of ten days of the receipt of the order; or

- (b) direct rectification of the register under Section 59 of Companies Act, 2013 and also direct the company to pay damages, if any, sustained by any party aggrieved.
- (6) If a person contravenes the order of the Tribunal under this section, he shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than one year but which may extend to three years and with fine which shall not be less than one lakh rupees but which may extend to five lakh rupees.

Further in case of foreign members or debenture holders residing outside India, the appeal can be preferred at competent court outside India. In this regard, Central Government will specifically notify competent courts outside India which could hear matters for rectification.

Time Limit for filing of Appeal

As per the decided case laws under section 111A of 1956 Act, courts have held though there is no time limit, the aggrieved person should approach court within reasonable time. Section 137 of Limitation Act also may come into play wherein limitation of three years may start from date of knowledge of cause of action.

- (a) the affairs of the company have been or are being conducted in a manner prejudicial to public interest or in a manner prejudicial or oppressive to him or any other member or members or in a manner prejudicial to the interests of the company; or
  - (b) the material change, not being a change brought about by, or in the interests of, any creditors, including debenture holders or any class of shareholders of the company, has taken place in the management or control of the company, whether by an alteration in the Board of Directors, or manager, or in the ownership of the company’s shares, or if it has no share capital, in its membership, or in any other manner whatsoever, and that by reason of such change, it is likely that the affairs of the company will be conducted in a manner prejudicial to its interests or its members or any class of members, may apply to the Tribunal, provided such member has a right to apply under section 244, for an order under this Chapter.
- (2) The Central Government, if it is of the opinion that the affairs of the company are being conducted in a manner prejudicial to public interest, it may itself apply to the Tribunal for an order under this Chapter.”
- (3) Where in the opinion of the Central Government there exist circumstances suggesting that—
- (a) any person concerned in the conduct and management of the affairs of a company is or has been in connection therewith guilty of fraud, misfeasance, persistent negligence or default in carrying out his obligations and functions under the law or of breach of trust;
  - (b) the business of a company is not or has not been conducted and managed by such person in accordance with sound business principles or prudent commercial practices;
  - (c) a company is or has been conducted and managed by such person in a manner which is likely to cause, or has caused, serious injury or damage to the interest of the trade, industry or business to which such company pertains; or
  - (d) the business of a company is or has been conducted and managed by such person with intent to defraud its creditors, members or any other person or otherwise for a fraudulent or unlawful purpose or in a manner prejudicial to public interest, the Central Government may initiate a case against such person and refer the same to the Tribunal with a request that the Tribunal may inquire into the case and record a decision as to whether or not such person is a fit and proper person to hold the office of director or any other office connected with the conduct and management of any company.

- (4) The person against whom a case is referred to the Tribunal under sub-section (3), shall be joined as a respondent to the application.
- (5) Every application under sub-section (3)—
- (a) shall contain a concise statement of such circumstances and materials as the Central Government may consider necessary for the purposes of the inquiry; and
  - (b) shall be signed and verified in the manner laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for the signature and verification of a plaint in a suit by the Central Government.

It may be relevant to note that under the 1956 Act, oppression was defined under section 397 & mismanagement was under section 398, however now in the 2013 Act, both now stands merged in a single section under section 241 as far as the meaning of oppression & mismanagement, whereas the powers are defined under section 242.

However in order to understand the meaning of oppression & mismanagement, following judgments are relevant to understand:

"In Re.:V.S Krishnan vs. Westfort Hi-Tech Hospital Ltd. [2008] 142 Comp. Cas. 235 (SC). The apex court after considering various judgments passed over the years and after considering the facts of the case has held that following conditions are required to be satisfied for invoking section 397.

Oppression would be made out:

- (a) Where the conduct is harsh, burdensome and wrong.
- (b) Where the conduct is mala fide and is for a collateral purpose where although the ultimate objective may be in the interest of the company, the immediate purpose would result in an advantage for some shareholders vis-a-vis the others.
- (c) The action is against probity and good conduct.
- (d) The oppressive act complained of may be fully permissible under law but may yet be oppressive and, therefore, the test as to whether an action is oppressive or not is not based on whether it is legally permissible or not since even if legally permissible, if the action is otherwise against probity, good conduct or is burdensome, harsh or wrong or is mala fide or for a collateral purpose, it would amount to oppression under Sections 397 and 398.
- (e) Once conduct is found to be oppressive under Sections 397 and 398, the discretionary power given to the Company Law Board under Section 402 to set right, remedy or put an end to such oppression is very wide.
- (f) As to what are facts which would give rise to or constitute oppression is basically a question of fact and, therefore, whether an act is oppressive or not is fundamentally/basically a question of fact."

Further the judgment of Bengal Luxmi Cotton Mills Ltd. [1965] 35 Comp Cas. 187 (Cal.) has held:

"If an applicant before the court wants the court to rely upon charges of fraud and other misconduct and investigate them, he must give particulars. Mere vague allegations of fraud and other misconduct would not be enough, and the court should decline to embark upon an enquiry into such charges of fraud and misconduct. If a minority group of shareholders has not in its possession all the particulars of fraud or other misconduct, it should not expect the court to make any order in its favour after making a rambling enquiry into vague and indefinite charges of fraud made in the petition.

It may be that in some cases the petitioner has not in his possession all the particulars of fraud, but in such a case he would be entitled to discovery, in order to obtain materials for giving the particulars. But, nevertheless, the particulars must be given. If the applicant, in the instant case, did not have the particulars, he could have, and he should have, applied for particulars, if he wanted to rely on the charge of fraud. But merely because the minority group of shareholders generally has not got in its possession all the particulars of fraud or other misconduct, it is not excused or exonerated from giving particulars of fraud or other alleged acts of misappropriation or other misconduct.

The apex court In Re. Shanti Prasad Jain v. Kalinga Tubes Ltd. [1965] 35 Comp Cas 351 (SC) has also held that "The appellant and his group would not get any relief by calling a general meeting of the company, and the facts and circumstances aforesaid would justify the making of a winding up order on the ground that it was just and equitable that the company should be wound up. Therefore the appellant prayed for directions under Section 397 of the Act, as the winding up of the company which was in a prosperous condition would unfairly prejudice the appellant and other members of the minority group and redress against such oppression could be given by the High Court by making suitable directions in that behalf. The affairs of the company were being conducted in a manner prejudicial to the interest of the company for reasons already stated and there had been a material change in the management or control of the company by alteration in its board of directors and by fraudulent changes introduced in the ownership of the company's shares and by reason of the wrongful act and conduct of the Patnaik and Loganathan groups.

In Harmer's case, it was held that "the word 'oppressive' meant burdensome, harsh and wrongful". It was also held that "the section does not purport to apply to every case in which the facts would justify the making of a winding up order under the 'just and equitable' rule, but only to those cases of that character which have in them the requisite element of oppression."

The phrase "oppressive to some part of the members" suggests that the conduct complained of "should at the lowest involve a visible departure from the standards of fair dealing, and a violation of the conditions of fairplay on which every share holder who entrusts his money to a company is entitled to rely.... But, apart from this, the question of absence of mutual confidence per se between partners, or between two sets of shareholders, however relevant to a winding up, seems to me to have no direct relevance to the remedy granted by Section 210. It is oppression of some part of the shareholders by the manner in which the affairs of the company are being conducted that must be averred and proved. Mere loss of confidence or pure deadlock does not come within Section 210. It is not lack of confidence between share holders per se that brings Section 210 into play, but lack of confidence springing from oppression of a minority by a majority in the management of the company's affairs and oppression involves ... at least an element of lack of probity or fair dealing to a member in the matter of his proprietary right as a shareholder."

As has already been indicated, it is not enough to show that there is just and equitable cause for winding up the company, though that must be shown as preliminary to the application of Section 397, It must further be shown that the conduct of the majority shareholders was oppressive to the minority as members and this requires that events have to be considered not in isolation but as a part of a consecutive story. There must be continuous acts on the part of the majority shareholders, continuing up to the date of petition, showing that the affairs of the company were being conducted in a manner oppressive to some part of the members. The conduct must be burdensome, harsh and wrongful and mere lack of confidence between the majority shareholders and the minority shareholders would not be enough unless the lack of confidence springs from oppression of a minority by a majority in the management of the company's affairs, and such oppression must involve at least an element of lack of probity or fair dealing to a member in the matter of his proprietary rights as a shareholder. It is in the light of these principles that we have to consider the facts in this case with reference to Section 397."

Thus the meaning of words oppression & mismanagement has to be considered & understood in light of the above judgments. Of course every case depends upon on its own fact, however the above broadly spells out the scope of oppression and mismanagement.

242 - POWERS OF TRIBUNAL

"242. (1) If, on any application made under section 241, the Tribunal is of the opinion –

- (a) that the company's affairs have been or are being conducted in a manner prejudicial or oppressive to any member or members or prejudicial to public interest or in a manner prejudicial to the interests of the company; and
- (b) that to wind up the company would unfairly prejudice such member or members, but that otherwise the facts would justify the making of a winding-up order on the ground that it was just and equitable that the company should be wound up, the Tribunal may, with a view to bringing to an end the matters complained of,

make such order as it thinks fit.

- (2) Without prejudice to the generality of the powers under sub-section (1) an order under that sub-section may provide for –
- (a) the regulation of conduct of affairs of the company in future;
  - (b) the purchase of shares or interests of any members of the company by other members thereof or by the company;
  - (c) in the case of a purchase of its shares by the company as aforesaid, the consequent reduction of its share capital;
  - (d) restrictions on the transfer or allotment of the shares of the company;
  - (e) the termination, setting aside or modification, of any agreement, howsoever arrived at, between the company and the managing director, any other director or manager, upon such terms and conditions as may, in the opinion of the Tribunal, be just and equitable in the circumstances of the case;
  - (f) the termination, setting aside or modification of any agreement between the company and any person other than those referred to in clause (e):
Provided that no such agreement shall be terminated, set aside or modified except after due notice and after obtaining the consent of the party concerned;
  - (g) the setting aside of any transfer, delivery of goods, payment, execution or other act relating to property made or done by or against the company within three months before the date of the application under this section, which would, if made or done by or against an individual, be deemed in his insolvency to be a fraudulent preference;
  - (h) removal of the managing director, manager or any of the directors of the company;
  - (i) recovery of undue gains made by any managing director, manager or director during the period of his appointment as such and the manner of utilisation of the recovery including transfer to Investor Education and Protection Fund or repayment to identifiable victims;
  - (j) the manner in which the managing director or manager of the company may be appointed subsequent to an order removing the existing managing director or manager of the company made under clause (h);
  - (k) appointment of such number of persons as directors, who may be required by the Tribunal to report to the Tribunal on such matters as the Tribunal may direct;
  - (l) imposition of costs as may be deemed fit by the Tribunal;
  - (m) any other matter for which, in the opinion of the Tribunal, it is just and equitable that provision should be made.
- (3) A certified copy of the order of the Tribunal under sub-section (1) shall be filed by the company with the Registrar within thirty days of the order of the Tribunal.
- (4) The Tribunal may, on the application of any party to the proceeding, make any interim order which it thinks fit for regulating the conduct of the company's affairs upon such terms and conditions as appear to it to be just and equitable.
- (4A) At the conclusion of the hearing of the case in respect of sub-section (3) of section 241, the Tribunal shall record its decision stating therein specifically as to whether or not the respondent is a fit and proper person to hold the office of director or any other office connected with the conduct and management of any company.

- (5) Where an order of the Tribunal under sub-section (1) makes any alteration in the memorandum or articles of a company, then, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the company shall not have power, except to the extent, if any, permitted in the order, to make, without the leave of the Tribunal, any alteration whatsoever which is inconsistent with the order, either in the memorandum or in the articles.
- (6) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (1), the alterations made by the order in the memorandum or articles of a company shall, in all respects, have the same effect as if they had been duly made by the company in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the said provisions shall apply accordingly to the memorandum or articles so altered.
- (7) A certified copy of every order altering, or giving leave to alter, a company's memorandum or articles, shall within thirty days after the making thereof, be filed by the company with the Registrar who shall register the same.
- (8) If a company contravenes the provisions of sub-section (5), the company shall be punishable with fine which shall not be less than one lakh rupees but which may extend to twenty-five lakh rupees and every officer of the company who is in default shall be punishable with fine which shall not be less than twenty-five thousand rupees but which may extend to one lakh rupees.

The earlier provision under 1956 Act had provided powers to grant final relief under section 402 & interim relief's under section 403. The present Act now provides for all the powers to grant relief's under section 242. The present section provides extensive specific powers to tribunal to grant relief's by tribunal, though some of the sub section have not been notified as highlighted above.

However in order to understand the powers of tribunal, the following issues & judgments will highlight the powers and relief's which could be granted by the tribunal :

In Re. Dale & Carrinton Investment (P.) Ltd. v. P. K. Prathapan [2004] 122 Comp Cas. 161 (SC), it was held –

In the present the court was concerned with the propriety of issue of additional share capital by the Managing Director in his own favour. The facts of the case do not pose any difficulty particularly for the reason that the Managing Director has neither placed on record anything to justify issue of further share capital nor it has been shown that proper procedure was followed in allotting the additional share capital. Conclusion is inevitable that neither the allotment of additional shares in favour of Ramanujam was bonafide nor it was in the interest of the company nor a proper and legal procedure was followed to make the allotment. The motive for the allotment was malafide, the only motive being to gain control of the company. Therefore, in our view, the entire allotment of shares to Ramanujam has to be set aside.

Application for Class Actions

Shareholders activism which means an active participation of shareholders in all the aspects of good corporate governance and fighting against the deceitful and incorrect acts of a company is an evolving term in India. As a part of the overhaul of the corporate governance norms, the Government of India enacted the Companies Act 2013 ("2013 Act") which brought in a slew of changes. The concept of Class Action Suits is one of the many improvement introduced by the 2013 Act vide Section 245.

Individual shareholders generally do not take legal action against a company, either on account of lack of enough motivation or finding it economically unaffordable, or because the law requires a certain percentage of shareholding for proceeding against a company. Thus, small and retail investors generally find it difficult to be heard and instead their grievances are redressed either from the company or courts in general. Class action suits seem to provide an answer to this problem by bringing together similar individuals under a single lawsuit, thereby supporting the cost of litigation and inspiring the required confidence. Thus, Class action is simply filing a law suit in a larger group instead of individual suits where there are numerous persons having the same interest in that suit.

Types of Class Action Suits

Broadly in the global context, there are four kinds of class action suits that can be brought against a company:

- a. Product liability/Personal Injury Class Actions: Such law- suits are brought when a defective product or deficient service harms many people, for example, a drug with harmful side effects, or causing "mass accident".
- b. Consumer Class Actions: Most common type of class action suits, these class actions suits are generally brought when a company's systematic and illegal practices harm a group of consumer, such as violation of consumer protection laws, illegal charges and penalties etc.
- c. Employment Class Actions: Brought on behalf of employees of a company for contravention of the Labor laws, such as unpaid overtime, safety violations, workplace discrimination among others.
- d. Securities Class Actions: Securities class actions are lawsuits brought on behalf of a group of investors who have been injured as a result of a improper conduct, corporate or otherwise by the management of a company. It includes all illegal practices ranging from misstating earnings to concealing or misrepresenting risks and all unethical practices.

Two factors are always present in every class action suit (pre- requisites) are:

1. The issues in dispute are common to all the members of the class (group), and
2. The persons affected are so large in number that it is impracticable to bring them all before the court.

Collective actions recognized under Indian Laws other than the Companies Act, 2013

Provisions such as class action suits allowing parties to represent other aggrieved persons in a representative capacity are set out in the following Indian Laws:

- (a) Civil Procedure Code, 1908 ("CPC")
- (b) Consumer Protection Act 1986 ("CPA")
- (c) Industrial Disputes Act 1947 ("IDA")
- (d) Competition Act 2002 ("Competition Act")
- (e) Public Interest Litigation.

Actions under the CPC

Actions provided for under Order 1, Rule 8 of the CPC can be filed by the concerned persons before a court by seeking the permission of the court or by the direction of the court. The action must be filed before the appropriate court with requisite territorial and pecuniary jurisdiction. While territorial jurisdiction is determined based on (among others) cause of action and/or locations of defendants, pecuniary jurisdiction is based on the valuation of the lawsuit, and differs across different states in India.

The provisions regarding the filing of representative actions are set out under Order 1, Rule 8 of the CPC. Under this rule, an individual or group of individuals can file an action for the benefit of all persons interested in the subject matter of the litigation. However, to bring an action the following conditions must be met:

- (a) Numerous parties must be present in the representative action.
- (b) All parties must share the same interest (commonality of interest).
- (c) The action is maintainable only upon seeking prior permission of the court.
- (d) On permission being given by court, the court must issue notice to all the interested parties.
- (e) No part of the action can be withdrawn or a compromise recorded unless notice is given to all interested persons.
- (f) If the person suing or defending in representative capacity is not acting with due diligence, the court can substitute in his place any other person with the same interest in the representative action.

Consequently, a decree passed by the court in a representative action will be binding on all persons on whose behalf, or for whose benefit, the suit was instituted, or defended (as the case may be) (Order 1 Rule 8(6), CPC).

In addition to Order 1 Rule 8, the CPC has another provision relating to collective action. Section 91 empowers two or more persons to file a suit with the permission of the court to seek a declaration and injunction or any such other relief against public nuisance or other wrongful act affecting, or likely to affect the public. Such an action can be brought even if no special damage has been caused to such persons by reason of such public nuisance or other wrongful act.

In a representative suit there are numerous plaintiffs with different complaints and claims represented by one. In this one case is not taken as a base whereas each and every case or claim is discussed while deciding this particular representative suit. However the Scope of Order 1 Rule 8 of CPC is much wider than the one specified u/s. 245 of the 2013 Act.

Actions under the CPA

The CPA seeks to provide simple and speedy redressal to consumer disputes by establishing quasi-judicial machinery at district, state and national levels. Depending on the value of the claim, a complaint under the CPA can be filed before the:

- (a) District Forum (for claims of up to INR 20 lakhs). This is a consumer dispute redressal forum established by the State Government in each district of the State by notification.
- (b) State Commission (for claims of between INR 20 lakhs and INR 1 crore). This is a Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission established by the State Government in the State by notification.
- (c) National Commission (for claims of more than INR 1 crore). This is the Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission established by the Central Government by notification.

Under section 12(1)(c) of the CPA, one or more consumers with the same interest (as well as consumers acting on behalf of, or for the benefit of all consumers) can file a complaint with the District Forum in relation to:

- (a) Any goods sold or delivered, or agreed to be sold or delivered.

- (b) Any service provided, or agreed to be provided.
- (c) Such a complaint can only be filed with the permission of a District Forum.

Actions under the Competition Act

Applications made under section 53(N)(1) of the Competition Act must be filed before the Competition Appellate Tribunal (COMPAT). The Competition Act recognises the need to compensate parties for loss or damage caused as a result of anti-competitive conduct. The Competition Act also recognises that the conduct of parties may affect numerous parties for whom an individual claim may not be viable, accordingly, it provides for class actions as a form of redressal for numerous parties affected by anti-competitive conduct. Where numerous persons with the same interest have suffered loss or damage caused by the anti-competitive conduct of an enterprise (upheld by a decision of the Competition Commission of India (CCI) or the COMPAT) one or more such persons as well as persons acting for and on behalf of all persons can make an application to the COMPAT for the recovery of compensation for any loss or damage suffered (section 53N(4), Competition Act).

However, an application for compensation can only be made to the COMPAT either:

- (a) When the CCI or the COMPAT has determined in the prior proceedings that there has been a violation of the provisions of the Competition Act.
- (b) Where section 42A or section 53Q(2) of the Competition Act apply. These provisions provide a right to make an application for compensation when parties have suffered damage as a result of an enterprise contravening directions from the CCI or COMPAT.

In such cases, the provisions of Order 1, Rule 8 of the CPC apply subject to the following modifications:

- (a) Every reference therein to a lawsuit must be construed as a reference to the aforementioned application to the COMPAT.
- (b) Every reference to a decree must be construed as a reference to the order of the COMPAT.

Public Interest Litigation

Public Interest Litigation (“PILs”) in common parlance means a legal action filed for the interest of general public. It is a tool for safeguarding the socio economic rights and Judiciary has used it as a weapon against the wrongdoers. Class Action has been brought up on the same lines but there are some key differences between the two of them. Class Action can be filed against any entity including private entities whereas PILs can only be filed against State or Public Authorities in High Court or Supreme Court. Representative in the Class Action Suit must suffer an injury or have interest in the claim whereas there is no such requirement in PIL for the plaintiff.

Industrial disputes/collective bargaining under the IDA

Representative actions through collective bargaining can be said to be permitted under the IDA, as industrial jurisprudence is based on class- action or representative litigation. The IDA permits collective bargaining by employees/workers as represented by their unions (which to some extent is an embodiment of the common law principles of representative litigation). The concept was evolved to enable poor workmen to unite together and press their demand collectively in order to confront a powerful employer.

Class action suits under the Companies Act, 2013 and NCLT Rules

Section 37 of the 2013 Act also provides for a “securities class action”. This provision provides that a lawsuit can be filed, or any other action may be taken by any person, group of persons or any association of persons affected by any misleading statement or the inclusion or omission of any matter in the prospectus under the following provisions of 2013 Act:

- Section 34 (criminal liability for misstatements in a prospectus).
- Section 35 (civil liability for misstatements in a prospectus).
- Section 36 (punishment for fraudulently inducing persons to invest money).

A minimum number of members required to file such a suit/alternative action has not yet been prescribed.

Persons eligible to launch class action suits

Only members and depositors can bring class action suits.

Section 2(55) of the Companies Act defines “member”, in relation to a company, as any of the following:

- a subscriber to the memorandum of the company who is deemed to have agreed to become member of the company, and on its registration was entered as member in its register of members;
- a person who agrees in writing to become a member of the company and whose name is entered in the register of members of the company;

Orders that may be sought from the Tribunal

Section 245(1) stipulates that the following orders may be sought from the Tribunal in a class action suit:

- (b) To restrain the company from committing breach of any provision of the company’s memorandum or articles.

- (g) To claim damages or compensation or demand any other suitable action.
- (h) To seek any other remedy as the Tribunal may deem fit.

Persons against which action class actions can be filed

Class actions may be filed against:

- (i) The company or its directors;
- (ii) The auditor;
- (iii) Any expert or advisor or consultant or any other person for any incorrect or misleading statement made to the company or for any fraudulent, unlawful or wrongful actor conduct or any likely act or conduct on his part.

Factors taken into account by NCLT

According to Section 245(4), while considering the application, the NCLT shall take into account:

- (1) whether the applicants are acting in good faith;
- (2) evidence as to the involvement of any person other than the directors or officers of the company;
- (3) whether the applicants could have pursued the action in their own and individual rights;
- (4) evidence as to the views of the members or depositors who have no personal interest, direct or indirect in the matter in question;
- (5) whether the cause of action is an act or omission that is yet to occur can be authorized by the company before it occurs or ratified by the company before it occurs;
- (6) whether the cause action is an act or omission that has already occurred can be ratified by the company.

Further the National Company Law Tribunal Rules, 2016 notified on July 21, 2016 (“NCLT Rules”) stipulates that, in addition to the provisions of sub-section (4) of section 245 of the 2013 Act, the Tribunal may, while considering the admissibility of an application for class action take into account the following:

- (a) whether the class has so many members that joining them individually would be impractical, making a class action desirable;
- (b) whether there are questions of law or fact common to the class;
- (c) whether the claims or defences of the representative parties are typical of the claims or defences of the class;
- (d) whether the representative parties will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class.

Place of Institution

Section 245(1) provides that all class action suits shall be instituted in the Tribunal.

Section 245(1) of the Companies Act provides that class action lawsuits initiated under the Companies Act must be initiated before the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT). The Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA) vide a notification dated 1 June 2016 has constituted the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) and its appellate authority, the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) with effect from such date.

Costs and Expenses

Costs and expenses with regard to class action suits shall be borne by the company and the person responsible for the “onerous act”. It is pertinent to note here that the section casts the liability to bear costs of application upon the person who does or is responsible for such act.

Section 245(5) of the Companies Act, 2013, states that if the application filed is admitted, the Tribunal shall issue a public notice to all the members of the class by publishing the same and shall consolidate all similar applications prevalent into a single application. This section states that two class action applications for the same cause of action shall not be allowed and that the cost for derivative suit shall be borne by the company or the person responsible for the oppressive act.

Section 245(6) of the Companies Act, 2013 makes the decision of the NCLT binding on the company and all its members, depositors, auditors, consultant, advisor or any person associated with the company.

Consequences of non-compliance with the orders of the Tribunal

In the event of non-compliance of the order passed by the Tribunal under Section 245(7):

- (a) A company shall be punishable- with fine which shall not be less than 5 lakh rupees but which may extend to 25 lakh rupees; and

While different causes of actions under the Code of Civil Procedure have different limitation periods, in most cases the limitation period is three years. The provisions of the Limitation Act apply to proceedings or appeals under the 2013 Act made to the NCLT or Appellate Tribunal.

The 2013 Act and the Limitation Act do not provide for a specific period within which a specialised class action for securities litigation under section 245 must be made. However, Article 137 of the schedule to the Limitation Act prescribes a maximum period of three years for a cause of action for which no specific period is prescribed. Accordingly, the limitation period for such actions will be deemed to be three years (however, this remains untested).

APPLICATION FOR COMPOUNDING

Meaning of Compounding

Compounding of Offence is not defined under Companies Act, 1956/ Companies Act, 2013, but as per Black's Law Dictionary, "Compound" means "to settle a matter by a money payment, in lieu of other liability".

Hence, taking a cue from the above definition, compounding of offence may be sum up as a judicial settlement mechanism whereby the default is made good by paying the penalty in lieu of undergoing consequences of lengthy prosecution for the offence committed.

Therefore, compounding crime consists of receipt of some consideration (termed as a compounding fee) in return for an agreement not to prosecute one who has committed an offence/default of technical in nature which enables the defaulters to avail peace and honorable discharge and avoid cumbersome trial.

Hence, when compounding is done, the prosecution is converted into fine i.e. condonation of prosecution by imposing penalty.

Nature of Offences which can be Compounded

Section 441 of the Companies Act 2013 classifies Offences/ defaults which are punishable with fine only or with imprisonment or fine or both, can be compounded either by the National Company Law Tribunal, Regional Director with or without the permission of the Special Court.

In other words, the offences, which are punishable with imprisonment only or imprisonment and fine, cannot be compounded.

The Power of compounding has been mentioned under section 441 of Companies Act, 2013

The provision of Section 441 of Companies Act, 2013 as are relevant for our purpose, are reproduced below:

- (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, any offence punishable under Companies Act, 2013 (whether committed by a company or any officer thereof) not being an offence punishable with imprisonment only, or punishable with imprisonment and also with fine, may, either before or after the institution of any prosecution, be compounded by—
- (a) the Tribunal; or
  - (b) where the maximum amount of fine which may be imposed for such offence does not exceed twenty-five lakh rupees, by the Regional Director or any officer authorised by the Central Government, on payment or credit, by the company or, as the case may be, the officer, to the Central Government of such sum as that Tribunal or the Regional Director or any officer authorised by the Central Government, as the case may be, may specify:

Provided that the sum so specified shall not, in any case, exceed the maximum amount of the fine which may be imposed for the offence so compounded:

Provided further that in specifying the sum required to be paid or credited for the compounding of an offence under this sub-section, the sum, if any, paid by way of additional fee under sub-section (2) of section 403 shall be taken into account:

Provided also that any offence covered under this sub-section by any company or its officer shall not be compounded if the investigation against such company has been initiated or is pending under Companies Act, 2013.

Explanation.— For the purposes of this section,—

- (4) The Tribunal or the Regional Director or any officer authorised by the Central Government, as the case may be, while dealing with a proposal for the compounding of an offence for a default in compliance with any provision of this Act which requires a company or its officer to file or register with, or deliver or send to, the Registrar any return, account or other document, may direct, by an order, if it or he thinks fit to do so, any officer or other employee of the company to file or register with, or on payment of the fee, and the additional fee, required to be paid under section 403, such return, account or other document within such time as may be specified in the order.

The Central Government shall while appointing adjudicating officers, specify their jurisdiction.

- (b) direct such company, or officer who is in default, or any other person, to rectify the default, wherever he considers fit.

However, in case the default relates to non-compliance of sub-section (4) of section 92 or sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) of section 137 and such default has been rectified either prior to, or within thirty days of, the issue of the notice by the adjudicating officer, no penalty shall be imposed in this regard and all proceedings under this section in respect of such default shall be deemed to be concluded.

THE COMPANIES (ADJUDICATION OF PENALTIES) RULES, 2014

Adjudication of Penalties (Rule 3)

The central government can appoint any officers, not below the rank of Registrar, as adjudicating officers for adjudging penalty under the provisions of the Companies Act (the Act).

Before adjudging penalty, the adjudging officer shall issue a written notice in the specified manner, to the company, the officer who is in default or any other person, as the case may be, to show cause, within such period as may be specified in the notice (not being less than fifteen days and more than thirty days from the date of service thereon), why the penalty should not be imposed on it or him.

Every notice issued as mentioned above, shall clearly indicate the nature of non-compliance or default under the Act alleged to have been committed or made by such company, officer in default, or any other person, and also draw attention to the relevant penal provisions of the Act and the maximum penalty which can be imposed.

The reply to such notice shall be filed in electronic mode only within the period as specified in the notice:

Provided that the adjudicating officer may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, extend the period referred to above by a further period not exceeding fifteen days, if the company or officer in default or any person, satisfies the adjudicating officer that it or he has sufficient cause for not responding to the notice within the stipulated period or the adjudicating officer has reason to believe that the company or the officer or the person has received a shorter notice and did not have reasonable time to give reply.

If, after considering the reply submitted, the adjudicating officer is of the opinion that physical appearance is required, he shall issue a notice, within a period of ten working days from the date of receipt of reply fixing a date for the appearance of such company, through its authorised representative, or officer of such company, or any other person, whether personally or through his authorised representative:

However, if any person, to whom a notice is issued, desires to make an oral representation, whether personally or through his authorised representative and has indicated the same while submitting his reply in electronic mode, the adjudicating officer shall allow such person to make such representation after fixing a date of appearance.

On the date fixed for hearing and after giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard to the person concerned, the adjudicating officer may, subject to reasons to be recorded in writing, pass any order in writing as he thinks fit including as order for adjournment:

However, after hearing, adjudicating officer may require the concerned person to submit his reply in writing on certain other issues related to the notice, relevant for determination of the default.

The adjudicating officer shall pass an order,-

- (a) within thirty days of the expiry of the period in sub-rule (2), or of such extended period as referred therein, where physical appearance was not required;
- (b) within ninety days of the date of issue of notice under rule (2), where any person appeared before the adjudicating officer.

However, in case an order is passed after the aforementioned duration, the reasons of the delay shall be recorded by the adjudicating officer and no such order shall be invalid merely because of its passing after the expiry of such thirty days or ninety days.

Every order of the adjudicating officer shall be duly dated and signed by him and shall clearly state the reasons for requiring the physical appearance under sub-rule (5).

The adjudicating officer shall send a copy of the order passed by him to the concerned company, officer who is in default or any other person or all of them and to the Central Government and a copy of the order shall also be uploaded on the website.

For the purposes of this rule, the adjudicating officer shall exercise the following powers, namely:

- (a) to summon and enforce the attendance of any person acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case after recording reasons in writing;
- (b) to order for evidence or to produce any document, which in the opinion of the adjudicating officer, may be relevant to the subject matter.

If any person fails to reply or neglects or refuses to appear as required under sub-rule (5) or sub-rule (10) before the adjudicating officer, the adjudicating officer may pass an order imposing the penalty, in the absence of such person after recording the reasons for doing so.

While adjudging quantum of penalty, the adjudicating officer shall have due regard to the following factors, namely:-

- (a) size of the company;
- (b) nature of business carried on by the company;
- (c) injury to public interest;
- (d) nature of the default;
- (e) repetition of the default;
- (f) the amount of disproportionate gain or unfair advantage, wherever quantifiable, made as a result of the default; and
- (g) the amount of loss caused to an investor or group of investors or creditors as a result of the default.

However, in no case, the penalty imposed shall be less than the minimum penalty prescribed, if any, under the relevant section of the Companies Act.

In case a fixed sum of penalty is provided for default of a provision, the adjudicating officer shall impose that fixed sum, in case of any default therein.

Appeal Against the Order of Adjudicating Officer (Rule 4)

Every appeal against the order of the adjudicating officer shall be filed in writing with the Regional Director having jurisdiction in the matter within a period of sixty days from the date of receipt of the order of adjudicating officer by the aggrieved party, in Form ADJ setting forth the grounds of appeal and shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the order against which the appeal is sought:

However, where the party is represented by an authorised representative, a copy of such authorisation in favour of the representative and the written consent thereto by such authorised representative shall also be appended to the appeal.

Further, an appeal in Form ADJ shall not seek relief(s) therein against more than one order unless the reliefs prayed for are consequential.

Registration of Appeal (Rule 5)

The Regional Director may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, may further extend the period referred to in above above by a further period of fourteen days if an appellant satisfies the Regional Director that the appellant had sufficient cause for not rectifying the defects within the period of fourteen days referred to in the first proviso.

Disposal of Appeal by Regional Director (Rule 6)

On the admission of the appeal, the Regional Director shall serve a copy of appeal upon the adjudicating officer against whose order the appeal is sought along-with a notice requiring such adjudicating officer to file his reply thereto within such period, not exceeding twenty-one days, as may be stipulated by the Regional Director in the said notice.

However, the Regional Director may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, extend the period referred above for a further period of twenty-one days, if the adjudicating officer satisfies that he had sufficient cause for not being able to file his reply to the appeal within the above-said period.

A copy of every reply, application or written representation filed by the adjudicating officer before the Regional Director shall be forthwith served on the appellant by the adjudicating officer.

The Regional Director shall notify the parties, the date of hearing of the appeal which shall not be a date earlier than thirty days following the date of such notification for hearing of the appeal.

On the date fixed for hearing the Regional Director may, subject to the reasons to be recorded in writing, pass any order as he thinks fit including an order for adjournment of the hearing to a future date.

In case the appellant or the adjudicating officer does not appear on the date fixed for hearing, the Regional Director may dispose of the appeal ex-parte:

However, where the appellant appears afterwards and satisfies the Regional Director that there was sufficient cause for his nonappearance, the Regional Director may make an order setting aside the ex-parte order and restore the appeal.

APPEALS BEFORE NCLAT

Section 420 of the Companies Act, 2013 states that the National Company Law Tribunal may pass any orders it thinks fit, as long as it gives the parties before it, an opportunity of being heard. The powers of the Tribunal are, therefore, extremely wide and there are no restrictions on the kind of relief that it can grant in a particular case.

The Tribunal may also rectify any mistake that is apparent on the face of the record within two years from the date of the order.

In view of the enormous powers of the Tribunal, an attempt is being made to highlight the provisions for making appeals from the orders of the Tribunal.

Appeal from the Orders of NCLT – Section 421

- (1) any person aggrieved by an order of the Tribunal may prefer an appeal to the Appellate Tribunal.
- (2) no appeal shall lie to the Appellate Tribunal from an order made by the Tribunal with the consent of parties.
- (3) every appeal under sub-section (1) shall be filed within a period of forty-five days from the date on which a copy of the order of the Tribunal is made available to the person aggrieved and shall be in such form, and accompanied by such fees as may be prescribed:

Provided that the Appellate Tribunal may entertain an appeal after the expiry of the said period of forty-five days from the date aforesaid, but within a further period not exceeding forty-five days, if it is satisfied that the appellant was prevented by sufficient cause from filing the appeal within that period.

- (4) On the receipt of an appeal under sub-section (1), the Appellate Tribunal shall, after giving the parties to the appeal a reasonable opportunity of being heard, pass such orders thereon as it thinks fit, confirming, modifying or setting aside the order appealed against.
- (5) The Appellate Tribunal shall send a copy of every order made by it to the Tribunal and the parties to appeal.

Section 421 of Companies Act 2013 seeks to provide appeal against the order of the Tribunal in the Appellate Tribunal. It provides that appeal may be filed within 45 days from the date of order and in case Appellate Tribunal is satisfied that delay is justified then further period of 45 days is allowed. The Appellate Tribunal after according an opportunity of hearing may confirm, modify or set aside order of the Tribunal and provide copy of order to the Tribunal and parties to appeal.

At this point our enlightened reader's mind may be interrupted with many questions as to: who is a person aggrieved? What is the interpretation of limitation period in this clause? What all will be construed as sufficient cause? etc.

“Any person aggrieved”

In common judicial parlance the term person aggrieved by a decision includes :

- (a) a person whose interests are adversely affected by the decision; or
- (b) in the case of a decision by way of the making of a report or recommendation – a person whose interests would be adversely affected if a decision were, or were not, made in accordance with the report or recommendation.

A party or a person is aggrieved by a decision only when it operates directly and injuriously upon his personal, pecuniary or proprietary rights. A person who feels disappointed with the result of a case is not a person aggrieved. The order must cause him a legal grievance by wrongfully depriving him of something.

Who is a 'person aggrieved' also was debated and decided in catena of judicial pronouncements. In FERTILIZER COOPERATION KAMGAR UNION v. UNION OF INDIA, AIR 1981 SC 344 and BANGALORE MEDICAL TRUST VS. MUDDAPPA, AIR 1991 SC 1902 the Court found that question of 'person aggrieved' is different from the question whether the petitioner is entitled to relief as prayed by him. The expression 'person aggrieved' denotes an elastic and to some extent an elusive concept. According to traditional theory, only a person whose right has been infringed can apply to the court but the later view as referred to above has liberalised the concept of aggrieved person and the right duty pattern commonly found in adversarial litigation has been given up. The only limitation is that such a person should not be a total stranger known as meddling interloper.

In the case of Ayaaub Khan Noor Khan Pathan v. State of Maharashtra [(2013) 4 SCC 465], the Hon'ble

Supreme Court has held that only a person who has suffered a legal injury can challenge an act/action/order etc. in a court of law by way of a writ under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Writs under Article 226 of the Constitution of India are maintainable either for the purpose of enforcing a legal or fundamental right or when there is a sustainable complaint by the petitioner that there has been a breach of statutory duty on part of the authority qua him and to his prejudice thus making out a judicially enforceable right of his for enforcement. It has been held in the aforesaid case by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that it is implicit in the exercise of the extraordinary equitable jurisdiction of the High Courts that the relief prayed for must be for the enforcement of a legal right. A "legal right" has been held to mean entitlement arising out of legal rules. Concluding in para 17 of the aforesaid report on the question as to who is a "person aggrieved", the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that "in view of the above, law on the said point can be summarised to the effect that a person who raises a grievance must show how he has suffered a legal injury".

LIMITATION PERIOD FOR FILING APPEAL

Section 421(3) of Companies Act, 2013

The appeal lies to the Appellate Tribunal within 45 days from the date of communication of the order of the Tribunal. The limitation period can be further extended by 45 days if the Appellate Tribunal is satisfied that the appellant was prevented by sufficient cause from filing the appeal.

The Supreme Court in the case of N. Balakrishnan v. M. Krishnamurthy AIR 1998 SC 3222 has held that unless there is a deliberate, malafide or gross negligence, reasonable delay should be condoned in as much as a person does not benefit by filing a petition with delay. Once no malafides or illegal motive can be imputed to a person to file a petition with delay, delay should ordinarily be condoned.

A question arises, Whether provisions of Section 5 of Limitation Act, 1963, are applicable to an appeal filed under Section 421 of Companies Act 2013 (corresponding to Section 10F of Act, 1956) ?

Words used in (3) proviso to Section 421 of 2013 Act are "not exceeding 45 days" thereby clearly prescribing time limit of only 45 days, in addition to initial period of 45 days allowed under Section 421(3), to enable a party to file an appeal against the orders of Tribunal. The said proviso clearly shows that power vested in Appellant Tribunal to condone delay on sufficient cause being shown is directory and subject to discretion vested in the Appellant Tribunal. However, maximum period to extent of which such delay is capable of being condoned is mandatorily prescribed and not open to exercise of any discretion. Therefore, words "not exceeding 45 days" would amount to an express exclusion within meaning of Section 29(2) of the Limitation Act, 1963 and would therefore bar application of Section 5 of Act, 1963 to Section 421 of Companies Act 2013. In view thereof, scheme of Act, 2013, surely supports curtailment of Appellant Tribunal's powers by exclusion of operation of Section 5 of Act, 1963.

The legislative intent as reflected from the Companies Act, 2013, resulting in the constitution of the NCLAT and the Section 421 providing for a limited appeal make it abundantly clear that the Legislature intended to restrict the power of the Appellant Tribunal to condone the delay beyond the period exceeding 45 days and thus prescribed in a mandatory language as under:

Provided that the Appellate Tribunal may entertain an appeal after the expiry of the said period of forty-five days from the date aforesaid, but within a further period not exceeding forty-five days, if it is satisfied that the appellant was prevented by sufficient cause from filing the appeal within that period.

The hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India v. Popular Construction Co. [2001] 8 SCC 470, if there were any residual doubt on the interpretation of the language used in Section 10F, the legislative intent behind the constitution of the Company Law Board and the object of insertion of Section 10F would resolve the issue involved of curtailment of the court's power with the exclusion of the operation of Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963.

"Delay shall be condoned when special statute itself expressly provides for it."

Manohar Lal Sharma v. Union Of India (UOI) and ANR. 2009 (6) ALD 315, [2009] 152 Comp Cas 412 (AP), (2010) 1 Comp LJ 19 (AP)

As to the applicability of Section 5 of the Limitation Act, the learned judge considered the question in the light of the law laid down by the apex court in Union of India v. Popular Construction Co. [2001] 8 SCC 470 : AIR 2001 SC 4010 and Gopal Sardar v. Karuna Sardar [2004] 4 SCC 252, and laid down as follows):

"There is no dispute that the Companies Act, 1956, is a special law. Under the normal circumstances, the provisions of the Limitation Act will have application to all appeals and applications under the Companies Act, unless a different period of limitation is prescribed. As noticed herein above, the company law itself has prescribed a period of limitation for filing the appeal and also for condonation of delay. Hence, condonation of delay for filing the appeal beyond the prescribed period of limitation is by virtue of the proviso to Section 10F. This proviso can be considered to be akin to Section 5 of the Limitation Act. However, the proviso imposes limitation for extension of time in filing the appeal beyond the prescribed period of limitation, the expression used in Section 10F being 'further period not exceeding, sixty days'... The proviso to Section 10F has created an absolute bar for extension of period of limitation beyond sixty days apart from the period of limitation of sixty days prescribed under Section 10F. The expression 'not exceeding' does not permit any further extension and it seems that the true import, purport and construction of the proviso is to restrict the total period of limitation to 120 days, i.e., sixty days principal and sixty days by extension subject to existence of sufficient cause in a given case. Any other interpretation would amount to committing violence to the statute itself which is impermissible under law.

13. Yet again, the court ruled

...it is abundantly clear that where particular statute does not apply to Section 5 of the Limitation Act expressly or even impliedly in a special or local law itself, it shall be presumed that the exclusion is express. Section 29(2) of the Act not only excludes the application of Section 5 of the Limitation Act but also other sections from Sections 4 - 24 (inclusive). Thus, Section 14 also stands excluded from its application for purposes of either condoning the delay or exclusion of the period on the ground envisaged therein notwithstanding existence of sufficient cause. Thus, even if the period spent before the Hon'ble Delhi High Court constitutes sufficient cause for extension of period under Section 5 read with Section 14 of the Limitation Act, these sections cannot be applied de hors proviso to Section 10F to extend the limitation beyond sixty days in addition to the original period of sixty days (total 120 days) for filing an appeal as proviso to Section 10F does not permit such extension."

Any appeal filed beyond the maximum period prescribed in the special statutes will be barred by limitation. Kabul Chawla v. CPI India Real Estate Ventures Limited and Ors. Therefore no appeal will be entertained by the Appellate Tribunal after the expiry of 45+45=90 days.

In 'Union of India vs. M/s. Popular Construction Co.', AIR 2001 SC 4010 the Supreme Court has held that the provisions of Section 5 cannot be invoked since in Section 34(3) of Arbitration Act, 1996, while fixing the time period for filing objections challenging the Award of the Arbitral Tribunal, the words used “but not thereafter” – meaning thereby the legislature intended that no further time can be granted to the petitioner for filing objections under Section 34(3) of Arbitration Act, 1996 by invoking the provisions of Section 5 of Limitation Act. Therefore, to sum up, if the words used in any particular legislation convey legislative intent that the petitioner shall not be entitled to further time by invoking the principle of Section 5 of Limitation Act, then the provisions Limitation Act, 1963 shall not apply.

“Sufficient Cause”

A litigant who failed to file an Appeal before the appellant Tribunal within the permissible time period as fixed then he can file it after the expiry of the prescribed time period provided he has “sufficient cause” for non-filing the Appeal within the time period. In Dinabandhu Sahu v. Jadumoni, Mangaraj, AIR 1954 SC 411, the Supreme Court approved the dicta in Krishna v. Chathappan, that ‘sufficient cause’ should receive a liberal construction so as to advance substantial justice, when no negligence, nor inaction, nor want of bonafide is imputable to the appellant. If sufficient cause is shown, the court has to exercise its discretion in favour of the appellant. The true guide for the court in its exercise of such discretion is whether the appellant had acted with reasonable diligence in prosecuting his appeal. But the circumstances of each case must be examined to see whether they fall within or without the terms of this general rule.

In Maniben Devraj Shah v. Municipal Corporation of Brihan Mumbai, (2012) 5 SCC 157, the Supreme Court has ruled thus:

23. What needs to be emphasized is that even though a liberal and justice-oriented approach is required to be adopted in the exercise of power under Section 5 of the Limitation Act and other similar statutes, the courts can neither become oblivious of the fact that the successful litigant has acquired certain rights on the basis of the judgment under challenge and a lot of time is consumed at various stages of litigation apart from the cost.
24. What colour the expression “sufficient cause” would get in the factual matrix of a given case would largely depend on bona fide nature of the explanation. If the court finds that there has been no negligence on the part of the applicant and the cause shown for the delay does not lack bona fides, then it may condone the delay. If, on the other hand, the explanation given by the applicant is found to be concocted or he is thoroughly negligent in prosecuting his cause, then it would be a legitimate exercise of discretion not to condone the delay.

It is axiomatic that condonation of delay is a matter of discretion of the Court. Section 5 of the Limitation Act does not say that such discretion can be exercised only if the delay is within a certain limit. Length of delay is no matter, acceptability of the explanation is the only criterion. Sometimes delay of the shortest range may be uncontainable due to a want of acceptable explanation whereas in certain other cases, delay of a very long range can be condoned as the explanation thereof is satisfactory.

“Appeal from an Order or Decision”

A similar phrase has been used in several statutes. The expression “any decision or order”, is of wide amplitude and would include all orders or decisions passed by the Board. Cf. Kantilal Shah v. CC 1982 ELT 902(CAL). The expression is wide enough to include interlocutory orders passed by the board. An appeal against an order which did not decide the rights of the parties is maintainable. Gharib Ram Sharma v. Daulat Ram Kashyab, (1994) 80 Com Cases.

Where in a case before the Bombay High Court, during the pendency of an appeal against dismissal of a winding up petition, an application was made to CLB [now Tribunal under the 2013 Act] for appointment of an administrator for prevention of mismanagement under section 398 of 1956 Act [corresponding to section 241 of the 2013 Act] and the same was admitted under an order that the matters of mismanagement would not be raised in the winding up petition and an appeal was made to the same High Court against this order also. The court refused to dismiss it summarily but ordered that if an administrator was appointed by the CLB, 14 days' time should be given to any aggrieved party to prefer an appeal against an order. Thakur Savadikar & Co. (P.) Ltd. v. S.S. Thakur, (1996) 23, CORPT LA 170(BOM).

An order of the CLB in a matter for reference to arbitration under section 8 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 is not appealable in view of the fact that section 5 of that Act permits appeals to judicial authorities only in the matters specified in that section and the order of reference is not one of those matters. Hind Samachar Ltd. v. Union of India (UOI) and Ors.

“OPPORTUNITY OF BEING HEARD”

SECTION 421(4) OF COMPANIES ACT 2013

Opportunity to be heard means the chance to appear before a court or Tribunal to present evidence and argument before being punished by governmental authority. An opportunity to be heard before penalty or punishment is imposed for contempt is an indispensable essential to the administration of due process of law as contemplated by the constitutional inhibition. Notice and an opportunity to be heard are the hallmarks of due process. However, due process does not always require an adversarial hearing. The violation of a state statute outlining procedure does not necessarily equate to a due process violation under the federal constitution. An opportunity to be heard ordinarily includes the following three rights:

- the right to receive fair notice of the hearing;
- the right to secure the assistance of counsel; and
- the right to cross examine adverse witnesses.

What is "opportunity of being heard"? The Karnataka High Court in Karibasappa Kuravateppa Maradibankar vs. Assistant Commissioner, ILR 1997 Karnataka 2236 held:

It is well settled that the right of oral or personal hearing is not an essential element of natural justice. No doubt, a person sought to be proceeded against is entitled to a right of defence, but that does not necessarily imply a personal hearing. Even an opportunity to file a written representation complies with the principles based on the requirement of natural justice... It is well settled that whether oral hearing should be given or written representation will meet the ends of justice depends on the facts of each case. It is only in such cases which require determination of disputed question of fact, where personal hearing becomes incumbent. If not otherwise provided in the statute itself, 'hearing' does not mean grant of a personal hearing as mandatory. In the present case, the facts were not at all in dispute. The decision of the Assistant Commissioner is based on clear and unambiguous provisions of law. Therefore, non- grant of personal hearing cannot be said to be fatal.

The requirement of the rule of natural justice is that the parties whose civil rights are to be affected by a quasi judicial authority must have a reasonable opportunity of being heard in their defence. "stating it broadly and without intending it to be exhaustive.....rules of natural justice require that a party should have the opportunity of adducing all relevant evidence on which it relies, that the evidence of opponent should be taken in his presence and he should be given the opportunity of cross examining the witness examined by the party, and that no materials should be relied on against him without his being given an opportunity of explaining them."

Expeditious disposal by Tribunal and Appellate Tribunal

Section 422 of the Companies Act 2013 provides for expeditious disposal of applications and petitions filed before the Tribunal and Appellate Tribunal. Where the Tribunal or the Appellate Tribunal does not dispose of the matter before it within three months of its presentation, the Tribunal or the Appellate Tribunal is required to record the reasons for such delay. And after considering the reasons so recorded the President or the Chairperson, as the case may be, has the discretion to extend the period for disposal of the matter, not exceeding ninety days.

Appeal to Supreme Court (Section 423)

Any person aggrieved by an order of the Appellate Tribunal may file an appeal to the Supreme Court within sixty days from the date of receipt of the Appellate Tribunal to him on any question of law arising out of such order.

The Supreme Court may allow it to be filed within a further period not exceeding sixty days, if it is satisfied, that the appellants was prevented by sufficient cause from filing the appeal with this period.

Power under Article 226 and 227 not taken away

It was held in L. Chandra Kumar V. Union of India and Satyannarayan v. Atmaram that the High Court's power under Articles 226 & 227, being a part of the basic structure of the Constitution, can never be taken away. Practically, however, since a direct appeal has been provided to the Supreme Court under section 423 of the Companies Act, 2013, the High Court will not interfere in a writ petition from the order of the Tribunal or the Appellate Tribunal unless there is a violation of the principles of natural justice or a lack of jurisdiction.

INTRODUCTION

Securities and Exchange Board of India was established in the year 1992, in accordance with the provisions of the SEBI Act, 1992 (SEBI Act), with a twofold objective of :

- (a) protecting the interests of investors in securities; and
- (b) promoting the development of and to regulate the securities market.

Within the universe of its enforcement powers, SEBI has the ability to trigger three distinct provisions of law:

- Issuing directions and levying penalties under Sections 11(4) and 11B of the SEBI Act (Section 11 & Section 11B),
- Adjudicatory powers under Sections 15A-15J of the SEBI Act (Section 15), and
- Enquiry proceedings in terms of the Section 12(3) of the SEBI Act [Section 12(3)].

In addition to this, SEBI is empowered to adjudicate and SAT is empowered to entertain appeals under Securities Exchange Board of India Act, 1992 (SEBI Act) and Securities Contract (Regulations) Act, 1956 (SCRA).

SEBI is also empowered to initiate criminal proceedings under SEBI Act, 1992 and can regulate Stock Exchanges by virtue of SCRA.

Powers to issue directions and levy penalty under Section 11B of SEBI Act, 1992

If after making or causing to be made an enquiry, the Board is satisfied that it is necessary, –

- (i) in the interest of investors, or orderly development of securities market; or
- (ii) to prevent the affairs of any intermediary or other persons referred to in section 12 of SEBI Act, 1992 being conducted in a manner detrimental to the interest of investors or securities market; or
- (iii) to secure the proper management of any such intermediary or person.

It may issue such directions, –

- (a) to any person or class of persons referred to in section 12, or associated with the securities market; or
- (b) to any company in respect of matters specified in section 11A of SEBI Act, 1992, as may be appropriate in the interests of investors in securities and the securities market.

Explanation. – For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that the power to issue directions under this section shall include and always be deemed to have been included the power to direct any person, who made profit or averted loss by indulging in any transaction or activity in contravention of the provisions of this Act or regulations made thereunder, to disgorge an amount equivalent to the wrongful gain made or loss averted by such contravention.

The SEBI Act laid down the heavy penal consequences for non-compliance under section 15A to 15HB of the Act. However, the quantum of penalty and power of adjudication was provided under section 15I & J of the Act which has to be read along with sections pertaining to penal provisions.

CASE STUDY

Century Enka Limited vs. Securities and Exchange Board of India & Ors. before SAT (Dated 25.03.2022)

The facts leading to the filing of the present appeal is, that Mr. B. K. Birla was a non-independent non-executive director in the appelland company and died on July 3, 2019 thereby causing a vacancy in the board of directors. This vacancy was required to be filled up and eventually an independent director was appointed on February 5, 2020.

Admittedly, after July 3, 2019 on account of demise of Mr. B.K. Birla, the composition of the board of directors reduced from 6 to 5 directors. The vacancy so caused was eventually filled up on February 5, 2020.

For the aforesaid period from July 4, 2019 to February 5, 2020 on account of non-compliance of the Regulation 17(1) of the LODR Regulations, BSE and NSE has imposed a fine for the quarter ended December 31, 2019 and again for the quarter ended March 31, 2020 under circular dated May 3, 2018 issued by SEBI as under:

Regulation	Fine payable and / or other action to be taken for non-compliance in respect of listed entity
Regulation 17(1) Non-compliance with the requirements pertaining to the composition of the Board including failure to appoint woman director	Rs. 5000/- per day

The appelland being aggrieved filed an application before SEBI for waiver of the fine which was rejected by SEBI by an order dated June 30, 2021.

The stock exchanges in their orders have levied a fine holding that the exchange has decided to provide a period of three months or time till the next board meeting whichever is later to enable the companies to fill the vacancy in consonance with the provisions of Regulation 25(6) of the LODR Regulations and since the appelland failed to fill the vacancy within three months, the penalty has been imposed from October 3, 2019 under Regulation 17 of the LODR Regulations. The same view was taken by SEBI in its order of June 30, 2021.

Order

It is observed that the approach adopted by the respondent is totally illegal and against the provisions of law. The provisions under the LODR Regulations are required to be complied by the companies including the appelland. Non-compliance of various provisions may entail imposition of fine as per the circular dated May 3, 2018. This circular has been issued in exercise of the powers under Section 11A(2) of the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992(hereinafter referred to as 'SEBI Act') read with Sections 9 and 21 of Securities Contract (Regulations) Act, 1956 (hereinafter referred to as 'SCR Act') and read with Regulation 98 of the LODR Regulations. This circular has the force of law. Under Annexure I to the circular a fine of Rs. 5,000/- per day can be imposed for non-compliance of Regulation 17(1) of the LODR Regulations.

Regulation 17(1) states that the board of directors shall comprise of not less than 6 directors. If there are less than 6 directors, the said regulation is violated and fine can be imposed but the question is that there is no time line provided under Regulation 17(1) to fill the vacancy caused by the reason of death, resignation, etc. If no time line is provided, the question of imposition of fine at the rate of Rs.5,000/- per day does not arise.

In this regard, Regulation 25(6) of the LODR Regulations provides certain obligations with respect to independent directors, namely, that where an independent director who resigns or is removed from the board of directors, the said independent director would be replaced by a new independent director at the earliest but not later than the immediate next meeting of the board of directors or three months from the date of such vacancy whichever is later. Such provision is missing under Regulation 17(1). Consequently, so long as the period of filing the vacancy in the board of directors under Regulation 17(1) is not framed, no fine could be imposed.

Further, the exchange cannot on its own take a decision for imposition of fine. Fine can only be imposed by statutes or by circular which has the force of law. In the instant case, nothing has been brought on record to show that the stock exchange has the power to frame such laws nor anything has been brought on record to indicate that SEBI has framed such laws under Section 11A of the SEBI Act read with Sections 9 and 21 of the SCR Act and read with Regulation 98 of the LODR Regulations.

Thus, the impugned orders cannot be sustained and are quashed.

CASE STUDY

Ignorance of law is not an excuse for escaping from liability of violation of law

The Appellant, Mega Resources Limited, is aggrieved by the order dated 13.08.2014 passed by the Adjudicating Officer, SEBI imposing a penalty of Rs. 2,00,000/- under Section 15A(b) of the SEBI Act and Rs. 50,00,000/- under Section 15 H(ii) of the SEBI Act for failure on the part of the appellant to comply with the provisions of Regulation 7(1) read with Regulation 7(2) and Regulation 11(1) read with Regulation 14(1) of the SEBI (Substantial Acquisition of Shares and Takeovers) Regulations, 1997.

The appellant has admitted that pursuant to the acquisition of 25000 equity shares through off-market transactions the shareholding of the Promoters/Promoter Group of the Company had increased from 50.46% to 60.46% of the Target Company. This triggered Regulation 11(1) of the erstwhile SAST Regulations along with the requirement of submission of certain disclosures under Regulation 7(1) and 7(2) of the erstwhile Regulations. It is admitted by the appellant that the non-compliance with the disclosure requirements in respect of acquisition of shares and failure to make an open offer to the shareholders of the Company was due to lack of awareness of the erstwhile regulations on the part of the Appellant and purely unintentional and without any malafide intentions.

However, it is trite law that ignorance of law will not excuse the appellant to escape the liability of violating the law nor ever absolve the wrongdoer of his crime or misconduct. Further, the appellant contended that in the matter of imposition of penalty, the Section 15(H)(ii) of the SEBI Act, 1992 was amended dated October 29, 2002 and the penalty for non-disclosure of acquisition of shares and takeovers was enhanced from a maximum of Rs.5 lakh to Rs.25 crore. It is argued that since the violation in Appeal was committed in February, 2001, the appellant would be governed by the erstwhile provisions of Section 15H(ii) of the SEBI Act, which existed on the date of violation in question.

Decision:

It is true that the maximum monetary penalty imposable for non-disclosure of acquisition of shares and takeovers under the erstwhile SEBI Act on the date of violation by the Appellant was Rs. 5 Lakh and by the amendment dated October 29, 2002 it is up to Rs. 25 Crore or three times of the amount of profits made out of such failure, whichever is higher. However, the moot point in this connection to be noted is that as on October 29, 2002 the obligation to make disclosure and public announcement under Regulations 7(1) read with 7(2) and 11(1) read with 14(1) continued. Therefore, because the violation was continued even after October 29, 2002, the appellant has been rightly imposed penalty under the amended provisions of Section 15H(ii) of the SEBI Act.

Since the punishment imposable now for such non-disclosure and public announcement is up to Rs. 25 Crore, SAT finds that the penalty of Rs. 50 Lakh is just and reasonable and not disproportionate. The contention of the appellant in this regard is, therefore, liable to be turned down. Therefore, in the peculiarity of the facts and circumstances of the case and, in particular, the continuity of the obligation to make disclosure and public announcement, the penalty of Rs. 50 lakh is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

Power to Adjudicate under SEBI Act, 1992 (Section 15I), Section 23I of Securities Contracts (Regulations) Act, 1956 and Section 19H of Depositories Act, 1996

For the purpose of adjudging under sections 15A, 15B, 15C, 15D, 15E, 15EA, 15EB, 15F, 15G, 15H, 15HA and 15HB of SEBI Act, 1992, Sections 23A, 23B, 23C, 23D, 23E, 23F, 23G and 23H of Securities Contracts (Regulations) Act, 1956 and Section 19A, 19B, 19C, 19D, 19E, 19F, 19FA and 19G of Depositories Act, 1996 :

- Power of Adjudicating Officer : While holding an inquiry the adjudicating officer shall have power to summon and enforce the attendance of any person acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case to give evidence or to produce any document which in the opinion of the adjudicating officer, may be useful for or relevant to the subject-matter of the inquiry and if, on such inquiry, he is satisfied that the person has failed to comply with the provisions of any of the sections as specified above, he may impose such penalty as he thinks fit in accordance with the provisions of any of those sections.
- Call of Record by SEBI- The Board may call for and examine the record of any proceedings under this section and if it considers that the order passed by the adjudicating officer is erroneous to the extent it is not in the interests of the securities market, it may, after making or causing to be made such inquiry as it deems necessary, pass an order enhancing the quantum of penalty, if the circumstances of the case so justify.
- Opportunity of being heard: No such order shall be passed unless the person concerned has been given an opportunity of being heard in the matter.
- Effect after expiry of period: Further that nothing contained in this sub-section shall be applicable after an expiry of a period of three months from the date of the order passed by the adjudicating officer or disposal of the appeal under section 15T of SEBI Act, 1992, section 23L of Securities Contract (Regulation) Act, 1956 and section 23A of Depositories Act, 1996 whichever is earlier.

- (2) Content of Notice: Every notice under sub-rule (1) to any such person shall indicate the nature of offence alleged to have been committed by him.
- (3) Date of Appearance: If, after considering the cause, if any, shown by such person, the Board or the adjudicating officer is of the opinion that an inquiry should be held, he shall issue a notice fixing a date for the appearance of that person either personally or through his lawyer or other authorised representative.
- (4) Personal Hearing: On the date fixed, the Board or the adjudicating officer shall explain to the person proceeded against or his lawyer or authorised representative, the offence, alleged to have been committed by such person indicating the provisions of the Act, rules or regulations in respect of which contravention is alleged to have taken place.
- (5) Opportunity to produce Evidence: The Board or the adjudicating officer shall then give an opportunity to such person to produce such documents or evidence as he may consider relevant to the inquiry and if necessary the hearing may be adjourned to a future date and in taking such evidence the Board or the adjudicating officer shall not be bound to observe the provisions of the Evidence Act, 1872 :
The notice referred to in sub-rule (3), and the personal hearing referred to in sub-rules (3), (4) and (5) may, at the request of the person concerned, be waived.
- (5A) The Board may appoint a presenting officer in an inquiry under this rule.
- (6) Enforcement of Attendance: While holding an inquiry under this rule the Board or the adjudicating officer shall have the power to summon and enforce the attendance of any person acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case to give evidence or to produce any document which, in the opinion of the Board or the adjudicating officer, may be useful for or relevant to, the subject-matter of the inquiry.
- (7) If any person fails, neglects or refuses to appear as required by sub-rule (3) before the Board or the adjudicating officer, the Board or the adjudicating officer may proceed with the inquiry in the absence of such person after recording the reasons for doing so.

Factors to be taken into account while adjudging quantum of penalty (Section 15J of SEBI Act & Section 23 J of Securities Contracts (Regulations) Act, 1956 and Section 19-I of Depositories Act, 1996)

While adjudging quantum of penalty under section 15-I or section 11 or section 11B of SEBI Act, 1992 section 12A or section 23-I of Securities Contracts (Regulations) Act, 1956 and section 19 or section 19H of Depositories Act, 1996, the Board or the adjudicating officer shall have due regard to the following factors, namely : –

- (b) the amount of loss caused to an investor or group of investors as a result of the default;
- (c) the repetitive nature of the default.

Explanation. – For the removal of doubts, it is clarified that the power to adjudge the quantum of penalty under sections 15A to 15E, clauses (b) and (c) of section 15F, 15G, 15H and 15HA of SEBI Act, 1992 section 23A to 23C of Securities Contracts (Regulations) Act, 1956 and sections 19A to 19F of Depositories Act, 1996 shall be and shall always be deemed to have been exercised under the provisions of this section.

CASE LAWS

In the case of SEBI v. Bhavesh Pabari, a full bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that an AO has the right and discretion to determine the quantum of fine when any provisions specified in the SEBI Act or SCRA are not complied with.

The decision broadened the application of Section 15J of the SEBI Act and highlighted that the three reasons listed therein must only be regarded as illustrative and not exhaustive in nature, hence allowing the AO to assess the punishment after a consideration of all aggravating and mitigating factors. This decision has evolved considerably over the years, to now recognise the ability of AOs to not impose penalties at all, even in cases where a non-compliance is identified, but is not significant enough to merit a penalty.

Crediting sums realised by way of penalties to Consolidated Fund of India [Section 15JA of SEBI Act, 1992, Section 23K of Securities Contracts (Regulations) Act, 1956 and 19J of Depositories Act, 1996]

All sums realised by way of penalties under this Act shall be credited to the Consolidated Fund of India.

Order of the Board or the adjudicating officer [Rule 5 of SEBI (Procedure for holding inquiry and imposing penalties) Rules, 1995, Depositories (Procedure for Holding Inquiry and Imposing Penalties) Rules, 2005 and Securities Contracts (Regulations) (Procedure for Holding Inquiry and Imposing Penalties) Rules, 2005]

- (2) Quantum of Penalty: While adjudging the quantum of penalty as stipulated under the above mentioned sections, the Board or the adjudicating officer shall have due regard to the following factors, namely : –
  - (a) the amount of disproportionate gain or unfair advantage, wherever quantifiable, made as a result of the default ;
  - (b) the amount of loss caused to an investor or group of investors as a result of the default ;
  - (c) the repetitive nature of the default.
- (3) Content of Order: Every order made under sub-rule (1) shall specify the provisions of the Act in respect of which default has taken place and shall contain brief reasons for such decisions.

- (4) Date & Sign: Every such order shall be dated and signed by the Board or the adjudicating officer.
- (5) Rectification of Error: The Board or the adjudicating officer who has passed an order, may rectify any error apparent on the face of record on such order, either on its own motion or where such error is brought to his notice by the affected person within a period of fifteen days from the date of such order.

Explanation: For the purpose of this rule, “error apparent on the face of record” shall mean any typographical errors that creep in inadvertently into the order and includes such other errors that do not require a long drawn out reasoning process to ascertain such a mistake.

UNDER SECTION 15 I OF SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE BOARD OF INDIA ACT, 1992 (“SEBI ACT”) READ WITH RULE 5 OF SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE BOARD OF INDIA (PROCEDURE FOR HOLDING INQUIRY AND IMPOSING PENALTIES BY ADJUDICATING OFFICER) RULES, 1995

Facts of the Case

Securities and Exchange Board of India pursuant to BSE report, observed that some promoters of Mahamaya Steel Industries Limited undertook certain transactions in the shares of the Company during 2016 for which disclosures were required to be made under regulation 7(2)(a) of SEBI (Prohibition of Insider Trading) Regulations, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as “PIT Regulations”). However, it was observed that one of the promoters (hereinafter referred to as “Noticee”) failed to comply with the disclosure requirements under PIT Regulations.

In the instant matter, the following issues arise for consideration and determination:-

- (a) Whether the Noticee have violated the provisions of regulations 7(2)(a) of PIT Regulations?
- (b) Do the violation, if any, on the part of the Noticee attract monetary penalty under section 15A(b) of SEBI Act for the alleged violation?; and,
- (c) If so, what would be the quantum of monetary penalty that can be imposed on the Noticee after taking into consideration the factors mentioned in section 15J of the SEBI Act?

The Noticee had submitted that she is not a promoter but she is a part of the promoter group as per the definition provided in 2(zb) of SEBI (Issue of Capital and Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2009. However, on perusal of the website of BSE, it is observed that the Noticee had herself made disclosures under the promoter category under regulation 7(2) read with 6(2) of PIT Regulations.

Regulation 6(2) of the PIT Regulations states that: “The disclosures to be made by any person under this Chapter shall include those relating to trading by such person’s immediate relatives, and by any other person for whom such person takes trading decisions.”

This provision clearly shows that intent of the legislation. It is not only the promoters, but all those who are related to them may be privy to unpublished price sensitive information and are required to disclose the change in their shareholding to the public. In such situations, we cannot take the narrow interpretation of the provision and excuse the Noticee considering that she is not a promoter but part of the promoter group. As she is the spouse of one of the promoters, viz. Anand Kumar Agrawal, she was liable to make disclosures under regulation 7(2)(a) of PIT Regulations. Moreover, she had been making disclosures under PIT Regulations as promoter.

Order

In view of the above, it is established that the Noticee did not comply with regulation 7(2)(a) of PIT Regulations.

The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the matter of SEBI Vs. Shri Ram Mutual Fund [2006] 68 SCL 216(SC) held that "In our considered opinion, penalty is attracted as soon as the contravention of the statutory obligation as contemplated by the Act and the Regulations is established and hence the intention of the parties committing such violation becomes wholly irrelevant...".

In view of the above, it is established that the Noticee did not comply with regulation 7(2)(a) of PIT Regulations. Therefore, Noticee is liable for a penalty under section 15 A(b) of SEBI Act.

After examination, it did not bring out the disproportionate gain or unfair advantages to the Noticee and loss caused to investors as a result of non-disclosure of change of shareholding. The Noticee failed to make the relevant disclosure on more than one occasion. Hence it can be said that the violation is repetitive in nature.

In view of the above, after considering all the facts and circumstances of the case and the factors mentioned in the provisions of section 15-J of the SEBI Act, in exercise of the powers conferred upon under section 15-I (2) of the SEBI Act read with Rule 5 of the SEBI Adjudication Rules, conclude that the proceedings against the Noticee stands established in terms of the provisions of the SEBI Act. Hence, in view of the charges established under the provisions of the SEBI Act, monetary penalty is imposed under section 15A (b) of SEBI Act of Rs. 2,00,000/- (Rupees Two Lakh only) for violation of regulation 7(2)(a) of PIT Regulations.

CASE LAWS

Case Laws on Insider Trading

In Re Sun Infoways Limited, the said appeal was filed against the order dated November 6, 2006 passed by the Adjudicating Officer, SEBI. The Adjudicating Officer in his order inter alia found Mrs. Sadhana Nabera guilty of insider trading and had levied Rs.5 lakhs penalty on her. While allowing the said appeal, the Hon'ble SAT observed, "We are of the considerate opinion that Nabera as an auditor could not be expected, much less reasonably, to have access to the information of merger of Zap with the company which was a policy decision.

In view of the above, we are of the view that Nabera had no concern with the information pertaining to the merger of Zap with the company nor was it a part of his duty to have access to such information while performing his duties. No company would allow such sensitive information to reach the auditor till it has been made public.

Kedar Nath Agarwal v Securities and Exchange Board of India, the allegation that the stock broker had failed to prescribe the code of internal procedures and conduct for the prevention of insider trading; the Enquiry Officer observed that no specific instance has been pointed out where the stock broker or any of its associated entities had traded as an "insider" after having access to any price sensitive information. Though, the Enquiry Officer had not viewed this as a serious issue, the tribunal was of the view that the same is not in accordance with the provisions of Regulation 12 of the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Prohibition of Insider Trading) Regulations, 1992. The stock broker, being an intermediary recognized as such under Section 12 of the SEBI Act, and is very much active in the securities market, needs to comply with the aforesaid provision.

Rakesh Agrawal vs. SEBI

In 1996, managing director of ABS Industries Ltd., signed a deal with Bayer AG, a German business, which agreed to purchase 51% of ABS Industries Ltd.'s shares. Following UPSI's announcement of the acquisition, the accused sold a significant portion of his ABS Industries ownership, which he owned through his brother-in-law. Considering the brother-in-law to be a well-connected individual, SEBI held that Managing Director was guilty of insider trading and directed him to deposit Rs. 34 lakhs with Investor Protection Funds of Stock Exchange, Mumbai and NSE (in equal proportion i.e. Rs.17 lakhs in each exchange) to pay any investor who may make a claim afterwards.

On appeal to the Securities Appellate Tribunal (SAT), it was concluded that even if Managing Director had traded securities while in possession of UPSI, he was not guilty of insider trading because his actions were in the best interests of the company (as Bayer AG was not willing to acquire the company unless it could obtain a minimum of 51% of the shares) and there was no intention to make a profit.

Further, SAT decided that in order to penalise an insider for violating the Regulations, it must be proven that the insider benefited unfairly from the trade. The tribunal also rejected SEBI's argument that insider trading jurisprudence is founded on the concept of 'disclose or abstain', and that an insider in possession of UPSI cannot trade in a company's stocks until he reveals the UPSI. After revisiting the entire jurisprudence of insider trading on requirement of Mens Rea under Indian legal system, the tribunal held that: "Taking into consideration the very objective of the SEBI Regulations prohibiting the insider trading, the intention/motive of the insider has to be taken cognizance of. It is true that the regulation does not specifically bring in mens rea as an ingredient of insider trading. But that does not mean that the motive need be ignored."

Hindustan Lever Limited vs. SEBI

Hindustan Lever Ltd. ("HLL") bought 8 lakh shares of Brook Bond Lipton India Ltd. ("BBLIL") from Public Investment Institution, Unit Trust of India ("UTI") two weeks prior to the public announcement of the merger of two companies, i.e., HLL and BBLIL. SEBI, suspecting insider trading, issued a Show Cause Notice ("SCN") to the Chairman, all Executive Directors, the Company Secretary and the then Chairman of HLL.

London-based Unilever was the parent company of HLL and BBLIL, and were operating under the same management. SEBI determined that HLL and its directors were insiders because they had prior knowledge of the merger. SEBI further determined that HLL was in the possession of UPSI as mentioned under Section 2(k) of the 1992 Regulations, which included any information regarding amalgamation/mergers/takeovers that “is not widely known or published by such company for general information, but which if published or known, is likely to substantially impact the price of securities of that company in the market”.

Observations made by SAT

The issue before SAT was whether HLL was an insider and the information held by the HLL constituted UPSI. The SAT concurred with the SEBI order that the information accessible to HLL in regard to the merger went beyond self-generated information, i.e., information derived from the company’s own decision-making. In addition, SAT stated that the presence of directors who were common to both HLL and BBLIL, as well as a common parent company in Unilever, indicated that they (i.e., HLL and BBLIL) were effectively managed together. As a result, HLL could be classified as an insider under the 1992 Regulations, and it was reasonable to assume that HLL was privy to the BBLIL board’s decision-making on the merger issue.

SAT observed that even in the merger of two healthy companies, there are synergistic possibilities that might lead to price sensitivity for either company, on the subject of whether the information shared with HLL constituted UPSI. As a result, SAT concurred with SEBI’s judgment that merger information was price sensitive (albeit not “unpublished”).

The outcome of the decision

This decision of the SAT led to an amendment in the definition of “unpublished” under Section 2(k) which stated, “unpublished” means information which is not published by the company or its agents and is not specific in nature.”

Explanation – Speculative reports in print or electronic media shall not be considered as published information”.

By the same Amendment, SEBI also introduced a new provision, Section 2(ha) which defined “price sensitive information” to include any information relating to an amalgamation, merger or takeover as deemed price sensitive information, regardless of whether such information actually has any affect the price of the securities in the market. However, the amendments did not definitively and expressly define “generally available information” and then 2015 regulations finally came out defining what constitutes UPSI by stating “generally available information” under Section 2(1)(e) which stated, “generally available information” means information that is accessible to the public on a non-discriminatory basis;”.

COMPOUNDING PROVISIONS UNDER THE SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE BOARD OF INDIA ACT, 1992 (“SEBI ACT”), SECURITIES CONTRACTS (REGULATION) ACT, 1956 (SCRA) & DEPOSITORIES ACT, 1996

Composition of certain offences

Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992, Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956 and the Depositories Act, 1996 (collectively referred to as SEBI Laws here for brevity) contain penalty provisions for contravention. Section 24A of the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992, Section 23 N of the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956 and section 22A of the Depositories Act, 1996 provide for composition of certain offences thereunder:

Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), any offence punishable under this Act, not being an offence punishable with imprisonment only, or with imprisonment and also with fine, may either before or after the institution of any proceeding, be compounded by a Securities Appellate Tribunal or a court before which such proceedings are pending. . Thus, if the offence is punishable with fine only or imprisonment or fine or with fine or imprisonment or both alone can be compounded.

The contours and the essential elements of Section 24A of the SEBI Act were recently explored and elaborately explained by the Hon'ble Supreme Court ("Court") in Prakash Gupta v. Securities and Exchange Board of India ("Prakash Gupta").

CASE STUDY

Prakash Gupta v. Securities and Exchange Board of India, dated July 23, 2021

Fact of the Case: The appellant is being prosecuted for an offence under Section 24(1) of the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992 ("SEBI Act"). The appellant sought the compounding of the offence under Section 24A. By an order dated 15 November 2018, the Additional Sessions Judge – 02 Central District at Tis Hazari Courts, Delhi ("Trial Judge"), rejected the application, upholding the objection of the Securities and Exchange Board of India that the offence could not be compounded without its consent.

Mr. Prakash Gupta, director of Ideal Hotels & Industries Limited ("Company"), was accused of having engaged in price rigging and insider trading during the Initial Public Offer ("IPO") of the Company, in violation of Regulations 4(a) and (e) of the SEBI (Prohibition of Fraudulent and Unfair Trade Practices relating to Securities Market) Regulations, 1995, along with other provisions of the Takeover Regulations, 1994 and 1997.

On 27 June 1996, SEBI received a complaint alleging that certain Delhi/Bombay based brokers had, on the instructions of the Company, purchased its shares and that huge deliveries were kept outstanding in the grey market. SEBI also received an anonymous complaint in October 1996, alleging price rigging and insider trading in the scrip of the Company.

During its investigation, SEBI obtained the details of the top brokers who traded in the shares of the Company during this period on the Delhi Stock Exchange and Bombay Stock Exchange, and also of their clients who had made significant purchases or sales on the scrip. Consequently, SEBI came up with the name of six entities who had purchased approximately 51 per cent of the 38 lac equity shares on offer during the period between 28 January 1996 and 29 February 1996. They were found to have continued buying shares even after that period, and had ultimately purchased 28,38,000 equity shares, which was approximately 75 per cent of the post issue floating stock of the Company. As such, it was assumed that these entities were, therefore, responsible for the upward price movement in the scrip.

A criminal complaint was filed against Mr. Gupta before the Trial Court alleging the above violations and an Adjudicating Officer under the SEBI Act was appointed. Prior to any orders in the aforesaid proceedings, the Chairman of SEBI, under the provisions of the SEBI Act, allowed Mr. Gupta to purchase the shares of the shareholders at a higher price than that fixed during the IPO, thereby supposedly resolving the issue. However, the AO, pursuant to noting the offences committed by Mr. Gupta, levied a fine of INR 20,000 on him and other co-promoters. This penalty too was paid by the accused.

Thereafter, a compounding application under Section 24A of the SEBI Act was filed by Mr. Gupta before the Trial Court which was objected to by the High Powered Advisory Committee ("HPAC") of SEBI. The Trial Court rejected the compounding application on the grounds that SEBI had not provided its consent to the same, which was upheld by the High Court of Delhi. Hence, the present appeal before the Court.

Issue:

Whether under section 24A of the SEBI Act, the express consent of SEBI is required prior to the compounding of offences by the Securities Appellate Tribunal or the court before which proceedings are pending ?

Observation:

While a plain reading of the section 24A does not provide for the consent of SEBI, it was considered whether such consent should be read into Section 24A, on the grounds of casus ommisus.

In the present case, it is evident that Section 24A does not stipulate that the consent of SEBI is necessary for the SAT or the Court before which such proceedings are pending to compound an offence. Where Parliament intended that a recommendation by SEBI is necessary, it has made specific provisions in that regard in the same statute. Section 24B provides a useful contrast. Section 24B(1) empowers the Union Government on the recommendation of SEBI, if it is satisfied that a person who has violated the Act or the Rules or Regulations has made a full and true disclosure in respect of the alleged violation, to grant an immunity from prosecution for an offence subject to such conditions as it may impose.

The second proviso clarifies that the recommendation of SEBI would not be binding upon the Union Government. In other words, Section 24B has provided for the exercise of powers by the Central Government to grant immunity from prosecution on the recommendation of SEBI. In contrast, Section 24A is conspicuously silent in regard to the consent of SEBI before the SAT or, as the case may be, the Court before which the proceeding is pending can exercise the power. Hence, it is clear that SEBI's consent cannot be mandatory before SAT or the Court before which the proceeding is pending, for exercising the power of compounding under Section 24A.

Decision:

In the present case, we are clearly of the view that the nature of the allegations against the appellant are such so as to preclude a decision to compound the offences.

1. The factors as listed in the Frequently Asked Questions in relation to the 'Guidelines for Consent Order and for considering requests for composition of offences' dated April 20, 2007 should be adhered to;
2. The opinion of SEBI and its HPAC must be given due deference as the same indicates their position on the effect that non-prosecution of the offence may have on market structures. The Securities Appellate Tribunal or the courts should only differ from the opinion of SEBI/ the HPAC, if it has reasons to believe that the said opinion is mala fide or manifestly arbitrary;
3. The principle behind the compounding proceeding should be that the aggrieved party has been restituted and that it has consented to end the dispute. Since the aggrieved party may not be before the court, and that the offences are usually of public nature, it becomes even more essential to rely on SEBI's opinion to understand if restitution has taken place; and
4. Even if restitution has taken place, but the offence is of public character and non-prosecution of the same would affect the public at large, such offence should not be compounded.

The judgment of the Supreme Court in Prakash Gupta is significant as it not only underlines the importance of the role played by SEBI in market regulation and addressal of investors, but also appreciates the intention of the legislators while doing so. Further, it fills in the lacune that earlier existed by providing detailed guidelines on the factors to be taken into consideration while passing an order under Section 24A of the SEBI Act.

SETTLEMENT PROCEEDINGS / CONSENT ORDERS UNDER SEBI LAWS-APPLICABLE FOR COMPOSITION OF OFFENCE

In SEBI Laws, the term Settlement / Consent Order is significant and has to be understood along with or at the time of learning composition of offence.

Consent order may be passed at any stage after probable cause of violation has been found under SEBI Laws. However, in the event of a serious and intentional violation, the process should not be completed till the fact-finding process is completed whether by way of investigation or otherwise.

Compounding of Offence can take place after filing criminal complaint by SEBI. Where a criminal complaint has not yet been filed but is envisaged, the process for consent orders will be followed.

Consent orders provide flexibility of a wider array of enforcement actions which will achieve the twin goals of an appropriate sanction and deterrence without resorting to long drawn litigation before SEBI, SAT, and Courts. Passing of consent orders also reduce regulatory costs and save time and efforts in pursuing enforcement actions.

It is an order settling administrative or civil proceedings between the regulator and a person (Party) who may prima facie be found to have violated securities laws. It may settle all issues or reserve an issue or claim, but it must precisely state what issues or claims are being reserved. A Consent Order may or may not include a determination that a violation has occurred.

Consent Order cannot be construed as waiver of statutory powers by the Board. The Board always has the right to proceed for appropriate action if it cannot achieve its objectives through a consent order.

This effort could more effectively be used for pursuing cases which require the full process of enforcement action and for policy initiatives.

Under the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992, Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956 (SCRA) and the Depositories Act, 1996 (collectively also known as securities laws), SEBI pursues two streams of enforcement actions i.e., Administrative /Civil (or) Criminal.

Administrative/civil actions include issuing directions such as remedial orders, cease and desist orders, suspension or cancellation of certificate of registration and imposition of monetary penalty under the respective statutes and action pursued or defended in a court of law/tribunal. Criminal action involves initiating prosecution proceedings against violators by filing complaint before a criminal court.

CASE LAWS

In the matter of R. Jhunjunwala and Ors.

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) has moved to settle an ‘insider trading’ case involving investors who were accused of unusual dealing in shares of Aptech Computers.

One of the investor has management control over Aptech and is also on the board of the company. In September 2016, the share price of Aptech hit a 10 per cent upper circuit as Investor’s brother and sister picked up 2.5 lakh and 5 lakh shares respectively. Both these trades combined were worth more than 100 crore then. There were trades executed by others as well. In just a few days, Aptech announced its entry into the pre-school education segment.

Shareholding of promoters led by the one of investor’s family has increased to around 48 per cent in Aptech since the prominent investor first picked up a 10 per cent stake in the company in 2005. SEBI found that there existed unpublished price sensitive information in Aptech when the high-profile investors were dealing in the company shares.

SEBI had alleged that One of the investors and others traded in Aptech when in possession of unpublished price sensitive information (UPSI). In September 2016, Aptech had announced its foray into the preschool segment. As per the SEBI order, this was an UPSI between March 14, 2016 and September 7, 2016, the date of official announcement.

It is alleged that two persons/investors were in possession of the UPSI and communicated the same to other applicants. On the basis of the UPSI, investors are alleged to have traded in the scrip of Aptech during the UPSI period.

The investors settled the case under SEBI's consent route where an alleged wrongdoer can close investigations and adjudications into the matter with SEBI without admitting or denying guilt and charges against them. The total charges paid by one of the investor amount to ₹18.5 crore, of which the disgorgement amount is nearly ₹6 crore. His wife has paid ₹3.2 crore. Aptech board members, including investor and director have paid ₹6.2 crore and ₹1.7 crore respectively.

The right to legal representation is a fundamental right that is recognized in most legal systems around the world. This right ensures that individuals have access to legal counsel and representation, particularly in legal proceedings where their rights or interests are at stake. The right to legal representation is also recognized in international human rights law, including the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights.

In many legal systems, the right to legal representation is enshrined in law and guaranteed by the constitution. In criminal cases, for example, the accused person has a right to be represented by a lawyer and to receive legal aid if they cannot afford one. Similarly, in civil cases, parties have a right to be represented by a lawyer, although legal aid may not be available in all cases.

The right to legal representation is essential for several reasons. First, it helps to ensure that legal proceedings are fair and just. Legal representation can help to balance the power dynamic between parties, particularly in cases where one party has greater resources or influence than the other. Second, legal representation can help to ensure that the rights and interests of individuals are protected and advanced. This is particularly important in cases where fundamental rights, such as the right to life, liberty, and property, are at stake.

In some cases, the right to legal representation may be limited or restricted. For example, in certain administrative proceedings or disciplinary proceedings, parties may not have a right to legal representation. However, even in such cases, parties may still be entitled to a fair hearing and other procedural safeguards.

In conclusion, the right to legal representation is a fundamental right that is essential for ensuring fair and just legal proceedings. This right helps to balance the power dynamic between parties, protects the rights and interests of individuals, and promotes the rule of law.

APPELLATE AUTHORITIES UNDER THE COMPETITION ACT, 2002

The Competition Act, 2002 (the Act) is a legislation in India that aims to promote and sustain competition in the market, protect consumer interests, and prevent anti-competitive practices. The Act provides for the establishment of various appellate authorities to ensure the effective implementation of its provisions. These appellate authorities play a critical role in adjudicating disputes and resolving appeals related to competition law violations.

The following are the appellate authorities under the Competition Act, 2002:

1. National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT):

The NCLAT is a quasi-judicial body established under the Companies Act, 2013, and also acts as the appellate tribunal for competition-related matters. The NCLAT hears appeals against orders passed by the Competition Commission of India (CCI) and orders of the Director-General (DG) of the CCI. The NCLAT has the power to confirm, modify, or set aside any order passed by the CCI or the DG.

2. High Courts:

High Courts have jurisdiction to hear appeals against the orders of the CCI or the DG. Appeals to High Courts are filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, which allows for the judicial review of decisions taken by administrative bodies.

The appellate authorities play a critical role in ensuring the effective implementation of the Competition Act, 2002, and providing a mechanism for parties to challenge orders passed by the CCI or the DG. These authorities help ensure that competition is promoted and sustained in the market, consumer interests are protected, and anti-competitive practices are prevented.

3. Supreme Court of India:

The Supreme Court of India is the highest court of appeal in the country and has the power to hear appeals against the orders of the NCLAT. Appeals to the Supreme Court are usually filed in cases where the NCLAT has erred in law or where there is a substantial question of law to be decided.

Essar Steel matter for CIRP

Essar Steel, one of India's leading steel producers, was among the first companies to be referred to the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) under the Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) provisions of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC), 2016. The company had been facing financial difficulties for several years, with a debt of around Rs 54,000 crore.

Following its referral to the NCLT, a resolution professional was appointed to oversee the CIRP process. Several bids were received for the company, including those from Tata Steel and JSW Steel, both leading players in the Indian steel industry.

After evaluating the bids, the committee of creditors (CoC) approved the resolution plan submitted by JSW Steel, which involved the acquisition of Essar Steel's assets for a total consideration of Rs 19,700 crore.

However, the resolution plan faced several legal challenges, including objections raised by Essar Steel's former promoters, the Ruia family, and Standard Chartered Bank, one of the company's creditors. The Ruia family claimed that the resolution plan undervalued the company's assets, while Standard Chartered Bank argued that it was being discriminated against compared to other creditors.

The legal challenges led to a protracted legal battle that lasted for over two years and involved multiple rounds of litigation in various courts, including the Supreme Court of India. The case also highlighted several issues with the implementation of the IBC, including the need for a clear framework for dealing with operational creditors and the importance of balancing the interests of different stakeholders.

Despite the challenges, the resolution plan was eventually approved by the Supreme Court, and JSW Steel took over the assets of Essar Steel. The resolution of Essar Steel was a significant milestone in the implementation of the IBC and demonstrated the potential of the CIRP process in resolving distressed assets and preserving value for stakeholders.

This case study highlights the challenges involved in the CIRP process and underscores the importance of a transparent and efficient resolution process that enables the resolution of distressed assets while protecting the interests of different stakeholders. It also highlights the need for a clear and predictable legal framework for dealing with distressed assets and the importance of balancing the interests of different stakeholders in the resolution process.

CASE STUDY

CASE STUDY ON CORPORATE INSOLVENCY RESOLUTION PROCESS

Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) is a legal process that helps financially distressed companies to restructure or liquidate their assets to repay their debts to creditors. It is governed by the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016 (IBC) and aims to provide a time-bound and structured mechanism for the resolution of insolvency in a fair and transparent manner.

1. CIRP of Jaypee Infratech Limited (JIL)

A case study of a company going through the Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process can provide insights into the various stages and challenges faced by a Company and the resolution professional appointed to manage the process. Let's take the example of the case of Jaypee Infratech Limited (JIL), a real estate company in India.

In August 2017, JIL was declared insolvent by the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) after it failed to repay its debts to lenders. The company had borrowed heavily from various banks and financial institutions to fund its real estate projects, but it was unable to complete the projects due to various reasons, including delays in obtaining regulatory approvals and disputes with landowners.

The NCLT appointed an insolvency resolution professional (IRP) to manage the CIRP process for JIL. The IRP invited bids from potential investors to take over the company and complete the pending real estate projects. However, no resolution plan was approved by the creditors, and the CIRP process had to be extended several times.

In June 2019, the Supreme Court of India ordered that the CIRP process be completed within 90 days and that only two bidders, the Suraksha Group and the NBCC, be allowed to submit their resolution plans. The Suraksha Group's bid was approved by the creditors, but it was challenged by the homebuyers who had invested in JIL's real estate projects and had not received possession of their flats.

The case went back to the Supreme Court, which directed the Suraksha Group to modify its resolution plan to address the concerns of the homebuyers. The Suraksha Group submitted a revised plan, which was approved by the creditors in March 2021.

The CIRP process for JIL, which was expected to be completed within 270 days, took more than three and a half years, highlighting the challenges faced by companies going through the process. The delay in the resolution process caused financial losses to the creditors, including banks and homebuyers, and also impacted the real estate sector as a whole.

In conclusion, the case of Jaypee Infratech Limited highlights the importance of a timely and efficient Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process to protect the interests of all stakeholders. The CIRP process needs to be streamlined and simplified to ensure that financially distressed companies can quickly restructure or liquidate their assets to repay their debts, and that the interests of all stakeholders, including creditors and homebuyers, are protected.

2. Jet Airways

Jet Airways was one of India's leading airlines until it suspended its operations in April 2019 due to financial difficulties. The airline had accumulated a debt of over Rs 8,000 crore and had been facing financial troubles for several years.

Following its suspension, the airline was referred to the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) under the Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) provisions of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC), 2016.

The resolution professional appointed by the NCLT invited bids from interested parties to take over the airline and revive its operations. Several bids were received, including those from a consortium led by UK-based Kalrock Capital and UAE-based entrepreneur Murari Lal Jalan, and another from a consortium led by Canadian investor Sivakumar Rasiah.

After evaluating the bids, the committee of creditors (CoC) approved the resolution plan submitted by the consortium led by Kalrock Capital and Murari Lal Jalan. The plan involved the acquisition of the airline's assets, including its brand, aircraft, and other infrastructure, and the revival of its operations.

However, the resolution plan faced several challenges, including the reluctance of the aviation regulator, the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA), to grant the necessary approvals for the revival of the airline. There were also legal challenges raised by some of the airline's creditors.

Despite the challenges, the resolution plan was eventually approved by the NCLT, and the consortium led by Kalrock Capital and Murari Lal Jalan took over the airline. The new management has since been working on reviving the airline's operations and restoring its position in the Indian aviation market.

This case highlights the challenges involved in the CIRP process, particularly in the context of the aviation sector, which is subject to a complex regulatory framework. It also underscores the importance of a robust and transparent resolution process that enables the efficient resolution of distressed assets and the preservation of value for stakeholders.

CASE STUDY

CASE STUDY ON COMBINATIONS UNDER THE COMPETITION ACT, 2002

Combinations refer to mergers, acquisitions, amalgamations, and any other form of consolidation between two or more enterprises. The Competition Act, 2002 (the Act) governs combinations in India and aims to ensure fair competition in the market and prevent abuse of market power.

1. Acquisition of Flipkart by Walmart

A case study of a combination under the Act can provide insights into the legal requirements and procedures for compliance.

One such case study is the acquisition of Flipkart, an Indian e-commerce company, by Walmart, a US-based multinational retail corporation. In May 2018, Walmart announced its acquisition of a 77% stake in Flipkart for $16 billion, making it the largest e-commerce deal in India and the largest acquisition by Walmart to date.

The acquisition was subject to the approval of the Competition Commission of India (CCI), as it met the threshold for a combination under the Act. The parties filed a notice with the CCI, providing details of the combination and its potential effects on competition in the market.

The CCI conducted a thorough examination of the combination, considering factors such as market share, competition, and consumer welfare. The CCI also invited comments from stakeholders, including competitors and consumers, and held hearings to assess the potential impact of the combination on the market.

After a detailed examination, the CCI approved the combination, subject to certain conditions. The conditions included ensuring that Flipkart remained a separate entity and not a subsidiary of Walmart, and that Walmart did not have a controlling influence over Flipkart's operations.

The CCI also directed the parties to submit periodic reports on the compliance with the conditions imposed by the CCI. The parties complied with the conditions, and the combination was completed in August 2018.

The Flipkart-Walmart combination is a prime example of the rigorous examination conducted by the CCI in assessing combinations and ensuring fair competition in the market. The CCI's approval of the combination, subject to conditions, ensured that the interests of all stakeholders, including competitors and consumers, were protected.

In conclusion, the Flipkart-Walmart combination case study highlights the legal requirements and procedures for compliance with the Competition Act, 2002, and the role of the CCI in ensuring fair competition in the market. Combining parties must ensure that their combination complies with the Act and seek the approval of the CCI to avoid any potential penalties or adverse effects on the market.

2. Reliance Industries Limited (RIL) and Future Group

In August 2020, Reliance Industries Limited (RIL) announced its plans to acquire the retail and logistics assets of Future Group in a deal worth $3.4 billion. The deal involved the transfer of Future Group's retail, wholesale, logistics, and warehousing businesses to Reliance Retail Ventures Limited (RRVL), a subsidiary of RIL.

The Competition Commission of India (CCI) initiated an investigation into the combination under Section 6(2) of the Competition Act, 2002, which empowers the CCI to examine any combination that is likely to cause an appreciable adverse effect on competition within the relevant market in India.

After conducting a detailed analysis of the transaction, the CCI approved the deal subject to certain conditions. The CCI imposed several conditions to ensure that the combination did not result in any adverse impact on competition in the relevant market, particularly in the retail and e-commerce sectors.

One of the key conditions imposed by the CCI was that the deal could not lead to an exclusive supply agreement between RIL and Future Group, which could have resulted in an unfair advantage for Reliance in the retail market. The CCI also mandated that Future Group maintain a level playing field for all sellers on its platforms and that it continues to operate independently of RIL.

However, Amazon, which had a 49% stake in Future Coupons, a promoter group entity of Future Retail, approached the Singapore International Arbitration Centre (SIAC) to seek a stay on the Future-Reliance deal. Amazon argued that Future Group had breached the terms of their agreement by selling its assets to Reliance without seeking Amazon's consent.

The SIAC ruled in favor of Amazon and issued an interim stay on the Future-Reliance deal. The matter is currently under litigation in various Indian courts.

This case highlights the complexities involved in assessing the impact of combinations on competition, particularly in the context of the rapidly evolving e-commerce and retail sectors. It also underscores the need for careful consideration of the legal implications of agreements between companies, and the importance of adhering to contractual obligations.
